TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD LIMIT.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including Wednesday, the [illegible] day of [illegible] next, for the right to cut pulpwood on a certain area situated on the [illegible] River in the District of Thunder Bay.

Tenderers shall state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to the Crown dues of 40c. per cord for Spruce, and 20c. per cord for other pulpwood, or such other rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the right to operate a pulp mill and a paper mill on or near the area referred to.

Such tenderers shall be required to erect a mill or mills on or near the territory and to manufacture the wood into pulp and paper in the Province of Ontario—the paper mill to be erected when directed by the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Parties making tender will be required to deposit with their tender a marked cheque payable to the Honourable the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, for [illegible] which amount will be forfeited in the event of their not entering into agreement to carry out the conditions.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For particulars as to description of territory, capital to be invested, etc., apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,

Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Toronto, Ontario, September 17th, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Harbour and River Improvements in the Mission River, Fort William, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Friday, November 21, 1913, for the construction of the Harbour and River Improvements.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of W. P. Merrick, Esq., District Engineer, Fort William, Ont.; J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; J. L. Michaud, Esq., District Engineer, Post Office, Montreal, P.Q.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

USE A KITCHEN SCALE

Its Constant Use Will Save Many a Dollar

The constant daily use of an accurate scale will be a check on your butcher and tradesman, which you cannot believe until you have tried it. You will find out that your seven-pound roast has pined away into five and a half and that you have been strangely paying 22 cents a pound for bone left with the butcher. You will see if the sugar in the bag weighs as much as when bought by the pound. You can, if you wish, discover that the contents of a box of many a breakfast food costs at the rate of 60 cents a pound. You will find out the difference in weight between goods bought in bulk at the pound rate and the "package" of the same article. Although we do not now cook so much by weight, but rather by measure, there are many times when a careful weighing of materials will insure more success than guess.

SEIZURE FOR TITHE RENT

Two Gravestones Were Seized to Satisfy a Claim

The death of Mrs. John Reddie, of Aston's Green, recalls the fact that it was this lady's husband who, some thirty years ago, challenged the right of the late Canon Eliot, the then Vicar of Aston, to demand tithe rent from him. As Vicar of Aston Mr. Eliot was entitled to certain tithe-rents, which in the event of the property owner declining to pay, could be recovered by distraint from the tenants in occupation. Mr. Reddie was a prominent member of the Liberal party in those days, absolutely declined to pay and finally the vicar levied for value of the tithe. As Mr. Reddie was a stonemason in the Aston Road the bailiffs found some difficulty in selecting an adequate or convenient article to seize, and finally carried away a couple of gravestones. The matter created considerable sensation at the time.

HINTS FOR MOTHERS

Nothing gives a little girl so much pleasure as a paper doll, and wonderful jointed specimens are obtainable cheaply, as well as all the paraphernalia from which an extensive wardrobe may be contrived. But even the cheapest dolls, or pictures cut from magazines may be utilized and, with tinsel paper, embroidery cut of candy boxes and bits of tissue paper will keep a child entertained for hours.

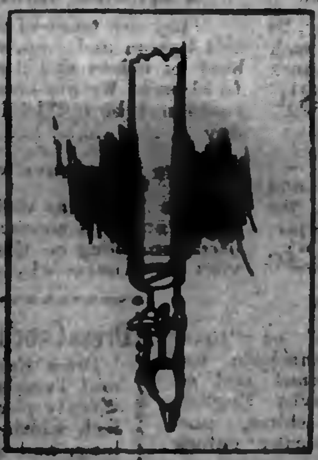
Some mothers have adopted very artful tactics in inducing their children to drink milk. One learned that straws, such as are provided at soda fountains, if used in the milk glasses, make the milk disappear much more quickly. Another tried the ruse of pasting a pretty picture on the outside of the bottom of the glass in such a way that it could only be seen when the glass was empty. As she changed the picture frequently the diversion of uncovering it did not pall.

In order to enable children to hang up their own clothing have some low hooks in the clothes closet. It is well to teach them habits of neatness early, as well as consideration of mother's steps.

A NEW FOUNTAIN PEN

Reservoir is on Pen Proper, and Not in the Handle

A new kind of fountain pen has been devised by a New York man. Instead of the reservoir being in the handle, it is attached to the pen itself and, of course, cannot be used without an inkwell besides. A small cup, with a rod that makes it resemble a spoon, is attached to a spring clip that has loops to engage the sides of the pen.



[illegible]

Two short arms enable the user to spread the clip and fasten it on. The cup holds a great deal more ink than can be gotten on an ordinary pen and does not at all interfere with the writing. The advantage of this device is at once apparent, for, while it cannot be used without a separate source of ink supply, it obviates the necessity of dipping the pen into the ink every few seconds. The little reservoir can be affixed to any pen in an instant.

BY THEIR TEETH

New Method of Identification Better Than Bertillon

At the present time the police departments of Europe and America are seriously considering a system of criminal identification by the teeth, advocated by Dr. Richard Grady. Each [illegible], on entering the penitentiary, is examined by Dr. Grady to ascertain the condition of his teeth. Every peculiarity is charted, and the exact condition of each tooth duly noted. The chart is then carefully preserved, and should one of the [illegible] at any time be [illegible] or [illegible] by the ordinary body marks [illegible] unrecognizable, identification by means of Dr. Grady's card index is always possible, providing only that most of the teeth remain.

It is contended by Dr. Grady that if such a system were applied to criminals it would prove even more infallible and successful than any other system of identification. It is pointed out that thumbs and fingers may be severed or their lines altered by means of acids; scars can be [illegible], birthmarks may be removed, or so changed as to become unrecognizable, but the teeth [illegible] a noticeable peculiarity of [illegible], that is, to the careful dentist who makes a chart of the individual's mouth, upper and lower jaws, and makes a careful chart therefrom—cannot change the marked pattern unless he has every tooth removed, which is a thing few criminals would have the forethought or fortitude to do.

To clean white veils lay them in luke warm soap suds made with white soap. Let them soak an hour or two, then squeeze them softly and put them through clean suds in the same way. Rinse in warm water, then in cold, and pass through water stiffened with a little gum arabic or rice water.

Any Headache Cured Tired Systems Re-Toned

When You're Dull, Tired, Restless Day and Night Something is Wrong With the Stomach.

A Prominent Publishing Man Says The Quickest Cure is Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Callander, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvelous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic to the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach, and make you feel strong and well. For headache, indigestion and stomach disorders I am confident that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Being composed of natural vegetable remedies, Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs connected with the stomach, liver, and bowels. In consequence, food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease, all druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 for $1.00, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

The Boy Laughed

A gentleman living on Gilmour St. has a wife, and, incidentally, a ten-year-old boy. Yesterday the boy ran out to the family kitchen, howling lustily. His mother asked, "Tommy, what are you crying about?" Tommy replied "Paw was hammering a nail out on the verandah. He missed the nail and hit his thumb." "Why," exclaimed his mother, "I'm surprised you did no laugh." "I did," said Tommy, "and that made Paw mad."

Biggest Buck Ever Bagged

The largest buck killed in the north country in many a year was shot at Ketchesum Lake, last Saturday by Mr. Manson Comstock. The deer which has a magnificent set of antlers has not yet been weighed but those at the camp, where the deer still hangs, estimate its weight at 300 pounds. Mr. Comstock was alone in the canoe when he killed the deer after an exciting paddle.

Dog Poisoners at Work in East City.

Yesterday, a valuable Scotch collie, belonging to Mr. A. C. Miller, East City, got a dose of strychnine. The dog, which is valued as a pet, and who spends most of his time with the kiddies, came back from accompanying Mr. Miller's two children to the East Ward School, shortly after 1.30 p.m. About 3 o'clock, he was noticed by a neighbor to fall from off the back verandah, and when the owner went to investigate, he found that the dog had been poisoned. He immediately gave the animal an antidote, and the dog seemed to rally. It is expected he will live probably to see his enemies suffer about as much as he did. It is not yet known where the dog got his dope. Still, no stone will be left unturned to find out who the miserable crank is who wished the dog out of the way.

Things as Bad Here.

Kingston Standard, referring to outrages committed in the Limestone City on Hallowe'en, says in part:

"The students, to be sure, may think they own the city and may fancy that they are privileged persons who are superior to the law. Students have a habit of thinking this. But we can assure them that they do not own the city, that they are not superior to the law, and that in our judgment—and we shall endeavor insofar as we can to impress this upon the city authorities—the proper place for some of the blackguards and hoodlums who participated in Saturday's disgraceful affair is in the lock-up."

Right in Peterborough we have boys, who may, but it is to be hoped not, become hoodlums in later life. On Hallowe'en just passed, local boys "stole" and that is the right word, goods from taxpayers. Whilst we have all, those of us,—with readers, who do not wear slit skirts or diaphonous gowns, have "hooked" apples, removed our neighbor's gate to an adjacent yard, have lifted steps some yards away. This year, however, local boys have carried away valuable goods that the owners of such goods cannot recover.

Belmont Mine.

Appended is a report taken from the 22nd Annual report of the Bureau of Mines, Toronto.

"The Buffalo Union Furnace Company have been operating the Belmont mine, formerly known as the Ledyard mine, situated on the west half of lot 19 in the first concession of Belmont township in the county of Peterborough. A 3-compartment vertical shaft has been sunk a depth of 230 feet. On the first level at 100 feet in depth drifts have been run northeast 100 feet and southwest 100 feet. On the second level at 170 feet, 50 feet of drifting has been done north and south of the shaft, and on the third level at 230 feet, about 25 feet of drifting. Air for running the drills and hoist is obtained from the Cordova Mines, Limited. Mr. Frank Platts is superintendent, employing 42 men."

ONE DOSE RELIEVES A COLD—NO QUININE

"Pape's Cold Compound" makes you feel fine at once—Don't stay stuffed up! Take it now

Relief comes instantly.

A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

Got a Valuable Stamp

A Peterborough man who is "wise" as to numismatic (or stamp collecting) conditions was out at [illegible] a few days ago. He had, for business purposes, occasion to visit a section of the township of Galway. He stopped at an old log house in that part. After dinner, as he and his host sat smoking and chatting, an old fashioned chest caught the local man's eye. On the top of it were a number of envelopes and letters yellow with age. He apologized for his curiosity and proceeded to look through the letters. Among them to his pleased surprise, he found a long old fashioned envelope with a twelve penny stamp attached. He remarked to the farmer, in a seemingly careless way, "What cheap looking stamps they used in those days. Tell you what, that old envelope, in fact, as a curiosity I'll give you a dollar for it." The farmer was glad to get a good big dollar for a useless envelope. The [illegible] stamp attached is worth from $250 to $300 among stamp collectors. It is a cheap looking black stamp with the words 12 Pence beneath the Queen's head.

Mrs. J. H. [illegible], 279 Brock street, will not receive until the first Wednesday in December.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Throop and son, of Cobourg, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Throop, Burnham street.

Lindsay Warder: Mr. J. H. Phillips, of Peterborough, paid Lindsay friends a call this morning.

Mr. R. M. Hamilton, of "Auburn," who is Manager of the Bank of Montreal, at Fenelon Falls, spent Monday at Lindsay on business.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lewis of Montreal are guests at St. John's rectory. Mr. Lewis was manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal for twenty years, leaving here 17 years ago.

The engagement is announced of Miss Kathleen Imogen Despard, youngest daughter of the late Wm. Plunkett Despard, Picton, Ont., to Jack Russell L. Christian, M.D., of Edmonton, Alta., the marriage to take place early in December.

Mr. F. R. J. McPherson, the local electrician, has returned from Kingston, where he is superintending a big contract awarded his firm. He leaves for Kingston again on Monday next.

BEGIN RETRIAL OF 'CHICAGO JOE'

Bridgeport, Ct., Nov. 5.—The retrial of Joseph Buonomo, alias "Chicago Joe," charged with the murder of [illegible] Cavaglieri, a character in Chicago's underworld, at Stratford, a year ago, was started in the Superior Court to-day. Buonomo was recently convicted of first degree murder, but his counsel took the case to the supreme court of the state, where error was found, and a retrial ordered. The Supreme Court maintained that the state's attorney had promised to prove certain white slave allegations, but had failed to do so.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Beautify Your Hair! Make it soft, fluffy and luxuriant—Try the moist cloth

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; and incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

STARVATION DRIVES SISTERS TO SUICIDE

Paris, Nov. 5.—A pathetic story of poverty and privation was unfolded by the discovery in the Seine of the bodies of two young women clasped in one another's arms.

They were soon identified as the two eldest daughters of a book-keeper named Bruchet, who had informed the police that the girls were missing, together with a boy aged 15 and another girl aged 8.

The family lived close to the Seine of Auteuil, and the children apparently had gone down to the river in their night clothes only. The father had received notice to leave his flat. The girls had only secured casual work recently, and were worn out after passing the summer on one meal a day.

A material of good weight, yet soft and even in texture. Very good value for the price. Per yard 9c

HUCKABACK BEDROOM TOWELS 19c PAIR
16 by 32 inches is the size of these Bedroom Towels, and they have fringed ends. The Huckaback Towel is a great favorite for bedroom use, and one will find this line to be of particular value for 19c pair. They are usually 25c.

ECRU CURTAIN NET 10½c YARD
The Venetian design of this Net is very pretty, and the edges are finished in scallops. It is a yard wide, and is really a 15c line. Wednesday, per yard 10½c

50c FANCY PLAID DRESS GOODS FOR ONLY 33c YD
Brown, Red, Blue and Green, in fancy and Tartan Plaids, 40 and 42 inches wide. All regular 50c lines, one piece only being worth 75c. A splendid material for dresses and waists, and exceptionally cheap on Wednesday. Per yard 33c

WIDE SILK RIBBONS
In either 4, 5 or 6 inch widths, there is a good range of colors that are now in demand. These ribbons are of Taffeta Silk in a good, firm quality being priced cheaper than usual for Wednesday.
4 inch Per yard 8½c 5 inch Per yard 11½c 6 inch Per yard 13½c

"PEERLESS" COTTON BATTING 13c ROLL
This is an especially pure and clean cotton and is put up in good sized rolls. Beautifully white, few 15c brands being able to compare with it. Wednesday, per roll 13c

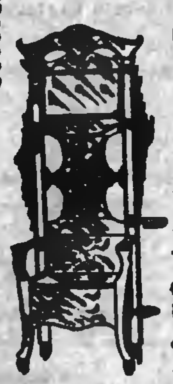
GIANT ZEPHYR WOOL, 6c SKEIN
Can you make Aviation Caps, Shawls, Jackets, and like things? If you do you will find rare value in this offer of Zephyr Wool, that you can secure in white, pale blue, brown or black. A Box of 16 Skeins costs 89c, or a single Skein 6c

Women's Felt Hat Shapes 49c
Without a doubt the reader knows what a lot of wear a felt hat will stand. And the better the shape, the longer the wear. Let us therefore, direct your attention to these Hats, procurable in every style and color in demand just now, and undeniably cheap, because they are a clearance of $1.25 to $2.25 models, in an assortment numbering nearly ten dozen. Wednesday 49c

Nightgowns for Boys and Men 49c and 59c
If you would secure a serviceable, good looking Night Gown for either man or boy, come at 8:15 on Wednesday morning and choose from this remarkably fine line, made of heavy English Flannelette, in stripe patterns. Made to our buyer's special order they are roomy in cut, and are six inches longer than most regular gowns. The boys' sizes, 10 to 15 years, regular 75c, are 49c, while all the men's sizes, regular 89c, will be 59c.
We will put a number in the window.

Extra Sized Flannelette Blankets $1.39
There is probably nothing more comforting than the warm cosiness of a good flannelette blanket. And the secret of their warmth is because the fine woolly texture does not allow the bodily heat to pass away, as linens and cottons will do. This "Kingcot" line is made in extra size, 66 x 82 inches, and for $1.39 is unsurpassed in value.
They Are To Be Seen in the Window.

Pretty Blouses at a Real Bargain 59c
We assure you that a neater Muslin or Lawn Blouse for 59c would indeed be hard to secure. They are smart and attractive, for they are insertion and embroidery trimmed, while a good range of sizes is shown. Usually a little garment like this would cost at least twice as much. A real bargain at 59c



Our New Furniture Department Is Now Ready
And while it is true that as this bill goes to press we have not our complete stock all in, yet it is arriving daily and is placed out in the furniture show rooms, which are on the third and fourth floors. The class of goods we are selling will please most people because we have sought to combine elegance of design with sound wood and construction. Every piece is marked in plain figures.

Wide Laces and Insertions 4½c yd.
Or you may take a dozen yards for 50c. They are very pretty and dainty, being from 2 to 4 inches wide, some in fine patterns, some in heavy. For the trimming of little home-made gifts (Christmas is only a matter of a few weeks) they will be found most acceptable and cheap. See them for yourself and judge the splendid value for, per yard 4½c

WOMEN'S OVERALL WORK APRONS 46c
Being a neatly patterned English Percale in Navy Blue, they are attractive in appearance, and because they fit right up over the shoulders and button at the back, they form a complete dress covering. No aprons as good as these could be cheaper than the Annex price 46c

SOME FINE GREY FLANNELS AT 18½c YARD
Plain or twilled in light and dark grey, 28 to 29 inches wide. We have seldom sold such good quality for less than 25c. The Annex price is, per yard 18½c

A SPLENDID SHIRT FOR MEN 55c—3 FOR $1.55
They are made of fine prints and percales, with soft bosom and deep, starched cuffs, there being a host of colors and designs, all good, from which to choose. We are confident that a better Shirt could not be obtained for 75c. Wednesday 55c

A WELL MADE CORSET THAT IS CHEAP, 43c
The Skirt and Bust are both medium, while the material is a good, white coutil. Four hose supporters are attached, and amongst the cheaper Corsets, this D. & A. make ranks first in quality 43c

WOMEN'S WINTER UNDERWEAR, 22c
In white or light grey, both Vests and Drawers are of close-ribbed, elastic knit, the sizes being 34 and 36. The Annex price per garment is 22c

OUR TELEPHONE NUMBERS ARE 100 AND 120
The Annex, as well as every other department in the store, is connected to Central, and if you need something on this Bill, and cannot very well visit the Annex—why telephone for it.

2 O'CLOCK SALE.
Women's 69c Gowns for 49c
Every garment is made of a heavy striped Flannelette with tucked yoke, and is trimmed with self frill. In either pink or blue shades, these roomy night dresses are in lengths 56, 58 and 60; moreover they will be found to compare very favourably with usual 75c garments. The value will therefore command itself at the 2 o'clock price 49c
Not more than 4 Gowns to One Customer

FLANNELETTE MILL ENDS AND REMNANTS
It is always economical to buy "Mill Ends" or "Remnants." And in this instance, these pieces of Flannelette are from 2 to 10 yards long, some being stripe patterned and of durable Canadian manufacture, others of the heavier English quality, also in stripe design. There are plain whites, and pinks too, the whole collection presenting most worthy values at BARGAIN ANNEX PRICES.

Dress Goods 'Mill Ends' $1.25 an end
Dress Fabrics, Suitings, Coatings, and Tweeds, in a selection of over seventy pieces. Many of the 40 and 42 inch widths are from 3 to 4 yards long, and are very well suited for Skirts or Dresses. The colors are good, and surely the value one receives for $1.25 an End is most worthy, when one considers that many pieces could not be bought for less than $2 or $3, buying by the yard.

VOL. XL, NO. [illegible] PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, NOV. 6, 1913 PRICE TWO CENTS.

NATIONALISTS NOW OPENLY SAY THEY ARE READY FOR WAR

Foes of Ulster are Smuggling Arms Into Cork--Civil War Certain

London, Nov. 5.—Mr. Balfour's speech gives a fresh turn to-day to the astonishing Ulster kaleidoscope. In demanding dissolution, he is asking what he knows Mr. Asquith cannot and will not grant. In suggesting a referendum he proposes what a good half of the Unionists themselves refuse; moreover, acceptance of Home Rule under a referendum would leave Orange Ulster more not less, intent upon civil war.

Still it is expected that as the situation develops, and informal interchanges between Ministers and Unionist leaders proceed, some solution may be found along Sir Edward Grey's line of Home Rule for Ulster within the general Home Rule for Ireland bill.

BIG MEETINGS AT BELFAST.

As a whole for the moment both parties are watching the by-elections in Reading and elsewhere to catch indications of how public opinion is moving.

At Belfast some anxiety was felt in Unionist circles that the Nationalists would attempt a counter demonstration against the meetings of business men in Ulster Hall and the Presbyterian Assembly Halls to-day. Over 5,000 attended the meetings, which were restricted to employers of labor. More than 2,000 from outside districts came by special trains. In Ulster Hall the anti-Home Rule resolution was put by Mr. James Sterling, manager of the largest flax-spinning works in the world, employing 7,000 people. Charles Allen, director of workmen in the Clark shipyards, put the resolution in the Assembly Hall.

NATIONALISTS WELL ARMED.

Other speakers in addition to Sir Edward Carson included railway directors, big linen manufacturers and wholesale merchants. There is a report in Belfast which can partly be confirmed that the Nationalists who have been drilling have also [illegible] in arms. These are of American automatic pattern. The seriousness of the situation cannot be overestimated and it seems impossible that any compromise can be arranged which will avoid actual conflict. Particularly noticeable is the change of attitude of the Nationalists in districts where parties are about equal. On my last visit they were well restrained; now they are openly defiant and declare themselves ready to meet Ulstermen with their own weapons if the Home Rule bill is altered to enable the exclusion of four counties.

CANADA'S STATE PRISONER "IN" AGAIN UNLESS HE TALKS

Mr. R. C. Miller May Doubly Assure Himself Paragraph in Canadian Political History When House Re-Assembles

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—R. C. Miller, of Montreal, who assured himself a paragraph in Canadian political history by going to jail, rather than divulge certain information to the Public Accounts Committee of the House of Commons, thus becoming Canada's first State prisoner, is likely to spend another few months in Carleton County Jail this coming session unless he is more inclined to talk.

Miller was sent to jail last session for refusing to tell the Public Accounts Committee just how he disposed of $41,026, which he swore was given him by the company of which he was president, to secure Government contracts.

Under the law governing such matters, which is based upon the Parliamentary procedure of Great Britain, Miller was released from custody when Parliament prorogued. Under the same law he can again be summoned before Parliament, and if he persists in refusing to tell the information demanded of him, can again be deprived of his liberty as long as Parliament is in session.

It is learned that the Public Accounts Committee will take up again this coming session, the inquiry into the dredging administration of the late Government. Miller is bound to be called again to testify in this connection, and unless he is willing to supply the important information which he so obstinately withheld last winter, he is booked for four or five months as a State prisoner.

MR. BORDEN STAYING AT NEW YORK HOTEL

Says He is There for Complete Rest and Don't Know Anything About Local Politics.

New York, Nov. 5.—The Right Hon. Robert Laird Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, has been in the city for two days. On Sunday night he attended the Lotus Club dinner in honor of Cyril Maude. Last night at the Algonquin Hotel, where he and Mrs. Borden are stopping, he said:

"I am just on a holiday. For a few weeks in the year I want to be merely a private citizen. I don't know the first thing about New York politics."

ARMY SCANDAL FOR FRANCE

Dismissal of Gen. Faurie Stirs Radical's Who Threaten to Create Second Dreyfus Affair

Paris, Nov. 5.—The great political drama, the first act of which will be played soon after the Chamber of Deputies reassembles in a few days, is now being prepared in Paris.

If the great radical party, which under Emile Combes, shattered the official power of the church in France in 1905 is able to carry out its declared programme, the history of France will begin to take new direction. The Republic will be divided into two parties whose political aspirations are widely divergent.

The moderate element now in control of affairs is working a policy of appeasement tending to conciliate the royalists, imperialists and clericals on the one side and all classes of republicans on the other. But the shadow of the radical party, whose power was supposed to have been annihilated a year ago is now cast over the pleasant prospects of a France devoid of that political bitterness which has characterized each of the three Republics.

Poincare is Popular.

Ever since Poincare was elected President the radicals uncompromisingly have opposed his great personal which has been greatly enhanced by his recent visit to England and Spain and his whirlwind automobile tours through provincial France. A puppet type of President, devoid of all personal prestige, who will obey the behests of the dominant party in Parliament without question, is the radical ideal and they are now working desperately to break Poincare's power.

The relations between church and state is another question whereon the country is split in twain. Two alternatives present themselves. Either Poincare and his lieutenant, Premier Barthou, will continue to tolerate the activities in the catholic country and drift back to an official representation at the Vatican for the sake of maintaining France's position in those eastern countries where prestige is reckoned by national devotion to religion, or the radical in accordance with their sworn determination will again put into force their traditional policy of harrying the clericals from the country.

At their recent annual congress the radicals threw down the gauntlet to the church party, declaring their [illegible] opposition to the recent [illegible] taken by Barthou's ministry, and [illegible] make life unbearable to the Catholics in France.

KINGSTON PROBERS TO INSPECT U.S. PRISON

And Month May Pass Before Session Can Be Resumed.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 5.—G. M. MacDonnell, chairman, stated this morning that members of the Prison Reform Commission would leave on the 12th to visit several prisons in the United States. They intend going to Stillwater, Minn., Mansfield, Ohio, Concord, N.H. The commission will be away for a week or more, so this will mean that it will be the end of the month or possibly early in December before the commission resumes its sessions here again. In addition to the evidence of more convicts, the commission has yet to hear the charges preferred against H. [illegible], assistant overseer at the penitentiary hospital.

LAUDS THE SLIPPER AS AN EDUCATOR

Boston, Nov. 5.—The efficaciousness of the slipper in pedagogy was emphatically proclaimed yesterday by Ernest K. Coulter at the annual convention of the Norfolk County Teachers' Association held in Jordan Hall. Mr. Coulter, who was formerly clerk of the children's court in New York county, told his [illegible] audience that during the period of his clerkship, 10,000 children came before the court, and that 300 of them who were spanked never came back.

Dr. C. Houston Goudiss of Philadelphia read a paper on "[illegible] Towards Our Food Problem." He emphasized that much crime comes from lack of proper nourishment or from the adulteration of food.

"In the last few years, as result of the consumption of poor food, the death rate from diseases of the alimentary canal has greatly increased, [illegible] the first step in the ladder of perfection.

AIGRETTES BARRED IN TRANSIT TO CANADA

Washington, Nov. 5.—Aigrettes and other plumage denied importation under the new tariff act, cannot be received by a firm in this country to redirect and forward to Canada or other countries.

The Treasury Department so ruled to-day in a decision for Postmaster-General Burleson. No objection would be raised, however, if the packages remain in the custody of the postal officials and be forwarded by them.

The English Language Only in Our Schools

Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, in an address at Toronto this week, said:

"I have been abused a great deal in the press and out of it—unfairly abused—on the question of the English-French schools. The leader of the Opposition has never dared to say where he stands, whether he stands behind the Ottawa School Board, which is resisting law and order, or behind the Government. He was openly called upon by Hon. I. B. Lucas to declare himself, but merely indulged in an hour's speech full of platitudes and inaccuracies. On that question we stand where we stood when we passed the resolution in the Legislature declaring that English shall be the language of instruction in the schools. The Government took a position then, and I assure you that we stand in the same place now and intend to stand there."

THE ULSTER CAMPAIGN

LONDON, NOV. 5.—The London Spectator, usually a very sober and well-informed journal, outlines the Ulster campaign against Home Rule:

"The moment the bill passes there will be in all the Protestant centres a movement to drive away the Catholics. The Catholic minority will naturally attempt to resist, and will appeal to the Government for aid, so the fight will begin. Reprisals will follow on the Catholic side, which will force the Government to scatter its troops over a large area to maintain peace and prevent massacres. The Government will require two hundred thousand troops in the field in Ireland. This is equivalent to a whole expeditionary force, and that means that the entire reserve will have to be called out, and possibly also the territorials embodied. It is anticipated on the Ulster side that a large number of officers and men in the regular army will refuse to fire on the Ulstermen."

No Listing It

"How did you list the money that fortune-teller got from you?"

"I put it under the head of prophet and loss."

TRUE BILL AGAINST MRS. BREEMER

Woodstock, Ont., Nov. 5.—Late to-day the Grand Jury, who had returned to the court, announced that they had found a true bill against Mrs. Beemer on the charge of murdering her husband.

Mrs. Beemer, accompanied by a female constable was brought in at once with her child in her arms and arraigned. Her counsel Mr. W. T. McMullen, extended a plea of not guilty, and the trial was proceeded with. Mrs. Beemer was quiet and seemingly undisturbed.

PAPUANS THINK SOUL A SHADOW

Savages Believe They Can Torture Enemy by "Picking it up" with Cane

Boston, Nov. 6.—Some of the curious conceptions of the Kiwai Papuans with regard to the soul were described by Dr. G. Landtman in the anthropological section of the British Association. It appears that among these savages the word for "soul" has three other meanings. It may mean a shadow, a reflection in the water, or a picture.

The shadow idea is the one most closely associated with the soul, for it is generally believed that you can steal a man's soul by catching his shadow. To do this the Papuan arms himself with a piece of hollow bamboo.

At night time he follows his victim until he sees him throw a shadow either by moon or other light. He "picks up" the shadow in his hollow cane, and, having plugged it with clay, takes it home to torture at his leisure. If his desire should be to kill the body of the man whose soul he has thus captured, all he need do is to burn the bamboo.

When a soul comes out of the body to which it properly belongs it wanders about and sees things, the body meanwhile dreaming of what the soul is doing. The appearance of the soul of a living man constitutes an omen. A man may sometimes see his own soul, which forbodes his death, and it happens that the roaming soul of a man who is about to lose his life on a hunting or fishing expedition causes mischief so the man himself. In the excitement of a fight the soul of a man may jump out of his body, as shown by the fury of those fighting, and it has in certain cases to be brought back.

For the same reason the soul of a murderer comes out of his body and is thought to follow the ghost of his victim at night. Pigs and dogs have souls, and at all events in some cases when killed go to Adiri, the land of the dead; but there are extremely vague indications only as to any further extension of the belief in souls.—New York Sun.

WHAT CABARET IS, N. Y. HOST SPRINGS IT

"It Takes the Rest Out of Restaurant and Puts the Din in Dinner."

New York, Nov. 5.—Cyril Maude, the English actor-manager, won a 24-hour race against time Sunday, and arrived at the Lotus Club, where J. E. Dodson was giving a dinner in his honor. He arrived too late to hear the nice things the Canadian Premier said about him, but in time to laugh at Mr. Dodson's definition of a cabaret as "an institution that has taken the rest out of restaurant and put the din in dinner."

MONTREAL MAIL SUGGESTS NEW MEN AT OTTAWA

New Paper Comes Forward With Changes "Likely to be Announced"

Montreal, Nov. 5.—The Daily Mail suggests to-day a number of Cabinet changes, which it says, "may not be announced in the immediate future, but will be un fait accompli before many months are over."

The changes include the translation of Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, to the Chief Justiceship of Canada, because Chief Justice Sir Charles Fitzpatrick "is not entirely satisfied with the tameness of a judicial position." Sir Charles will become, according to The Mail, either Canadian High Commissioner in London or a member of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

Mr. Doherty's successor as Minister of Justice, it is expected, will be the Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Says Dr. Roche May Retire.

Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, is weary of the political game, and would like to have been appointed before now Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

Dr. Roche, Minister of the Interior though somewhat improved in health by his trip abroad, is far from being a well man, and would be glad to relinquish the cares of office. Amongst those prominently mentioned as probable successors to Messrs Cochrane and Roche are W. B. Northrup and Major John Currie.

Hon. Bruno Nantel, says the Mail, will go to the Railway Commission and Hon. Louis Coderre to the Bench.

WOMAN SLAIN BY FRIEND.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Angered, it is alleged, because Mrs. Chas. E. Anderson attended a theatrical performance last night, Harry Hills to-day shot and killed her. He then killed himself. They had long been friends.

THIRTY-TWO WERE KILLED IN WRECK

Paris Express Collided With Local Train—Captain Begged to Be Killed.

Melun, France, Nov. 5.—Thirty-two were killed and [illegible] injured when the Marseilles-Paris express train was wrecked by collision with a local train near here late [illegible] evening. The bodies were [illegible] extricated until this afternoon from the burned and splintered passenger coaches.

President on the Scene.

Melun, France, Nov. 5.—President Poincare and his wife automobiled to-day to the scene of the terrible railway wreck near here, in which 40 people are believed to have been killed. For several hours the President and Mrs. Poincare watched the work of rescue.

One of the most pitiful incidents of the catastrophe was the death of Infantry Captain Amie, of Lyons, who was pinned for ten hours during the night under the tender of the express train. He begged the doctors to put him out of misery. They quieted him with morphine and he died before he could be extricated.

The engineer of the express train admitted that the wreck was his fault, as he failed to heed a stop signal. He is under arrest.

President Poincare abandoned a [illegible] trip that was to have begun to-day, because of the disaster.

President Poincare and Louis Masse, French Minister of Commerce and Posts, have subscribed $1,000 as the nucleus of a fund for the assistance of the families of the victims.

STEFANSSON IS SAFE FOR WINTER OTTAWA IS TOLD

Mail is Slow But Sure in Telling of Arrival at Herschel's Island

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Word was received by the Geographical Department to-day from the Canadian Arctic Expedition commanded by Stefansson, announcing that the three boats comprising the expedition have reached Herschel's Island, their winter quarters.

Word was received by mail posted from Barrow, the northernmost cape of Alaska in the Arctic. Just west of here great difficulty was experienced with ice. A small fleet of boats were congregated there, some like the Canadian boats, working into the Arctic, and others returning from a trading trip along the Arctic coast.

All three Canadian boats succeeded in getting through. The Karluk passed Barrow safely August 8, and the Mary Sachs a few days later, and finally the Alaska, which had been delayed by temporary engine trouble on August 20. The same mail brought word that the trading schooner Transit, which left Barrow for Seattle on August 23, struck ice just west of Barrow and had to be beached.

As part of her cargo she carried the first scientific collection acquired by the expedition. Fortunately it was salvaged and is being cared for by Chas. Brower, of Barrow, who will reship it to Ottawa, by the next trader that happens along.

BORROWERS SEEK 119,000,000 MONEY MUST REMAIN DEAR

Never Before Was There Such a Crowd of Would-Be Borrowers Hovering Over Money Markets

London, Nov. 5.—The Canadian Gazette commenting on the purchase by Harris and Son, Boston, of $1,626,000 of Vancouver 4½ p.c's. says this co-operation is valuable alike to borrowers and the London market. Never probably was there such a crowd of would-be borrowers hovering over the money markets of Western Europe as now.

France is about to issue a loan of £52,000,000 for military purposes.

Turkey has obtained the consent of the French Government for an immediate issue in Paris of a loan of £20,000,000.

Roumania is about to offer £9,000,000 four and a half at [illegible].

The Russian Government is negotiating a railway loan of £30,000,000. Bulgarian discounted six per cent. treasury bills in Holland for £1,200,000 preparatory to a public loan of £[illegible].

Money must therefore remain dear for some time. Even the British treasury is paying nearly 4½ per cent in discounting three-months' bills.

HURRYING HOME TO GET SUPPER DROWNS

St. Catharines, Nov. 5.—Mrs. William Buck, aged 45 years, was last evening drowned in the hydraulic raceway while en route home to prepare supper. The discovery of some parcels along the bank led to a search and the finding of her body this morning. A husband and two daughters survive.

TO REMOVE FIRST SIGN OF OLD AGE

"The infallible first sign of age is the sagging cheek muscles," says Mme. Lina Cavalieri, whose fame as a beauty [illegible] is scarcely outshone by that gained before the footlights. "These are more difficult and serious to treat than wrinkles," she continues. "The sagging muscles indicate that they have grown too weak to remain in place; they must be assisted, strengthened."

The best way to strengthen and harden them is by using a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. This creates a finer circulation to the affected parts, [illegible] causing muscle and skin to contract. Saxolite, procurable at any drug store, has long been [illegible] [illegible]

NURSES COST MORE PAYS TO KEEP WELL

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 5.—The Nurses' Alumnae Association have raised the prices for nursing from the old figure of $18 per week to $21 per week for ordinary cases and $25 per week for contagious cases. The high cost of living is given as the cause of this increase.

WHOOPING COUGH BANE OF MOTHERS

Discussion of This Troublesome Disease and Its Treatment by a Physician

Whooping cough is a contagious disease characterized by fits of coughing, during which a whooping sound is made following a long-drawn breath. It is generally taken through direct contact with the sick, rarely through exposure to the sick room, or to persons or clothing used by the sick. The germ which causes the disease is probably in the mucus of the nose and throat. It occurs chiefly in children from six months to six years of age.

Whooping cough begins like an ordinary cold in the head, with a cough, worse at night, which [illegible]. As the coughing fits increase the child gets red in the face, has difficulty in getting breath, and sometimes vomits when the attack is over.

After a variable period from a few days to two weeks, the peculiar feature of the disease appears. The child gives 15 or 20 short coughs without drawing breath; the face swells and grows black; the eyeballs protrude; the veins bulged out, [illegible] to be suffocating, when at last he draws in a long breath with a crowing or whooping sound, which gives rise to the name of the disease. In mild cases, there may be six to twelve attacks in 24 hours; in severe cases, from 40 to 50.

Owing to the numerous complications, whooping cough must be looked upon as a serious disease, especially in infants under two years, and in weak, delicate children. It causes about one-fourth of all the death among children and for this reason a physician's services should be secured when possible.

Many remedies are used for whooping cough, but no single one is always the best. Fresh air is of great importance. Patients should be strictly isolated in rooms by themselves. And children should be sent away who have not been exposed.

If the coughing fits are severe, or there is fever, children should be kept in bed. Otherwise they may be outdoors in warm weather, and also in winter, on warm quiet days.

It is best that the sick should have two rooms so that the temperature may be kept at 70 all the time and the air changed frequently. Especially at nights should the child have plenty of fresh air to breathe.

The simplest remedy for the disease, before the whooping has commenced, is a mixture of paregoric and syrup of ipecac, ten drops of the former, with five of the latter, for a child of two years, given together in water every three hours.

A one per cent. solution of hydrogen dioxide, diluted with four parts of water, used in an atomizer for spraying the throat every two hours has given good results.

Quinine, given in the dose of one-sixth grain for each month of the child's age under a year; or in one and one-half-grain doses for each year of age under five, is one of the older and more valuable remedies.

However, these drugs should only be employed under the direction of the physician.

THE FADE-AWAY BALL

Falkenberg Has More Elusive Delivery Than Mathewson

"Fred. Falkenberg has a better fade-away ball than Christy Mathewson. Left-handed batters can hit Mathewson, but find it almost impossible to get even a single off Falkenberg."

Such is the declaration made by Frank Baker, home run hitter extraordinary and hero of the world's series of 1911. Baker made ball history when he hit Mathewson for four bases in one of the games between the Athletics and Giants for the world's championship. He batted against Mathewson in three games of that memorable series. He made the work of opposing pitchers a study. For that reason his comparison of the two most famous exponents of the fade-away is of great value.

"McInnis and I were talking about Falkenberg," Baker continued. "Stuffy said he believed a right-hander could hit Falkenberg easier than a left-hander, and I believe he is right. To tell the truth, I would like to see how many hits a team composed entirely of left-handed batters could make off Fred. I'll bet he would come mighty close to pitching a no-hit game."

Ira Thomas, member of Connie Mack's famous strategy board, is another admirer of Falkenberg.

"I have not batted much against Fred.," says Thomas, "but from observation I would say Fred. has the best fade-away delivery ever pitched. Mathewson's fade-away comes up to the batter rather slow. He works it as a change of pace. Falkenberg throws his fast ball and fade-away with the same motion. The batter does not know which it is until he swings and misses. The fade-away comes up much faster than Matty's fade-away, and for that reason is harder to hit. Fred. is also the owner of more speed than Matty has now. I would rate Fred. as one of the five best pitchers in the country."

Pheasant as the Sheep's Friend

A pheasant accompanied a flock of sheep the greater part of the way on their last melancholy mission to Reading Market from Kidmore. The bird had covered five miles when its presence was noticed at Caversham. Shunning the curiosity of the public, the pheasant flew away. The sheep were driven for another mile to the market, and no sooner had they arrived than down flew the pheasant among his four-footed friends.

Company Director at Eighteen

Sentences of nine months and three months respectively were passed at Berks Assizes on Claude Bishop and Reginald George Willats, aged eighteen, directors of the Reading Phoenix Building and Supply Company, on charges of forging bills of exchange. The boys formed themselves into a company, of which they were directors, and appointed Oscar F. H. Phillpotts, aged eighteen, as secretary and director.

Seventy-six Pensioners at Workhouse

"A Progressive Peterborough"

Our Point of View

It would appear that the Liberals have been pained by the discovery that the best side of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the Quebec side of the boundary.

The more we study the quick way in which the Hon. Vic Huerta suppresses everybody who disagrees with him the more firmly we are convinced that he would make a first-class baseball umpire.

Nowadays the most silent and dejected persons are those who were so loud in their predictions that the Borden policy would wreck the country. After over two years the country still lives and prosperity reigns.

Sir James Whitney lets the bi-lingual trouble-makers at Ottawa know that he will use a free hand in dealing with the Separate School Board of that city, although it may be necessary to put brass knuckles on.

Oil has been discovered near Calgary, and the promoters of wild-cat oil companies have got busy. The Calgary Herald deserves credit for warning the public against these gentry and advising the public not to bite at glittering bait in the form of oil-company prospectuses.

The newspapers of Mexico are sneering at General Felix Diaz for seeking asylum on an American warship, and calling him hard names. But Felix seems to realize that discretion is the better part of valour and that it is much better to be a live coward than a dead fool.

It is said that Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst is disappointed with the results of her lecture tour in the United States. Sister Emmie made the mistake of not providing herself with the scenario with which to illustrate how she burns up an English church or mansion.

Several cities have adopted health ordinances requiring barbers to sterilize their razors. Some day, perhaps, they may be required to sterilize their breath, to the great satisfaction of patrons who do not like the odor of garlic.

A Portland, Ore., girl was aggrieved because the man she married had two cork legs instead of one as represented, and caused his arrest when she learned that he had practiced the same deception as to several other wives. Our notion is that a man who will palm off two cork legs on an unsuspecting girl is a prince of duplicity.

Some change has taken place in the list of Local Option campaigns now under way. Some of the municipalities failed to present in time their petitions for the submission of by-laws. The number of by-laws to be voted upon as far as now reported is forty-four. The liquor party have already secured the submission of repeal by-laws in ten Local Option municipalities. There are seven Canada Temperance Act campaigns under way. This makes a total of sixty-one contests that will be fought out at the polls in the near future.

GOVERNMENT OWNED ELEVATORS.

The first Government-owned and Government operated elevator at the head of the lakes, and which is the first of the system to be built by the Borden Government, is in full swing and receiving commercial grain. It is pronounced by experts to be the best equipped and most modern grain handling house on the continent. The elevator has a capacity of 3,250,000 bushels, approximately 3,00 cars.

Tenders have already been let for the new Government elevators at Moose Jaw and Saskatoon, and work is being rushed by the Government.

CENTRAL GOLD RESERVE

The work of the Finance Minister, Hon. W. T. White, has borne fruit. The central gold reserve established by the Government at Montreal under the provisions of the Bank Act of last session has entered upon its work, and, according to advices received here, is fulfilling the object for which it was created namely, to increase the note circulation. Deposits of about four million dollars are reported. For every dollar deposited in gold in this reserve the banks making the deposit may issue an equivalent in note circulation. This is in addition to the ordinary powers and those exercised under the provisions governing emergency circulation. The institution is designed as a factor in increasing the circulation at periods, such as those of the crop movement, when it is most needed. The gold reserve is directed by a board of trustees, upon which the Government is represented by the Royal Trust Company. The other trustees are the Montreal, Royal and Commerce Banks

"A SOLDIER PRINCE"

The fact that His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught is truly a "soldier prince" was made evident to the fullest degree during his recent voyage to Canada on the R. M. S. Empress of Britain. His Royal Highness, who is a patron of the ship's rifle club, showed keen enthusiasm in the exploits of the riflemen, and the presentation of prizes for marksmanship afforded the Duke an opportunity to express his appreciation of the men's work The prizes were laid out in the ship's first-class dining saloon and after being inspected by His Royal Highness and Princess Patricia, the Duke made a few complimentary remarks to each recipient. The ceremony concluded with an address by His Royal Highness, of which the following is a brief resume:

"I am proud to be a patron of your club, especially so as it is the first of its kind to be formed in the Mercantile Marine, and no doubt it will be the means of inducing other ships to do likewise. It was said in the olden days that we were the best archers in the world, and I do not see why, with a little practise, we cannot become the best shots. I am glad to notice how this club is formed of all departments of your ship, and how one and all from these departments join together with a good feeling and engage in friendly rivalry in pursuit of these prizes. There is no doubt that through the initiative and encouragement of your Captain Murray this club has met with such success, and I assure you I shall be most proud to hear of your further successes, of which, no doubt, you will keep me informed. I might mention that should my staff ever be in Quebec at the same time as your ship they will make a great effort to break your sequence of successes in rifle shooting. In conclusion I wish the club every success, and when I get settled down in Ottawa, I will have great pleasure in sending you a cup for competition next year, and I thank you very much for making me your patron."

Sergeant-Major Under General French

Veteran of Boer War Who Lost Health on the Veldt Tells Experience.

Good Advice for All who Have Indigestion or Stomach Disorders

In his home at Waldegrave, N. S., no one is better known than Sergt.-Major Cross, late of the 4th Queen's Own Hussars. Speaking of the ill-effects of a campaign upon a man's constitution, the Sergt.-Major writes "I served under General French during the late Boer war, in the capacity of Sergt.-Major. It was perhaps owing to a continued diet of bully beef, hard tack, and bad water, but at any rate my stomach entirely gave out. I was in such a state that I could eat nothing without the greatest suffering. The army doctors did not help me much, and since leaving the service I have been very miserable. Some few months ago a friend told me he had been a great sufferer from indigestion until he tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they cured him. I confess it was without much faith I bought a box, but the first dose made me feel better than I had been for a long time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely cured, and now I can eat everything and anything. I have recommended them to others and in every case the result has been similar to mine."

Quick, sure results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure disorders of the stomach, correct indigestion, make you feel uplifted and strengthened. To renew or maintain health, Dr. Hamilton's Pills always prove a good prescription. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y. and Kingston, Canada.

SAVE THE GIRLS

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The mothers of Peterborough have appeared before the School Board to implore protection for our young girls. God knows it is time! It is cruel to hold our holy shows and our high revels in missionary enthusiasm when right at our doors our young mothers are applying for protection for our young girls. Away with our gilded Christians! Give us the real thing—not those whose hearts are in China and Timbuctoo; not those who will fiddle in the [illegible] hall while "Rome is burning." All honor to our young mothers. It took pluck to do it—more than it does to cut and [illegible].

Out out your heartless [illegible]! Throw yourselves into our social and political life, and try, with the help of God, to make us all true men and women.

BIG ELEVATOR PLANNED FOR THE TERMINUS OF NELSON

Government Calls for Tenders and the Work Will Now be Pushed Forward

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—The Borden Government promised a new grain route via Hudson Bay and is providing it. The Hudson Bay Railway (the building of which was persistently and deliberately delayed by the Laurier Government) is under contract. Men and materials have been sent by water to work on the Port Nelson terminals. Announcement is now made that work is to begin at once on the construction of a large grain elevator at Port Nelson.

The Government has called for tenders for this elevator.

The plans must indicate the type of elevator for a capacity of one and a half million bushels which must be located near the conform with the pier construction of the Department of Railways and Canals.

Tenders will be in on November 5, and the government will lose no time in selecting the type of building which it deems most desirable and in calling for construction tenders.

The calling for tenders for plans for a Government-owned elevator at Port Nelson marks another step forward by Mr. Borden towards his pledge of Government ownership of grain elevators, and also means that the present Government is in real earnest about the Hudson Bay project.

THIRTY-THREE MEN BEGIN DYNAMITE CASE APPEALS

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Another chapter in the nation-wide story of the dynamite plots, which culminated in the fatal explosion in Los Angeles, [illegible] 1910, was written when the case was called before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Thirty of the thirty-three labor union officials who were adjudged guilty [illegible] with the McNamara [illegible] in promoting [illegible] that the present court set aside the verdict rendered at Indianapolis last December and that they be given a new trial. The government [illegible] the convicted men be sent back to prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to serve out their terms.

A sentence of seven years, the heaviest penalty of all, hangs over Frank M. Ryan, who is out on $70,000 bond pending this appeal. He was given the longest term, Judge A. B. Anderson at Indianapolis said, because he was president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union, out of whose funds the expenses of the dynamiters were paid.

OTHER SENTENCES VARY.

The other prison terms, most of which have been suspended pending the appeal, vary from four years to one year and one day. Probably when the argument is concluded Judges Kohlsaat, Baker and Seaman will take the petition under advisement and render their decision at some later date. It is understood that should the present appeal be adverse to the convicted men it will be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

GET CONFESSION OF MURDER ON TIP FROM SEER

POLICE WRING GRUESOME STORY FROM UPTON MAN.

Mystery of Missing Man Cleared—Slayer Leads Way to Grave He Dug in Swamp.

Milford, Nov. 5.—After a nine-hour grilling, Daniel Y. Cooper of Upton, broke down to-night, and according to the state police officials, confessed to the murder, four weeks ago, of Alfred G. Bradish, also of Upton, and to burying the body in the swamp off the road between Upton and Westboro. Then, after revealing all of the gruesome details, Cooper led the police to where he had buried his victim. Cooper is 37 years old and his victim was about the same age.

For weeks posses of police, men and boys have been searching the woods for some trace of Bradish. Though the mystery of the man's disappearance is cleared up, the police declare they are completely at sea as to the motive for the killing.

Mrs. Bradish tonight, between her sobs, told how she herself had led searching parties, with her three children crying and clinging to her skirts. At last, worn to desperation, she sought a clairvoyant, who told her that her husband had been killed and buried [illegible]

OPEN THE DOOR OF YOUR HEART

Open the door of your heart, my lad,
To the angels of love and truth
When the world is full of unnumbered joys,
In the beautiful dawn of youth.
Casting aside all things that mar,
Saying to wrong, "Depart!"
To the voices of hope that are calling you
Open the door of your heart.

Open the door of your heart, my lass
To the things that shall abide,
To the holy thoughts that lift our soul
Like the stars at eventide.
All of the fadeless flowers that bloom
In the realms of song and art
Are yours if you'll only give them room.
Open the door of your heart.

Open the door of your heart, my friend,
Heedless of class or creed,
When you hear the cry of a brother's voice,
The sob of a child in need,
To the shining heaven that o'er you bends
You need no map or chart,
But only the love the master gave,
Open the door of your heart.

-- KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED --

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its fineness and price.

He discusses these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this news through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

He feels it is part of his service to keep the public informed.

A WOMAN'S HOARD

Money Found by Firemen When Clearing Away Rubbish

While the Girvan Fire Brigade were clearing away the rubbish in a cottage in Greenside, Girvan, which was destroyed by fire, they had a remarkable find. Hidden in one of the fireplaces they discovered $30 in notes and about $20 in silver, a single leaf of a bank-book, and charred fragments of bank deposit receipts with a face value up to fully $1000. The owner and occupier of the house is a maiden lady, who lives by herself. She owns considerable property in the town.

FOREIGN POPULATION IN THE WEST MOST TROUBLESOME

Mounted Police Official's Opinion After Twenty-Eight Years of Observation

That it is the foreign population in the West, the Roumanian, Slav and Galician immigrants, who are responsible for by far the greater proportion of its crimes and give the mounted police most trouble, was the statement of Superintendent Starnes, of the R.N.W.M.P., while on a visit to Montreal.

A real "old timer," though he modestly disclaimed the title, is Superintendent Starnes. Twenty-eight years ago he joined the force, and he has been a member of it ever since, rising from grade to grade to reach his present responsible position of superintendent, with headquarters at Regina.

Joining the Riel rebellion volunteers from Montreal and going West with them, he decided at the conclusion of that affair to cast in his lot with the thin red line of men which has done such yeoman service as the long arm of Canadian law in the prairie provinces. The West at that time, of course, was not much of a place, with the possible exception of its magnificent distances. Winnipeg was a fair sized town with a foretaste of hustle and hurry in its streets, but Regina, Medicine Hat, Calgary and the like were either villages or Hudson Bay posts.

During all the growth of the country since that time Superintendent Starnes played a part as one of its protectors and was stationed at nearly every point within the immense district covered by the activities of the mounted force.

"Ultimately the force will extend its activities farther and farther north," he said. "but for a long time yet there will be much to do in the south where the incoming tide of immigration gives us a lot of trouble."

Vinegar and Plaster of Paris

When mixing plaster of Paris for mending cracks in plaster use vinegar instead of water. It should be of the consistency of putty, and when the cracks are filled with it the top should be smoothed over with a knife. The mixture will not harden for about half an hour.

"MAN A QUADRUPED"

Learned Savant Thinks Physical Erectness is Wrong

Is the "upright carriage" of the body all a mistake? Dr. Earnest Klotz, a well known Leipzig physician, thinks it is a very great mistake, and in a learned book, "Man, a Quadruped," tries to prove that human beings ought to crawl about on all fours. The cause of half our illnesses and of nearly all our digestive derangements is, says Dr. Klotz, the vicious practice of walking erect. "The spinal column, not the head, is the natural roof of man." Walking erect displaced all the organs, which hang lower in the body than nature intended them to be. If a man crawls instead of walking the organs tend to hang in the right position from the spinal column.

CONTROLLING OF WEEDS

Every Plant Allowed to Produce Seed Increase Labor and Expense

The greatest care should be taken to prevent weeds from producing seeds on the farm, in the orchard or in the garden. Not all weeds are [illegible] but many of them are [illegible] cost money to destroy, and every weed plant that bears seeds is increasing your expense for cultivation.

During the busy season the corn rows are apt to be neglected and before one is fully aware of it weeds have made a start. It is then only a few weeks more until there are millions of seeds to propagate the species and thus labor and expense are increased.

Years ago when the old rail-fence was used, the corners of the fence were a hot-bed breeding place for noxious weeds. These not only caused an unsightly appearance, but they usurped moisture and plant food that crops needed and what is more serious produced seeds to propagate the species and thus contaminate the fields. There are yet in some locations a few rail fences and the greatest care should be used in keeping the corners clean.

On many farms there are sloughs, brooks, slashes or other places that for various reasons can not be cultivated. The farmer should see to it that these places do not breed weeds to cause him trouble and expense. Usually such places can be utilized so that they will not breed weeds, but on the contrary produce something that the farmer or his stock can consume.

WHITE ESKIMO

Known Years Ago in Far North Says This Authority

FAMILY HAD IMMIGRANTED

In a letter to the press Mr. Henry Montgomery, of Toronto University, declared that the existence of white Eskimos in Northern Canada has been known for many years. "While I was a member of the staff of the New York State Normal School and Training College at Cortland during the winter of 1890," said Mr. Montgomery, "a white Eskimo lady lectured there, and I was permitted to take measurements of her head. Her skin was as fair or white as that of the average European white, her eyes were blue and her hair quite fair in color. Her family had migrated from Greenland to Iceland, where her mother died. Thence the rest of the family migrated to Manitoba, where the summers proved too severe upon them, and all but herself sickened and died within a couple of years. She found her way to a Minnesota hospital and eventually to northern Wisconsin where by special care and contrivances she was enabled to survive the heat of the summers, while during the winters for several years, accompanied by a Scottish-American lady, she traveled a little and gave some lectures."

Fatal Meal of Pork

An inquest was held at Wrexham on a farm laborer who died from ptomaine poisoning set up by eating "savory ducks" (pork). Forty other persons were affected by the same food.

A Boon to Humanity

Read the Following Letter Re SANOL From Professor Auguste Bessuse.

Altona, Man., July 7th, 1912.
To the Sanol Manufacturing Co., Ltd.

Although still suffering from lumbago through the lack of proper care of myself I find SANOL a [illegible] not to equal it for instant relief from [illegible] of Uric Acid in the blood. The trouble with many of our people we do not give the treatment long enough a trial to make a cure, and sometimes people quit taking the medicine when they should continue it until all the symptoms of pains in the loins, or rheumatic pains have left them.

I have recommended the SANOL to an old friend of mine who is about 70 years old, and who was troubled with his inability to pass water without experiencing tremendous pains. After having taken two bottles of SANOL he got relief; he then ordered a half dozen bottles from your company, and I told him if he would continue he would get better altogether, which to my delight he has done.

I have, certainly, no flattery to make, but it is my duty to report it to the suffering public that do not believe in a scientific epoch-making [illegible] for Kidney trouble.

May you live long to manufacture SANOL and help suffering humanity.

WOOD BLOCK PAVING NOW

Pine Proving Good Substitute for Asphalt in Canadian Cities

BEST RESULTS OBTAINED

The paving of city streets with wood is again coming into favor, new method of laying the pavements making this one of the most satisfactory of pavements. Vancouver's pavements are largely of wood. Eighty-five per cent. of the new paving in Minneapolis is wood-block, and Saskatoon and other Western towns are giving the wood-block paving the preference.

Best results are obtained from rectangular-shaped blocks cut from Southern or Norway pine which are thoroughly seasoned and creosoted. This latter process not only lengthens the life of the wood but reduces its absorptive capacity for water, thus preventing the weakening of the wood-fibres and reducing its tendency to buckle. The most approved method of laying this pavement used in London, New York and other large cities, is to first make a concrete foundation four to six inches thick on which is laid a thin layer of sand, or, better still, of moist Portland cement, into which the blocks are closely set.

The blocks are from five to nine inches in depth and must be free from defects. Care must be taken to place them with the grain perpendicular to the road-bed. If laid with the long edges at right angles to the curb the joints are apt to become worn by the calks on horses' shoes, so to prevent this and to best provide for possible expansion, the paving is laid at an angle of about sixty-seven degrees with the curb. The joints are usually filled with ground cement and the surface of the paving is then covered with a thin dressing of coarse sand, which beds into the pores of the blocks and roughens them. Such a pavement has the smoothness of asphalt and will last almost without repair for fifteen years under ordinary conditions.

Relics of Early Montreal

A VERSATILE ARTIST

Performer is Also a Lecturer, Composer, Architect and Actor

Sir Hubert von Herkomer, who painted the portrait of Lord Morley for presentation to the Manchester University, is one of the most remarkable, as well as the most popular, men in the world of art. As a painter he is almost unrivalled; as an engraver—an art self-taught in his youth—he has won high praise; as a lecturer he has been extremely successful; as a composer of music he is, in the opinion of Herr Richter, "never commonplace, and nearly always original." The professor is also an architect, an actor, and a designer of new and remarkable stage effects. His picturesque house at Bushey was entirely designed by him. Professor Herkomer sold his first important picture, "After the Toil of the Day," for $2,500. His next big picture, "The Last Muster"—Chelsea pensioners at church—was sold for $6,125, and gained for the painter a French decoration.

FAT AND PNEUMONIA

Reasons Why a Cold is Dangerous For Stout Persons

Fat people and people who drink alcoholic stimulants are afraid of colds and pneumonia. There are two reasons why they should be so. First, they are more susceptible. Second, these ailments go much harder with them. When a person is fat an excess of fat is tucked away anywhere it can be; under the skin, around the heart or anywhere else to get rid of it. It isn't needed. It is a burden. When a person takes alcohol and food together, the alcohol is burned and the food is left to clog the tissues.

In case of a cold or pneumonia there is more or less strain on the vital organs. If these are cluttered up with unnecessary fat or weakened by alcohol, the chance of recovery is that much less.

No matter what the disease, the individual who eats moderately, exercises sufficiently to keep a normal weight and avoids alcohol has much the best chance to fight it off. And often this type of sane humanity goes much farther and escapes it altogether. Don't let yourself grow unnaturally fat.

To Bid for Historic Castle

Fort Castle, Ayr, which formed part of the thirteenth century church of St. John, and within which the Scottish Parliament met in 1315, the year after Bannockburn, to settle the succession of the crown, was offered for sale at Ayr recently, with a reserve price of $10,000, but there was no offer. At the end of the fifteenth century James IV. used to visit the church and make offerings at the altar, and during the Reformation John Knox preached from the pulpit. Oliver Cromwell, during his sojourn in Scotland, used the building as an armoury, and public indignation was so loud that the Protector proffered [illegible] monetary assistance (1,000 [illegible]) towards a new church.

LETTER WRITING

It is Important That One Should Master This Art

A certain amount of correspondence is necessary to every human being who owns a circle of friends and acquaintances and who accepts social obligations of any sort whatever. The kind little line of sympathy, the prompt note of acceptance upon receipt of an invitation, the few words of appreciation or thanks for a favor received betoken the man or woman versed in social matters, even though neither the heart nor the interest are in the business letter. The knack of inditing a well expressed epistle, short, graceful and to the point, if not learned during youth, should be acquired at whatever pains. The correct forms of letter writing are not difficult to master, and such forms are very important in a social sense.

One should avoid freakish note papers and stick to a heavy cream-laid paper, unlined, and almost square in size of sheet. At the top of the fourth page may be engraved the address, the name and telephone address of the country house or the family crest. It is in the best taste, however, to have the envelope unengraved. When deemed advisable, the address may be written by hand in one corner or across the back of the flap.

SINGING CHANCELLOR

Tenor Voice of Remarkable Purity and Strength

Mr. Emlyn Davies, A.R.A.M., the noted baritone vocalist, declares that the statements frequently made that Mr. Lloyd George is not himself musical to the extent of being able to sing in tune are entirely incorrect. "I can speak with some knowledge of the matter," says Mr. Davies, "because for ten years I occupied the seat immediately behind the Chancellor at Castle street Welsh Baptist Chapel, London, where Mr. Lloyd George is a deacon. I can assure you he has a tenor voice far above the average, of remarkable strength and purity. I remember him on one occasion, when we were trying a new hymn tune, turning to me and saying, 'Emlyn, sing the tenor part until I get the hang of it,' and this he soon did. He told me his favorite song was 'Captain Morgan's March,' the warlike refrain of which he is constantly humming during the social hours that brighten the experiences of the Welsh congregation at Castle street."

VETERAN RACERS ON SEA AND LAND

Old Vessels, Engines and Men That Decline to be Relegated to the Scrap Heap

The Britannia, King George's big yacht, is now twenty years old, but is still able to hold her own against almost anything afloat of her own size. Racing yachts are supposed to be fragile affairs, but some of them last a deal longer than anyone would be likely to imagine. Britannia, for example, has several competitors to which, in spite of her score of years of life, she is a mere chicken. Of them all, Bloodhound possesses by far the most marvellous record. Bloodhound is a forty-ton cutter, which was built as long ago as 1874. In 1907, after a long career of successful racing, she was sold to be broken up, when Lord Ailsa, for whom she was originally built, bought her in to save her from the shipbreaker's yard. He refitted her, and that year she won thirty prizes in forty starts, sixteen being firsts. In 1908 she was racing again, when she was run into by another yacht, L'Espérance, and was got on to the mud only with great difficulty in time to save her from sinking. It was thought that this would end her career, but her owner rebuilt his old favorite and repaired her, and 1909 proved her most successful of all seasons. In it she won fifty prizes.

It was in 1851 that the all-conquering schooner America arrived in British waters and swept the board, carrying all before her in the events for which she entered. After a long and chequered career, in which she figured as cruiser, blockade runner, and practice vessel for naval cadets, she was refitted as a racer in 1875 and finished fourth in a fleet of twenty-five starters. She was then sold at auction for $5,000, and so late as 1907 was still going strong.

Pioneer Locomotive

Yachts are not the only products of man's ingenuity which retain their speed to an advanced age. That most famous of all Great Western Railway engines, the Lord of the Isles, was designed by Sir Daniel Gooch in 1842, and soon after she was built attained the then unheard-of speed of seventy-seven miles an hour. It was not until the year 1906 that the Lord of the Isles and her sister the North Star were sent to the scrap heap, and they were still capable of holding their own in the matter of speed with most of the later productions of railway engineering skill.

In years to come our descendants will look with interest at some of the famous motors which made records in the first decade of the twentieth century. A petrol motor ages more rapidly than any other form of engine. F. T. Jane, the British naval expert, drives a racer which was built as long ago as 1902, yet still possesses a tremendous turn of speed.

Weston's Little Walk

On the race track we find horses which, though they have attained what is for a horse old age, can still beat competitors of half their age. Of these, Manifesto and Dean Swift are the two most notable examples of recent years. Manifesto was somewhere about eighteen when he won his last Grand National, and Dean Swift was still racing and winning up to about ten years old.

Of veteran racers of the two-legged variety, it is probable that the most wonderful of recent years was Edward Weston. Having once walked from New York to San Francisco he thinks nothing of a 1,000-mile jaunt.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

WELLAND SHIP CANAL.

Section No. 5.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 5, Welland Ship Canal," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, November 18th, 1913.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Engineer in Charge, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Department on the payment of the sum of fifty dollars. To bona fide tenderers this amount will be refunded upon the return of the above in good condition.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $100,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary.
Department of Railways and Canals,

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD LIMIT.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including Wednesday, the 31st of December next, for the right to cut pulpwood on a certain area situated on the Metagami River in the District of Temiskaming.

Tenderers shall state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to the Crown dues of 40c. per cord for Spruce, and 20c. per cord for other pulpwoods, or such other rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the right to operate a pulp mill and a paper mill on or near the area referred to.

Such tenderers shall be required to erect a mill or mills on or near the territory and to manufacture the wood into pulp and paper in the Province of Ontario,—the paper mill to be erected when directed by the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Parties making tender will be required to deposit with their tender a marked cheque payable to the Honourable the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, for ten per cent. of the amount of their tender, to be forfeited in the event of their not entering into an agreement to carry out the conditions, etc.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For particulars as to description of territory, capital to be invested, etc., apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.
Toronto, Ontario, September 17th, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Harbour and River Improvements in the Mission River, Fort William, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Friday, November 21, 1913, for the construction of the Harbour and River Improvements.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of W. P. Merrick, Esq., District Engineer, Fort William, Ont.; J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; J. L. Michaud, Esq., District Engineer, Post Office, Montreal, P.Q.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

SALUTE BY WOMEN

French Ladies Want to Recognize Regimental Colors

The latest feminist movement is from France, where women are demanding, and in most cases taking, the right to salute the colors of a regiment as men salute them.

Of course, a civilian or other person in plain clothes should not salute the colors, but take off his hat to them, the salute being for those who wear official uniform. Obviously, however, a woman cannot be expected to take off her hat. A mere bow, say the leaders of the movement, is not sufficiently noticeable as a mark of respect, while a curtsey, though correct, is not always to be performed conveniently in a crowd.

Therefore, say the ladies of France, we will salute whenever men do. And why not?

Britain's Royal ladies always make a pronounced bow when driving past the colors of troops lining the streets, but a salute might be more convenient and prettier.

An Insurance Point

Police Inspector as Auctioneer

District Inspector Irwin Newry, put up for sale at Warrenpoint, Ireland, two goats which had been seized by the police on the public road during the cattle embargo and had not been claimed by the owners. There was a big crowd present, and much fun was poked at the sergeant and the policeman holding the goats up for inspection.

Record Chancery Case

A chancery case, the most expensive and the longest on record, was brought to a close [illegible] speeches [illegible] evidence [illegible], before Justice Parker in London recently. The action which was brought by Messrs. John Aird & Co. against the Tanjong Pagar dock board concerned a $5,000,000 contract for construction of a wet dock at Singapore. The evidence heard on both sides covered 1,931 pages, representing 21,471 questions and answers, and took 20 days to hear. The speeches delivered covered about 350 pages and were delivered during a period of 13 days. Five K.C.'s and a host of juniors were briefed. The leader on one side received a fee of 3,000 guineas and a "refresher" of $500 a day. The leader on the other side received $30,000 with the same refresher. The fees ran into five figures, and the cost of the total case worked out at $25 a minute.

HAD TO RELY ON HIMSELF

None Supported the Young Man Who Proved He Lacked Self-Reliance.

There was once a young man who felt that he needed help. When he was poor in spirit and saw that he must needs prove himself he comforted himself by saying: "This is my own town and here are my neighbors and acquaintances. Their good will must hold me up."

And he leaned on them, but they were as a broken reed under him. They did not support him, writes Marguerite O. S. Wilkinson in the Craftsman. Then he said: "I will go to my best friend, who is a very powerful man. Surely he will carry me through."

But his best friend gave him only sympathy, and it was easy to see that by the very giving of that sympathy [illegible]. And the young man called his past friend a traitor [illegible]. And then the young man said: "I will go to those of my own blood, my family, and they will be my strong staff on which to lean. Surely they will not leave me in the lurch."

But though his family offered him much advice and a little money, they did not support him, nor did they encourage him. And he left them sadly. And, finally, because he could think of no one else who would be likely to help him, he sought out the Sage Who Never Slumbers and told his tale disconsolately. And he did everything that could be done for the young man, for he said:

"None will bear you up or carry you through because you are not sufficient for yourself. Why should they have confidence in you when you have more confidence in them than in yourself? What else have you but yourself to guarantee your undertakings? Rely on your own strength, support yourself!"

REFUGE FOR BALL PLAYERS

Job of Scout or Umpire Open to Those Who Make Good

When veteran ball players serve their usefulness there is just two havens of refuge for them. One is the position of scout and the other is that of umpire. Provided he has been successful as a ball player he can make good in either capacity, his wide experience being of great service in either undertaking.

Three of the veterans who have seen their best days on the diamond—Theodore Breitenstein, William Hart and Wm Kellum—served on the umpiring staff of the Southern League. In the umpirical blue Breitenstein and Hart were both successful, while Kellum was too much lacking in backbone to show anything like good work. His knowledge of the game was all right, but his decisions in close cases lacked the stamina.

Breit., Hart and Kellum began pitching ball in the young days of the league, and grew up with it. They had served to see many stars come and go, yet they continued like the famous brook. The main cause for their long service was the good condition in which they kept themselves. All realized that the game was their livelihood, and they took care of themselves accordingly. Half the job in umpiring is learning just how to [illegible] certain players and not half so much in the decisions that are made. Some players will kick on any decision, no matter whether it is right or wrong, and to satisfy this class it takes a certain treatment which umpires have to take time to learn.

Tall women are notably on the increase at the social functions of England's "smart set." It may be due to the modern craze for athletics or physical culture, or it may be merely an optical illusion based on the current modes in dress, but the fact remains—tall women now queen it amongst their sex.

Two particularly tall women are the Duchess of Portland and the Duchess of Marlborough, while the Duchesses of Montrose and Sutherland are only a trifle less stately.

Lady Linlithgow and her sister, Mrs. Edward Yorke, are both well over six feet, as is Lady de Clifford. Among other extremely tall women are Lady Pembroke, the Hon. Mrs. George Lambton, the Hon. Mrs. Ferdinand Stanley, the Hon. Mrs. Henry Brougham, and Miss Daphne Bourke, the daughter of the Hon. Algernon and Mrs. Bourke.

Lady Dixon is six feet tall, and her [illegible], Lady Juliet Duff, is not much shorter. Lady Galway and her pretty daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Shellington-Smyth, are both extremely tall, as are Lady Aberdeen and her only daughter, Lady Pentland.

Its Discovery a Mere Accident Resulting From Carelessness

Ratine has secured so strong a place in popular favor that it cannot detract from its position to tell a little story of its origin which shows that it is not alone history, customs of the countries, popular interest regarding any special period of the times or other important events which influence the fashions, but the origin is sometimes of an absurdly accidental nature.

According to the story it is to the carelessness of a factory girl at her loom that we are indebted for this beautiful material. It seems that this girl in the textile mill neglected to watch her machine and several thousand yards had been run off before it was discovered that the spindles were out of order. To prevent a total loss on such mis-patterned goods seemed quite impossible, and the manufacturer was in despair. The selling of the stuff as second-grade material appeared to be the only course, when some one to whom he showed the goods conceived the idea that a demand might be instituted in some way for it was really very handsome after one had become accustomed to the rough appearance.

It was accordingly taken to Paris, where a few of a certain class of society whose approval will make famous any style popular, were prevailed upon, at a price, to wear gowns made of this "new" material, and it soon became the rage. Fortunes were made from the line, but we are not told what per cent. of the profits accrued to the negligent textile worker at her loom, who was responsible for the novelty.

Every Weak Throat Quickly Strengthened And Bronchitis Cured

Grand Results Follow the Direct Breathing Remedy, Which Cures Without Drugging.

The country is fairly wild over the wonderful recovery that throat sufferers are making every day with Catarrhozone. From ocean to ocean came letters telling of rapid recoveries and cures when the complaint was chronic and long standing. It's a brand new principle upon which Catarrhozone works—not a single dose of medicine to take—nothing to upset the stomach or spoil digestion.

You can breathe through the Catarrhozone Inhaler medicated air that is full of healing, soothing balsams, full of piney antiseptic essences that resemble the air of the pine woods in the Adirondacks. The piney vapor has a truly marvelous action on weak throats. It brings strength and health to the bronchitic, stops that hacking, irritating cough, prevents hoarseness and difficult breathing. You can't find anything for weak-chested people on earth more beneficial than Catarrhozone. It means heaven on earth to the man that has had bronchitis, catarrh or throat irritation. You will realize this the first time you use Catarrhozone, which is a scientific preparation specially designed for diseases of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. Get the large size, it lasts two months, costs $1.00; medium size, 50c.; sample size, 25c. All storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

"Land of Golden Dreams."

The ladies of St. John's church are to be congratulated on the splendid attraction they are presenting at the Opera House, entitled "The Land of Golden Dreams." This work of Miss Hope was well staged and well rendered by local talent. The pretty little Peterborough girls who took part looked pretty enough to eat, if you, gentle reader, like that kind of diet. The music is bright and sparkling and goes with a swing that carries an audience. There are some 200 people in the cast. This play will be repeated to-day and on Saturday. As the whole play has been staged at their own expense, by those taking part, and as those working in a good cause only get a very slight margin of profit, and as the show is worth double the price of admission, it is to be hoped that a big audience will be present to-day.

City in Paragraph

Sunlight and Shadow on the Dial of a City Life.

Cheese making in this county, judging by what was placed on the board yesterday, is falling backward.

Lindsay is to submit a by-law in January asking whether the ratepayers prefer 20 or 30 year bonds to pay for paving and sewers.

Cement work has begun on reconstruction work on the J. C. Turnbull & Co. building, which collapsed recently.

All the fire alarm boxes at Lindsay are in bad repair. Lindsay should ask a certain local fire expert out for a fishing trip and get their boxes repaired between bites.

Inmates of the Protestant Home, House of Providence, Children's Shelter and the orphans were invited guests, free of charge, last night at "The Land of Golden Dreams."

The directors of the Peterborough Protestant Home intend holding a jam and linen shower at the Home on Wednesday afternoon, November 12, from 3 to 6 o'clock.

Some farmers in the city yesterday stated that the country requires a great deal of rain before winter sets in.

The Collegiate Institute Rugby Club have voted to drop the game for this season, and the club has been disbanded—the club have already dropped several games.

It is expected that the Englishman who, after making too good a test of the potency of Canadian whiskey, a week ago, and who is now in Castle Nesbitt, will be deported next week.

Lindsay is to place a lot more electric lights in the outlying parts of that progressive little town. Should it be decided to place a lamp in each Scugog River stump, the manufacturers of lamps will be given six months' notice to get busy.

As a result of a descriptive first given in the Times, of the first Chinese baby born in this city, over 20 ladies visited Charlie Fun's Water street laundry yesterday to see the little stranger.

Former Chief of Police Gummerson dismissed last week from office is now demanding an investigation.

Port Hope water on analysis proves to be pure and free from the invisible but potent bugs of typhoid fever.

The big factories of Cobourg, including the car works are practically closed down. Why can't some of our local medical sharps have a serum made from Peterborough's factory system and send it down to pretty, but sleepy little Cobourg?

The Examiner in referring to the recent arrival of a Chinese baby here, says, "that scantily clad gentleman commonly known as the stork," etc. Did our E.E.C. refer to the stork's legs or body? If the former was meant, the item is absolutely indecent!

Lindsay with her Scugog river has nothing on Peterborough in the matter of stumps. Yesterday whilst the local gas company was digging along Charlotte street, to lay new pipes five feet below the surface, five or six big stumps were found and extracted. Still, Peterborough keeps her stumps underground.

The contemporary press in stating that Mr. Mitchell was elected Mayor of New York City, made a great to-do about Mitchell only being 34 years old. We will bet a suspender button that more than one local bank clerk, under 25 years old, thinks he could fulfil the duties of the Mayor's job to the King's taste and then some.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

William Errington.

William Errington passed away yesterday at Nicholls Hospital. The late Mr. Errington was seized with a paralytic stroke on Thursday last. He was born in Bailieboro, County Cavan, Ireland, 79 years ago. The deceased was a member of St. John's Anglican church. In politics he was a Conservative. He is survived by his wife.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, 560 Bethune street, to-morrow afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery.

CHILDREN HATE OIL, CALOMEL AND PILLS

"California Syrup of Figs" best for tender stomach, liver, bowels—tastes delicious.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mother's keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

POLITICIANS RUSH FOR POST; SHOCKED AS MAN STILL LIVES

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Yesterday the Ottawa papers announced the death of Horace St. Louis, French translator of the Commons. The announcement was accompanied by a very flattering obituary. To-day there was a rush of politicians for the position. The applicants were much surprised to find that Mr. St. Louis is still very much alive, and while he is ill he hopes to be on the job again next session.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poison! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. [illegible], of [illegible] Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Co. and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Prof. Mulveney Known All Over the World

Proprietor of World's Famous Tape Worm Exterminator

Tape worm is hard from a parasite. It is of poor shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs which are connected together. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each section is an individual, having a mouth or mouth. The worm grows much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite, without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal danger, and causes the victim to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The deceived physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis, and other complaints, when one or more of these worms were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. While his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these parasites which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms, and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the professor has in his possession are enough to convince you of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels. Segments may be in evidence at any time, and this is complete proof of the presence of tape worm. There are many other feelings of distress which take too long to enumerate. Strange to say some people of strong constitution have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Information free. Phone Park 4930, 167 Dundas street, Toronto.

MEXICO DEFIES THE UNITED STATES; PRES. WILSON SILENT

American Warships Gathering in Mexican Waters, and Army Quietly Mobolizing

Mexico City, Nov. 6.—The purposes of General Huerta were voiced this morning by a person who is close to the Provisional President. This man said the President was determined to reject all the demands set forth in the latest American communication, and that he was resolved to seat the Congress just elected. If Congress, however, declares the recent Presidential election to be null and makes arrangements for another election, General Huerta would be disposed to abide by this decision and submit to the people's choice of a man who would occupy the Presidency until the autumn of [illegible].

MAY LIFT EMBARGO ON ARMS.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The news that Huerta would reject the United States demands for his elimination was received in official circles without comment. Secretary of State Bryan had a long conference with President Wilson, and Chairman Bacon of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was an early White House caller. Talk of lifting the embargo on arms was revived in congressional circles with considerable vigor.

THREE WARSHIPS ON DUTY.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The battleships Louisiana, New Hampshire and Michigan of the second division of the Atlantic fleet, which were to be relieved from duty in Mexican waters upon the arrival of the four vessels of the third division, were to-day formally ordered to remain at Vera Cruz. Orders were issued for the armored cruiser California to remain on Pacific Mexican waters, although original orders to the Pittsburg were to relieve the California.

AMERICAN TROOPS MOBILIZING.

Washington, Nov. 6.—It is said that the mobilization of an army corps of 200,000 men is to be proceeded with at once.

OTTAWA SMILES, WHILST OUR MEMBERS BEGIN WINTER VISITS

Lobbies of the Buildings on the Hill Take on Mid-Session Air

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—This week has seen a big influx of members to Ottawa, and the deserted lobbies have taken on quite a mid-session air. Amongst the members in the capital are Colonel J. A. Currie, Major Sam Sharpe, Hon. George Clare, Mr. W. [illegible], Mr. Gus Porter, Mr. H. B. Morphy, Mr. J. D. Taylor, Mr. R. Clements, Mr. Gerald White, Mr. W. Sharpe, Mr. Albert Sevigny and Mr. Geo. H. Bradbury. Most of the members are here on Departmental business.

All the members and particularly those from the West, express pleasure that the House will not be called until after January. They believe that the business will be transacted more quickly and that the House will be able to adjourn at the regular time, about June 1. They are looking forward to a lively and important session.

Smallpox in "Buildings."

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—Employes of the Department of Public Works are in a state of wild excitement to-day over the outbreak of a smallpox case. A messenger named Lynch, it seems, has had a case of smallpox in his family for several days, not knowing what the disease was. Now he is also down and has been removed to the Smallpox Hospital. As a great many people have been exposed, it has caused great excitement in the Department.

Major Sharpe's Bill Again.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—Major Sharpe, M.P., for North Ontario, who is in the capital to-day, states that the bill which he has introduced for a number of sessions to revise the Companies' Act will be reintroduced again this coming session. It is possible the Government may take over the measure but if not Major Sharpe will press the bill himself and hopes to see it made law this coming session.

The bill has already been introduced three times by Major Sharpe. It was sent on one session to a special committee where it was favorably considered but never got passed a first reading.

Hon. Chas. Murphy, former Secretary of State, was rather favorably inclined to the bill. The principal reform which Major Sharpe urges is more publicity in regard to incorporated companies. One provision calls for the publication of the annual returns of all companies incorporated by the Dominion. The Ontario law has such a clause but there is none in the Dominion Act.

FIRST ICE FATALITY AT SOUTH PORCUPINE

Sidney Smith, Eleven, Gives His Life to Save Girl Chum of Twelve Who Broke Through the Ice.

South Porcupine, Ont., Nov. 6.—Sidney Smith, a boy of 11, lost his life in Edwards Lake near here to-day, but rescued Mina Hogg, a girl who had broken through the ice on Edwards Lake.

Mina Hogg 12 years old, had gone skating on the thin ice of the lake and went through. Sidney Smith, her companion, lay flat on the ice and reached her, but she struggled so that the ice gave way and both sank. Others rushed to the rescue, and Mina was saved, but the boy never came up again and was drowned.

Toads Under the Harrow

London, Nov. 7.—In the Fortnightly Review, Col. S. H. P. Graves, under the heading "Canadian View of Home Rule," says: "I regret to say the hierarchy lets slip no opportunity of rendering the life of the Protestant farmer as unenviable as a toad under a harrow. The Roman Church in Quebec is a law unto herself in a good many things."

THE CATHOLIC REGISTER

Has Poor Opinion of Rev. E. J. Stobo and Protestants Generally.

The Catholic Register, the organ of the hierarchy in Ontario, does not seem to regard our Baptist and Methodist friends very highly. Here is what it says in this week's issue:

"Ulster regards Asquith's speech as an ultimatum," we read, and already they are practicing sprinting there in order to make a good get-away.

• • • •

The Methodist Times is discussing the question, "Should a Christian get rich?" We would say he might if he made it out of the Methodists.

• • • •

Lord Charles Beresford declares he will go to Ulster for war-purposes. Charley, of Curraghmore, should be cautious. He can never keep up with the Orangemen, for he is too fat to run, and some of his former tenants in Waterford may catch him and dip him in the Suir!

• • • •

The Baptists have been holding their Convention at Peterboro. Why they do not go to Coboconk is always a mystery to us. Our old friend, Stobo, whom we used to rhyme with hobo, was there. At least we think it is he, although there must be two of them, for the Baptists call him "Rev. E. J. Stobo, Sr." Just think of the performance of Stobo, Jr.! Well, there were all sorts of reports given, and we select this from them as most concerning Catholics.

CIVIL WAR IN ULSTER NOW CERTAIN

Situation Becoming More Alarming Daily, Says London Press

(Special to The Times.)

London, Nov. 7.—The situation in Ireland is becoming daily more alarming, and unless something unforeseen happens, civil war will no doubt break out. The London press are beginning to realize the gravity of the situation. It would be dangerous if the resistance movement was merely the work of political leaders. It is full of perilous possibilities when the demand for opposition by force springs from the democracy.

This is what is happening in Ulster. It is a people's battle which the leaders are fighting, and Sir Edward Carson and his lieutenants will lead so long as their great army of followers know they are carrying out the trust imposed upon them. Ulster would not tolerate any man who was weak on the cardinal points that the northern province will not have home rule.

Ulster is preparing to fight, and she will fight. There is abundant evidence of that. The suggestion that the people's opposition is now less emphatic and less sincere than it was twelve months ago, when the Covenant was signed is quite unwarranted. Opinion is infinitely stronger than it was a year ago, and men are more ready to back up their words by action.

ULSTER VOLUNTEERS NUMBER 60,000.

In September of last year the people thought the home rule would go before the country. Now they are convinced that the government, as the price of being kept in office, have pledged themselves that the electors shall not be consulted till the bill becomes an act. Therefore, the danger has become more imminent, and the firmness of the resolution not to submit is being shown by the growth of the volunteer force.

The Ulster volunteers have a strength of well over 60,000 men. The force is growing daily. When the farmers have got in the harvest they and the laborers will be drilling nightly, and by Christmas the volunteers will probably number 100,000 the figure on which the organization is planned.

Arms are already available for a considerable portion of the force. There are rifles in Ulster of a much more modern type than the Italian weapon, quantities of which have been seized. Competent men are giving instruction in the use of arms, and thousands of men have passed through squad and company drill, and are being trained in field exercises.

The material of which the force is composed is some of the finest in these islands. The "countryside" men are hardy, possess splendid physique, and have indomitable spirit. The workers on the land, and the artisans of Belfast and other industrial centres are just as determined, and there is a big sprinkling of lovers of field sports who will make ideal [illegible] troops. All aim at becoming efficient.

ARMY CORPS TO BEAT THEM.

These classes form the great proportion of Ulster's army. There are a few young and old men in the ranks, but these would be given duties outside the fighting line. The force is [illegible]. It is getting stronger and more efficient every day. It is ready to answer the leader's call. Indeed, it is anxiously waiting for the signal for action.

A military officer of high rank who has seen thousands of these volunteers on parade and has watched them in their drill halls, says that he placed a high value upon the military quality of these men. They could not, he said, meet and beat regular troops, but it would take an army corps to overcome their resistance.

TORONTO INSPECTOR IS CHARGED WITH INEXCUSABLE MISDEEDS

Joseph Goodman Accused of Taking Money for Favorable Reports

Toronto, Nov. 6.—Charged with having obtained money under false pretences from James Pema, restaurant keeper, of 685 Richmond street west, Joseph Goodman, a sanitary inspector in the employ of the Toronto Medical Health Department, appeared before Magistrate Kingsford, in the police court this morning. He was remanded without pleading or electing until the 10th, bail being allowed.

Goodman, who is employed at inspection work in the central district, was arrested by acting detective [illegible] yesterday afternoon, following complaints from various storekeepers that they had paid him sums for [illegible] certificates that their places were sanitary.

[illegible]

In his dealings with Pema, Goodman is alleged to have called at the former's restaurant to inspect it last Monday. He told Pema that the premises were unsanitary, but he would pass them for two dollars. This money, the police say, was paid over, and Wednesday Goodman went back and wanted $5 more. His arrest then followed.

Goodman was appointed to his position on high recommendations from [illegible] and Mr. J. [illegible].

GAMBLE CASE AWAITS ARRIVAL OF EXPERT

Provincial Analyst Now at Woodstock, is Required at Whitby

Whitby, Ont., Nov. 6.—The case against Stead Gamble, in which a true bill was returned in connection with the destruction of a scaffold rope by the use of sulphuric acid, is temporarily halted. H. H. Dewart, for the defence, is ready to go on, but says the Crown are held up by the absence of a material witness.

Col. Farewell, who is prosecuting, states they are waiting for Mr. Rogers, Provincial Analyst, who is attending the Boomer case at Woodstock. It was just possible at noon that the case might go on late this afternoon.

DUKE WILL SEE THEM

Mayor and Controller Foster Leave for Ottawa.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—A telegram was received at the Mayor's office confirming an appointment with the Governor-General, H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, for noon to-morrow, and Mayor Hocken and Controller Foster accordingly will leave to-night for the capital. They hope to secure the Duke's consent to open the National Live Stock, Dairy and Horticultural Exhibition on November 17th, and leave Ottawa on the return trip on Friday night.

PRIEST'S PAL GETS SEVEN-YEAR TERM

Schmidt's Startling Statement in Court Fails to Save the Bogus Doctor.

New York, Nov. 7.—Ernest A. Muret, bogus dentist, was sentenced to-day to serve seven years and six months in the Atlanta prison for having in his possession a complete outfit to be used in counterfeiting $20 bills. Muret was convicted yesterday. Muret was the companion of Rev. Hans Schmidt, slayer of Anna Aumuller.

"I made the money. I did it," shouted Schmidt, rising from the witness chair yesterday. "It's no person's business why I did it."

Schmidt is soon to be tried on the murder charge. His defence will be insanity.

"Muret had nothing to do with the murder of Anna Aumuller," continued the former priest.

Schmidt said that in order to conceal from his friend Muret his counterfeiting operating, he did much of his work in the vestry of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, where he was a priest.

DR. COOK WILL APPEAR ON VAUDEVILLE STAGE

New York, Nov. 7.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who gained considerable "fame" when he induced the King of Denmark to decorate him as the "discoverer" of the North Pole, has decided to go into vaudeville. He will appear at two Brooklyn houses for a stay of three days at each place.

MASON REPEATS HIS EGG-CUP STORY—SAYS HE SAW POISON

Englishman, Farm Hand, With Admitted Jail Record, is Crown's Star Witness

Woodstock, Ont., Nov. 6.—That he had seen Mrs. Fred Boomer, now on trial on a charge of murdering her husband, Frederick Boomer, pour something white out of a bottle labelled poison into an eggcup while preparing medicine for her husband, who lay ill upon a couch nearby, was the statement made at this morning's session of the Boomer murder trial by John Mason, a young English farm hand, the Crown's chief witness.

Mason declared that he had been sent across to Boomer's place on the first day of his illness by James Stuart, a neighbor, his mission there being to cut wood for Mrs. Boomer. While he was there Mrs. Boomer asked him to go and telephone for a doctor which he did.

He returned in a few moments and found Mrs. Boomer mixing something in an egg cup, holding in her hand a bottle labelled poison in large white letters with a red background. He asked her what she was doing with that bottle and the prisoner replied that the bottle had been left in the morning by Dr. Woolner, of Ayr. She declared she was mixing salts at the time.

Threw Bottle in Stove.

Later, she took the bottle, threw it in the stove and some minutes afterwards Boomer was given a dose of medicine from a teacup which he said was more bitter than any others he had been given.

Witness would not swear whether Mrs. Boomer had poured the contents of the egg cup into the teacup before giving Boomer his medicine. He was certain, however, that a short time after that Boomer's pains increased in consequence and it was necessary to hold him on the bed. During one of his bad spells Mrs. Boomer mentioned to Mason that her husband had wanted her to get some poison a few days previous to kill rats and she added, "Thank God I didn't get it, they would think I poisoned him."

RODNEY PIONEER IS DEAD; BORN 1810

St. Thomas, Nov. 6.—Timothy Mellon, of Rodney, aged 103, died at his home last night. He was born in Donegal, Ireland, in 1810, came to Canada when 20 years old, lived in Quebec and in New York State, and later engaged in the lumber trade in the vicinity of Kingston. He had lived in Elgin County since 1865. Three sons survive, Joseph of Chicago, Patrick of Windsor, and Charles and a daughter, Mrs. Owen Coleman, live in Aldborough.

TO STOP INJURIOUS PRACTICES TO PAVEMENTS AND SIDEWALKS

Burning Leaves Against Face of Sidewalks Destroys the Cement—Flooding of Streets With Gasoline and Oil From Outside Supply Tanks Injures Face of Pavement—Citizens Will be Warned

The City Board of Works met in regular weekly session last night, Chairman Ald. Buller presiding. There were also present Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Aldermen Gillespie, McIntyre, Johnston and City Engineer Parsons.

Tenders for Snow Ploughing.

The City Engineer advised that tenders for snow ploughing should be advertised for at once. This suggestion was adopted. The districts will be practically the same as last year.

Will Hold City Responsible.

Mr. Wm. Madill's letter, saying that, owing to the lowness of the curb at the southwest corner of George and Hunter streets, he would hold the city responsible should water overflow the sidewalk into his premises.

There are three gratings at this point level with the sidewalk, to admit light into Mr. Madill's cellar, and the board inclined to the opinion that these gratings should be replaced with prism glass at the expense of the owners of the building.

The clerk was instructed to advise both Mr. Madill and the Toronto Loan and Savings Co. that the gratings in question must be replaced with prism glass, at the owner's expense, and under the supervision of the City Engineer, otherwise the city will fill the openings up.

On advice of Engineer Parsons, the city will take steps to enforce agreements, giving the city release from responsibility in the case of openings in and excavations under sidewalks. In the case of excavations provisions must be made for conduits, which will be needed in the near future.

In this connection an old by-law governs the construction of traps and doors to cellars, which traps and doors must not encroach upon the sidewalk.

To Protect Pavement and Sidewalks.

Ald. Buller drew attention to the fact that he had noticed on Chambers street, where a tar pot had been used for roofing purposes, the concrete pavement was burnt through several inches. Citizens should be cautioned against such practices. Chairman Ald. Buller also pointed out that the burning of leaves against the face of sidewalks destroyed the concrete.

City Engineer Parsons concurred in Ald. Buller's contention and added that the leaking of oil and gasoline on the street from outside supply tanks will injure the face of the new pavements. This must be stopped.

A by-law will be prepared to prohibit the above practices.

Street Cleaning.

The City Engineer and Chairman will devise a systematic method for keeping the new pavement clean.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Fine and a little milder.

Rabbits and Other Animals on the Southwestern Desert Have Never Been Known to Drink.

A curious fact in connection with animal life on the deserts of the southwest is that rabbits, quail, [illegible], deer, antelope, the mountain sheep, and any number of reptiles and insects, live at great distances from visible water. [illegible] [illegible]

one summer that was beyond all conception by an easterner. The rabbits were so bold that they would come in before sundown. The irrigation ditches maintained by this man contained the only water to be found for leagues. He was irrigating sixty acres alone, and was up at daylight and on the ground till dark, when rabbits by the dozen were trying to get at the alfalfa; but, during the three months of extreme heat that then prevailed, when rabbits poured in on him from the dry hills, he declares that never was one of them seen to touch the water.—The Sunday Magazine.

Paper and Ink For Money

To manufacture and print the paper money of Canada it is necessary to import materials from various parts of the world. A part of the paper fiber, for instance, is linen rag from the Orient. The silk that furnishes the strands that are run through the paper as a safeguard against counterfeiting comes from China or from Italy. The blue ink contains cobalt from Canada or Germany. The black ink is said to be made at Niagara Falls from acetylene gas smoke, and the greater part of the green ink is made with white zinc sulphate, the product of German industry. The red is derived from a pigment imported from Central America.

A REMARKABLE TRIBUTE

Unstinted Praise For John Bull and His Sons From Unusual Source

Commenting upon the absence of warships and armed men along the boundary between Canada and the United States, the Philadelphia North American published a remarkable article, well worthy of being quoted at considerable length.

"Perhaps history does not present such another case," says the writer, "of two peoples under separate sovereignties, with no purpose or design of governmental unity or even of formal treaty, and yet with so universal a feeling of oneness. No American holds a Canadian to be a foreigner. No Canadian looks upon an American as alien.

"Instead of a feeling of distrust, because we are so rich and populous and powerful, the Canadian feels in that very fact his greatest sense of security; next to the security he places in his own manly self-reliance—a feeling that Americans can understand and respect. They share its inspiration as they shared its common source. For we know that the foundations of the American people and the American republic were laid by a stream of pioneers that poured from those Teuto-Celtic islands of which England is the largest factor.

"What a marvel has been this England! For nearly a thousand years her shores have been inviolate from the foot of an invader, while all the rest of Europe has been crimson-washed in paths of blood. With an inexorable purpose unparalleled since the Romans marked the earth for their own, the sons of England have driven towards the outer marches of the world.

"Eastward and westward has gone their genius for empire. It subdued the virgin forests and the trackless prairies of North America, and with equal assurance it 'knit up the ravelled sleave' of ancient civilizations and imposed order on the chaotic despotisms of India. Then, with undiminished vigor, it turned to the jungles of Africa and let light into the remotest corners of the Dark Continent.

"Wherever it has gone it has carried law and has held aloft the ideal of liberty. Freedom of conscience is not an English invention. But out of England have come the men who have spread it over the face of the earth.

"Her parliament is the mother of representative government, and to-day remains the most responsible and the most responsive government on the face of the earth—with the possible exceptions of those improved governments set up in the newer Englands beyond the seas.

"Her language is the vehicle of poetry unmatched since the golden days of Greece. Her Cromwell and Marlborough are the nearest rivals for the crown of the greatest soldier of the modern world. Her sailors, from Drake to Nelson, were on the sea for 300 years what Napoleon was on the land for 15. Her mighty navy is now the most powerful single influence for peace in all the world.

"Back of all this is the firm unyielding English character, with its love for order, its respect for law, its intense devotion to duty, its indomitable will to do what is to be done, its quickness to know the rights of man, and its unyielding courage to maintain them."

Anti-Boxing Agitation

Fred Welsh, the light-weight champion of the world, gave a boxing exhibition at the Carnarvon Pavilion to an audience which numbered about 2,000. The nature of the exhibition had provided much adverse criticism among Nonconformist leaders in the town, and, had time permitted, an endeavor would doubtless have been made to put a stop to it. The agitation may lead to county council candidates being asked to make the exclusion of boxing exhibitions a condition of granting theatrical licenses.

Our Point of View

Good morning! Have you become a subscriber to The Times yet?

This is the season when the country boy's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of squirrel hunting.

One of the most astounding things in a man's life is when he discovers that his children are old enough to think for themselves.

A Socialist fisherman defeated the speaker of the Newfoundland parliament in the recent elections. There seems to be better luck for political fishermen in Newfoundland than for the political Fishers of Canada.

Open-air winter schools are to be tried in Canada. If they succeed perhaps the children will come home and teach their parents that fresh air in the houses during winter is not really deadly.

Four more municipalities are now added to the list in which Local Option contests are now on. They are the towns of Niagara-on-the-Lake, and Paris and the townships of Adjala and Lancaster. This makes a total of fifty-two municipalities now preparing for voting on January 5th.

DOMINION AND PROVINCES NOW CO-OPERATING.

The inter-provincial conference of Premiers was a more harmonious gathering than usual. In the past these have generally resulted in vigorous clashes between the Provinces and the Dominion. However, the Borden Government from the first has advocated a policy of co-operation between the Dominion and Provincial authorities, and in its Aid to Agriculture Bill, Highways Act, and other ways, has aimed to bring more harmony between the two authorities.

One outcome of this policy has been seen in the peaceful character of the present policy. Premier Borden in addressing the gathering emphasized the value of such conferences and suggested that every ten years the Dominion and the Provinces come together for the financial arrangements.

PORTUGAL PALPITATING.

The little republic of Portugal seems like a teakettle of hot water which may at any time blow the lid off. There are frequent reports of trouble. The censor holds back news of what is going on, but almost every month brings report of new disturbances. The latest that has come to light with respect to Portugal is that in at least two of the provinces a revolution is already well organized with no [illegible] on the part of the authorities.

It has been known that ever since the expulsion of King Manuel they who succeeded in the revolution have been helping themselves to the revenue of the country, and no doubt have been moving some of it out of reach against the day when they shall be deprived of power.

It may be that Portugal gets as good government as she deserves. Her people, being Romanists, show a very high rate of illiteracy, though they have the virtue of a sturdy patriotism and a determination not to become again a part of the kingdom of Spain.

If King Manuel were a man instead of a monkey or a social parasite, he might have a chance to return to his kingdom and be a real ruler. When one considers what Alfonso is doing for Spain and considers what one of like loyalty to his people and devotion to business and freedom from folly could do for Portugal, he sees that Manuel himself is a hopeless proposition.

Probably the only way out for Portugal consists in education and in the training of her citizens in Protestant school of thought, to better regard for law and higher respect for person and property rights than they have displayed heretofore.

A Bad Heart,
Its Cause and Cure

Many, Firmly Convinced They Are Dying of Heart Trouble, Have Often the Strongest Hearts.

Sometimes you wake up at night, heart throbbing like a steam engine. Your breathing is short and lingering; pains shoot through the chest and abdomen, and cause horrible anxiety.

Your trouble isn't with the heart at all. These sensations are the outcome of indigestion, which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart.

Just read what happened to Isaac Mallory, of Belle River, Ont.:

"Three months ago I was a weak, sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach, I had sour risings and indigestion. At night I would often waken with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation.

"I consulted my doctor and used remedies that my friends advised

NOTHING HELPED.

"One day I received a sample of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and my cure commenced. To-day I have a vigorous appetite, strong heart action and no sign of indigestion. I feel younger and healthier than ever before."

Your druggist or storekeeper sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

LOOK!

If you were told of a new discovery for the treatment of coughs, colds and bronchitis, as certain in its action on all chest troubles as anti-toxin is on diphtheria, or vaccination on small-pox, wouldn't you feel like giving it a trial? Especially if you could try it for fifty cents!

Peps is the discovery!

Peps are little tablets, neatly wrapped in air and germ-proof silver foil. They contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapour, and are at once breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the capillaries and tiny air sacs in the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing.

Peps are entirely distinct from the old fashioned liquid cough cures, which are merely swallowed into the stomach, and never reach the lungs. Peps treatment of coughs and colds is direct treatment.

If you have not yet tried Peps, cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps—50c. box.

AN OPEN CHALLENGE

Rev. James Rollins Out With An Earnest Endeavor to Ameliorate Conditions Said to Exist Here.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—For a considerable time rumors have been abroad regarding immorality in our city. There have been numerous anonymous letters on the subject, and of late these letters have increased in number and in outspokenness. Since it became known that the laymen of the city were organizing an aggressive missionary campaign, several of these letters have taken a slap at the movement. Is anything to be gained by this? Let us do both. Let the Laymen's Missionary Congress and banquet be the success it deserves to be. Let us get to the bottom of what lies behind the rumors of immorality and the anonymous letters and the editorials—for there have been editorials. To this end, I challenge the author of the letter signed "One Who Knows," and I challenge all who know facts bearing on the said immorality of this city, to meet me at St. Andrew's Manse, beside St. Andrew's Church, corner Rubidge and Brock streets, Friday evening of this week to organize, to plan together further information and to keep on the job until conditions are vastly changed. If the rumors are not true, they are a crime against the city. If they are true, the city should be cleaned up. I am willing to take any place on the job no matter how inconspicuous it may be. Remember the place, St. Andrew's Manse, and the time, Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Faithfully yours,
JAMES ROLLINS.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

CANADIAN GIRLS OF EAST AND WEST

Will They Agree With the Description Given of Them in English Paper?

The Western girl resembles the wild rose of the open field; the Eastern girl is no hot house bloom, but she is pruned and potted to a staid perfection you miss (and bless Heaven for) when you meet the Western girl. The latter, says a writer in Canada, is a charming Diana; limb free, wearing an air of calm assurance—an unaffected air it is—riding to hounds, golfing, tennis, racquet swinging as she passes over the prairie trails, or, under emergency, sitting the binder in the grain field, and this just as gracefully as she sits at the piano in the drawing-room. The Western girl goes to public school, graduating in the ologies and the domestic arts at the same time. She studies French and drawing; painting and music are not "fads" with her; she will discuss Browning and Shakespeare with you while engaged in mending the household linen, and that with neither an insipid nor yet an inane air.

She holds sound opinions on all subjects, yet she never thinks of intruding herself or her opinions into public life. She controls the voter not the vote!

Trained to wait upon herself, she possesses the great virtue of adaptability, and if she becomes a wage-earner (as she usually does) you find her accepting the responsibilities attached to whatever she takes in hand; she finds no shame in her work, she dignifies whatever she undertakes. Accomplishments to the Western girl have real meaning; she becomes [illegible]; she does not dabble in art, but she becomes an adept in art.

The Eastern girl is somewhat proud as she is passive; but, like her Western sister, she is wholesome in heart and mind. She, too, is the embodiment of mental and physical strength, verging (her critics say) at times upon the "bel esprit." The chief characteristic of both types is cheerfulness, and this, combined with humor, gives both the charm they are allowed to possess.

In the sports it is the Canadienne holds the records, and all the while she is domesticated in high degree. She has so many distinguishing characteristics that, respecting them, you become bewildered; you see her in many lights, many [illegible], but all combining to make her what she is—clever, sensible and [illegible] [illegible].

WOMEN USE THEIR VOTES IN ILLINOIS SALOON CONTEST

Suffragists Seize Opportunity Under Township Unit Local Option Law

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Women swarmed to the polls yesterday in twenty-five Illinois municipalities, and with the single exception of Duquoin, dealt savagely with saloons. It was their first chance to vote directly on the saloon question under the township unit local option law, as permitted by the statutory suffrage act passed by the last legislature.

Incomplete reports from the territory affected, chiefly in the river counties in the extreme southern part of the state, show the women were ready to vote with the opening of the polls and that they were opposed to saloons in about the ratio of four to one.

The four most important cities affected by the voting were Jacksonville, Beardstown, Duquoin, and Petersburg. Duquoin, now with saloons, keeps them by a majority of 350. The women vote was almost an even break, with 1,200 of them voting. This was the central point of the southern Illinois battling.

Ullin Women Oust Saloons.

Ullin, in Pulaski county, voted out eight saloons, by a majority of 40, with two hundred women voting. The women are marked up as responsible for the result.

Virginia, capital of Cass county, remained dry by 549. Of 395 women voting, not one voted wet.

A BRIGHT GERMAN PAINTS WESTERN CANADIAN PICTURES

Articles Designed to Check Immigration Speak of Easy Dollar-making

London, Nov. 6.—An interesting sequel to the Canadian Pacific difficulty in Austria is the publication by the semi-official Berlin journal, Lokal Anzeiger, of a series of articles designed to check German and other continental immigration to Canada. The writer has just returned from several months in Canada, and writes a picturesque exaggeration about blizzards and snowstorms, and describes the west as a land of hyper-speculation and booms.

The chief product of many Canadian towns is persuasive printed matter.

He presents an astonishingly ludicrous picture of Canadians that he met in Canadian Pacific first-class sleepers, mostly powerful, bronzed men, but whose chins had not seen a razor for days, with boots in which they put their silk socks and baity legs, not brushed for weeks.

Diamonds on Stonny Flats.

Diamonds glittered on a dingy peasant's fist, and around his feet were spittoons, each in circles of uncleanliness.

No one apologized if another man's trousers took the place of a spittoon. The Canadian's clothes were of finest material, but most slovenly.

Magnificent travelling trunks belonged to men who looked as if they had crossed the ocean two or three decades ago with one colored handkerchief as their sole possession.

Politics and dollar-making were the chief topics of conversation.

The very [illegible] of the articles are [illegible] to defeat their purpose, [illegible] seeing the prospect of Canadian [illegible], they [illegible] [illegible] out to the [illegible] of European Germans.

FAITH AND HOPE.

O, don't be sorrowful, darling,
Now don't be sorrowful, pray;
For, taking the year together, my dear,
There isn't more night than day.
It's rainy weather, my loved one;
Time's wheels they heavily run;
But taking the year together, my dear,
There isn't more cloud than sun.

We're old folks now, companion—
Our heads they are growing gray;
But taking the year all round, my dear,
You always will find the May.
We've had our May, my darling,
And our roses long ago;
And the time of the year is come, my dear,
For the long, dark nights and the snow.

But God is God, my faithful,
Of night as well as of day;
And we feel and know that we can go
Where'er he leads the way.
Aye, God of night, my darling;

-- KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED --

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its features and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this news through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

He feels it is part of his servic to keep the public informed.

Peterboro's Brightest and Best Newspaper

Non-Attendance Sugbear

Dr. Willis, at an inquest at Sohem Combe, on the nine-year-old daughter of a laborer stated that the child, although suffering from acute tuberculosis, from which she died, was kept by her parents at school until the day before her death, owing to the fear of the school authorities summoning them for her non-attendance. He knew of many instances of people being thus frightened, and considered something should be done to prevent evils resulting from this. The jury and coroner agreed, and urged that attendance officers should rather explain how the services of doctors could be obtained free. The doctor, coroner, and jury gave the parents their fees.

INTERESTING JOTTINGS

Philologists have listed 3,424 languages and dialects.

German pencil factories turn out about 3,000,000 gross annually.

Pneumatic boxing gloves have been patented by a Philadelphia sporting man.

Extensive deposits of high grade coal have been discovered in Southern Nigeria.

Pressing down a knob mounted in the stem of a new alarm clock shuts off the alarm.

French Equatorial Africa is about three times the size of the mother country and has a population of nearly 4,000,000.

With a specially designed galvanized iron incubator a California man uses a hot spring on his farm to hatch chickens.

Bolts and nuts in which steel balls are introduced between the threads to make them run easier are a French invention.

Lacking in Knowledge

Nineteen young Englishmen arrived in New York during one week bound for the Canadian west. Each one of them was armed with pistols and bowie knives.

Does Not Eat or Talk

A machine has been perfected which pours any dry powder into a paper bag, folds the bag, makes a paper box and places bag and a folded circular within it, pastes on a label and seals the box at a rate of 1,800 boxes an hour.

Window Smasher at 90

At Aberdeen, Isabella Cameron was charged with begging, and also with having smashed a shop window with a walking-stick on being refused assistance. She said she was ninety years of age, and was walking to Inverness. She could only walk a very short distance every day. She was allowed to go on her way.

POSTED IN THE DOCK

Vagaries of Persian Tongue Responsible For Lost Letters

The difficulties of the Post Office in the Persian Gulf are aggravated by the Persian language, which invests the word "poost," as colloquially pronounced, with considerable ambiguity of meaning.

"Poos" means a dock or anchorage; "poost" signifies hides, skins, or leather, and is also the term for the post-office. On the coast the final "t" is dropped, and "poos" therefore has to do duty in three capacities.

A merchant at Lings complained that his letters were being lost, and a servant was asked what he had been doing with them.

"The first week," was the reply, "when you told me to carry the letters to the poost I went to the shoemaker's and was putting them among the poost (meaning leather and skins) but the man said I should carry them to the Poos-e-Buzurg (meaning the big or British post-office). Then I took them to the Poose Buzurg (big dock) and threw them in. The first time there was plenty of water, but the next week the water was low, and I had to dig a hole in the sand for them."

"I am the Seventh Redeemer"

At the inquest at Darlington on Lottie Scott, a little girl, whose head was smashed in with the butt-end of a gun, the jury returned a verdict of "Wilful murder" against Walter Scott, her father. The mother said that just before committing the deed her husband said, "I am the seventh redeemer of the world, and have to be hanged."

FAMOUS REFEREE

Corri Needed the Wisdom of a Solomon on One Occasion

Best known of all referees is Eugene Corri, the great English arbitrator of boxing, whose name is as familiar to followers of the game on this side of the Atlantic as it is across the water. Corri is the last word in the sport in England and referees all the bouts at the National Sporting club.

"I have had 'hot times' in the ring frequently," said Corri to a newspaper man when discussing ring affairs in general and the refereeing angle in particular. "Perhaps the most unpleasant moment and the one requiring the quickest action of mind was when two young fellows were fighting at the old club in London, some years ago. There was a great deal of betting on the outcome. I don't remember the names of the boxers, but they were called Jack and Bill. They had been fighting like two wildcats for 12 rounds and it was a toss-up as to which had the better of it.

First one would score a knockdown and then the other. The crowd was wild with excitement and the betting continued furious. In the thirteenth, Jack began to pile up points and had away the best of it. I did not see how the fight could go another round.

"The climax came in the fourteenth. They rushed and let go rights at the same time. Both landed on the point of the jaw and both went to the floor for the count of 10.

"The excitement was of the wildest, the crowd demanding a draw, but when the men were brought to their senses, I gave the decision to the one who was leading on points at the time of the double knockout."

Water Baseball

Water baseball is a new game originated by R. C. Brennan, president of the American Life Saving Society. The rules are very similar to those governing regular baseball. The battery and basemen are perched on floating islands, while the basemen and fielders support themselves by clinging to cork floats. The fielders are permitted to either throw or swim with the ball while attempting to catch a "runner."

Strange Freak of Expansion

The spire of an old church in England has been twisted into an almost spiral form by the unequal contraction and expansion of the lead and wood of which it is constructed.

Brazil Wants Cotton

An expert from the United States was engaged by the Brazilian government to conduct experiments by which that country hopes to increase its cotton crop.

EGGS ON THE FARM

Indifference the Cause of Great Waste in Eggs

Every year there is a loss of millions of dollars in bad eggs, the direct result of haphazard methods of production, marketing and shipping which are now in vogue. The greatest part of this loss is due mainly to ignorance or indifference on the part of the farmer and producer, and only a small part is caused by carelessness on the part of the buyer and shipper.

Exhaustive tests emphasized the fact that infertile eggs keep better than fertile. One-third of the annual loss in eggs is due to "blood rings." A blood ring is caused by the development and subsequent death of the embryo of a fertile egg, no matter how long it may be subjected to heat. Unless cooled at once and kept cool a fertile egg will spoil in hot weather almost as quickly as raw milk.

Some of the loss due to "rots" and "spots" is caused by contamination in the nest, and is largely, if not entirely, preventable.

Among the results of the tests it was found that:—

Eggs kept in underground cellars proved much better in quality than those kept under other conditions.

Taking the season as a whole, an unheated room in a dwelling is not conducive to good quality in eggs.

During the hot summer months the conditions surrounding the wet nest, the nest in the straw stack, or under the corn crib, and the stolen nest, as well as the keeping of eggs in the house, favor the production of spots, blood rings and rots.

Infertile eggs, regardless of where they may be kept, are much more resistant to deterioration than fertile.

Two-thirds of the total loss in fertile and infertile eggs takes place on the farm. The basic factors responsible for this condition are the haphazard methods of poultry management on the farm.

The results of all the experimental work point to the fact that the production of the infertile egg is the greatest asset in the attempt to produce high quality market eggs during hot weather.

To assure a high-quality of product and prevent in a large measure the loss experienced in egg production producers would do well to observe the following five simple rules:—

1. Give the hens clean nests.
2. Gather eggs at least once daily.
3. Keep eggs in a cool, dry place.
4. Market eggs at least twice a week.
5. Kill or sell all mature male birds as soon as the hatching season closes.

"A GIGANTIC EEL"

Olympic Swimming Champion Attacked While Training

A cable from Honolulu states that Kahanamoku, the famous Sandwich Islands swimmer and the winner of the 100 metres swim at the Olympic Games, had a narrow escape from death while training. Kahanamoku was dragged under water by what is described as a gigantic eel, and did not reappear for three minutes. In his struggles to escape Kahanamoku lost some of his fingers.

SCIENTISTS HOPE TO HARNESS THE MOON

Power Now Wasted Could be Put to Work Generating Electrical Energy

There is really no reason why the inhabitants of the earth should do any work at all. The moon would do all the jobs which mankind demands—if we could only harness her. Scientists are already engaged on the solution of this problem. Day after day and night after night uncountable units of power are wasted because the brain of man has not yet devised a scheme for utilizing the terrific motive activity of the moon's "pull" on the tides. Incredible quantities of sea-water are piled up and withdrawn twice every lunar day (a lunar day is about twenty-four hours and fifty minutes), and if the lift and fall of this water could be caught and translated into energy, all the mills in the world could be driven without our burning an ounce of coal, all the electric light could be produced, all the railroads run, all the trolleys, all the subways, all the electric automobiles, all the factories, housewives' sewing-machines, and other things of the sort, would be operated, with nothing but a little attention from mechanics.

Plans have been mooted for the utilization of the tides in England. The idea is to build enormous docks or basins, off the Bristol Channel, where the sea is compressed into narrow confines and the tides are consequently high. The tide would flow up into these basins twice a day—billions of tons of water—but it could only escape through tunnels containing turbines similar to those at Niagara. There is no reason why, in time, the tide at the mouth of the Bristol Channel should not thus work the street cars of London.

Technical difficulties still stand in the way, but Mr. William Snee, an inventor, built a model machine to prove that these are surmountable. In his model, paddles give to the water in a tank a movement imitating, exactly, that of the ocean's tides, the water passing through a series of receptacles and round a horizontal under-wheel. In Italy another inventor, Captain Pirandello, is working on similar lines, but his machine is designed to utilize and store up only the power of the waves and not that of the tide. The motive power is supplied by a buoy which rests on the surface of the water, and, as that surface undulates, the buoy works machinery which creates electricity.

SALT AND GOOD LOOKS

German Physician Advises its Use to Whiten Skin

According to a German physician, salt taken with food has a whitening effect on the skin. This is accounted for by the fact that it is a compound containing the powerful bleaching agent, chlorine. At any rate, it is undoubted that white people eat much more common salt than dark races.

Fruit, on the other hand, darkens the skin, because it contains salts of manganese.

Besides whitening the skin it is probable that abundance of salt in the diet makes the face and the whole body plump. When a person eats salt freely the result is that the blood, skin, muscles, etc., retain a great quantity of fluid. Hence the effect on the face would be to make it full and rounded.

But it should be eaten with judgment and moderation. If a young girl eats a large quantity of salt and makes her face plump, then the skin is stretched and, as she grows older and thinner, wrinkles appear. But if she takes a saltless diet while young, then when the wrinkles come she should be able to dispense them by adding salt to her diet.

KAISER'S WAR CHEST CAREFULLY GUARDED

Many Millions of Dollars Locked up in Tower—Carefully Counted Yearly

We hear much of the perfection of the German military organization, especially of its preparedness for war but little of what is perhaps its most extraordinary feature—namely, the Imperial War Funds. The Kaiser's war chest is kept in the Julius Tower at Spandau. This fund was reserved from the French indemnity payment, and has so been increased that it now amounts to something like one hundred and twenty millions of dollars.

The Kaiser's war fund is reported to be kept in iron chests inscribed with the names and addresses of commanders of army corps and admirals of fleets. These packages would be immediately despatched to the commanders named in the event of war. Special sums have been set aside for commanders on the frontier in the vicinity of the outbreak of hostilities. There are also set aside special sums to be used for special purposes, such as the secret service. It is said that for the most part this treasure consists of ten and twenty mark pieces, but that there are, however, quantities of coins of all the great powers, principally France, Great Britain and Russia.

At stated times during the year all this treasure is opened, weighed and counted by army officers specially detailed by the emperor from all parts of Germany. It is a feature of the count that prior thereto these officers must give their word of honor that they do not know one another. Furthermore, although the war funds are in charge of a special officer at the tower, he is not always advised of the proceedings beforehand. In such event, it is only when the Kaiser's special deputies have finished their task that this officer is called to check up the accounts.

The defence of the tower is entrusted to the Fourth Grenadier Regiment and a battery of the Third Grenadiers. There is also stationed within the citadel the Third Train Battalion, which is ever ready to conduct the war treasure to the various destinations assigned it.

At irregular hours of the night the interior of the tower is carefully searched for thieves. During this search the sentinels hold their arms ready to shoot any suspected person. At the very bottom of the tower, on the water level, there is a guard room, the inmates of which are detailed to prevent the possibility of robbers gaining entrance to the secret crypts by means of tunnels. Then there is a second guard room behind the only entrance door. The purpose of this is to defend the entrance and staircase leading to the vaults.

Then, too, before each of the vaults sentinels are posted and other sentinels are constantly passing up and down the staircase. There is a third guard room under the roof, with lookouts in all directions.

SCRATCHES ON HORSES

Common Annoyance That Can be Prevented by Proper Precautions

Scratches, also called cracked heels, or mud-fever, can be prevented by careful stable management. Cases are rarely met with in well kept horses, but are often seen in dirty, poorly drained stables. Dryness and cleanliness of the floor of the stall are the two most important factors in the prevention of scratches.

Horses should not be allowed to stand in piles of manure and decomposing urine. These irritate and inflame the thin skin in the fold of the ankle, just below the fetlock. The skin then becomes thickened, due to the inflammation, and breaks or cracks in it appear and if allowed to gradually grow worse. The affected area grows larger, the cracks become deeper, and the animal is in an unsightly and painful condition.

Owners of horses can prevent the trouble in the majority of cases by doing two things. Do not allow manure to accumulate behind your horses, and see that your stalls will drain away promptly. If your horses show any tendency toward the condition, apply a small amount of carbolated vaseline, benzoinated lard, or zinc ointment, well rubbed into the affected parts. These remedies will soften the skin and protect it from external moisture and irritating substances. During wet weather, or when the roads and streets are muddy or slushy, extra precautions should be taken to prevent the condition. Do not wash cracked heels, as water and rubbing only aggravates the condition.—Dr. H. Preston Hoskins.

A SULTAN'S VIEWS

He Thought the Lot of Western Husbands Must be Lamentable

Another selection of chapters from the diary of Abdul Hamid, appears in the The Review Nord und Sud giving his views on women. The ex-Sultan of Turkey says: "The countless divorces and scandals in Europe and America show that many men in those countries incline to polygamy. The west has an entire misapprehension regarding the position of women in Turkey. Even though woman is fortunately debarred from taking a part in Turkish public life, and is compelled to leave everything to men she at any rate is an autocrat at home. As I observe the stern imperious facts regarding western women a comparison with them easily favors our women. Why do the people of the west criticize our women? Which is more sacrificing or more beautiful, the Oriental woman or the European? In Turkey woman belongs to her home, belongs to a man alone; in Europe she has too many liberties to remain womanly. If only half one reads in the newspapers and books about western women be true then the lot of the men there must be truly lamentable."

BABEL OF WORSHIP

City of Jerusalem Has Variety of Active Members of Every Faith

Conditions of worship in Jerusalem to-day are peculiar, according to Thomas E. Green, who contributes an article on the subject to The Century Magazine. No city on earth, he asserts, has such a tumult of devotion, such a confusion of worship as the "City of Peace." In many ways it is essential that there should be all of the great substantial hospices, capable of sheltering and caring for the multitude of pilgrims who still, as in the ancient days, come from afar to worship in Jerusalem. They come from every nation in Europe, mostly in comparative poverty, making their toilsome way by personal exertion and sacrifice.

The roads leading from seaports are thronged with pilgrims, trudging their dusty way, sleeping beside the highway or in rude shelters erected for them, all with their faces set steadfastly toward Jerusalem. For these there must be rest and shelter and food, for which reason in the Holy City and at neighboring shrines huge caravanseries are sustained by the various national churches. More elaborate buildings, like modern hotels, exist for those who come upon a pious pilgrimage with ample means.

Marriage Sequel

At Mohill a young man named Edward Smyth, of [illegible], Drumlish, was returned for trial, on bail, charged with shooting at and wounding his father Terence Smyth. The father's deposition was to the effect that he went to bed when he heard his son coming home on the car drunk from Longford. The son went upstairs, told him he had got married and that he and his wife would be the "bosses" there, and then pulled him out on the bedroom floor. Witness ran downstairs. His son followed him into the kitchen and putting two cartridges into a double-barrelled gun, placed it under his arm, saying he would do for him. The gun went off then, and the charge went between witness's legs, the shot entering his flesh.

Born in the Trade

In the case of a Tonypandy milk vendor summoned at Ystrad for selling milk deficient in butter fat, a witness was asked if the defendant had delivered milk for twenty-six years. Inspector J. Davies: "He is only twenty-five." Defendant: "I am twenty-nine." The Magistrate: "Well, we will say he was born in the trade. Most infants have to do with milk pretty early in their careers."

Aged Woman's Tragic Death

Mrs. Hamilton, the eighty-year-old wife of a Crimean veteran, at Portland, died as the result of burns. She was standing in front of the fire in her bedroom, when a candle set fire to the upper part of her flannelette nightdress. In her fright she turned round rapidly, and the back of the nightdress also caught fire. She was instantly enveloped in flames.

Refused to be a Councillor

Mr. A. Jasper, who has been elected to the Worcestershire County Council as representative of the Bromsgrove division, wrote to that body saying that he had been elected without his consent and declined to sit, saying he would rather pay the statutory fine.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

WELLAND SHIP CANAL.
Section No. 5.
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 5, Welland Ship Canal," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, November 18th, 1913.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Engineer in Charge, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Department on the payment of the sum of fifty dollars. To bona fide tenderers this amount will be refunded upon the return of the above in good condition.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $100,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Degrees for Famous Men

Mr. Thomas Hardy, the novelist; Mr. J. S. Sargent, R.A.; Sir James Murray, editor of the Oxford English Dictionary; Professor Wagner, Berlin, the economist; Vice-Admiral Sir Wilmot Fawkes, formerly commanding the Australian station; and Sir Frederick Kenyon, principal librarian of the British Museum, are included in a list of Cambridge honorary degrees.

A Tiny Volume

A copy of one of the smallest books ever published—the "English Bijou Almanac" for 1838 was sold at Sotheby's for $22.00. It measures three-quarters of an inch by five-eighths, and is an eighth of an inch in thickness. It can only be read with a magnifying glass. It is illustrated, and contains portraits of William IV., Queen Victoria, Mozart and Sir Walter Scott.

Strolling Musician's Grave

A movement is on foot in Girvan to erect a memorial to William Jackson, the composer of the music to the songs "The Bonnie Lass of Ballochmyle" and the "Dear Little Shamrock." Jackson was a musical genius, but like many other men of his calibre fell on evil days. During the last years of his life he earned a precarious living as a strolling musician. Coming to Girvan in that capacity many years ago he was seized with illness and died very suddenly.

Many Flowers Poisonous

Flowers of the jonquil, white hyacinth and snowdrop all possess a poisonous nature, the narcissus being also particularly deadly, so much, indeed, that to chew a small scrap of one of the bulbs may result fatally, while the juice of the leaves is an emetic. The berries of the yew have killed many persons, and it is known nowadays that it is not safe to eat many peach pips or cherry kernels at once. The lobelias are all dangerous. Lady's slipper poisons in the same manner as does poison ivy. The bulbs seem to be the most harmful. Lilies of the valley are also dangerous. There is enough opium in the poppies to be [illegible] and the autumn crocus, if the [illegible] are chewed, causes vomiting and purging. The leaves and flowers of the oleander are deadly, and the bark of the catalpa tree is very mischievous; the water dropwort, when not in flower, resembles celery and is virulent.

Tomato Sandwiches

A delicious luncheon sandwich is made with tomatoes for a filling. Slice the tomato, spread generously with mayonnaise and slip between the slices of buttered bread just before serving.

A Simple Dessert

A simple and quickly made dessert is to pour a plain boiled custard, very cold, over fresh berries, sliced peaches or [illegible].

TRAINER OF STARS IN CONNIE MACK

Leader of Athletics Always Has His Eyes on the Future and on Young Players

There is an expression, "Connie Mack luck." It is shouted whenever Connie brings out a new star. It isn't luck. It's hard work. It's perseverance. It is careful selection of players and patient teaching. It is prudent handling of the raw material. It is weeks, months, years of preparation. It is a constant, never ending effort to be prepared always for the day when a star begins to go back.

Mack develops his own players. He gets them very young, usually out of high schools or colleges. He aims to secure them before they have had baseball habits, that is, false or incorrect methods in batting, throwing, pitching, etc.

CONNIE MACK
as he looks on the foul line

Mack first watches a lad's physical faults. He tries to correct them. If the youngster will not listen to advice off the team he goes. His ticket to a minor league city reads only one way. Only one man in 11 years ever came back to the Athletics. This was Bris Lord.

After testing a player of his [illegible] qualities, Connie starts to train him physically and mentally. He teaches the lad on the field and he seats him near him on the bench during a game and explains the various plays as they come up. He next tries him in every position until he finds the one the boy can play best. Then he waits for the decline of a veteran. Some day a man is needed for a man's job on the diamond and the recruit who has been trained carefully steps into the limelight a finished baseball product. It was so with Collins, Barry, Lapp, McInnis and it will be so with others.

Twice a day Mack meets his players. They discuss the plays of the game before. They plan the battle that is at hand. Every opposing pitcher is put under a magnifying glass, so to speak. Every twirler has certain little motions which he makes in delivering different kinds of balls. These are pointed out. It was because a member of the Athletics discovered that Mathewson made a certain movement with his foot when he pitched his deadly "fadeaway" that the Athletics beat New York when Mathewson was pitching in a memorable world series.

Having culled the youngsters he deems worthy, Connie puts them with the veterans. Not one of the latter would ever dare attempt to discourage a youngster. The star may see his job slipping from him, but he has an abiding faith in his manager. He knows that Connie is watching out for the future of his men and a veteran seldom leaves his club without first getting a job or manager of another team.

ELIXIR OF YOUTH

German Doctor Claims That Radium Is a Cure for Old Age

The claim that radium can restore the hardened arteries of middle-aged people to a healthy condition, and so prolong life, was made by Dr. Saubermann, of Berlin, who lectured in London before the Roentgen Society. If this theory is correct, it will be possible for a few pounds to buy a radium apparatus which will manufacture the elixir of youthfulness. This apparatus consists of an earthenware receptacle, containing a minute amount of radium, which is placed at the bottom of a glass bottle. The bottle is filled with water, and in the course of time the water becomes charged with radium emanations. The radium remains "active" for hundreds of years, so that one has only to renew the water in order to get any number of doses.

Dr. Saubermann has discovered a form of gout which he calls "English gout," and which is due to the consumption of strong tea. Weak tea, as consumed on the Continent, does not produce this kind of gout, which is due to oxalic acid, and not uric acid, as in ordinary gout.

Girl Lassoed in the Street

At Greenock Leslie Morton Mitchell, an actor, was fined $7.50 for having assaulted a girl in Greenock by throwing a rope round her body and dragging her along. Mitchell is a member of a company which appeared in a Western drama, "The Cattle Thief." It is the custom of the company to walk dressed in their cowboy costumes and preceded by a cowboy band through the streets of the town in which they are playing. The accused was on horseback in the procession swinging a rope, by means of which he lassoed a girl and dragged her along the street. Members of the company said the whole affair was a joke.

Old Folks' Coughs Permanently Cured

The Public is Loud in Its Praise of the Modern Direct Breathing Cure.

Elderly people take cold easily. Unlike young folks, they recover slowly [illegible] over. That is why so many [illegible] past middle life die of pneumonia. Even though pneumonia does not develop and kill, coughs certainly weaken all elderly people.

Cough Syrups seldom do much good because they upset digestion. Any druggist or doctor knows that a [illegible] more effective treatment is "CATARRHOZONE," which heals and soothes the irritated surfaces of the throat.

In using Catarrhozone you do not take medicine into the stomach—you simply breathe into the throat, nose and lungs rich piney balsamic vapor, so full of healing power that colds, catarrh and bronchitis disappear almost instantly.

"At sixty-eight years of age I can testify that I am never troubled with coughs or colds," writes J. E. Pilgrim, of Kingston. "They used to be the bane of my life, and that was before I used Catarrhozone, which was recommended to me by C. [illegible], druggist. To use Catarrhozone is just like being in an [illegible] pine woods. The balsamic vapor of Catarrhozone is like a tonic, it is so stimulating to the breathing organs, so soothing to sore spots, so full of power to drive out colds and [illegible]. I will always use and recommend Catarrhozone as a preventive and cure for coughs, colds, bronchitis, throat irritation and catarrh.

(Signed) "J. E. PILGRIM."

A Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket or purse enables you to stop a cold with the first sneeze. Large size costs $1.00 and supplies treatment for two months; small size, 50c.; trial size, 25c. all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

If so, I would like to take a ride." The nurse gave him a dose of bromide and the sufferer slept. It is time that this man gets a divorce from his booze hallucinations!

On Official Business.

Yesterday The Times was honored with a visit from Mr. S. G. Wright, Inspector of the Canadian Accident and Guarantee Company, of Montreal, which does a large business in Peterborough and surrounding district. Mr. Wright is one of those progressive and capable men, who not only know how to create a successful business, but also knows how to retain it. Mr. R. J. Kidd, 170 Charlotte street, is the local agent in Peterborough.

Local Revenue Statistics

During the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1913, at this port, through the Internal Revenue office, 5,[illegible] gallons of spirits were entered for home consumption on which $9,578 duty was paid. There were, on that date 466 gallons remaining in warehouse. During the same period there were 463,560 pounds of grain used in the local brewery from which 352,764 pounds of malt was manufactured. 326,063 gallons of ale, beer and lager were brewed. 1,888 pounds of raw leaf tobacco were made into 104,[illegible] cigars on which $264 duty was paid.

Civic Employee Sermon.

Yesterday Mr. John Adlam, one of Peterborough's oldest and most faithful public servants was in a theological mood. As he was hoeing weeds he held forth to an attentive audience, never stopping work and accentuating any particularly emphatic argument with an extra hard dig of his hoe. The text he took was from the 12th chapter of St. Matthew. John claimed that money is the root of all evil. When asked by a bystander, "John, wouldn't you like a little of the root?" he replied. "No, there'll be money when I'm dead and I can't take it with me!"

Supplied Booze to Sunny Jim.

At yesterday's police court, John Maher was charged with being a vagrant. The court was informed that Maher took a bottle of whiskey to Sunny Jim Wilson's house and got the latter plastered, after he, Wilson, had been on good behaviour for weeks. Prisoner said he did not take the "big" bottle to Wilson's, but only a small flask. Prisoner claimed Sunny Jim was half shot when he went there. Maher, who is an umbrella mender, was ordered out of town on suspended sentence.

She Saw a Wild Cat.

A few nights ago as a lady living in Otonabee, about five miles from the city, near Salem Church, was out in her lane looking for a couple of missing turkeys, she was startled by an unearthly screech. Looking in the direction whence the noise came, she saw in the bright moonlight a huge wild cat or lynx. She remembered some important business requiring her return to the house. However, before leaving, she saw the lynx several times. It gave a bound over the rail fence and disappeared into a swamp close by.

He Located the Poison.

A gentleman living in the East Ward had a pet and valuable collie dog poisoned a few days ago by strychnine. The owner of his pet did a Sherlock Holmes stunt and found the drug store where strychnine was procured by a woman living in his neighborhood. He found this woman had procured that poison from the druggist on a pretence it was to be used for killing mice. He thinks that such a sale of deadly poisons should be only made after closer interrogation of the would-be purchaser, as the ostensible reason "poisoning mice" was evidently absurd. Another valuable dog belonging to a near by neighbor, a few days ago, took a mouse's dose of poison and fled to the dog's happy hunting grounds.

Local Bank Clerk's Dream.

GIRLS! STOP WASHING THE HAIR WITH SOAP

Soap Dries the Scalp, Causing Dandruff, Then Hair Falls Out—Try This Next Time.

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

"The Land of Golden Dreams," was well attended last night. This is one of the catchiest and brightest musical plays ever presented by local talent.

The "At-home" held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum under the auspices of the Sacred Heart Sodality, was one of the most enjoyable affairs ever held in that place.

At yesterday's police court Frank Smith, whose real name is O'Leary, was given a chance to leave town, but told to do it so quickly the pavement would steam.

During the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1913, Mr. T. Rork, Deputy Collector of Inland Revenue, received a net salary of $1,041.36.

Havelock ratepayers have flatly told their town council that they will not obey the garbage by-law in force there. In this city the people pay the scavengers and the scavengers refuse to do their work.

Five Havelock youngsters are under the ban of the police at present for being concerned in the robbery of tobacco, cigarettes, gum, etc., from a wholesale motor car.

Last night the Examiner referring to the last trip of the good ship Enterion, says, "At 8.30 excursion volumes of smoke were belching," etc. Now does our H.E.C., in referring to these smokes, have in mind cigars? If so, are "excursion" smokes different from a class used when the Enterion might have carried freight?

GIRLS' NOTE BRINGS POLICE TO RESCUE

Young Girl Kept Naked Captive in New York Flat by Her Male and Female Captors.

New York, Nov. 7.—Josephine McLoughlin, 14 years old, missing from home a week and for whom a general police alarm had been sent out, was rescued this afternoon from a band of alleged traffickers in women, who had taken her clothing from her and kept her prisoner since the night of her disappearance. A note imploring aid was written by the girl this morning and pushed through the shutters of a window. It fluttered down before the feet of a citizen, who notified the police. The latter made a spectacular raid on the place and took two prisoners.

The girl told the police that she left her mother's home with a young man she had met a few days previously, to attend a dance. Her escort took her, instead to the flat where she was rescued today. There she met a man and woman who confiscated her clothes and watched her closely till this morning, when their vigilance was relaxed long enough for her to write the note appealing for help.

John Hamilton, a driver, one of the girl's alleged captors, was locked up on a charge of abduction. A girl companion was charged with disorderly conduct. She said her name was Elizabeth Clark, and the police, searching their records, found that her disappearance from home had been reported a month ago by her father, and that a general alarm for her, too, had been issued.

Detectives arrested John Conklin, a driver, on a charge of having taken the McLoughlin girl away from her home and kept her a prisoner. The charge against the Clark girl was changed to one of abduction, and the three prisoners were locked up in default of $2500 bail each for examination tomorrow.

Prof. Mulvaney Known All Over the World
Proprietor of World's Famous Tape Worm Exterminator
Tape worm is bred from a parasite. It is of pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs which are connected together. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each section is an individual, having a mother or mouth. The worm grows much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a basin of water would apparently all be alive. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, feeding itself from the body of the victim, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon, and causes its victim to suffer all the [illegible]

MEXICO'S ARMY HALF A MILLION MEN READY TO FIGHT U. S.

Huerta's Reply to America's Demand is a Flat Refusal--Situation Growing Worse

Mexico City, Nov. 7.—Provisional President Huerta's formal negative reply to the United States demands, which was discussed in detail at last night's Cabinet meeting, will set forth the denial of any right, legal or otherwise, of the United States to demand Gen. Huerta's elimination from one of the departments of the Mexican Government.

The reply, it is said, will also point out that Provisional President Huerta has no legal right to accede to the demands.

The informant says it was decided to incorporate in the reply a declaration that Gen. Huerta intends to increase the Mexican army to 500,000 men.

Wilson's "Family" Meets.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The Cabinet met to-day for the first time for several weeks. All the secretaries except Garrison and Wilson and Attorney-General McReynolds attended. It was understood that at the instance of the President one or two members who had planned to be out of the city, cancelled their engagements to attend. The latest news despatches telling of John Lind's return to Mexico City were taken into the meeting and Secretary Bryan carried a large envelope of State Department despatches.

On Admiral's Orders.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Under orders from Rear Admiral Fletcher Commanding the squadron in the Gulf of Mexico, the battleship Newhampshire is steaming to Vera Cruz from Tampico. With her arrival eight American men-of-war will be assembled off Vera Cruz. Officials here gave no reason for sending the New Hampshire. Admiral Fletcher gave orders without instructions from the Navy Department.

Felix Diaz Arrested.

Havana, Nov. 7.—Gen. Felix Diaz was arrested here to-day and accused of shooting Pedro Guerrero, the young Mexican wounded by a bullet from a revolver during last night's altercation, in the course of which Gen. Diaz was wounded slightly.

Gen. Diaz is said to have handed the revolver to one of his companions, after he had shot Guerrero and seriously wounded him.

Guerrero was the man who had stabbed Diaz with a knife. In spite of the gravity of his injury he passed a good night in the hospital.

If Great Powers Say So.

Berlin, Nov. 7.—The correspondent of the Frankfort Gazette in Mexico City, telegraphs to-day that he has the impression Gen. Huerta may perhaps retire from office as Provisional President if the great powers support the action of the United States, as by so doing he will avoid the [illegible] of yielding to American pressure alone.

The correspondent mentions a plan of the Provisional President to recall the Mexican Minister from St. Petersburg to assume the Provisional Presidency.

The journey from Mexico City to Vera Cruz recently undertaken by the German Minister Paul Von Hintze, was simply to reassure the members of the German colony there according to the correspondent.

LIBERALS ADMIT THEY MAY LOSE READING ON SATURDAY

Unionists Also Anticipate Reduction in Linlithgowshire Liberal Majority in To-day's Bye-Election

London, Nov. 7.—Two bye-elections take place this week-end, Linlithgowshire to-day and Reading to-morrow. Unionists express their utmost confidence that they will reduce the Linlithgowshire Liberal majority and capture Reading. Liberals unwillingly admit the likelihood of both possibilities. The Linlithgowshire reduction will be due, they explain, to the loss of the popular personality, Mr. Ure, now Lord Strathclyde.

Reading's possible turnover is more obscure. There are three candidates: Gooch, the Liberal; Captain Wilson, Unionist; and Butler, the socialist. Reading, formerly noted for its biscuits and seeds, is to-day an enormous manufacturing town, attracting industries by its railway facilities, and also many Londoners by its beautiful situation.

Unionists Refused to Discuss Land Question.

Home Rule has played a surprisingly little part in the fight, and although the Liberals have tried to make the land campaign an issue, Unionists have refused to discuss it until the last moment, when the minimum wage proposals are arousing controversy. The insurance bill continues this week as the last real fighting issue, and the actual position may best be judged from the following quotation from to-day's Daily Chronicle: "Our friends at Reading have their hands full, and in the situation there defeat would be no disgrace."

Liberal Employers Dislike Minimum Wage Clause.

Undoubtedly the land program has alienated several traditional Liberal employers, who believe the minimum wage for agricultural laborers will injure their business. [illegible], head of an old influential Liberal family and a big employer, in an urgent [illegible] issued yesterday, declared that as a result of the minimum wage for farm laborers "farmers would have to greatly decrease their present staff, and would only afford to employ young, able-bodied men, so that hundreds of thousands of the older and weaker laborers at present on farms would drift into towns and reduce wages."

CONSERVATIVES MAY PROTEST SOUTH BRUCE

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—Conservatives will likely protest the South Bruce bye-election.

Information received at Ottawa to-day goes to show that the Liberals, in a desperate effort to retrieve their fallen fortunes and win at least one bye-election, spent an enormous sum of money in the constituency. Evidence is being collected and it is understood that there were attempts at corruption on a most extensive scale.

Misrepresentation, however, was a large factor in the election. Hon. Chas. Murphy made a most violent appeal to the Catholic vote, while Hon. Mackenzie King made a racial appeal to the Germans.

DRAYTON REPORT OPPOSES TRIBUNAL IN OCEAN FREIGHTS

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—It is understood to-day that the report being submitted to the Government by Chairman Drayton, of the Railway Commission, is adverse to the suggested formation of a tribunal to regulate ocean freight rates. Mr. Drayton visited England this summer and had conferences with the British authorities on the subject.

The principal obstacle in the way of effective regulation is that it would require the co-operation of Great Britain, the United States and Canada, and for that matter of other countries.

4 KILLED, 7 HURT WHEN 2 CARS MET

Big Motor Ran Into Small Machine and Upset, Crushing Four of the Occupants.

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 7.—Four persons were killed and seven injured early to-day when two automobiles collided.

A seven passenger automobile packed with men and women ran into a smaller machine and overturned, crushing four of its occupants to death.

The dead are: Ervin Chapman, owner and driver of the larger car, Miss Vride Elmore, W. R. Sanders, and Harry B. Curtis.

The occupants of the smaller car escaped serious injury.

CANADIAN JUBILEE IDEA IS GIVEN WARM ENGLISH SUPPORT

Lord Strathcona, Lord Desborough, and Hundreds of Leading Men in Official and Business World Say They Will Lend Aid

London, Nov. 7.—The movement to celebrate Canada's jubilee by an International Inter-Imperial Exhibition in 1917, is being warmly supported in official, financial and business circles here. Expressions of approval have been received from Lord Strathcona, Lord Desborough, Earl Grey, Sir Thomas Skinner, Mr. A. W. Smithers, chairman of the Grand Trunk; Mr. Burbidge, manager of Harrod's stores; Sir Trevor Dawson, of Vickers, and also 300 leading manufacturers of London, Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, Sheffield, Leeds, Bradford, Halifax, Hull, Bristol, Glasgow, Aberdeen and Belfast.

Many of these manufacturers state they are considering the establishment of Canadian branches. There is every prospect that Australia will make a representative display of the Commonwealth in desiring to promote the closest possible relations with Canada. Mr. Leonard Palmer, who recently returned from consultation with Government and other authorities in Canada, and is now organizing the project, says, of course, it rests with Canada to decide the exact form the exhibition will take and whether it will be held in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg or Vancouver.

EASTERN SECTION COMPLETE ANY DAY

New Services and Extension of Service on Existing Lines Were Announced To-day.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—Spiking of the last rail on the eastern section of the Transcontinental is expected daily.

All that remains to-day is to complete the bridge over the Magistian River and the work is now due to be finished. When it is done there will be steel from Moncton to Winnipeg, save over the Quebec bridge.

The situation is one of much satisfaction to Chairman Major Leonard under whose direction the work has progressed rapidly.

New services were announced today. The service now in operation from Moncton to Edmundston, N.B., is extended 80 miles west to connect with one to Levis to be run by the contractors. Trains also will be operated from Hervey Junction to Parent, west of Quebec.

In the event of any grain blockage the Superior Junction-Cochrane section is now ready and the whole eastern section will be finally completed early next season.

The Government-owned division has cost $[illegible] to date, an amount enormously in excess of what was estimated by the Laurier Government. The investigation Commission's report will disclose the reasons for this great discrepancy.

SUN'S RAYS USED TO FURNISH STEAM

Washington, Nov. 8.—Successful operation of a steam engine through the rays of the sun has been reported to the Department of Commerce by United States Consul Garret at Alexandria, Egypt.

Garret states that the plant occupies several acres, immense mirrors which automatically follow the sun, supplying the heat to fire the engine boilers.

C.P.R. SHED IS NEAR READY

A Good Job Done by Local Labor Rapidly Approaching Completion

A Times scribe had the privilege of a personally conducted trip through the fine new freight shed, now approaching completion, of the C.P.R., at the foot of Charlotte street. Workmen were busy placing a floor of oak and maple. This floor is over two thicknesses of tar paper, above the original floor. The local freight shed is one of the few in Canada with such a fine floor. It may seem extravagant but Mr. Dodd, the genial local agent of the company explained that the officials were far-seeing in laying this hardwood. An ordinary wood floor, from the constant wearing of heavily loaded trucks, in time wears out. The knots are left and presents an uneven surface.

The shed is 200 x 50 feet. To this will, in the spring, be added, at the south end an addition 200 feet long. The bonded warehouse will be situated at the south end of the present building. The office consists of several rooms. The general office, entered from the east, the Agent's private office, lavatories, cloak room, ladies' toilet, etc. Hot water heating supplied from the cement built cellar will keep the offices warm. To ensure safety the electric wiring, supplied by Messrs. Alexander & Miller, is enclosed in iron tubes. The plumbing is provided by Messrs. F. & J. MacPherson & Co. The roof was finished by Mr. Archie Moore. As far as possible all work on the new shed was done by local labor.

It is expected that the new shed will be in active use in the near time.

HE HAS TO SLEEP AND EATS IN AUTO

American Tourist Having Hard Time in Albania

Budapest, Nov. 8. — Dr. Julius Mannaros, the famous orientalist, just back from a tour of Albania, predicts that the new king won't have a very lovely time there. The doctor remained ten days in the capital, Valona.

He had to sleep and dine in his auto, for this capital has no hotels, the government is quartered in tumble-down shanties used by the Turks for cholera hospitals, and even the nobility is housed as no poor man in Budapest would care to be housed.

"I inspected the various prisons of the country and found them all empty. Why? Because Albanians don't believe in judge and law. When they have a grievance against any person, they shoot him, or his wife or child or uncle or grandfather—any one of the same tribe.

MALARIA EVERYWHERE.

"Valona," continued the doctor, "is really no city, hardly a village; it is dirty, unhealthy, without sanitary arrangements of any kind. There are no means of transportation; the streets are unlighted and without gutters or sidewalks, but the situation is ideal for a harbor. Of course, there are no railways and no highways. Horses and mules are the only means of travel and malaria is everywhere. But the country is rich in coal, gold, silver and forests."

AUSTRIA QUICK TO EXONERATE C. P. R.;

London, Nov. 7.—Advices from Vienna to-day indicates the probability that the difficulty between the Austrian Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway will be solved by the appointment of a new Canadian Pacific manager who is persona grata to the Austrian Government. When this is done the Canadian Pacific will resume its tourist and first class passenger and general operations in Austria. The emigrant business of the Canadian Pacific and "pool" lines alike is being left in abeyance until the official inquiry is completed. Mr. Altman is still in jail, bail not having been accepted.

The report of the shipping subcommittee of the Reichsrath exonerates the Canadian Pacific Railway and says the Canadian Pacific did no more, and rather less than other lines in emigrating Austrians. The Government concession was given to the Canadian Pacific with the object of breaking up the "pool" and securing for the Austrian port of Trieste a greater share of Austrian emigration traffic which so largely went to the German and Belgian ports, and beyond proper Government control.

MRS. BEEMER WAS NOT A MURDERER THE JURY SAYS

Woodstock Trial Ends in Acquittal of Blenheim Farmer's Widow--Found According to Judge's Charge

Woodstock, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Beemer was found not guilty of murdering her husband at 2 o'clock to-day. The crowd cheered the verdict.

Woodstock, Nov. 7.—The fate of Mrs. Frederick Beemer, widow of the Blenheim township farmer, who died of poisoning, and who had been on trial as his slayer here, was in the hands of the jury at noon to-day. They retired at 12.10 o'clock.

Most of the morning was taken up with addresses of Judge and counsel to the jury. Defence counsel, Lt.-Col. W. T. McMullen, K.C., dealt severely with John Mason, the chief Crown witness, and stated that he was a man who would have been barred from Canada, had the authorities had his record, and a man who would get deported only for the fact that he has been in Canada too long. In his opinion he was a moral degenerate.

Mass of Contradictions.

Mr. McMullen declared that Mason's evidence was a mass of contradictions and he urged on the jury to cast this story aside.

Evidence of those who said they would not believe Mason on oath was touched upon in the appeal not to believe Mason.

Mr. McMullen pointed out that there was absolutely no evidence regarding any motive for murder on the part of Mrs. Beemer. Neither was there any evidence showing that Mrs. Beemer had purchased any strychnine since 1911, which strychnine was [illegible] to kill [illegible] which were bothering the [illegible].

All Given by His Wife.

Mr. Meredith in summing up for the Crown pointed to the fact that all the medicine given to Beemer was given by his wife and that it was following these doses of medicine that the severe pains which finally resulted in Beemer's death occurred. Mr. Meredith attempted to discredit plea of defence that Beemer's death was due to suicide by pointing to the fact that Beemer at all times expressed a desire to get better.

He was most desirous of living and urged that a doctor be called for and that his stomach be pumped out because of the fact that he felt as if he had been poisoned.

GAMBLE DENIES HE USED AN ACID; GOT BOTTLES MIXED

Dr. H. H. Dewart Pokes Fun and Flings Sarcastic References at Crown

Whitby, Nov. 7.—The argument for the Crown was concluded by Mr. [illegible] shortly after 12 o'clock and the jury retired at twenty minutes to one.

Whitby, Ont., Nov. 7.—Denial by Stead M. Gamble, who took the stand in his own defence to-day that he had attempted to injure a rope, while a strike was on, the specific charge against him, was the feature of his trial which ended this morning.

Behind this charge there remained the broader one of interfering as a union labor official.

Mr. Gamble said he never used sulphuric acid in his life for any purpose and knew nothing about it.

Sharp exchanges between counsel and witness showed that the bottle produced as having held the deadly stuff had a cork in it of another make of whiskey and this was seized upon by Mr. H. H. Dewart, K.C., defending Gamble as a hook upon which to hang a severe verbal lashing of the Crown's methods. Great interest was taken locally.

Mr. Gamble Takes the Stand.

Called by his counsel, Mr. H. H. Dewart, K.C., to the witness stand when the Criminal Assize Court resumed shortly before ten o'clock today, on his own behalf, Stead M. Gamble, of Toronto, financial secretary of the Structural Iron Workers Union, was the last witness to be called by the defence. He appeared to be perfectly calm and collected, and told his story in a clear and unhesitating voice.

He told of his visit to Agincourt with Mr. C. S. Riley, a foreman of the Hamilton Bridge Company, and how later they went on to the construction camp at Little Rouge.

From there, he said, he went on a work train to Dixie Bridge with William McCaig, leaving Riley at Little Rouge.

"Did you have any intention of going to the Dixie Bridge when you left Toronto?" asked Mr. Dewart.

"None at all," answered Gamble.

HOME RULE ROW SUMMONED UP SHOWS LEADERS IN TRUE LIGHT

"Highly Creditable to Temper of British Statesmen," Says Noted Irishman in Review of Irish Situation

London, Nov. 7.—Mr. Cheshen, M. P., writes in the Canadian News the following survey of the forces shaping in upon Irish situation:

"The powerful authority of the Throne is mediating, according to legitimate usage, in an endeavor to find a peaceful solution of important memoranda, passed between the leaders of the two great parties. Stripping recent notable pronouncements of party garnishings, we see the following situation:

"Mr. Asquith, speaking at Ladybank, said the Government is ready for a free, frank and unprejudiced interchange of views and suggestions.

"Mr. Bonar Law, replying at Newcastle, said he could not be expected to shout back an answer in detail, but promised carefully to consider any proposals the Premier makes with a real desire to find a solution.

Looks Beyond Home Rule.

"Sir Edward Grey, who represents in a special manner the British conception of the Imperial idea, looks beyond Home Rule for Ireland to a scheme for the devolution of the United Kingdom and suggests Home Rule within Home Rule for Ulster, particularly specifies an autonomous control of education and police.

"Sir Edward Clarke, ex-Solicitor-General in the Unionist Cabinet, returns to the political arena as a [illegible] advocate of Home Rule because he thinks a dangerous political experiment is better for them civil war, and advocates Provincial [illegible] for each of the four Provinces of Ireland.

"Finally, Mr. Bonar Law declares, in order to avoid civil war in Ireland he is ready for any sacrifice so long as there will not leave the loss of [illegible] or rule to national interests. [illegible] are factors that weigh most at the moment. They are creditable in the highest degree to the [illegible] and statesmanship of leaders in British politics."

GLENN CURTISS SAYS FLYING CYCLE IS NEXT

New York, Nov. 7.—The next development in aviation will be the "flying motor cycle," according to Glenn Curtiss, aviator and builder of the Curtiss Aeroplane and flying boat.

"In France several successful experiments have been made with ordinary bicycles with folding wings attached," said Mr. Curtiss at the Aero Club of America, yesterday. "It is quite within the scope of practicability to do the same with the motorcycle. Eventually a propeller might be attached as well."

THEORETICALLY EASY TO FLY ACROSS OCEAN

Inventor of Telephone Thinks It Not Impossible With Present Day Machines

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone and a pioneer in the use of heavier-than-air flying machines, believes that Lord Northcliffe's offer of $50,000 for the first flight across the Atlantic in a hydro-aeroplane within 72 consecutive hours will soon be claimed.

While certain modifications in existing machines ought to be effected, Doctor Bell says that as aerial science stands to-day the offer is a good sporting chance for airmen.

"There are machines existing now," said Doctor Bell, "which, if they can continue doing for twenty-four hours what they have done already for shorter periods, will make the flight possible in a single day. The 72 hours is a much longer time than will be needed. If the ocean is to be traversed in an airship at all, it will be in far less time than Lord Northcliffe allows.

"If I were to make the flight," said the veteran inventor, "I wouldn't make any allowances for alighting at all and replenishing my fuel. To make the trip at all, it ought to be done in a single spurt.

"While hydro-aeroplanes can take to the water and rise again into the air the chances are against their doing anything of the sort. There is also very little likelihood of their finding the supply ship from which to replenish their tanks. Even if the wings of the airship are not injured by the descent, the chances are that once on the water it would remain there until picked up, or until, under the buffetings of the sea, it went [illegible] and disappeared."

Doctor Bell referred to his laboratory notes and stenographic reports of conversations with the Canadian inventor, F. W. Baldwin, a couple of years ago, looking to long flights by aeroplanes through high altitudes.

Doctor Bell's ideas, based on his investigations made with Mr. Baldwin, is that the greatest service will be got from the aeroplanes flying at great heights. Mr. Baldwin advanced the idea, which Doctor Bell at once accepted, that the resistance to the forward rush of an airship diminishes in exact ration with the density of the air. He found that life could be sustained at a great height if the density of the air was one-third the normal density at sea level.

Therefore a machine capable with sufficient propeller revolutions of driving 40 miles an hour at sea level—and much greater speed had actually been attained—would go at a rate of 120 miles an hour in the rarer atmosphere.

Even if the atmosphere were thinned to one-third its normal density, a speed of three times the normal rate would project the aviator against exactly the same number of particles of oxygen as if he went 40 miles an hour on sea level, Dr. Bell declared.

In other words, the onward rush of the machine would preserve a normal atmosphere. At the same time, the higher speed would give the lighter air precisely the supporting power of heavier air at sea level with the lower speed.

"Starting at Halifax," said one passage in Doctor Bell's notebook, "in the early morning by daylight, we should reach the coast of Ireland in time for a late dinner. This is assuming that the distance is 2,000 miles."

Doctor Bell's calculations were based on an airship capable of 40 miles an hour at normal elevations. He proposed for it to fly actually five miles high in one-third the atmosphere with a triple speed.

"A Progressive Peterborough"

Our Point of View

Now that Miss November is here, the fact can not be disputed that she showed us the cold shoulder.

A Toronto judge declares that a man's home is where his wife is. According to this ruling quite a number of Peterborough men live at the golf links.

In the case of many young wives the matrimonial yoke chafes because their husbands cannot support them in the style to which they were never accustomed.

It may be said of the Hon. Vic Huerta, as was said of another gentleman, that he is a mild as mannered man as ever scuttled a ship or cut a throat.

A New York man sued for divorce on the ground of drunkenness said that his weakness was caused by the fact that his wife peppered his food, plastered her face with rouge and pencilled her eyebrows. That is a combination calculated to drive any man to drink.

EXPERIMENTING ON CRIMINALS

The experiment of the Chicago judge who has taken to sentencing prisoners to the operating table for the removal of "criminal tendencies," rather than shutting them up in jails, will be watched with interest. It is perhaps too much to expect to make a bad man good, by making incisions in his anatomy and relieving the pressure on some nerve centre. But it has been demonstrated in the case of children that the making of slight operations so tends to the improvement of health that their mental faculties are quickened, and they are enabled to make better headway with school studies. Perhaps, in like manner, persons with certain immoral tendencies may be benefitted by the use of the surgeon's knife. If they cannot be made good, it may be possible to make it harder for them to be bad. Even that would be worth while.

RADIUM FOR THE MILLIONS

Sir Frederick Treves has described the minute amount of radium which is conserved at the Radium Institute as "the only reproduction of the burning bush of Moses—constantly giving off heat and never consumed." It seems to realize the potency of other miracles — the widow's cruse which did not fail—and the dreams of many poets and idealists of a beneficent virtue that should flow perennially from an inexhaustible fountain.

The great barrier, however, to the adaptation of inventions to the service of man has nearly always been the absence of some cheap and effective way of disseminating them. The Radium Institute has now made it possible for any country doctor to employ the most expensive known substance in the treatment of his patients at a very moderate cost. It is only necessary to bottle the emanations of the radium—which for curative purposes are as effective as the radium itself which are given off constantly by it, with a practically negligible loss of power—and the thing is done. Radium becomes no longer the priceless luxury of the laboratory, but a remedy of ordinary medical practice.

The tiny treasure in the Institute's strong room weighs less than one-seventh of an ounce—and yet maintaining its ceaseless output of energy for the relief of human suffering, and even in an age of wonderful discoveries, this announcement, made by the British Radium Institute, is calculated to astonish the least imaginative. It can not be said that the curative properties of radium are as yet definitely established, though there is excellent ground for hope in the facts cited by Sir Frederick Treves, who states that doctors are getting what may be called apparent cures for malignant growths.

Headache Over the Eyes? Look for Nasal Catarrh

Catarrh Never Stops in One Place—It Spreads Rapidly—Often Ruins Health Completely.

In this changeable climate it is the little colds that drift into Catarrh. Unless the inflammation is checked it passes rapidly from the throat or nose to the bronchial tubes and then to the lungs. You can't make new lungs any more than you can make new fingers or toes, but you can cure catarrh.

The surest cure consists of breathing in the healing balsamic essences of CATARRHOZONE, which is simply a medicated vapor so full of rich curative properties that every trace of Catarrh vanishes before it.

"The soothing piney vapor of Catarrhozone is the most powerful application I ever used," writes Mrs. [illegible] J. Christine, of Saskatoon. "Every breath drawn through the Inhaler sends a grateful feeling through the air passages of the nose and throat. Catarrhozone cured me of frightful headaches over the eyes, relieved me of a stuffy feeling in the nose, and an irritable hacking cough that had been the bane of my life for a year. My general health is greatly improved, my appetite and digestion are considerably better than before. Catarrhozone has been the means of giving me such health as I always desired, but never possessed."

Even though catarrh has a firm hold on you, and affects your throat, nose or ears, you can thoroughly cure it with Catarrhozone. Large size, guaranteed, costs $1.00; smaller size 50c.; sample size 25c. All storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

GRAPE CULTURE

An Easy Crop to Raise on Small Space of Ground

Grapes are among the most obliging of small fruits. They are very easy to grow, occupy but little room and can be trained over the side of a barn or a fence as well as on a trellis or arbor. They are ornamental, too, and make an excellent screen. On a small place it is possible to have grapes growing all along the fences and clambering over the buildings, yielding a very large amount of fruit without trespassing at all on ground needed for general purposes. If one has an inexpensive fruit press it becomes a very simple matter to make good grape juice, and it is but little more trouble to make wine.

Grapes have a preference for sunny locations and rather rich, loose soil. An ideal place for them is the south side of a building, where they will be sheltered from cold winds. They will thrive in the rich soil of a poultry yard, and provide needed shade for the fowls. Train them high, however; chickens have a weakness for grapes.

It is best to plant grape vines at least ten feet apart in the south garden and to cover the roots with six inches of soil, well tramped down. At planting time the vines should be cut back to three or four buds; and pruning will be needed every spring, before warm weather starts the sap flowing. If the work is left until late the vines will bleed. Even so, some spring trimming of the smaller branches may be needed, if the growth is very heavy. It is a great mistake, though, to remove the leaves. Many amateurs think that the fruit should be exposed to the sun, but this is all wrong.

Pinching off the ends of the branches will help to give larger fruit, and often it pays to thin the bunches if one wants grapes of quality. Grow Concords, but have other kinds also.

Hedgehogs as Housecleaners

Backwoodsmen, when in camp during the winter, entertain strange guests—hedgehogs among them. One woodsman, it appears, on leaving camp on a Saturday afternoon, used to neglect, purposely, to close the door of his shack in order that the hedgehogs might enter and clean his floor.

Inasmuch as the principal constituents of the camp menu are pork and beans, bacon and other dishes rich in fat, considerable grease is spilled upon the floor in the course of a week, and a hedgehog will risk his neck, at any time, for a bit of fat.

Just as soon, therefore, as this particular camp was deserted by its occupants, the spiny gluttons would hasten in, and begin to plane off the surface of the floor with their chisel-shaped teeth, eating away all the wood that held a trace of grease. On his return to camp the owner could sweep up, and enjoy the comforts of a clean house for another week. The only serious objection to this method of housecleaning lay in the fact that it was necessary to lay a new camp floor rather frequently.

Oldest Bank in Canada

To the Bank of Montreal belongs the double satisfaction of having been the first to transact banking business in Canada and of being now the greatest single institution of its kind, not only in the Dominion of Canada, but upon the Continent of America. It was founded two years after Waterloo, in 1817.

A SUMMERLESS YEAR

Snow and Ice in Plenty in June, July and August

The year 1816 is spoken of as the year that had no summer. On June 6th, Canada, the Maritime Provinces, Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts and parts of New York, Pennsylvania and Connecticut were covered by a mantle of snow several inches deep. In parts of Canada and Vermont the snow fell to a depth of nearly a foot.

On the seventeenth another snow storm came. July brought little relief from the cold. On the fourth of July ice a quarter of an inch thick formed in New England, Canada, and some sections of New York and Pennsylvania. August was even worse. In many places that month ice reached a thickness of half an inch. The first two weeks of September brought something resembling summer weather, but it did not last long. The last two weeks of September and nearly all of October were wintry and cold, but the year was brought to a close by remarkably mild December weather.

That the earth or the sun were cooling off were the favorite explanations to account for that summerless year. This theory was all the more firmly held because the phenomenon seemed to be general, and extended to Europe as well as America. Snow fell near London in August, and in France all the crops, except potatoes, were destroyed by the cold. On this side of the Atlantic the crops were also very short, and a famine was averted by only a narrow margin.

Facts About the Fly

Those who have any compunctions of conscience over swatting the fly can find plenty of justification [illegible] in the following data:

HOW TO BATHE

Some Advice by a Physician as to Proper Methods

Frequent bathing is an essential if the skin is to have proper opportunity to carry off waste material, and not readily.

There are three kinds of bath suitable for the majority of people. The tepid or lukewarm bath is from 80 to 90 degrees Fahrenheit. This has no especial effect, apart from cleansing. It is suitable for invalids, the elderly, the convalescent, and those who do not re-act well to cold water. It may be taken at any time of the day, but preferably before meals and at bedtime.

The warm bath, which is especially appropriate for infants, is 90 to 100 degrees. It nearly always prevents sleeplessness in adults when taken just before retiring. It also is excellent after severe muscular exercise to relieve soreness and stiffness of joints and muscles. It should not be employed until two or three hours after a meal, as blood may be drawn away from the stomach, with resulting digestive disturbances. It is not wise for the bather to venture into the cold air immediately after a warm bath.

The third type is the hot bath which is taken when the water is from 105 to 110 degrees. It is unsuitable, except for the young, as it has a depressing effect on the circulation. It should only be used at night, or when the bather is to stay in a warm atmosphere—and not after meals.

At bedtime, however, the really hot bath may cause sleeplessness unless a cold cloth is kept on the head during the bath. The most valuable use of the hot bath is to prevent colds after exposure and chilling, and to produce sweating in many disorders.

The cold bath should not be indulged in by any who have palpitation or any form of weak heart. It is not wise for the old nor the very young. If it is taken, it should be followed with a vigorous rubdown with a rough towel to insure a rapid circulation of the blood.

BALL PLAYERS AND ICE CREAM

Major league ballplayers as a class are about as free from the ordinary weaknesses of the flesh as any body of men in the world.

Wine, women and song trouble them very little in the playing season, and even their gambling is of that mild and friendly nature which makes it more of a pastime than a means of enriching oneself. But there is one great vice among the athletes, one from which comparatively few of them are free. Eating ice cream is this failing.

Almost without exception the stars of the game are slaves to frozen delicacies of any sort, and in the course of a summer the sixteen clubs in the two select circuits probably consume several tons of the frigid confections. The Tigers are particularly gripped by this gastronomic vice, and on several occasions they have cleaned the hotels that entertained them of every bit of ice cream, sherbet, punch and frozen pudding.

The first day that the Detroit players were in Gulfport, the Great Southern's steward laid in just the ordinary supply of ice cream that he had been accustomed to provide for the number of guests then under the tavern's roof. Before the dinner hour was 45 minutes old, there wasn't a bit of ice cream in the place. The same thing happened the next evening and there was loud wails from the men who dined late because none of their favorite dessert was forthcoming.

Then the steward began to realize that he had a lot of ice cream fiends on his hands and the order for this dish was increased to double the supply that would have been needed were the guests less voracious in one particular direction.

Fully ninety per cent. of the Detroit players eat ice cream for one meal a day and about 75 per cent.—those being the real slaves to the food—take it both for luncheon and dinner.

WONDERFUL OLD PASTOR

At Eighty He Was Preparing for a Divinity Examination

The funeral took place at Leicester of the Rev. James Nelson, M.A., a Free Church minister, who died at Narborough in his eighty-second year. Born at Colne, in Lancashire, he was brought up at Bradford, where he became a hand-loom weaver. His parents were very poor, and he had no schooling and little to eat during those hard times. He acquired a knowledge of several languages, and at fifty graduated B.A. at Dublin University. Ill-health compelled him to quit the ministry for a time, when he went to live in France. Returning, he became a railway clerk at Bradford, and later resumed his ministerial career at Nottingham and Leicester. At eighty he was preparing for examinations for his Doctor of Divinity degree. He had acquired a knowledge of Greek, Latin, Hebrew, French, German and Italian. He was strong physically, and at seventy-seven rode 100 miles—from Leicester to [illegible] a bicycle in a day. He visited the city and attended the [illegible].

What is the object of distillation? Describe the process and the apparatus used. Answer: The object of distillation is the making of whiskey. You have a box and a glass tube at one end and another at the other end, and if you pour water in at the one end it comes out whiskey at the other.

Cows That Pay

Grade cows yielding as much as 2,300 pounds of milk and 65 pounds of fat in thirty days are well worth keeping, as many factory patrons can testify. Too many cows in Canada, however, produce as low as two per cent. of fat. That is one good reason why it pays farmers to take up cow testing, for with the tests ranging, as they frequently do in the same herd, from 2.1 to 4.8 with common grade cows giving almost the same weight of milk and handled under similar conditions, there is evidently plenty of room for considerable difference in returns.

As a matter of fact, cow testing was never more needed than at the present time, when farmers are complaining that it is hard to get good hired help. The time spent in taking a few weights and samples, is saved over and over again, a hundred times over, when it proves to a man that he saves time by milking profitable cows only. Why waste precious time month after month, year after year, on cows that test only two per cent. of fat?

Big Shipment of Foxes

Seventy five foxes of the black, silver and crossed varieties, were shipped in one car from Prince Albert, Sask., to Mr. F. [illegible] of St. John, N. B. One end of a large express car was completely filled with the living freight which was placed in crates for the [illegible] to the fur farms of New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia. The foxes represented a value of upwards of $[illegible].

A Bull's Strength

The following authentic tale comes from a South Wairarapa (New Zealand) station, and shows the immense power possessed by a bull. Two shepherds were driving bulls from various paddocks, and bringing them down to the homestead. As each fresh bull was added to the mob there were trials of strength and savage skirmishes between the various members of the herd. At one gate a large roan shorthorn bull was waiting for the rest and as soon as the gate was opened he charged out, and, after the usual roaring and grunting, came to locks with a well-grown red shorthorn bull of equal size. After several bouts with horns locked, the red bull slipped past the roan's guard, and, getting him fairly under the body, heaved him bodily over the fence into the paddock where he had just come from. The roan bull weighed nearly a ton, and his body cleared the fence, one of the post being broken by his hooves.

FASHION CORNER

Much interest has recently focused upon several fashionable weddings. It has become the custom to linger late or hold them out of town each season, and the scene of each of these notable functions was a well-known country estate. Nature is truly at her best in early November, and the bridal parties attendant upon these events were in every instance voted a big success. The air had just enough snap to it to make the glowing wood fire a magnet, and to render appropriate the wearing of smart autumn toilettes.

The gowning, while extremely elegant, was on the whole marked by conservatism. It is an acknowledged fact that the well-bred woman does not, except in isolated instances, accept literally the extremes of fashion; rather, she modifies and individualizes the most pronounced features. Once in a while one encounters someone of the type of Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, perhaps, who possesses the stature and personality to wear striking gowns without being over-conspicuous; but such exceptions only prove the rule.

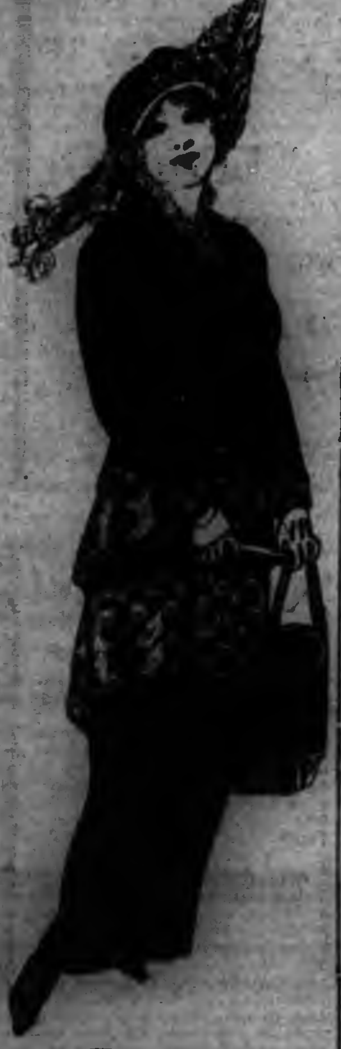

FIGURE ONE.
A Fetching Toilette in Black and Novelty Plaid Velvet.

The majority of women known for their good taste in dress we saw [illegible], voluminous, many times, but, owing to the softness of the material in which it is expressed, [illegible]; tunics frequently fall and a trifle flaring, but not often exaggerated; panniers more times [illegible] by the folds of the skirt than [illegible] an over-drapery.

A very effective black velvet toilette was worn by an attractive Western woman. It is shown in our first sketch. The jacket was very short in front, but came down long in the back. Its folds were held in place for three-quarters of the circumference of the waist by a loose, [illegible] belt. Collar and cuffs were made of one of the prettiest novelty velvets we have yet seen. The ground was changeable blue and green, on which appeared splashes of gray-orange, [illegible] green and red, so arranged as to form an indefinite plaid.

The scant, three-piece skirt of black velvet was trimmed with two wide [illegible] bands of the plaid. With this gown was worn a very charming hat, having a soft "tam" crown and flaring side brims of tarnished silver lace. A dull green [illegible] fancy was posted at the right [illegible]. Quite "in the picture" was her big black velvet bag, swung by a heavy silver chain.

Another interesting [illegible], less dressy in type, is shown in the second sketch. Soft putty-colored [illegible] striped with royal blue was the body fabric. It had a little black [illegible] waistcoat and a flat collar of squirrel dyed royal blue to match the stripe in the fabric. The hat was of the duvetyne, with a band of the blue fur framing the face, and a blue and putty-colored stick-up posed jauntily at the left side. With this was worn a delicate veil of [illegible] net and cream-colored Valenciennes lace. The skirt was a simple [illegible] model, quite innocent of drapery, worn with a crushed girdle of the black satin.

Speaking of weddings, one naturally reverts to the trousseaux, and this [illegible] of which some of the wonderfully lovely negligees brought out this season. Two distinct types are noticeable in these more intimate garments of the feminine wardrobe. First, the fairy-like robes for strictly boudoir wear, which are the ultimate of exquisite daintiness, and then the somewhat daring gowns in which milady sips her tea or entertains a chance caller.

To the first class belong sets of boudoir jacket, cap and petticoat of gossamer muslin, embroidered in pink and blue forget-me-nots, and trimmed with exquisite Valenciennes lace. Cretonne breakfast jackets are another novelty. One we saw recently showed a gay pompadour design, cut on the lines of the loose Balkan jackets we have had this summer. It was belted below the waist with black ribbon velvet, and had a narrow black velvet band outlining the V-shaped neck.

A peignoir, which in its effective simplicity evidenced a stroke of genius, was cut after the fashion of a choir-boy's surplice. It was made of shimmering ivory satin, high in the neck but with sleeves, as in the surplice, coming just to the elbow. The only ornamentation was a wreath of small, many-colored, made silk roses, with their green leaves encircling the neck.

Of more formal garments for interior wear the novelty of the season is the so-called "smoking gown" and many women, who from motives of morals or manners frown upon the cigarette, do not hesitate to include in their wardrobes an effective toilette of this kind. The smoking gown is not unlike the bridge gown of several seasons past. Ordinarily, it is made of some rather striking fabric of supple texture, such as printed crepe or silk brocade. An interesting model was of the former fabric showing a bold design in old blue against an olive background. Over a somewhat scantily cut skirt was hung a semi-fitted jacket extending almost to the knee. It was long of sleeve, high of neck, but collarless, and untrimmed save for an old gold guimpe outlining the neck, sleeve edge, and front closing, which was fastened with gold cloth buttons and loops. A Cossack cap of the crepe, finished with a dull gilt tassel, went with the outfit.

In lingerie, too, a number of interesting innovations have appeared, all designed along the line of elimination. It really seems as though the final stage had been reached in a novelty just brought out, "the garter skirt." It is made up in its entirety of a single-pleated chiffon ruffle, sometimes with an over-lay of lace and sometimes without, attached to the "common or garden variety" of round silk garter. This, if you please, in lieu of the petticoat!

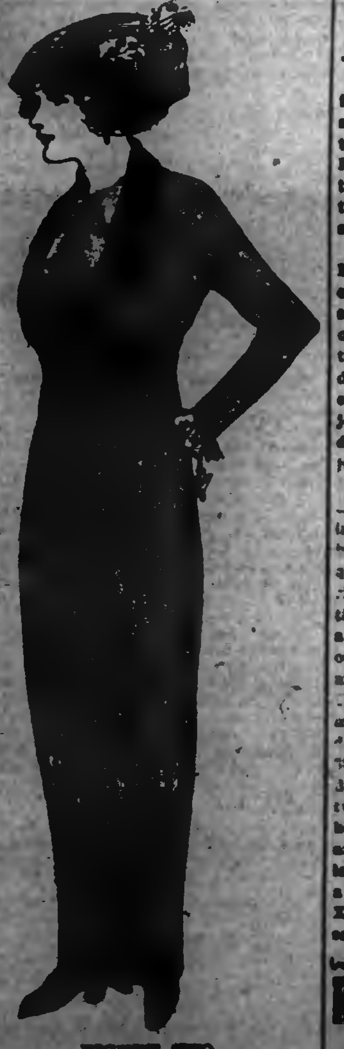

FIGURE TWO.
Putty-Colored and Blue Duvetyne, With Blue Squirrel Fur.

Quite practical, however, and delightfully pretty are the new lingerie combinations. The [illegible], which consists of a single muslin garment to be worn under the corset, has a chemise-like top buttoning down the front, [illegible] which are [illegible] knickerbockers buttoning [illegible] the knees. Another garment which [illegible] with an [illegible] is the envelope combination. This, too, has the chemise top, the [illegible] being brought down [illegible] at the back in a tab which buttons to the front, forming the drawers. [illegible] the lower part of the garment [illegible] a smoky little circular [illegible].

Color in underwear is a new and pretty [illegible]. In expensive [illegible] colored crepe de Chine is favored, and for less expensive lingerie we have printed cotton crepes [illegible] dainty.

ANNIE LAURIE

The Original of the Song Lived Over Two Centuries Ago

Annie Laurie was the beautiful daughter of Sir Robert Laurie, first baronet of Maxwelton in Dumfries, Scotland, and she lived in the old white castle set high up on the "bonny braes." Her window looked down on a sunny courtyard whose walls were so thick with ivy that it almost covered the marriage stones of her father and grandfather which were set over the doorway in the entrance tower.

In the last years of the seventeenth century William Douglas, of Fingland, came a-wooing, and so ardently wooed he that he gained from Annie Laurie her "promise true." Then with a light heart he went off to the wars in Flanders, and as he went he sang the song which we call "Annie Laurie."

Some have declared that brave Douglas was killed in battle, with the fair Annie's name on his dying lips, but others maintain that he came out unscathed and married another lady. At all events, when Annie Laurie was twenty-eight she went to live at Craigdarroch as the bride of Alexander Fergusson.

As the song was originally written, the first lines began:

> Maxwelton's banks are bonnie
> They're a' clad owre wi' dew.

But when Lady John Scott got them to the music so familiar to us all, she rewrote the stanzas in their present form.

What may have been the subsequent history of these two Scotch lovers of long ago, they struck a chord which has vibrated for over two centuries.

REVIVING FLOWERS

Boiling Water Will Often Restore Freshness to Wilted Blossoms

"Boiling water will revive flowers that are so wilted that any one not knowing its magic powers for resuscitating them would throw them away as worthless. Try it and see before you scoff at the idea," said the woman who likes to try new experiments as she was lightly scraping down the limp stems of some roses that drooped dejectedly. "I'm doing this lightly, you see, so that the hot water will soak all through the stems."

After she had finished the scraping she ran the flowers into a deep pitcher and going to the stove took from it the steaming hot water kettle and poured the bubbling hot water into the pitcher until it just covered the stems, leaving the roses above the surface.

"There, in a little while I shall have fresh flowers for the dinner table."

And her visitor saw just what she had prophesied—a mass of roses that looked as though they had never thought of wilting.

"I always try the boiling water cure on wilted flowers before throwing them away. I find that very few people know about it. You mustn't lay the flowers themselves in the hot water. Just have it cover the stems."

Collapse of a Hillside

The side of a limestone hill at Porthywaen, near Oswestry, slipped and at least 200,000 tons of rock fell into the quarry. Below the crest of the hill there is a bow-shaped fracture, about 500 yards in length, and nearer the cliff face of the hill is a fracture 200 yards long. The face of the rock has been thrown back fifty yards by the fall. The landslip is attributed to the heavy rain.

DANISH WOMEN

During the Last Half Century Their Progress Has Been Rapid

Standing face to face with a Government measure admitting them to full citizenship, Danish women looked back over a difficult way. The modern woman, as Denmark knows her to-day, dates back but fifty years in the history of the nation. Before that time, said Thora Daugaard, a woman leader of Copenhagen, all Danish women "sat behind the panes with downcast eyes." Since that time progress has been steady.

First came Mathilde Fibiger pleading for the mental enfranchisement of women. She was the first woman to be employed as an officer in the State Telegraph Company, and her views and achievements made her the target of relentless opposition. Then came Pauline Worm, pleading for women's economical freedom. Both virtually gave their lives to their causes. Then decade by decade the sentiment of the country changed, until in 1908 Danish women were given full municipal suffrage. In the interim legislation had been coerced in women's favor. The married woman's earnings and property were secured to her by law. The word "obey" was eliminated from the marriage ritual.

Professionally and economically women made their way up. There came to be women doctors, lawyers, dentists, journalists, and authors in the State of Denmark. Women got into State positions. Telegraph offices and postoffices ceased to make any distinction between men and women clerks. "The railroad and custom house employ women. So do private savings banks, and woman has her place in the offices of both Ministry and municipality."

According to Thora Daugaard's figures, there are 24,000 Danish women farmers and 24,000 Danish "business women," that is, employed in commerce. About 11,000 are engaged in home work—that is, in gainful occupations in the home. Six thousand women are proprietors of factories, there are 4,000 forewomen and 40,000 "hands." Fifteen hundred women are in the dairy business. Four thousand women teachers rule over mixed schools and schools for boys, and there are 70,000 women workers in the arts and trades.

Seen in the Orient

"Nothing made me so thankful that I was brought up in Canada as my visit to China and Japan," remarked Mrs. Ethel Cody Stoddard, journalist, of Vancouver when talking about a trip around the world. "The women in China work, work, work all the time. It is the land of the mother-in-law, and they keep them at it. All day long you see tiny, barefooted women carrying such heavy burdens as yokes loaded with bricks and doing such work as only men do in this country. The men do all the finer work there—embroideries and things like that.

"I was disappointed in Japan at first, for I expected to see all the brilliant colors in which Japan is usually pictured here in story and on the stage. Instead the streets were drab. The men wear grey or black kimonos and the women kimonos with dark blue and grey stripes or black and white stripes and dull dark parasols. Not a fan was in sight. Step into a tea-house though and you will see brilliantly-flowered kimonos. The Japanese are rather English in that they dress gaily in the house, but keep their sober colors for the street."

WHERE THE ROYAL LADIES GENERALLY TO THEIR SHOPPING

The Stores of Paris Are Frequented by Many Royal Shoppers

All the queens of Europe are faithful followers of the prevailing mode, and are without exception patrons of the Paris shops along the Rue de la Paix and in the Place Vendome. Even the far-away Empress of Japan, although she has not visited Europe, sends her orders regularly to Paris.

The Dowager Queen Alexandra of England is probably the best buyer of all the crowned heads. Her assortment of gloves rivals that of any other two selections, and it is said that she discards at least two pairs daily during the year. Her average expenditure in Paris for dresses and jewels each year is $30,000, and this does not cover new purchases in jewellery, but usually resetting.

The Dowager Queen of Portugal until recently was Alexandra's rival in the matter of Paris shopping. She has never been extravagant, as queens go, except in the matter of riding-habits, of which she has sometimes ordered thirty in the course of a year. They must be made without wrinkle or crease; and her normal purchase is six during a season. These are bought in a great dressmaking establishment in the Avenue de l'Opéra. She pays at the rate of $80 for a corset, and orders from a dozen to fifteen in the course of a twelvemonth. Amelia has always been famous for her horsemanship and for her figure, and when tight lacing was in vogue she once returned a corset to a Paris shop with an X-ray photograph of the ill results said to come from wearing it.

The Queen of Holland is also favorably disposed towards French dressmakers, although she frequents the shops of her own capital. Her Majesty's fondness for Nile green is a standing joke in Paris shops. The story is told that when she purchased a blue costume on one occasion the genuineness of the order was called in question by the firm, so seldom had she departed from the custom of selecting Nile green and white. The Queen smilingly confirmed the order on request, but is said to have chafed under the amusement caused by the story in her own circle, and to have withdrawn her patronage from that particular establishment.

Queen Helena of Italy has a taste for colors, and wears them with a true mountaineer indifference to vogue consistently with her Montenegrin origin. But her mother-in-law, Margharita, reverses this preference by appearing almost invariably in black. Margharita is the most popular of all crowned heads with costumiers both in Paris and in Rome. She gives away large orders to her ladies-in-waiting, and has all goods sent on approval to her in private.

The Empresses of Germany and Russia seldom visit the French capital, and perhaps have never been in the Rue de la Paix save in their carriages. But the young Queen of Spain and her cousins, the Crown Princess of Roumania and the Queen of Norway, often visit Paris together and incognito, making perfect frolics of their shopping tours.

REMEDY FOR THE EARACHE

Home Remedies for This Most Painful Malady

Earache is one of the most painful ailments of the body. To relieve it evaporate the alcohol from a teaspoonful of laudanum; add half as many drops as you started with, of glycerine or sweet oil. Make this lukewarm, and pour into the ear, taking hold of the upper tip and pulling toward the crown of the head.

Or wet a scrap of linen in a teaspoonful of laudanum, dry before a fire, cut into bits, place in the bowl of a tobacco pipe, light it, cover with a coarse handkerchief. Insert end of the stem (mouthpiece) [illegible] into the ear. Then apply the lips to the bowl and blow the smoke from the [illegible] of the laudanum into the ear.

Sometimes a few drops of [illegible] sweet oil dropped into the ear, [illegible] the head is so inclined that it will remain in the ear for several minutes, is [illegible].

A hot hop bag or [illegible] poultice applied to the ear as a [illegible] at night will often draw a gathering in the ear to a head, and cause it to break.

EXTRAORDINARY DEMAND FOR CHEWING GUM

First Used by Indians, One Generation Saw a Big Business Develop

More than 36,000,000 sticks of gum are manufactured annually to satisfy the lovers of this confection, a Toronto manufacturer declares. All of it is made of chicle, which comes from a gum tree in the tropics, the importation of chicle into the United States and Canada figuring up $2,000,000 a year. The chicle business has become a big industry in the South American republics. The gum tree is tapped very much the same as the rubber tree.

Spanish explorers found the Indians of this hemisphere chewing gum to quench their thirst away back in the fifteenth century, and they reported that it relieved exhaustion; but it was [illegible] before gum-chewing became a habit among the nations, so at least the gum-makers say, being guided in their opinions by the statistical records. Still, the oldest inhabitants say they always had gum. Rosin, or something else must have been chewed before the modern gum factory brought out a substitute that was better liked.

Since that time the demand for this commodity has increased to such an extent that important firms have been obliged to control the markets and complete the growing of the tree in order to obtain a supply sufficient to meet existing requirements.

Prior to 1900 chicle sold for from seven to eight cents a pound. Now it sells for $2 a pound. The chicle tree is indigenous to Northern South American countries, Central America, and some of the Mexican States.

Experiments have shown that trees planted at a distance of ten feet apart, or 400 to the acre, will yield from five to six pounds of chicle gum when from eight to ten years old. In their wild state the trees are usually found in groups, frequently growing to a height of from forty to fifty feet. Lands well adapted to the growing of the tree, once thought valueless unless the timber could be cut and transported, are now worth $15 an acre.

Wood Like Mahogany

The wood is of reddish color, closely resembling mahogany. It is quite hard, heavy, compact in texture, and fine grained. Prehistoric door frames and rafters of this wood are found among the Mexican ruins, and are still in excellent state of preservation. This wood is to-day greatly in demand by cabinet makers, who employ it in the manufacture of high grade furniture and household fittings. It is called zapote.

For many years the zapodilla plum, which also comes from the zapote tree, was a popular variety of fruit among the natives, but now on account of the great demand for chicle gum and the attractive rewards offered the fruit is seldom marketed.

The operation of gathering chicle and preparing it for market is similar to that employed in the maple sugar industry. Throughout the rainy season, and while the sap is up, the tapping is done. The outfit consists of nothing more than a piece of rope, and a machete. By means of this rope, which is fastened about the waist and slipped around the tree, the gatherer is enabled to hold any desired position, and wield the machete in cutting the incisions.

Care in Tapping

Great care must be exercised, as excessive bleeding of sap will cause the rapid decay of the tree. It is possible for one man to gather properly from ten to fifteen pounds of sap a day, for which he is paid, in most cases, a contract price from ten to fifteen cents a pound. In granting concessions to gather chicle in the national forest reservations the Latin-American Governments demand that natives shall be properly instructed in the gathering and preparation of the gum.

In some instances trees have been tapped for twenty-five years, where great care has been taken, although after that time they produced only from one-half pound to two pounds of the sap. However, if allowed to remain untapped for a period of five or six years they will then produce from three to five pounds of gum.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Uncle Dud Waxes Pessimistic Over the Baseball Outlook

I can't help harking back, upon occasions, to the days when baseball was a truly strenuous game, says "Uncle Dud," when it took nerve and genuine courage, as well as skill and judgment, to play up to the standard of the old time fan.

"It all makes me tired, this training camp business. Why, what do they have to train for nowadays? They're a bunch of mollycoddles, these ball players of to-day! Does a husky young athlete have to train in order to stop a ball with a hair mattress? Must he be physically groomed and mentally nurtured so that he may learn to hit a balloon with a base fiddle?

Why all the clamor about a professional ball player because he can be trusted to attempt a throw from one base to another with a fair degree of certainty that he won't throw the ball over the grandstand? Way back in the early '80's did you ever see a catcher wear a sofa pillow on the hand or a mattress all over his front elevation or armor plate on his shins?

No! Of course not; not even a mask! Infielders and outfielders alike played with bare hands, and a recruit couldn't even get a try-out if he had a straight finger on either hand! Everything about the game to-day tends towards automatic or mechanical baseball, and the time is coming, if [illegible] to-day, where it will be [illegible] as exciting for a spectator to look at as the machinery of a steam laundry in operation. If I live for a few more years I fully expect to see 'fielders' stopping low hit balls with a six-foot length of fence board and holding them with a machine gun [illegible]. [illegible] this is a dip-hat while sitting in a wheel chair propelled by a colored valet; pitchers will be carried from the field after one inning's work, and packed in medicated cotton batting for [illegible] days, attended by a [illegible] battery of trainers, masseurs, [illegible] operators and trained nurses. And, should he have chanced to pitch a hitless inning, the twirler's portrait will be blazoned on every sporting page in the land!

MME. NAZIMOVA

Nazimova, the noted Russian actress says that in acquiring command of the English language she derived great assistance from tracing new and unfamiliar words back to their Greek or Latin roots. This habit resulted in some curious mistakes before she became proficient in our language. For some time she thought "unique" meant "one horse," as she supposed the derivation was "uni"—one, "equus"—horse.

A STORY OF "BOBS"

Few people are acquainted with the story of how Lord Roberts won the Victoria Cross, the most coveted of all the honors a British soldier can gain. It was during the dark days of the Indian Mutiny, and the official record runs as follows: "On following up the retreating enemy on January 2, 1858, at Khodaganj, he saw in the distance two Sepoys going away with a standard. Lieutenant Roberts put spurs to his horse, and overtook them just as they were about to enter a village. They immediately turned round and presented their muskets at him, and one of the men pulled the trigger, but, fortunately the cap snapped, and the standard-bearer was cut down by the gallant young officer, and the standard taken possession of by him. He also, on the same day, cut down another Sepoy, who was standing at bay with musket and bayonet, keeping off a sowar. Lieutenant Roberts rode to the assistance of the horseman, and rushing at the Sepoy with one blow of his sword cut him across the face, killing him on the spot."

Quaint Ceremonial in Buddhist Temple Near Tokio

A five days' festival was held in Japan in celebration of the anniversary of the death of [illegible] Daishi, the founder of the Soto sect, one of the most important offshoots of Buddhism in Japan. The sect, which claims to be the most profound of all sects, aims entirely at salvation by the elimination of self.

On the last day of the festival was performed the rare ceremony of "[illegible]." In the Sojiji Temple 700 priests assembled and the Lord Abbot, wearing a gorgeous dress and carrying a short thick stick, presided over the supreme ceremony.

Before him knelt 150 priests, who desired promotion in the sect. The first priest approached and, bending his head before the Lord Abbot, submitted to him the question which had resulted from his period of meditation. "What would be the color of the maple leaves in the mountains?"

Up went the right arm of the Lord Abbot. Down came the stick on the shoulders of the candidate. "My son, their color would be redder than the tints of the flowers in May." Up again went the arm, down again came the the stick and the candidate retired.

The second candidate then advanced and bowed before the Lord Abbot. "What," he said in a piping voice, "should we do to escape the heat of summer and the cold of winter?" Down came the stick with a smart crack. "Go where there is neither heat nor cold, neither summer nor winter."

In rapid succession the other candidates followed, the jesting with the stick being regarded as a test whether candidates were capable of undergoing hardships in the name of Buddha.

BREAD UPON THE WATERS

Windfall of $125,000 as Sequel to an Act of Hospitality

A laborer's wife at Dunston-on-Tyne, near Gateshead, has come in for a windfall of $125,000.

Six years ago Mrs. Longson, then of South Shields, befriended a stalwart youth of her acquaintance by taking him into her house and giving him food and shelter when he was in need of help. This action, he said at the time, he should never forget. He went to Australia, and was engaged in farming operations on a large scale. His father, mother, brother and sister, and a friend joined him a few years ago, but they have all died, and the young man himself some months ago met with a fatal accident, his thigh being fractured by a fall of stone.

After his death it was found that by his will he had left all his personal estate, two farm lands, cattle, and a quantity of jewellery to Mrs. Longson. Mrs. Longson intends to remove to Chili, of which country her husband is a native.

PRIZE RING TRICKS

Famous Fighter Tells How His Speed and Wits Served Him

They have called me the trickiest fox that ever stepped into the prize ring," said "Kid" McCoy to an interviewer. "When I was fighting I lacked weight and strength, but I had speed and a head. Both served me well. In the prize ring, it is either win or quit, and I made up my mind to win when I first started. Old John L. Sullivan could take his punishment; Jeffries, in his prime, was a giant; Sharkey, the dray horse of the ring; Corbett, clever, while I had my wits. Some can take a licking and stand it. I could not, on account of my build, so, to succeed, it was necessary for me to develop some trump card of my own.

It has always been my opinion that my speed was the result of five years of my life spent travelling from here to there without tickets while my wits were drawn to a fine edge through their contact with life. At thirteen, I ran away from home, a slim kid and the last boy in the world any one would size up for a prize ring career. Speed soon developed from my efforts to catch moving trains in order to ride on the trucks. Of all the folks who travelled in this style I was the most adept of those I met. I could hook a rail and swing under on the trucks when a train was going at a good speed, and it requires quickness to do that. The hand and foot motions are simultaneous, and one miss is fatal. It was then I acquired the hand and foot movement that was to serve me so well in the ring later.

Discovered Great Trick

A trick which was to prove of far more value, however, I picked up as a result of this style of travelling and my slimness. For three years every brakeman on every railroad in the country had licked me and kicked me off the trains, and I had never fought back. The big idea came to me all in a minute one day when I was riding from Omaha to Denver in a box car.

"Throw up your hands," said a big brakeman, as he saw me huddled up in a corner. That is the formula of the freight. Then they go through you to see what you have of value and generally find nothing.

"Have you got any money?" this brakeman inquired.

"If I had," I answered, "I wouldn't be riding here."

"Where are you going?"

"Denver," I replied.

"Well you can't ride here. You'll have to get off."

"Why don't you throw that fellow over there off?" I asked pointing to a dark corner of the car.

He turned his head to see, and, as he turned, I hit and kicked him. Down he went, and the next time he got up somebody must have lifted him. I did not linger to find out.

Many times since have I applied that trick of "turning my man" learned in the freight car. Sometimes I have done it in jest, sometimes in earnest, often because of necessity, and most frequently in street fights. Long afterwards, I applied it in a fight in France.

Putting a Frenchman Out

Once, when I was in Paris with little money, they matched me to meet a French boxer who was to use la Savate method, which means you can hit with both your feet and hands. This was a new game to me, but the resultant money was a necessity, so I agreed to the match for seven hundred dollars. I got my money before the fight and then waited for developments.

My opponent came into the ring first.

As the dispute was to be in the Latin quarter, there were many women in the assemblage. From my dressing room, I could see the ring, and I watched the Frenchman try out his kicks and passes. After each kick he bowed to some woman at the ringside so that I sized him up at once as a man with an eye for beauty and a heart for romance. When I stepped into the ring he was still bowing.

"We went to the centre of the ring and I said to him:

"See the handsome lady that just came in," nodding over his shoulder at the same time.

He took the bait and turned. He saw nothing, but felt a jar on the jaw which sent him to the mat for five minutes. Before the crowd realized what had happened, I picked up my [illegible] and was on my way to the dressing room.

Trick Learned in Bull Fight

Observation will teach a fighter many tricks. I had not been in the [illegible] long before I discovered no man [illegible] [illegible] in the ring, no matter [illegible]. I learned this [illegible] a bull fight in Mexico. [illegible] you ever saw one, you [illegible] how the toreador avoids the charges of the maddened bull. He never meets them, but steps aside as the animal lowers his head. It taught me that, if I kept going from side to side, no man could rush me in the ring. The idea has since been applied with great success. I fought against the heaviest men in the game, and none was able to rush me.

KARL HAGENBECK WILD ANIMAL KING

The Career of the Great Animal Trainer, a Man Born Into His Work

Karl Hagenbeck when a boy was told by his father that he must choose whether he would become a fishmonger or a dealer in wild animals. Karl said that he would take the wild animals, though his father advised him to stick to the fish. This was the beginning of a remarkable career, for before he died Hagenbeck was recognized as the greatest dealer in wild animals that the world had ever seen. He was the middleman. On one side of him stood the hunters who, inspired by a love of adventure, penetrated the uttermost corners of the earth and at the risk of their lives captured alive elephants and lions, snakes and crocodiles. At the other side were the great circuses and the zoological gardens. The captured animals were bought by Hagenbeck and sent to his clearing-house in Hamburg. Thence they were despatched as orders arrived, to England and the United States, and even to the old Toronto Zoo, with which the name of Harry Piper is so intimately associated.

A Lover of Wild Animals

There are two reasons for the phenomenal success of Hagenbeck. The first is that he was the first man in the field. Before his time there had been no organized, business-like effort to scour the wilds for animals and resell them at a profit. The second reason is that he had a real love for the wild beasts, just as a dog fancier has for his pets. This affection for the beasts caused him to take the utmost care of them, and the result was that the percentage of losses in shipments of thousands of miles was remarkably small. His love for the beasts also made him a keen observer of their habits, and this observation led on many occasions to him devising some new trick for them, and, although he rarely appeared in public as a trainer, his knowledge was passed on to others, the capacities of the animals were explored, and the business of training received a great impetus which rebated to Hagenbeck in the form of larger orders.

Patience and Kindness

That he was a remarkable judge not only of animals, but of men, is illustrated in the career of Mehrmann, his brother-in-law. Mehrmann was a little grocer who had failed a couple of times in business, and who seemed destined to be a drag on the family. His incapacity was only equaled by his timidity, and when the masterful Karl announced that he intended to make the bankrupt a trainer of wild beasts everybody who knew Mehrmann supposed that Hagenbeck was choosing a speedy way of getting rid of him. The victim himself was paralyzed with fright, but he was driven into a cage where there was a number of young lions. To his astonishment the beasts did not instantly devour him, and presently he conquered his terror and approached the animals, which manifested neither anger nor fear. This was the beginning of the career of one of the most successful trainers of animals in history. Hagenbeck had detected in his children brother-in-law qualities of patience and kindness that showed him to be a born trainer of beasts once his terror of them [illegible] be [illegible]. Like other middlemen, Hagenbeck owed much of his success to his ability to get in touch with the best producers. Hagenbeck established at Stellingen, a suburb of Hamburg, the most remarkable park ever seen. It was stocked, at the time of an inventory a few years ago, with 2,000 wild beasts, and was laid out in an unusual manner, the idea being to reproduce as far as possible the natural habitat of the prisoners. In a jungle, for instance, some fifty lions roamed, while hippopotami swam in a river, and rhinoceros whisked away the flies in a swamp. To a visitor it appeared as though these animals were at large, and that the tigers were about to spring upon the deer, but the park was so arranged and guarded by means of hidden iron fences and concrete ravines that the animals could do each other no harm and were as much under the control of their keepers as though they had been in iron cages. To this park came visitors from all parts of the world.

It was also decided to request the visitors who do the active work of the society to collect with their boxes through the city during the week.

Fatal Play With a Gun

A shocking fatality occurred near Middleton, Cork, the victim being a little boy named John Murphy, aged eight, a son of Mr. Timothy Murphy, a farmer. The boy was shot in his house by his brother Charles, who was playing with a gun which happened to be loaded, and suddenly went off. The injured boy shortly after the occurrence died as a result of the injuries.

Weak, Tired Folks Given New Vigor

[illegible] [illegible], HEALTH RENEWED, VITALITY OF YOUTH RE-CREATED

[illegible] and Bodily Tiredness Every Day Being Turned Into Vigor and Ambition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

From Chebogue Pt., N.S., comes the following from Mrs. W. A. Reynolds: "A year ago my health began to fail, I lost my appetite, became nervous and sleepless. My weight ran down, I became thin, hollow-cheeked, and black rings under my eyes. I really felt as if the charm of life had left me and when spring-time arrived I was in the 'blues.' I read of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and got five boxes at once.

"Within a month my appetite and color were good. I gained strength and felt like a new woman. New life and vigor returned, and my friends scarcely knew me. A medicine that will do this should be in every home."

Good health means much to you. [illegible] and happiness depend upon [illegible] maintenance and source of [illegible] found in Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Tax Collector Green's "At-Home."

Mr. W. J. Green, city tax collector, wishes to announce to the ratepayers (ladies in particular) or those who are concerned, that he will be "At-Home" at his office, No. 128 Simcoe street, city buildings, during all next week, beginning Monday, 10th inst., until Saturday, 15th inst., to receive the last instalment of taxes. Kindly bring your tax bills and come early to avoid the rush. Tea and cakes will not be served. After the 15th inst., 5 per cent will be added to all unpaid taxes. Hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Don't leave your tax bills at home on the piano.

Local Tobacconists.

The meeting of local tobacconists and cigar dealers, including most of the local barber shops, as first foretold in The Times, held a meeting at the White House. The meeting, among other matters, considered the inadvisability of selling ten cent cigars, costing from $50 to $55 a thousand for four for 25 cents. No decision was attained at the meeting. However, a personal canvas was made among the dealers referred to. Unless a unanimous decision is reached to sign an agreement including a heavy forfeit for selling a cigar too cheaply, the movement may fall through.

The Children's Hour.

This new departure in library work will be started on Tuesday next, Nov. 11th, at 4.15 p.m. All children between the ages of seven and ten are eligible to be present, at Peterborough Public Library on that occasion. The object of the "Children's Hour" is to interest and instruct the young. The meeting next Tuesday will be more or less of a preliminary character in the way of telling the children just what they may expect to hear and learn during the Hour. It has not yet been fully decided as to how often the meeting will be held but when the new scheme is fully launched and in good working order a regular schedule will be adopted.

Local Man in Big Deal.

Toronto World: "Expressing great satisfaction over his belief that he is now practically a millionaire, Mr. William Gray, of London, was today telling Toronto friends much about his marvelous quicksilver mine, which he claims to be one of the most wonderful in the world. He is here on his way home from California, and left for London this evening. Mr. Gray says that, whereas he expected the ore to assay at three eighths of one per cent., Hays & Co., the assayers, show it to contain 2.72 per cent. of quicksilver, or 54.9 pounds to the ton." In reference to the above it might be noted that Mr. T. E. Bradburn, ex-M.P.P., is one of the 17 shareholders in the company. From reports given by engineers it would seem that there is two and a half million dollars in sight. There is no stock for sale.

Old Local Prices.

A local citizen in conversation with a Times representative yesterday regarding the present high cost of living, showed the scribe an old meat bill dated Nov. 30th, 18[illegible]. The bill was payable to Winch Bros., [illegible] George Street, New Market Building. It contained such items as a pair of chickens, 40 cents; 10½ pound sirloin roast, $1.1; 11 pounds turkey, 75 cents, etc. As compared with Gordon Davies & Co., are paying 40 cents per pound for chicken "broilers."

Business Good Here.

Mr. John A. Clift, representing Dun's Mercantile Agency, was a guest at the National Hotel yesterday. This is his semi-annual tour of inspection of business and manufacturing conditions in Peterborough. He remarked to the Times "Your city is in a healthy state of growth. Business conditions are in better shape here, generally speaking than in any town of similar population in Canada."

She Found Dynamite.

A lady living on Albert Street got a scare yesterday. When her husband arrived home for dinner, she met him, her face white with anxiety, and said "—— walk lightly out to the shed. There's a stick of dynamite soaking in a pail of water. I found it just inside the gate that the boys tried to steal on Hallowe'en. I'll bet those boys left that stick there to try and blow the gate off its hinges." Her husband, looking into the pail remarked "You have spoiled a good Roman candle."

LATEST FROM APSLEY

Yesterday morning a resident of McDonnel Street came down stairs, and after heating a half filled pot of coffee, took a long swallow. He took a short cut to the back yard and had a long stomachic unloading. One of his children had put washing soda in the coffee to clean the pot.

A Hunter's Experience.

Mr. Alfred Dale was out shooting partridges on the Peterborough Lumber Company's limits in Anstruther, a few days ago. As Mr. Dale was following hot on the trail of a drumming partridge he was confronted by a big black bear. Mr. Dale suddenly remembered some uncomplete business requiring his attention. Bruin also thought the fine weather might not last and made rapidly for his den—a cave in the hillside. Mr. Dale, seeing that the bear was making for home, may have thought the home business might be put off a day or two. He followed the bear. When he arrived at the entrance to the bear's den, he saw a black snout in front of two bright [illegible] eyes protruding. He let drive with a charge of small shot. He again remembered that important business at home. Next day, Mr. Dale, with his wife made a call at the den. Here they found poor bruin stuck in death, with a hole as big as a politician's misconception of his duty bored in the bear's head. The skin is now in the city being tanned.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA, GAS OR INDIGESTION

Each "Pape's Diapepsin" digests 3,000 grains food, ending all stomach misery in five minutes.

Time it! Pape's Diapepsin will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach surely within five minutes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain enough "Pape's Diapepsin" to keep the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your home.

GERMAN NAVY SENDS DREADNOUGHT PAIR AROUND THE WORLD

London, Nov. 7—Germany's departure in naval policy, announced to-day is the latest evidence of German realization that political and commercial prestige depends on naval power.

For the first time her battleships are leaving home waters, namely, two of the newest and most powerful Dreadnoughts, the Kaiser and the Konig Albert, to show the German flag round the world, especially to promote German commercial interests in West Africa and South America. They will be escorted by the Strassburg, one of the swiftest small cruisers of the high sea fleet.

The Berlin correspondent of the Times records this development as contributing to the efficiency of the German navy.

Fortune Turns Russian's Head; Has High Old Time While it Lasts

Vienna, Nov. 8.—The career of a Russian, Vladimir Njelichin, who dissipated a fortune in a year and is now a crossing sweeper, is told in the Wiener Journal. He was determined to live either at the top or at the bottom of the ladder.

Unaccustomed to wealth he unexpectedly inherited $312,500 from his mother a year ago. He began to live in the most expensive manner in St. Petersburg, keeping a yacht and race horses. He gave the finest entertainments to his friends, in the course of which mirrors in the restaurants were frequently broken through the throwing of champagne bottles and glasses, but he cheerfully paid the bill.

Last week, discovering that he had come to the end of his money, he invited all his friends to a fete on an island, whither they were taken in his yacht. The day passed in revelry. When the last visitor had been landed on the way home, Njelochin sank his yacht, so that no one should use it after him.

Recently he applied to the municipality of St. Petersburg for a job as crossing-sweeper at $15 a month and got it.

A NOVEL CONTEST AT HICKS' ELEVATOR

Public Invited to Take Part in Estimating Contest.

The public are invited to take part in an Estimating Contest, to be held this afternoon at the Robert Hicks' new coal elevator, at the corner of Bethune and Charlotte streets. The elevator recently perfected will be in operation for the inspection of visitors.

A wagon will be loaded to show customers receive the real goods, and to the person whose estimate of the weight of the load nearest to the actual figures will be presented with two tons of Screened Scranton Coal. In the event of more than one person estimating the amount to the weight, one ton of coal will be given to each of the first three.

The contest will be held from three to four o'clock.

NEW HORRORS OF BALKAN WAR BARED

Prof. Dutton Sent Over as One of Investigating Board—Tells of Barbarities.

New York, Nov. 8.—Prof. Samuel T. Dutton of Teachers' College, who was named by President Butler of Columbia to represent this country on an international commission to study the causes and effects of the war in the Balkan states, returned to New York Sunday morning and gave today to The Herald and first statement of the work there for the Carnegie Peace Foundation. With an Englishman, a Russian, and a Frenchman, Prof. Dutton, travelled through the Balkans, gathering data on the second war, when the allies against Turkey turned on each other for a division of the spoils.

The report of the commission will be ready in about two months and will represent the first attempt of an impartial international committee to determine all the causes and the effects—economic, social and moral—of a great conflict.

Prof. Dutton said:

No published statements have described adequately the tragedies that have taken place under the name of war. The report will contain accurate and carefully attested accounts of the whole war of the allies that have not yet been made known. I am sure the world will be amazed that nations calling themselves Christians can, either through anger or greed, commit such barbarities on their fellowmen. Certainly there has never been a war in 200 years in which the combatants fought with such ferocity, and never an event so unnecessary and uncalled for as the war in which those standing side by side in the struggle to drive the Turk out of Europe began to rend each other and to use every known process of extermination and devastation.

Prof. Mulveney Known All Over the World

Proprietor of World's Famous Tape Worm Exterminator

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. It is of four shapes, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are connected together. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each section is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a basin of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite, without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, feeding itself from the body of the person, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal disease, and causes the victim to suffer all the symptoms of [illegible]

PRESIDENT PREPARES TO FIGHT FOR LIFE OF HIS CURRENCY BILL

Three Senators of His Own Party Are Siding With Opposition—Bankers Becoming Alarmed at Prospect of No Legislation at All

Washington, Nov. 8.—The deadlock over the administration currency bill in the Senate banking committee continued to-day and the administration supporters, by a tie vote, six to six, failed to carry a proposal to increase the number of regional reserve banks.

Senator O'Gorman proposed a resolution to allow the federal reserve board to fix the number of banks at not less than four nor more than eight. Committee was deadlocked.

The petition for a Democratic conference to discuss the currency bill was signed by a number of Senators to-day, when it became known that the committee was deadlocked.

Washington, Nov. 8.—If all reports are true a battle royal will soon take place on the floor of the senate over the Glass-Owen bill, the administration's fight being directed by Mr. Wilson himself from the president's room in the capitol. It was said at one time that Mr. Wilson might smash another precedent by occupying a seat in the gallery of the senate while the debate progresses, but if such a design was ever harbored by the president it has been definitely abandoned. Senators are less amenable to White House discipline than are members of the lower house. Indeed the senate sharing many executive functions with the president, while at the same time being a co-ordinate branch of the national legislature, your senator considers himself more important than a member of the cabinet. More than one president has found himself outwitted and the policy of his administration blocked by a small junta of his party friends in the senate.

The senate does not go after the president with an axe; it is more apt to encompass his destruction by a hypodermic injection. Every Democrat in the senate is praising the president and his efforts to reform the currency conditions of the country, but three of their number [illegible] with the Republican members [illegible] banking and currency committee [illegible] the administration's [illegible] long show [illegible] of [illegible]. They intend to sew the pieces together and make a new [illegible] after their own fashion, which is likely to be repudiated as a measure by Chairman Glass and Senator Owen.

BANNER PROVINCE OF THE DOMINION

Thousands of Acres of the Richest Mineral Areas Are Untouched in New Ontario.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Hon. W. H. Hearst, provincial minister of mines, addressed the Canadian Club here to-day on the subject of "Northern Ontario, Its Land and Resources." There was a large attendance, which included Hon. Geo. E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce.

Mr. Hearst gave a very interesting address in which he cited figures to show the vastness of the land of Northern Ontario.

"There are thousands of acres of the richest mineral areas which have never yet heard the hammer of the prospector. Moreover there are thousands of acres which will in time supplement hundreds of thousands of settlers and will keep Ontario as she is to-day, the banner province of the Dominion.

COLLIER BOAT MAY HAVE BEEN WRECKED

Grave Fears Are Entertained for the Safety of Dominion Coal Company's Ship "Bridgeport."

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Grave fears are entertained in shipping circles here to-day that the Dominion Coal Co. collier Bridgeport is lost.

She sailed from Sydney last Saturday with a full cargo of coal for this port, and was due here on Monday last or at the latest early on Tuesday. Since she cleared from her port for her 19th trip of the season, not a single word has been heard from her. She should have been signalled from Fame Point 30 hours after sailing from port, but the vessel has not reached that point yet.

There was a report at the Marine Signal office yesterday that a two masted steamer had passed Cape Rosier, and it was thought that this might be the missing collier, but later reports from that place proved that the hope was in vain.

She is in command of Capt. Olsen, with a crew of 42 men.

PRINCE'S CAR KILLS FOUR-YEAR-OLD GIRL

Potsdam, Germany, Nov. 8.—A 4-year-old girl, knocked down by an automobile in which Prince Friedrich Leopold of Prussia was driving here to-day, died after the prince had conveyed her to an hospital. The accident was caused by the girl darting across the street in front of the motor car, too late for the driver to avoid her.

AUSTRALIAN LINER HAS FIGHT AT SEA

New York, Nov. 8.—The Australian Barque Laura is in port to-day with Captain Martin and his crew of six men from the wrecked Nova Scotia steamer Gypsum Emperor, which was abandoned at sea on Oct. 31, about 60 miles southeast of Nantucket lightship.

The skipper said he took the schooner out of New York on Oct. 27 going seaward through Long Island Sound. Three days later he got into a blow from the northwest that carried away his main rigging. Early the next morning the mizzen mast went and one of his life boats was smashed to bits when a comber swept aft, carrying away his spanker boom.

With the terrific pounding the Gypsum Emperor received, her seams opened and she began to sink. The pumps had been put out of commission and she was in a bad way when at 9 a.m. she sighted an eastbound steamship. Captain Martin said he burned a flare light and the steamship bore down upon him, signalling that she would take off the crew if he could keep afloat until daybreak.

With the first streaks of dawn a lifeboat came out from the steamship, which was the Barcelona, bound from Philadelphia to Hamburg. She took the crew aboard without mishap and proceeded on her course. On Nov. 4 she signalled the westbound Laura, which stood by. Captain Martin and his men were transferred to the Laura by one of the Barcelona's lifeboats. The crew saved nothing but the clothes they wore.

HARRY WILL BE DISAPPOINTED

Says Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw, Who Is Genuinely Upset When She Hears News.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw, who is performing at a local theatre, seemed genuinely upset when told that Governor Felker of New Hampshire, had granted the New York authorities extradition application in the case of her husband, Harry K. Thaw, who escaped from Matteawan last August.

"I am deeply grieved," she said. "I am sure that Harry will be terribly disappointed. Harry is not really insane now and is the best man in the world when he has not been drinking. If Jerome would only stop persecuting him and allow his family to take care of him, he would be all right.

"The cruel manner in which he has been hounded," continued Mrs. Thaw "cannot help but injure his mind. It would anybody's."

Mrs. Thaw would not deny that there was a possibility of her rejoining her husband, if he won out in his fight for freedom.

WEALTHY MAN SENT TO PRISON FOR LIFE

Atoka, Okla., Nov. 8.—W. A. Borah, a wealthy merchant, was found guilty last night of murdering his wife and their daughter, and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The bodies of the victims were found in the ruins of the Borah home after a fire on the night of August 30 last. Borah escaped from the burning house in his night clothes.

Practical Calculation of Consequences Will Likely Prevent Invasion—Early Success Would Require Such —Must Have Luck

Berlin, Nov. 8.—Major Moraht, The Tageblatt's military critic, considers there is still a possibility that America's practical calculation of consequences will prevent United States troops from crossing the Mexican frontier.

The total available armed force of the United States, he reckons at about 80,000 men and [illegible], who will be opposed by [illegible] men and 2100 officers. [illegible]

But the opposition to an invading army, he thinks, will in a great measure reunite the Mexicans. For effective invasion he considers the United States should have nearly four times the strength of their opponents in such an undertaking, said Major Moraht, to land troops in a country whose inhabitants are trained to guerilla warfare, and adds that with bad communications there would be great obstacles to bringing up reserves unless every square mile of intervening country was really occupied. All these things would render a summary invasion by the United States almost impossible. The navy, he says, may land several thousand men for a march to the capital, but to hold the line of communication with the sea would require at least ten times the number of the expeditionary force.

Must Have Luck.

The United States, he argues, must have much luck and must spend millions of dollars if it hopes to achieve success without a long wearisome war. From a military standpoint, however, he says, it must be admitted that such success is possible with the gigantic force of the nation and financial power mobilized against its smaller, poorer opponent.

Theodore Schiemann, the Kaiser's cruising companion and editor of The Kreuz Gazette, thinks President Wilson's explanations of the desires and intentions of the United States regarding "Latin States" is too good for this wicked world. He adds "It is to be hoped that he has not expressed them in similar terms in his communication to the European Powers, because as far as we know they have no relation whatever to the traditional policy of the United States and its commercial customs."

VINCENT ASTOR TO WED NEXT SPRING

Young Financier Will Marry Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington of Staatsburg.

New York, Nov. 8.—Vincent Astor, confirmed, through his secretary to-day, the announcement that he was engaged to marry Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington, of Staatsburg, N.Y. The wedding, it is understood, will take place next spring.

Young Astor inherited about $65,000,000 from the estate of his father, the late Col. John Jacob Astor, who perished on the Titanic. He will be 22 years old this month. The bride-to-be is 20. The Astor country place adjoins that of the Huntingtons at Staatsburg, which is a few miles north of Poughkeepsie, and the young people have known each other since childhood. Miss Huntington is a grand-daughter of the late William B. Dinsmore, a millionaire resident of Tuxedo.

WIRE SUSPENDERS NEWEST STYLE FOR LONDON BOBBIES

Suffragettes Adopted Mean Tactics—Police Torn Between Duty and Modesty

London, Nov. 8.—The police have been subjected to considerable criticism for the small number of arrests they made at the recent Bow Baths riot in the east end, when Sylvia Pankhurst was rescued by her followers, but modesty has proven of the London policeman from coming forward with a perfectly adequate excuse for his small suffragette bag.

The story of the newest form of militant strategy might never have been made public had not some of the victorious suffragettes boasted about it to their friends.

According to these fighters, every time a policeman grasped a suffragette, one of her comrades told off for that purpose would rip open the officers coat and cut his suspenders. Torn between conflicting senses of duty and modesty the constable had to sacrifice his capture or his dignity and every one who knows the London "bobby" will guess that the prisoner escaped. The troubles of the much abused police did not end with the escape of their prisoners, for when they were lined up before the inspector to report off duty, they got a rating for their failure to stand at attention with their hands at their sides. The chaffing of their comrades in the station house when they discovered the cause for this slackness did not add to their happiness. It is said that when Miss Pankhurst was arrested the next night at Poplar town hall, her capture had provided for a repetition of the attack by anchoring their trousers up securely that severe snipping of the suspenders did not cause them any concern.

LIVED UNDER SIX BRITISH RULERS

Guelph, Nov. 8.—Mrs. John Mitchell died at her home on Queen street last night, in her 100th year. She was a life-long resident, and her memory was stored with events in the early history of Guelph and Wellington County. She lived under six British sovereigns. Several months ago, when a son of Mrs. Mitchell's died the strange event occurred of a man of 80 years being buried from his mother's residence.

VARSITY HARRIERS WIN THE INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Toronto Team Scored Least Points in the Big Annual Cross-Country Jaunt

Montreal, Nov. 8.—The University of Toronto team won the annual intercollegiate cross country championship this morning with 20 points. Twenty runners representing four teams of five picked men each from Universities of McGill, Toronto, Queen's and the Royal Military College, faced Professor McLeod, who acted as starter. The course covered a distance of about five miles. Starting from the McGill gate the harriers made a circuit of the campus and then broke away through the college grounds to Milton street and Fletcher's field, where they crossed the park and made for the mountain. For two miles they traversed the road to a given point and then turning followed the same course back to the campus, where they finished in front of the grandstand.

Campbell, the start of the Toronto team, who holds the Varsity record for mile and three miles, took the lead at the outset with Hendy and Dykes, both of Toronto, following close at his heels. McGill's representative followed close behind the Toronto men, and it was evident almost from the outset that the competition lay between McGill and Varsity.

The first man to finish, however, was Morris, of the R.M.C. team with the fair time of 30 minutes and 27 seconds. The next twelve to finish were: Dykes, Toronto; White McGill; Gotrie, McGill; Cleff Toronto; Hendy, Toronto; Campbell, Toronto; Hague, McGill; Kennedy, Toronto; Poole, Queen's; Cambridge, McGill; Morton, R.M.C.

The final result by points was: Toronto 20, McGill 41.

BAVARIA'S KING TAKES THE OATH

Munich, Bavaria, Nov. 8.—Ludwig III., the new king of Bavaria, who replaces the mad King Otto, took the oath to-day in the throne room of the palace with the simple formula prescribed by the Bavarian constitution, "I swear to rule according to the constitution and the imperial laws, so help me God and His Holy Scriptures."

The new King had previously delivered a short speech, giving his pledge to devote himself to co-operation with the Bavarian Parliament in furthering the cultural and economic progress of Bavaria.

CARRIED HIS EAR IN HANDKERCHIEF

Montreal, Nov. 8.—When Joseph Romaine was taken to the Western Hospital in the ambulance yesterday he carried with him his right ear, wrapped in a pocket handkerchief.

Shortly after his admission to the institution when the doctors found that the loss of an ear was the only injury sustained in his fall from a scaffold, the sewed the member to its accustomed place at the side of Romaine's head, and they anticipate that the ear will be as good as ever. The ear was cut cleanly from the head when Romaine in his fall struck a guy wire.

WOT 'E WAS.

Dr. Gore, the Bishop of Birmingham, was standing on the curb, waiting for a cab one day, when two little street arabs came up behind and began to discuss his black clerical attire, one of them being especially struck by the bishop's [illegible] gaiters.

"Wot's 'e, Bill?" asked this youth of his companion.

"Oh," was the reply, "don't you know what 'e is? 'E's a Scotchman in mourning, of course."

THE BAN IN ONTARIO

Hitherto banning the press has been the monopoly of Quebec. The "good" work has now been extended into Ontario. The Catholic clergy of Berlin, Ont., have banned The Sentinel from the Berlin Public Library! Catholic papers are taken there, and Catholics are not compelled to read The Sentinel. But that does not matter. The Catholic clergy have now forbidden Protestants to read it—and the Berlin Free (?) Public Library Board, consisting of a majority of Protestants, has supinely submitted. The Sentinel is barred. Well! If all Ontario municipalities and boards are as stupid as the Berlin Board, why not hand our liberties over to the Church on a charger! It would save [illegible] time, both here and in the intermediate state. Canada is getting to be a great country, surely.

Belfast, Nov. 10.—A resolution to pay no taxes under an Irish home rule Parliament, and to make government under the rule impossible by [illegible] and continuous obstruction of the law, was passed here today at demonstration of six thousand business men of Ulster, including representatives of leading firms with an aggregate capital of upward of $[illegible],000,000.

BELGIUM LIKE CANADA HAS ITS BIG BILINGUAL TROUBLES

Flemish and French Are the Two Rival Languages—Official Papers in Both

Toronto, Nov. 8.—In an interview at the King Edward Hotel, Etienne de Sadeleer, a prominent Belgian, stated that his country had one important question to deal with, that was also receiving attention in Canada. That was the bilingual question. French and Flemish were the two rival languages in Belgium, and all official documents are required to be printed in both languages. In the parliament the prayer is in Flemish and French on alternate days.

The question is settled in the schools as follows: In the Flemish provinces the Flemish language prevails in the lower schools and in the other provinces the French language is used in the lower schools. In the middle grade schools both languages are used and in the high schools and universities French is the accepted language.

FEDERAL COURTS TO DEAL WITH THAW

Concord, [illegible]—Governor Felker, [illegible] the extradition of [illegible] for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw. The case is now transferred automatically to the federal courts, where a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Thaw is pending.

The Governor based his decision on the indictment returned against Thaw in New York County and which charged him with conspiracy to escape from the insane asylum at Matteawan, N.Y., to which he was committed following his trial for the killing of Stanford White.

Thaw's attorneys announced that they would file immediately an amendment to their petition for a writ of habeas corpus application for which was made soon after Thaw was arrested in this state following his deportation from Canada. The original petition was based on the allegation that Thaw had been indicted for conspiracy by the Dutchess County grand jury, and it was suspended pending the Governor's decision on the matter of extradition.

Little Girl Captures Fox And Brings It Home Alive

Sparta, Nov. 10.—A red fox, nearly full grown, was captured and brought home alive and uninjured Tuesday by Angie Decker, a [illegible]-year-old girl, who lives a mile from Sparta on the Lafayette road.

The girl was walking in the woods near her home, when her dog ran the fox into a crevice from which it could not escape. Angie reached into the hole, drew the fox out, and carried it off, succeeding in preventing the animal from biting her.

The woods in the neighborhood are infested with wild [illegible] [illegible]

MALE PARENTS TO PRODUCE ANIMAL LIFE NOT NEEDED

Has Been Amply Proved, Says Noted Chicago Scientist in Newly-Published Book

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Production of animal life without a male parent, has become a reality according to a book by Jacques Loeb, entitled "Artificial Parthenogenesis and Fertilization" just issued by the Chicago University Press.

Dr. Loeb, who is head of the department of experimental biology at Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, says in his introduction:

"Since physiologists who are not familiar with the literature often state that artificial creation of [illegible] without the intervention of the male element does not lead to the production of larvae capable of development, it might be well to point out that such statements are contrary to fact. VICTIMS OF CANCER

Increase in the Number of Deaths Last Year Compared With 1851

Cancer statistics by the Society for the Prevention and Relief of Cancer show that in 1851 17,[illegible] persons died in the United Kingdom from cancer, a rate of 497 per million persons living. Last year the number of deaths was 42,134, or 900 out of every million persons living.

In 1851 the percentage of cancer deaths to deaths from all causes in England and Wales was [illegible]; last year it had risen to [illegible]. The highest percentage of deaths—12.2—occurred in the case of men between forty-five and fifty-five years of age. In the case of women it was between the ages of thirty-five and forty-five, and reached 18.6.

Brazil Is Progressive

A great scheme of public improvements, involving an expenditure of $20,000,000, has been inaugurated in Sao Paulo, Brazil, which is the capital of the coffee-growing State which bears the same name. The name of this city is known to comparatively few persons, but it is a thriving place of nearly 400,000 inhabitants, and it is estimated at the present rate of growth the number will reach the million mark in fifteen years. The improvements contemplated include impressive boulevards, asphalted streets and garden effects at different points throughout the city. The place already has an opera house which is as fine as any other in the world, and the old cathedral will be torn down and a two-million-dollar structure erected in its place. The latter item is not included in the twenty millions which is to be devoted entirely to municipal improvements.

Ironing With the Feet

A writer in "The Wide World Magazine" says that the most curious sight he saw at Cairo was men ironing clothes with their feet! The men were employed in the native tailoring establishments. Except for the long handle, the irons were shaped like the ordinary flat-iron, only larger. A solid block of wood rested on the top of the iron, and on this the man placed one foot, guiding the iron in the desired direction by means of the handle. For the sake of convenience, ironing-boards were raised only a few inches from the ground, and the work was done very well and very expeditiously.

Russians Heavy Drinkers

Nearly all the alcohol made in Russia, which is derived almost wholly from potatoes, is used in the manufacture of intoxicants.

In Doing Up Fruit

It is well to look at all canned fruit a week or so after it is put away. By that time air bubbles will have arisen if they are to appear. When these are evident, cook the fruit again.

In making marmalades or preserves it is well to put the fruit and sugar into the kettle in alternate layers. The fruit, of course, is put in first. Stir occasionally to prevent the mixture catching.

It is always a good plan to rinse the preserving kettle with cold water. The moisture on the bottom and side is a factor in preventing the fruit burning.

In making jelly let the fruit juice drip through the jelly bag. When no more drips easily, the remainder of the fruit may be squeezed, but keep this liquid separate. Use it in making marmalade or a second-grade jelly. It will taste as well but will not be as clear as the drip jelly.

A new type of glove stretcher has been patented by a Canadian Woman. A base has two glove forms rising from it, in the attitude of a person approached by a highwayman. These forms consist of separable parts that are movable away from each other, or rather, one is stationary in each case and its companion is movable. The thumbs are also made on the same principle. The movement of the forms is controlled by a lever which is operated by the wheel in front. To stretch a pair of gloves, draw them over the forms tautly. Then turn the lever and the movable section of each form will separate from the stationary section, the double thumbs, performing the same movement. As will be readily understood, this expands and stretches the gloves gradually and without straining the stitching if done properly.

Judge on Woman's Dress

"I have heard," said Judge Craig, the Belfast Recorder, addressing the jury in a case in which evidence was given in regard to the wearing apparel of the accused, "that a good many ladies spend the sermon time in church in studying the dress of their lady friends. A new hat, a new bonnet, a new bow, or even a pair of gloves, is written down in the tablets of their memory. Our Point of View

What are we to think of a people like the Mexicans, who select Sunday as the day for elections, bull fights and cock ing mains?

From all accounts the Tammany Tiger has been suffering from a severe case of indigestion ever since it got the Hon Bill Sulzer's goat.

ESSEX COUNTY ENTERPRISE

The County Council of Essex has voted to submit to the people of the district a proposition to be voted on next January of appropriating a million dollars for good roads, the roads to be built of concrete.

Windsor, opposite Detroit, is the county seat of the county. It has some streets made of that material and across the river are the roads of Wayne county that have been tested now for two or three years and thus far have been so successful that the National Lincoln Highway Association has been formed with headquarters at Detroit and the principal officers live in that city. They have thus far secured between five and six million dollars toward the ten million needed and their activity is due to their experience with that kind of road. It is not the only kind of good road, but it proves to be so good that the Detroit men and their associates, living in every State, are satisfied to build a road of that material from New York to San Francisco.

The farmers of Essex county are familiar with the Wayne county roads and find that such roads make just as good sidewalks as they do routes of travel for teams or motor cars. It is regarded as certain that the citizens of that county will approve of the resolution when it comes to a popular vote.

The case is remarkable because Essex is almost wholly a rural county and it is only from the object lessons across the river that they are persuaded of the profit to themselves of building a system of county roads after the manner of those in Michigan.

Many Reasons Why Liquid Cough Mixture Can't Cure Bronchitis

But the Healing Balsams of Catarrhozone, Which Are Breathed to the Furthest Recesses of the Bronchial Tubes, Bring Quick Relief and Sure Cure.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs, attacks the trouble at its source, disperses the germs of disease, and cures the ailments thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from catarrh in the nose and throat for over eight years. I think I have spent four hundred dollars trying to get relief. I have spent but six dollars on Catarrhozone, and have been completely cured, and in fact have been well for some time. Catarrhozone is the only medicine I have been able to find that would not only give temporary relief but will always cure permanently. Yours sincerely, (Signed) WILLIAM HAGAN, Brockville, Ont.

For absolutely permanent cure use Catarrhozone. Two months' outfit costs $1.00; smaller size, 50c. at all storekeepers and druggists or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y. and Kingston, Canada.

RADIUM MONOPOLY.

The commercial project to secure a monopoly of radium ought to fail. Radium has opened to view a range of yet unmeasured possibilities in the cure of diseases hitherto uncurable, and therefore it should be made widely available in the public interest, instead of being controlled by a syndicate for monetary gain. There is little enough of it in known existence, and even now it is nearly monopolized—though, happily, in hands that use it wisely. The Radium Institute in London has four grammes; the Vienna Institute claims to have about the same quantity, but Sir Frederick Treves says it is impossible that the whole available supply outside the London institution amounts to so much. Explorers are scouring the world for the scarce and precious element, and one life has recently been sacrificed for it, Mr. John Henry Werner, a German-American mineralogist, having been killed and eaten in Papua while on an expedition searching for radium.

The Joachimsthal mine, in north-west Bohemia, is the chief source of the world's radium supply—though even here the element occurs in no greater quantity than a few grains to the ton of pitchblende; and it is this mine that an Austro-British syndicate, calling itself the European Radium Company, seeks to purchase from the Austrian Government. An offer of $2,500,000 is made for it, with the addition of a specified percentage of the profits. If the government cares for the money it will accept the offer;—if it cares for the higher profit of moral reputation it will refuse, and act the part of a trustee, developing and administering the property in the interests of humanity. Medical scientists do not pretend to have fathomed the curative power of radium, but they find its operation so wonderful in the eradication of malignant or cancerous growths as to render it positively invaluable. If good old Francis Joseph were well advised he would have the radium mine managed as a gift in trust for the good of the world.

PRESENTATION TO MISS O.M. ADAMS, OF SMITH

The boys of of Miss Adams' Sunday school class in Fairview church assembled at her home previous to her marriage, and presented her with a beautiful hand painted tea set and the following address:

Dear Miss Adams,—It grieves us very much, as members of your class in Fairview Sunday school, that a time has come when we must sever our pleasant associations with you as teacher, while we regret for our own sakes, we feel that you will enjoy your new sphere and our sincerest wishes for all that is happy, delightful and profitable go with you. In asking you to accept this small gift as a slight token of our regard, we hope that it will signify to you the love and respect of Albert Olver.

Archie Rosborough.
Robert Fowler.
Fred Field.
George Sutton.

Miss Adams was taken by surprise, but thanked them for their beautiful gift, and said it was a pleasure to her for to be their teacher, as they were always so attentive. The evening was spent in games and music.

President Wilson Pays For Relative's Groceries

Haddonfield, Nov. 10.—W. S. Eldridge, a grocer here, received a check for $30.25 from President Wilson this week in payment of a debt incurred by a distant relative of his, J. Wilson Howe, for groceries and fruits nearly a year ago.

Howe had been running an account at old Eldridge store. He left the city nearly twelve months ago owing the grocer the balance named. Eldridge notified him that the account was still standing, but received no reply.

The grocer thought this was an oversight and sent several statements, but the letters were apparently ignored. The bill was then put in the hands of an attorney, Harry Sewell, who, it is understood, finally appealed to the President. Mr. Wilson promptly responded with a check.

Protection in Mid-air

An English engineer proposes to defend his country in event of war by suspending bombs from balloons, which could be exploded from the ground when approached by a hostile dirigible or aeroplane.

The Table Top

The top of the dining-room table may be kept in good condition in this easy way: Make a bag of several thicknesses of fine cheesecloth and fill it with powdered pumice stone. Dip this in good sweet oil and rub the table well. Polish the table afterward with a clean piece of flannel or chamois skin. If this is done once a week the surface of the table may be kept in excellent condition.

When Cleaning Brass

A good way to clean brass is to pour strong ammonia on it, brush it well with a brush, rinse it in cold water, and polish with a soft and dry cloth. Old or dirty [illegible] may be satisfactorily cleaned in this way. Lacquered brass should be washed occasionally with warm soapy water, and then dried with a soft cloth and polished with a clean, dry chamois skin.

Do not put silk waists away without taking out the shields, as the [illegible] is likely to mark the silk.

STATESMEN'S WIVES

Compliments have frequently been paid by famous statesmen to their wives. It will be remembered how Disraeli dedicated "Sybil" "to the most severe of critics, but a perfect wife," and when a certain wit, who never allowed good taste to mar his humor, was rallying Disraeli on his marriage he received the cutting reply:

"I married from a motive which I do not expect you to understand—gratitude."

Mr. Gladstone, in old age, said to a friend, "My wife has known every political secret I have ever had, and has never betrayed my confidence," and others have borne tribute to "the tender vigilance which sustained and prolonged his years."

Lady Salisbury, with no aptitude or inclination for public life, was the stay, confidante, and social helpmeet of her husband.

At a dinner to Mrs. Lloyd George in London, at which she was presented with a replica of a portrait of her husband, a letter was read from Mr. Lloyd George expressing deep appreciation of the "great kindness which prompts my friends to present to the brave little woman who is my wife a portrait of the troublesome person whom she has stood by through good and evil report."

Policewomen in Chicago

Beginning the actual task of patrolling certain sections of the city, ten women in Chicago entered upon the work as much out of a purpose to show that there is a field there for women as to be profitably employed. They are helpers rather than enforcers of the law, but are clothed with all the authority of other officers. They observe the same discipline as the men, make definite rounds, and report at stations with the required promptness.

FOR POULTRY BREEDERS

Little ducks must have plenty of water to drink, especially at meal time, but it must be given in such a way that they can get their heads into it up to their eyes, but cannot get the water out to wet the pen or brooder.

After the hatch in an incubator is complete the trays and the unhatched eggs should be removed and the little chicks left in the incubator at least twenty-four hours, with the heat gradually reduced until it is about 85 at the chicks' heads.

A run on clean, green grass will make chickens, ducklings, goslings and poults grow faster.

A dirty brood coop, or an unclean brooder, will multiply disease germs which will endanger the health and life of the chicks.

Feed the little chicks separate from the older ones, or the older ones will get most of the food and the little ones suffer from hunger.

A Famous Cafe

The passing of the Café Anglais in Paris awakens many recollections amongst the older Londoners who used to visit Paris a dozen times in the year. Forty years ago the restaurant was famous for its food and frequenters, who included nearly every celebrity in Europe. It was then King Edward's favorite restaurant in Paris, always faultlessly conducted although strongly dashed with Bohemianism. All that was best in the social and artistic world was to be found there. It was one of the few restaurants which kept open through the siege, and there was ground for belief in the story that it never [illegible] afterwards to reduce its prices.

To Polish Knives

To keep steel knives clean cut a piece of carpet about two feet square and make a bag with the pile side in. Put in the bag some emery powder or powdered bathbrick. After washing the knives rub them in this bag and they will come out clean and polished without soiling your hands. The bag may be made to hang up in a convenient place.

"WAITING."

(By John Burroughs.)

M.E.M.: Following is the poem:

Serene I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For lo, my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays,
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No wind can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own, and draw
The brook that springs in yonder heights;
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the soul of pure delights.

The stars come nightly to the sky,
The tidal wave unto the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.

WHY DO WE EAT AND DRINK? (Continued by Dr. H. Lindlahr)—When to Drink: In the morning, on arising, after thoroughly cleaning the mouth and teeth, sip slowly a glass or two of cool water, not hot. The "hot water in the morning" fad is another popular superstition which needs correction.

Some "authority" advocates a certain practice—it looks plausible on the face of it—and presently "everybody is doing it," without examining into the reasonableness of the thing. Hot water is weakening and enervating inside as well as outside. Nature does not provide hot drinks for her creatures, and Nature knows best. Cold water, fresh from the hydrant or the well, is refreshing and a natural stimulant to the digestive organs and the system in general. It is all right and necessary to drink sufficient water to satisfy the demands of the system, but I warn strongly against taking too much, because there is a "too much" in drinking as well as in everything else; but this, our friends—the "[illegible]" enthusiasts—seem to overlook. Unless you are under a special regime for certain diseased conditions from six to eight glasses of cool water per day should be sufficient, distributed about as follows: one glass in the morning, on arising, two between breakfast and lunch, two between lunch and dinner, and one or two glasses before retiring. Hunger and thirst are the only true guides for eating and drinking. If we lived naturally, we would not eat or drink except when hungry or thirsty.

Most vegetarians drink very little. It is the customary highly-spiced meat diet which creates excessive or abnormal thirst. A rational, non-irritating and non-stimulating vegetarian diet furnishes the organism with fluids of the best possible kind in the [illegible] fruit and vegetable juices, prepared in Nature's own laboratory, rich in medicinal qualities and free from all objectionable constituents.

DRINKING AT MEALS.

The less you drink with your meals the better. The dryness of the food furnishes the necessary stimulus for the secretion of saliva and of gastric and intestinal juices. An abundance of liquid on the digestive tract, therefore, weakens the activity of liquid of the secreting membranes and glandular structures. Moreover, it dilutes the secretions and thereby weakens their digestive qualities. The juices of the stomach and the intestines, as well as all other secretions in the body, cannot be made more effective by adding to them large amounts of water at meal time or any other time.

Coffee, tea, or alcoholic liquors are especially objectionable before and during meal times. The former retard digestion; the latter over-stimulate temporarily the secretion of gastric and intestinal juices, thus creating a false appetite. The unnatural stimulation is soon followed by corresponding [illegible]. Alcoholic liquors, therefore, taken before and during meal times, encourage over-eating, and when the reaction sets in, the digestive juices, as well as the [illegible] necessary to take care of the amount of food taken under the influence of unnatural stimulation, are not forthcoming, causing indigestion and physical and mental weakness and lassitude.

A glass of water, taken about half an hour before meals, will in [illegible] cases do away with the desire to drink at meal times. However, if there is actual thirst, it must be satisfied. If you prefer a warm drink, you may take cereal coffee, [illegible] occasionally, cocoa. The best drinks at meal time are skimmed milk, buttermilk, and fruit juices diluted with water.

CLUB NOTES.

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if [illegible] addressed to Home Health Club, [illegible] Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago. Send full name and address with 4 cents postage.

Dear Doctor: Being a reader of your notes I will write asking advice in regard to brown spots that are [illegible] on the neck of my little three-year-old girl. When she was one year old one began to form on the back of her neck that looked like a [illegible], and had spread till it [illegible] from her hair down between her shoulder blades. She [illegible] one on her side beneath the ear. They are a dark brown with irregular edges. Aside from this she is healthy and very active. Can you tell me what will cure them or prevent any more coming? I am afraid she will have them on her face.

Mrs. K.

The brown spots are probably due more or less to mal-assimilation and lack of certain elements in her body. It would be a difficult thing for me to explain this in a way that you would understand readily. Certain chemicals are necessary in the foods which must be presented in such a way that they are acceptable to our peculiar organizations, and these elements can in most cases be [illegible] your child be supplied through specific prepared tablets [illegible] in [illegible] of milk and called by the discoverer, tissue foods or cell salts. To take these alone without any other treatment would, I am inclined to think, not be sufficient to effect a cure, but if in addition to the use of the tissue foods you will have your child drink on an average of from one to one and a half [illegible] of water daily, the brown [illegible] will disappear and will not return. The [illegible] foods will start the matter in the right direction and then by using water [illegible] the waste matter that has already accumulated in her system will be washed out and the [illegible] allowed to take their [illegible] where they belong. FACTORIES COME BECAUSE OF TARIFF

How the Canadian Policy of "Moderate Protection Brings Industries

If the American manufacturer establishes a branch, let us say in France or Germany, he may do so because he has to meet the peculiar tastes and demands of a people who want the article made their way or at least in a different way from what appeals to the tastes and needs the conditions of the American customer. He may also be influenced by the inconvenience in distributing in a country on the other side of the world from his factory.

But he is not compelled to establish a branch factory in Canada by the above reasons, either of which might be effective in the case of [illegible] upon another continent. He has an identical constituency in Canada and the United States. When he comes to Canada he does not manufacture differently to meet any peculiar taste or demand. So far as placing his trade is concerned he has no difficulty in selling in Canada what he manufactures in the United States.

Neither have we observed any oceans three thousand miles wide between the United States manufacturer and the Canadian consumer. The manufacturer can distribute to Canadian customers just as conveniently from Boston or Minneapolis as he can from Halifax or Winnipeg.

It is moderate protection which preserves the Canadian home market. The American manufacturers say that they build factories here because they cannot manufacture in the United States, pay the duty and compete in the Canadian market with the Canadian manufacturer. They probably know what they are talking about.

THINK THE DEAD NEED AFFECTION

Each Home Has its Godshelf Where Are Enshrined the Articles of the Dead

JAPANESE SUPERSTITION

In an article by Dr. J. Ingram Bryan in the "Japan Magazine," there is an interesting glimpse of Japanese superstition. He says the happiness of the dead depends on the respectful and loving service of the living; and the happiness of the living depends on the due fulfilment of pious duty to the dead. That the dead need affection, and that to neglect them is cruelty, are among the most sacred instincts of Japanese life. Accordingly, each home has its family altar, its god-shelf, where are enshrined the ancestral tablets, before which, every morning and evening, the sacred lamp is lighted, the family prayers said, and food offered to the spirits of the departed ones. The ancestral ghosts are made happy by these amenities and bless those who render them. Hovering unseen in the glow of the shrine-lamp, the stirring of whose flame is but the motion of them, they guard the house and watch over the welfare of the old domestic circle. Their chief dwelling place, however, is in the lettered tablets which at times they can animate as a human body in order to succor and observe all that happens in the house, share the family joys and sorrows, and delight in the familiar voices and in the geniality of life about them. They chiefly delight in the daily greetings of the family, and for nourishment vapor of food [illegible] them. To forget them, or in any way to treat them with rude indifference, is the most undoubted proof of an evil heart. They stand for the moral experience of the family and nation, and to deny them is to deny that, and to violate that is to offend them, and to offend them is the supreme crime. Each Japanese believes himself to be under the constant supervision of the ancestral ghosts. Spirit eyes are watching his every act; spirit ears are listening to every word, to approve or blame. The whole of life, his thoughts, words, deeds, must be under constant control, as in the presence of the unseen. If while in the flesh a Japanese fails, he can succeed by joining the ranks of the gods. This voluntary death for a great principle meets the approval of Japanese ethics, and the spirit of the person so offering himself attains to godhood, becomes the object of veneration, and is not only made eternally happy by the perpetual homage of all future generations, but is enabled to bless posterity by answering the petitions of those engaged in the cause for which he died. Even a person of no [illegible], through death, may [illegible] the [illegible] of superhuman power, and become capable of conferring benefit or inflicting injury by supernatural means. Thousands of prayers go up daily in Japan to the spirits of those who have thus offered themselves in sacrifice to the gods. Since the death of General [illegible] and his wife [illegible] [illegible] thousands [illegible] to worship at their tombs.

INQUEST HELD ON THE BODY OF EX-LION TAMER IN ENGLAND

Curious Story at an Acton Inquest—An Enlarged Heart

An Acton man's varied and adventurous career was referred to at an inquest held in England on the body of John Bertram Douglas.

Evidence was given that the man went into the bar at the public-house at 10 p.m. and at ten minutes to eleven got up off the stool on which he had been sitting to go out, having expressed the intention of going to meet his wife, who was engaged as a dresser at Acton Hippodrome. He had only taken a step towards the door when he fell and died immediately. Formerly he was a lion tamer, and he had been mauled and bitten by wild animals. Later he was employed as a baggage man at the Acton Hippodrome, and latterly had worked at the Dunlop Rubber Works. About a fortnight ago he complained that a piece of iron, weighing half a hundredweight had fallen on his head, and since then he had suffered from headache. A post mortem examination revealed the fact that the organs were all healthy except the heart, which was very much enlarged, weighing 17½ oz., as compared with the normal weight of 12 oz. The brain was normal and there was no injury to the head. Death was due to the enlarged condition of the heart, which the doctor attributed to overstrain which the man had probably sustained in the course of his muscular exercises. The doctor added that there were extensive scars on the legs, such as would be caused by the bites or scratches of wild animals. Douglas was formerly a lion tamer connected with Bostock's menagerie, and performed at the Glasgow Zoo and Hippodrome for many years. He had travelled all over the world. Shortly after his death a telegram was received offering him a position as lion tamer to another well known show.

THE LONG SLEEVE

Some Hints to Amateurs to Secure a Good Fit

The long sleeve is being built into all the new dresses. And strangely enough the sleeve is always the knotty problem in the amateur's work. As every woman knows, a sleeve can make or mar an entire dress. Long sleeves have been out of fashion so long that the younger dressmaker may have forgotten how to make them. Probably the sleeve will be made from a pattern. At the outset then it is wise to remember the necessity of following the pattern very closely and observing the directions minutely. Notches must match if any pattern is to prove a success.

After accurately cutting the sleeves, basting is of the utmost importance. [illegible] basting may be more trouble to take out, but it assures better fitting. Make short stitches always. Gather the fulness where the marks indicate, and when both seams are basted lay the sleeve flat on the table. If cut and basted correctly, the inner seam will turn to the under part of the sleeve from elbow to wrist, while the seam from shoulder to elbow will be directly on the edge. Now, if this [illegible] the entire length of the sleeve, the seam will look crooked when worn. Some persons don't know of this and think the seam should be seen the whole length when the sleeve is laid flat upon the table.

In stitching the seams on the machine, do not stitch through the basting threads as it will make the latter difficult to draw out. Stitch just beside or just outside. To finish neatly at the wrist, take a strip of [illegible] and slip into the sleeve. Baste it in position, leaving a margin of sleeve to turn over the [illegible]. Do this while the sleeve is on the outside. Now turn inside out and face with a bias strip of the material or silk. The result will be a smooth fit. If the sleeve had been turned to put in the stiffening the sleeve will probably [illegible].

Sewing in the sleeve is important. Be sure it is correctly drawn on the [illegible], putting the elbow at the right point. Pin the top of the sleeve to the shoulder. The pattern usually indicates the location of the inner seam, but the sleeve does not always set right when this is followed. It should then be moved either above or below the notch on the pattern until the fit is correct.

Amateurs often cut the armhole out too much. Don't be in a hurry to do [illegible]. The armhole should be [illegible] [illegible], but [illegible] that [illegible] the sleeve is sewn in it will become an inch or more than at first.

VALUABLE TIMBERS

Graham Island, Pacific Coast, Abounds in Fine Poles

Five thousand poles for use on the telegraph lines along the Pacific Coast were cut from Graham Island, Prince Rupert. This was the first of [illegible] Island timber [illegible] a [illegible] and indicates the development of an important industry [illegible]. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to the manufacture of poles in general and [illegible] in particular. Some of the timber has not a branch for 100 feet up, while poles 6 inches at the butt and tapering to 4 inches at from 60 to 100 feet can be cut in any quantity.

The Missing Rhyme

Poet stealers who visited South-church Wick Farm, Scotland, left behind them the following rhyme, written on a piece of paper which was pinned on one of the fowlhouses:

But leave you these two hens,
So please continue breeding more—

GERMAN PRAISE OF THE BRITISH

British Men and British Ways Are the Best Types and Standards

A Berlin correspondent of The Sketch, London, writes in part as follows in German praise of England:

"The Englishmen who run down England and exalt the Continent are nearly always bad judges of the Continent; but the Continentals who run down the Continent and exalt England usually are sound experts on England. Such a sound judge is Dr. Hermann Iglisch, who was in England continuously from 1875 to 1880 and from 1901 to 1907, and who therefore knew intimately two successive generations. His view is that England is still better and more civilized than Germany; and that she heads the land, which is a land essentially in the [illegible] [illegible] breadth of view and universality of public interest; and in the intense and wide identification of her own people with national greatness.

"This kind of praise appears in Germany daily. Despite the prevailing melancholy view at home of English government (especially when the other party is in), despite real faults in the British system, foreigners praise it. They praise it, not because it realizes an ideal, but because they find their own systems further from the ideal. The most objective and strongest praise comes from Germans who have been studying England's [illegible] education system. During the past few years books and brochures have come out by the dozen on comparative and on English education; and nearly all of them pronounce for the English way. Some, but not all, say that German brain education is the better. But all deny that brain education is the main half of education; they reason that it is the making of men and citizens which counts; and the universal view is that England does it better.

Self-Mastery, Self-Discipline.

"Since English education is thus superior in what counts for most, it is superior all round. That view is confirmed by a new publication of the famous Shakespearean scholar Professor Franz, of Tubingen. The English way, says Dr. Franz, produces more culture than the German. Under culture he understands general fitness for life. 'The Anglo-Saxon is decidedly ahead of us in this,' he says, and he praises English schools because the relations of masters to boys is a relation of trust on the side of the masters and of self-respect on the side of the boys. The English people today, it seems, gloriously reflects this superior training. It is a completed whereas the German is only a mechanical mixture of heterogeneous elements. The success of Socialism in Germany, the weak German interest in national affairs, contrasted with England's strong race and national feeling, with the love of Englishmen for England, with the fine type of English officials and the triumphs of British Colonization—this contrast proves the superiority over the German principle of Anglo-Saxon self-mastery and self-discipline.

Effectiveness in Business

"The praise of England extends beyond education. In business German [illegible] English ways in much the same exaggerated note as British [illegible] [illegible] for German ways. Everyone knows the British Consul who explains why Englishmen lose trade because they do not study their customers, because they pick badly, because they print catalogues in English, because their travellers are lazier and speak only English, because they despise small deals. Now, in one [illegible] there were three different [illegible] [illegible] competent Germans that German business men are inferior [illegible] business men in some [illegible] respects. A Hamburg man, [illegible] [illegible], has complained to a meeting of shareholders that English [illegible] Germans in selling because in all [illegible] manufacture they show a [illegible] taste and more adaptability. [illegible] [illegible] more [illegible] [illegible] [illegible], being [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of the world. [illegible] [illegible] space of English economy is [illegible] substantial construction and the [illegible] [illegible] of everything and [illegible] [illegible] system of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] by Socialism. [illegible] population of England and [illegible] [illegible] stands higher than it ever [illegible], and what Professor Franz praises [illegible] the high and fine culture of the Anglo-Saxons has nothing to fear from any foreign rivalry."

SOME PRACTICAL COW RECORDS

They Help the Up-to-Date Farmer to Build Up His Herd

Almost every dairy farmer who commences to weigh and sample his cows' milk individually says at the end of a few months, "I find some in my herd were kept at a loss." Some men find only one or two cows, others find too many in the herd play a losing game.

What does this mean? Just this: that, despite all the experience gained from years of practical dairying, the farmer finds that, in order to become thoroughly "practical" he must requisition the aid of dairy records. Neither the cow's appearance nor the owner's knowledge of some short-period yield of milk (extraordinary as that yield may have been for a day, or one week, or a month) will [illegible] with certainty to each individual cow's ability to pay her way for the whole year. Cow testing provides a simple and eminently practical way of discovering, not only if each cow pays, but which cows pay the most profit on the 12 months' transaction of food consumed, and milk and fat produced. Those large-profit cows are revealed only by practical cow testing.

Cows are apt to cheat the unsuspecting dairyman unless he keeps tab on the performance of each one; many dairymen have found this out to their utter astonishment and regret. Don't take chances with your herd; be certain that each cow pays; it pays you to find out. Individual cow records help the practical farmer to build up a profitable herd.

BACK TO THE LAND AGAIN

Duke of Marlborough is Putting Blenheim Park Under the Plough

The Duke of Marlborough proposes to put Blenheim Park under the plough. He says:

"So far as I am concerned I mean to make an effort to show that in my locality it is possible to grow corn stuffs and vegetables for suitable markets. The Park which you know so well, and on which a brigade of yeomanry has been trained, will no longer be offered as a training ground for national defence, but will be employed for the purpose of producing food for a national food supply. A thousand acres or more will be under the plough, and a greater number of laborers employed. When I have succeeded, as I mean to do, I shall then have given a lead to my farming neighbors. I shall be a captain in a different kind of an army from that which I have previously had the honor of commanding in Blenheim Park, but it will be an army quite as useful and quite as necessary to the welfare of the State."

DON'TS FOR THUNDERSTORMS

Every year quite a large number of people are killed by lightning because they did not know what to do in a thunderstorm.

First of all, it is safer to be indoors than out. Most people get killed when out in the open. If you are caught in a thunderstorm, then don't be afraid of sheltering under a tree just because you have heard that it is dangerous.

It is dangerous to shelter under a solitary tree, because lightning likes to strike the highest point, and a solitary tree is the highest point as a rule for some distance around. But you are pretty safe if you take shelter in a wood. A tree in a wood is seldom struck.

Certain trees are more dangerous than others. If you have a choice between an oak and a beech tree, then take the beech tree all the time. A far greater number of oak trees are struck than beech trees. Elm trees are nearly as dangerous as oak trees.

Avoid big crowds and collections of animals. For some reason—probably the warmth that rises from their bodies—crowds of animals and persons are liable to be struck by lightning.

Hatpin Danger

Notices have been posted in the Glasgow tramway cars calling attention to the danger to passengers by large pins projecting from ladies' hats. It is stated that a number of accidents have occurred, and the management accordingly request the attention of ladies to the matter to avoid further risks.

ARE WE GROWING MAD?

Some Reason For "Yes" to Queen Victoria's Question

"I think," Queen Victoria remarked one day towards the end of her reign, "that people are getting more mad."

And this belief certainly is being corroborated both by medical evidence and statistics. In 1912, no fewer than 135,661 people, certified as insane, were under care in England and Wales; and, although this number exceeds that recorded in the previous year by 2,564, the increase shown is only very slightly above that recorded annually during the ten preceding years.

These figures really are alarming, and should give the would-be social reformer food for serious thought. In 1859, the ratio of insane people to population per 10,000 was 18.67 per cent. By 1912, the ratio increased to 37.13 per cent.; and, according to Dr. Forbes Winslow, if this rate of increase be maintained, three hundred years hence there will be more mad people than sane.

NEWFOUNDLAND ISLE SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE

Story of the Settlement of the "Isle of the Sea"—Population 300,000,

There is at least one case in which distance does not lend enchantment to the scene. The traveller on an Atlantic liner, crossing the dreaded fogged Banks of Newfoundland would never imagine that the bare, bald headlands which he sees when rounding Cape Race—that graveyard of the Atlantic—to be anything but the fringes of a country as bare and bald as the rocks themselves. He has to visit this "Terra Nova" and then he will join the many voices already raised in proclaiming it "The Sportsman's Paradise" and a typical "Isle of the Sea." The discovery of Newfoundland dates from 1497, when John Cabot, of Bristol, Eng., in the little ship "Matthew" of barely twenty tons burden made landing at what is now Cape Bonavista. It was not until 1583 that the island was formally taken possession of by Great Britain and attempts at settlement made. Following its discovery its shores were frequented by sailors from all the European countries. They came out to prosecute what is still the greatest natural asset of the country, cod-fishery. For many years the island was a bone of contention between the powers, especially England and France and it was only in 1713, by the Treaty of Utrecht, that the French renounced their rights of possession. They still claimed exclusive rights to fish on the North and West coasts and for nearly two hundred years there were frequent controversies between the two nations until the matter was finally adjusted at the Hague conference of 1904. France then withdrawing all claims in return for certain concessions on the West coast of Africa. The island is some 317 miles long by 316 broad, with an area of 42,000 square miles, that is, about half as large again as Ireland. The many inlets and harbors on its coast cause it to have a comparatively great length of coast line. Situated at the mouth of the St. Lawrence, its strategic position is ideal. The power possessing it is in the best possible position to defend or attack the Eastern coasts of the Dominion. Amongst the islands of the world, Newfoundland ranks tenth in size. The total population is some 300,000 of which 34,000 live in the capital, St. John's, the remainder being scattered along the coasts in numbers varying from a good sized town to the smallest hamlet. Nearly one-third of the interior is taken up by waterways. Newfoundland's natural riches consist chiefly in her fisheries—cod, seal, whale and salmon, in order of importance. Four times the amount of fish caught in the Dominion of Canada, nor twice that taken in the Norwegian waters does not come up to a season's catch in Newfoundland; and the supply shows no signs of falling off.

ABOUT THE HOUSE

When kitchen towels wear thin stitch two of them together around the edges and diagonally across the centre.

When furniture does not actually need polishing it is a good idea to wipe it off thoroughly with a cloth dipped in linseed oil.

A good furniture polish may be made of one-half pint each of linseed oil and turpentine and a quarter pint each of vinegar and methylated spirits. Shake together thoroughly in a bottle.

Round centrepieces may be dried by laying them while wet on a sheet of clean glass, kept for the purpose. See that the linen is placed smoothly, and then set the glass in the sun.

A most convenient little steamer to fit the top of a teakettle may be made from a five-pound lard pail with a tightly fitted cover. Punch holes through the bottom with a large nail.

To remove discolorations from enamel pans boil a little chloride of lime in the water with which they are filled.

When polishing the stove add a little sugar or syrup to the polish and it will not burn off so quickly.

Hipless "Slip-on"

The very newest contrivance in the interests of slender figure lines is the "slip-on," which is a sort of hip elastic stocking, made of stout webbing and silk elastic. There are no buttons, laces or hooks and eyes, and one must get into the "slip-on" precisely as the sterner sex gets into trousers, except that both feet are put through at once and into the same aperture. When on the "slip-on" fits like the paper on the wall, and clings to the figure from waistline to knees, as no mere corset provided with laces and bones at the back ever dreamed of clinging. There are no bones, not even a casing holding metal eyelets—just cleverly shaped gussets of webbing and elastic, so that the figure tapers in slender lines of trimness from shoulder to knee, with just a slight curve at the waistline such as has the naturally beautiful, uncorseted figure.

Cooking Dishes

Instead of using scouring agencies to keep your tins and pots spotless simply wash them in hot clean suds and dry well before putting them away. For baking tins such as cake and bread tins, just heat and wipe them with a damp cloth. If food has burned on, set your dish aside with a little warm water and [illegible] in it. Then wash in the usual way. Food will never stick or burn on to cooking dishes treated this way.

Care of Umbrellas

Umbrellas should never be kept tightly rolled. It causes them to wear out much faster. When wet an umbrella should always be left to dry open, with the handle down. If this is not possible let the water drip from it when it is resting on the handle.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 5, Welland Ship Canal," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, November 18th, 1913.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Engineer in Charge, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Department on the payment of the sum of fifty dollars. To bona fide tenderers this amount will be refunded upon the return of the above in good condition.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $100,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary.
Department of Railways and Canals,
Ottawa, 29th October, 1913.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.—50010.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Harbour and River Improvements in the Mission River, Fort William, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Friday, November 21, 1913, for the construction of the Harbour and River Improvements.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of W. P. Merrick, Esq., District Engineer, Fort William, Ont.; J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; J. L. Michaud, Esq., District Engineer, Post Office, Montreal, P.Q.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,

The first Derby was run in 1780, and was won by a horse called Diomed, who later on found his way to the United States, and helped to lay the foundation for the trotting horse family. In fact Diomed, and Messenger, another English thoroughbred, and Bellfounder, a Norfolk trotter or hackney, were the progenitors of the modern trotting and pacing horse, there being few, if any, trotters that do not trace back to all three of them. The Derby was named in honor of the Earl of Derby, one of the gentlemen who made the original match. The conditions of the race have been several times altered as to distance and other requirements, but it remains a sweepstakes, each owner contributing a certain amount to a general fund which is divided among the winners. The owners, therefore, are racing for their own money.

For many years the value of the race to the winner fluctuated, rising to more than $35,000 in 1879, and sinking to something more than $15,000 in [illegible]. For the past ten years the amount of the stake has been fixed independent of the number of entries, and it is now $32,500. The St. Leger is an older race than the Derby, and remains one of the classic events of the turf, but because the Derby is decided early in the year, and is the first real test of the promising youngsters of the previous season, it has attained a popularity and distinction that belong to no other sporting fixture, on the turf or off it.

The Derby is a race of a mile and a half, and is not decided on the sort of course that Canadians are used to. It is up hill and down dale over the turf, and on this account, and also on account of the distance, it requires a stout horse as well as a swift horse to make a good showing in it.

H.M. battle-cruiser Princess Royal entered the new dock at Portsmouth Dockyard for testing purposes, this being the first vessel which it had taken. The dock cost about $3,000,000. It is 850 feet long, 110 feet wide and has a depth at the entrance of 43½ feet.

Foxes Carry off Lambs

Many Nottinghamshire farmers complain about foxes making raids on hen roosts and attacking young lambs, and even carrying off the latter. It is contended that huntsmen have left a record number of foxes in the coverts, and that, owing to game and rabbits being scarce, the animals visited farmyards more frequently than usual.

Rector Shot

The Rev. P. Charles Duncan, Rector of [illegible], Donegal, was standing at the window of the rectory when he was accidentally shot by his son, aged [illegible], who was examining a [illegible] rifle outside the window. The bullet entered at the right side, lodging in the abdomen. An operation was performed and the bullet extracted.

FLYING MEN URGED TO BEQUEATH CORPSES

For Experiments That Will Provide Life-Saving Devices for Aviators—Justified by Death-Roll

The gruesome suggestion is put forward by one of the leading British authorities on aeronautics that aviators should make arrangements during their lifetime so that their mangled remains, after an accident, may be experimented upon with a view to preventing the recurrence of other similar tragedies. The idea would be almost ludicrous if it were not justified by the appalling death-roll which has marked aviation in Europe, and especially in Great Britain.

The proposer of this plan points out that science is to-day almost entirely ignorant of the effects of shock upon the human frame. He emphasizes the vital necessity of knowing what force of blow will cause the breakage of "the bone box which constitutes the human skull; what force acting in what direction is liable to disjoint the linked parts of the neck and the spinal cord, and what resistance to bending before fracture is offered by the thigh and arm." These facts can only be properly ascertained by "reverent and skilful" experiments conducted on the mortal remains of those whose lack of proper mechanical precautions brings them to sudden death. It is the absence of any such experiments and data that makes the devices such as helmets, belts, etc., now being employed by aviators so ineffective and crude.

"The helmet which takes the highly localized blow and spreads it over a larger area of the head, thereby diminishing the intensity of the blow," writes this authority, "is a crude beginning." The elastic belt, which protects the flyer from being hurled out of the aeroplane, and keeps him within the centre of a friable structure, provides that this structure in breaking absorbs much of the work of the fall and spares him much of the shock.

There exists an invaluable defence against damage—too little used in aeroplaning, though well known to the balloonist—the basket-work cage. Such a stiff, yet elastic cage, installed round, and forming the seat of the flyer, and so extended as to shelter his legs and the major part of his person, would, according to the opinion of every balloonist of experience, form a marvelous protection not only against penetration by splinters of struts or spars, but against the general blow of an otherwise fatal alighting. It will do this in virtue of its ability to distort while absorbing work and without splintering or breaking. It is known that the basket work seat is used to this end in the Royal Aeronautic Force aeroplanes, but not nearly enough.

ASQUITH'S BIRTHPLACE

Received Freedom of the Borough of Morley—Childhood Memories

Mr. Asquith received the freedom of the borough of Morley, his birthplace, one of the textile towns clustered in a triangular tract of country formed by Bradford, Leeds, and Dewsbury. Mr. Asquith was born at Croft House, Morley, on Sept. 12, 1852, and there he lived for seven years. His ancestors are said to have lived in the town for over 400 years, and the Asquith family were the trustees of the Old Chapel, now the St. Mary's Congregational Church. The future Prime Minister attended, with his parents, the Rehoboth Chapel, and some time ago, in referring to this, Mr. Asquith stated that he recollected, as a small boy, taking part in the Sunday school procession and carrying a banner on the occasion of the rejoicings at the conclusion of peace in the Crimea.

Both the chapel which he attended and the house in which he was born are still utilized. The house, which stands in its own grounds, is within 100 yards of the main thoroughfare, but it is almost hidden from view by mills and other buildings erected in the streets abutting the estate.

When Mr. Asquith was seven years old his father, Mr. Joseph Dixon Asquith, a manufacturer, died at Mirfield in the prime of life, and Mrs. Asquith removed to Huddersfield with her children, who were sent to the local Grammar School. Subsequently Herbert Henry Asquith attended the City of London School, and having obtained two scholarships, went to Oxford in 1870 where his great talents manifested themselves in even greater degree. From that time his career has been one of ascending brilliancy.

A pitiable story of an improvident marriage and its result was unfolded at Marylebone, when Mrs. Grace Elizabeth Rogers, twenty-four, was charged with stealing $15 belonging to Mrs. Constance Lindsay, wife of Captain George Lindsay. She had been in Mrs. Lindsay's service as a cook-general, but left after taking the money from a dressing table. She returned later and confessed what she had done. When arrested she burst into tears and told the officer that she took the money to pay for the keep of her baby and her own lodgings. "That is quite true," said a detective. "She has a baby out to nurse, and is in arrears with her payments. Her husband is out of work; their home has been sold up; and altogether it is a very sad case of poverty indeed." The husband was asked his occupation and he replied that he "was anything."

"What did you marry on?" asked Mr. Plowden.

"Nothing," the man replied.

Mr. Plowden told Mrs. Rogers that the pitiful plea made on her behalf would be urged in vain on any future occasion. He bound her over.

Crimean Veteran

Mr. H. Dwyer, who has died at Tipperary in his [illegible] year, was one of the few men of the old [illegible] Regiment who returned from the Crimea, where he took part in all the principal battles of the War.

PAINTING THE NEW BARN

Should be Thorough—Use Paint or Whitewash for Old Buildings

Paint adds value to the farm, but paint gives much better service if not put on till the lumber is thoroughly dry. New lumber is apt to be green, and if painted before dry the oil does not get into the wood, and as a result the paint will often blister and peel off. The unpainted new barn doesn't look well. But let it stand a season and then give it two good coats of oil paint, and it will hold its color for years. It will take more paint to do the job then, but it will pay in the end.

And just a word in regard to the old buildings. When real estate men want to sell a building they give it a coat of fresh paint. It pays to have the buildings well painted, even though they are not for sale. A building looks bright if it is well painted, as well as [illegible] every one favorably who looks upon it. A [illegible] never appears prosperous with unpainted buildings. Where paint cannot be afforded a barrel of lime and a whitewash brush will do. Whitewash is the poor man's paint. Whitewash is a good thing. It purifies and sweetens and lightens up the inside of the barn. It is cheap and easy to apply. Get a barrel of quicklime, put about two pailfuls in a large barrel, fill the barrel three-fourths full of water, stir with a hoe till thoroughly dissolved, and apply while still hot. Skimmilk instead of water or buttermilk will improve the whitewash. A spraying machine will aid greatly in applying the whitewash, but a brush will do the work all right. Every building on the farm in which live stock are kept should be whitewashed every year.

GALLOPING HORSE TOY

Horse's Legs and Head and Jockey's Body Move

An amusing toy in the form of a galloping horse has been designed by a Kentucky man. It is particularly appropriate these days when mechanical toys are absorbing the youth of the land. The body of the horse is fixed to a standard rising from the base, but the forelegs and hindlegs are pivoted to the body and at their middle joints. The tail and neck are also pivoted to the body and the body of the jockey is pivoted at the hips. The horse's feet are fastened to [illegible] shafts that [illegible] by means of a [illegible]. As one shaft is pushed forward the other [illegible] backward, [illegible] side of the animal. BREATHE FOR BEAUTY

Nine persons out of every ten live and die without ever using their full lung capacity. Long, deep breathing through the nose is the correct method. This not only warms the air before it enters the lungs, but the tiny hairs [illegible] keep out impurities.

[illegible] Deep breathing is a natural [illegible]. The chest should rise with each breath. The [illegible] growth and a better figure. Successful athletes, men or women, are all deep breathers. That [illegible] "second wind" is only the [illegible] of the lungs being [illegible] into use.

Sugar Cookies

1 cup butter; 2 cups sugar; 1 cup sour milk; 1 even teaspoon soda; pinch salt; 2 eggs; 1 teaspoon vanilla; flour to handle. Cream sugar and butter, add eggs without being beaten, then milk into which has been put the soda, salt, flavor, and last the flour.

Roll as soft as can be handled. Bake quickly.

Loosening Dirt on Hands

To clean much-soiled hands do not go to work roughly with brush and soap water, but loosen the dirt by rubbing the hands well with sweet oil or cold lard or dripping. Then wipe off the grease as much as possible with a piece of soft paper or old rag and wash the hands with warm water and soap.

Sunny Jim Pleaded Guilty

At Saturday's police court Sunny Jim Wilson pleaded guilty to having drank liquor whilst on the blacklist. Jim said he was at Lindsay on Friday. Ross and Ryan came to his house that night. Ross brought the flask of whiskey. He had no liquor in the house when Ross and Ryan came. He told Ryan he, Jim, was on the list. He said the Salvation adjutant had straightened him up and put him on his feet. Adjutant McElhenny, of the Salvation Army, next witness, said he went to Wilson's house Friday afternoon and found Wilson had been drinking and fed the latter's horse. The adjutant, who has taken great interest in Wilson's conversion, left a man to watch him. The latter reported later on in the evening that two men were supplying Wilson with liquor. He returned to Wilson's house. He found two men there. Ryan had a pint flask containing whiskey. He sent for the police. Wilson was fined $10.

Blacklister Remanded

At Saturday's police court Con Ryan, a blacklister, was in court. He said he had been at Sunny Jim Wilson's house a few nights ago. He went to see about a stove. There was a bottle of whiskey on the shelf. He didn't know who put it there. "You don't ask us to believe that?" asked Chief Thompson. He and Wilson drank some of the whiskey out of a cup. When asked "Did you have drink before you went to Wilson's?" "That has nothing to do with the case," Ryan replied. However, he was persuaded to answer and replied "No." Ryan refused to say whether he had had liquor since he was blacklisted July 5th, previous to going to Wilson's. The chief asked for a week's remand. Witness then admitted he had. He did not know Wilson was on the blacklist. A Salvation Army man came to Wilson's and witness thought the S. A. man was a policeman. "You must have been seeing double!" replied Chief Thompson. The chief again asked for a remand which was granted.

"CASCARETS" ALWAYS STRAIGHTEN YOU UP

If Costive, Headachy, Bilious, Stomach Sour, Breath Bad—Clean your Liver and Bowels.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You men and women who can't get feeling right — who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste, and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

WINNERS IN THE HICKS COAL CONTEST

The big guessing contest in connection with the R. Hicks Company's new elevator on Bethune street, corner of Charlotte street, was pulled off on Saturday. The first five nearest guesses to the weight, which was settled by a certificate from the public market scales were Messrs. Joseph Brown, [illegible] Homewood avenue; F. W. Adams, [illegible] Bolivar street; James Curtis, [illegible] Union street; C. H. Miller, [illegible] Dowie street, and Mr. Robinson, [illegible] Patterson street, who all guessed [illegible] pounds. KITCHENER'S RULE IN EGYPT WISE, BENEFICIAL AND FIRM

The Hero of Khartoum Has Interested Himself in the Work of Improving the Public Departments, in Beautifying the Cities and in Crushing the Causes of Disease

London, Nov. 10.—Lord Kitchener, since his arrival here two years ago, has effected a revolution in the economic development of the country. New works in connection with irrigation, drainage, roads, &c., are in progress everywhere. In every part of the country new roads are being constructed, and whereas a few years ago it was not possible to [illegible] for more than twelve outside Cairo, now automobilists can indulge in a pleasant drive to Alexandria, Helouan, Sakkhara and other places.

The physical condition of the native Egyptian is also receiving careful attention. In addition to the eye hospitals and general hospitals which have existed for some time there are now being established in the provinces maternity hospitals under the control of fully trained British maternity nurses, and special clinics for the prevention and cure of ankylostomiasis (Egyptian anaemia), a malady which hitherto has been allowed to effect great ravages among the [illegible] fellaheen.

It is satisfactory to note that the wealthy natives are not passive agents in the great work which is carried on in their midst; indeed, in most of the provinces they are evincing practical interest in every scheme of philanthropy and reform. At Fayoum last week £5,000 was subscribed at one meeting towards the establishment of children's clinics, while this week at Beni-Suef £7,000 was subscribed for a similar object.

DAYS OF PASHA RULE OVER.

It can be truly said that a new era has dawned over Egypt and that the days of Pasha rule are over. In Cairo itself evidences of the extraordinary activity of Lord Kitchener are to be seen everywhere, and the city, in places has been completely transformed during the summer months. The space outside the principal railway station, which always impressed the traveller unfavorably, has been completely changed. It is now at least double its original size, thus relieving the congested state of the traffic, while well planned roads and paths are provided for the comfort and safety of travellers. Already palm trees, rare plants and beautiful flowers are to be seen growing luxuriously in little gardens where there existed only a few months ago an ugly wilderness.

Similar changes, but on a much more pretentious scale, have been effected in the vicinity of the citadel, where nearly one hundred unsanitary houses have been pulled down. The tram line has been deviated from its original course, and two beautiful gardens have been laid out with exquisite taste. The approach to the citadel is now one of the features of Egypt, and the view from the citadel itself is incomparably grand.

The sanitary scheme for the drainage of the city has progressed rapidly during the summer and the drainage system is now complete in the greater part of the city. A new director, Sir David Semple, M. D., has been appointed to succeed the present director, Mr. W. G. P. Graham, who retires. Sir David, who is a distinguished graduate of the Royal University of Ireland, is a well known authority on sanitary matters.

It is now freely acknowledged that in a few years, if the present rate of progress continues, Cairo will be one of the most beautiful as well as one of the healthiest cities in the world. Even now the death rate compares favorably with European cities, especially in connection with infectious diseases.

Wholesale Assassination Plot in Nicaragua Told

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 10.—The frustrated plot to assassinate President Adolfo Diaz, of Nicaragua, and all his Cabinet ministers, October 29, was laid by the conspirators with remarkable care, according to details published here today.

The plotters, members of the Liberal party, divided themselves into three groups. The first of these was charged with the work of killing the President and two Cabinet ministers; the second was to assassinate Vice-President Fernando Solorzano and the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the third group was to throw dynamite bombs among the members of the Chamber of Deputies while they were gathered in session the afternoon of October 29.

POINCARE VISITS GREAT NATURALIST

Touching Scene When Henri Fabre is Thanked for His Work

Paris, Nov. 8.—President Poincare returning from Spain, visited Henri Fabre at Serignan. The aged naturalist sat in his garden, the President standing called him beloved and great master, and said:

"You have given so passionate attention to the study of the humblest creatures that in the smallest things you have shown us very great ones and at every page of your work we find the sensation of looking into the infinite."

Fabre was so moved that he could not reply. His nephew thanked the president for him.

Mr. Poincare also visited Frederic Mistral, the famous poet of Provence, living at the village of Maillane. The poet read an address to the president who in replying quoted Lamartine who fifty years ago acclaimed Mistral as another Homer. Both Mistral and his wife wept, and when the president finished, Mistral threw himself into M. Poincare's arms and embraced him.

LIBERALS LOSE PRESTIGE AS RESULT OF THE ELECTION

Loss of Reading and Reduced Majority in Linlithgow More Than Unionists Had Hoped

London, Nov. 10.—The Linlithgow and Reading elections have inflicted a bad blow at the Government prestige, the Opposition gain in votes at both being far greater than even the most optimistic Unionist had dared to anticipate. While both parties are quarrelling over the real meaning of the elections, it is generally agreed that the land campaign played no real part in the fight. Linlithgow was mainly fought on Home Rule, and Reading on insurance.

Irish in the Fight.

In both constituencies the imprisonment of Larkin lost the Government candidates many votes. The new Irish labor party sent envoys to Reading to fight [illegible] and on Saturday night when the result of the election was known, Dublin witnessed the extraordinary sight of Liberty Hall illuminated and a brilliant fireworks display to celebrate the victory of the Unionist.

There are many growing signs here that Larkin's sentence is [illegible] labor sentiment against the Government to an extraordinary degree. Even the Spectator talks of Prussian liberalism, and declares that the prosecution [illegible] it of a trial for lese majeste. The British Parliamentary Labor party, apparently without much initial enthusiasm, is being forced more and more each day to throw its full strength into the agitation for the release of Larkin.

Labor Paper's Strong Language.

The Daily Citizen, their official organ, declares to-day: "Reading workingmen, like workingmen everywhere else, have been sickened by the spectacle of the Liberal cause paying lip service to democracy on this side of St. George's Channel and bludgeoning it in the streets and courts of law on the other side. The British public hates to be openly [illegible]. The electorate want a democratic government that is something more than a [illegible] and they mean to have it. They are not going to tolerate a democratic Government that [illegible] to Carsonism, [illegible] and yet jails a man for protesting against the social horrors of Dublin."

Another Lloyd George Speech.

When official Laborites say this, it may be imagined what language the unbridled, newer [illegible] use. In the face of these [illegible], Lloyd George's important Saturday speech on urban housing reform has escaped [illegible] notice.

READING VICTORY DUE SOLELY TO LIBERAL BETRAYAL OF ULSTER

Col. Wilson Tells News' Special Correspondent it Means England Opposes Asquith

Reading, Nov. 10.—Whatever explanations Liberal papers may make that it was not Home Rule which was responsible for their overwhelming defeat here, there is no question but Col. Wilson's victory is due solely to the feeling in this average English electorate against what Sir Edward Carson calls the betrayal of Ulster.

No [illegible] Unionist platforms were put forward; tariff reform was not even mentioned.

It was the straight "No Home Rule" cry that won.

After the result was known, Col. Wilson turned triumphantly to me with the words:

"You can send this out to Canada and the Empire. It means an English majority against devolution; we have made our whole fight solely on the Home Rule question."

Liberals early in the week gave up the attempt to stem the anti-Home Rule tide and devoted their energies to the land scheme, but the [illegible] in Berkshire, where there are a few large estates, but many small [illegible] prosperous farmers, was altogether opposed.

The Insurance Act, too, is unpopular. One farmer, who has three sons prospering in the Northwest of Canada, summed up the position in perhaps unprogressive but nevertheless sincere words:

"We want a rest from these socialistic experiments."

Immigration agents tell me this district has sent many young farmers to Canada and most have done well, so the land scheme will have gained few votes here.

Socialist Vote Hurt Liberals.

The heavy Socialist vote was also a blow to the Government, as it was obviously the Liberals who suffered by the three-cornered fight.

In the opinion of The Times' special correspondent here, Mr. Butler's increased figures show the labor element is not altogether attracted to, or guided by Mr. Lloyd George's advance schemes.

After the result, Reading gave itself over to joy [illegible] which lasted well into Sunday morning.

The [illegible] of [illegible] their windows, but it was an entirely good-natured crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 which packed the streets and formed torchlight processions and danced [illegible] in which [illegible] and [illegible] and men and [illegible]. They also shot off fireworks and [illegible].

Seasoned campaigners declare it was more exuberant than at any general election.

It was the first time in 60 years that Reading has ever given a majority for either side of four figures, and the keenness of the contest is shown by the fact that over 90 per cent. of the register was polled.

An [illegible] Tory leader [illegible] ed:

BEILISS ACQUITTED OF BLOOD RITUAL MURDER

Kief, Russia, Nov. 10.—Amid scenes of unparalleled excitement, Mendel Beiliss, the Jew, was acquitted to-night of the blood ritual murder of Andrew Yushinsky, the thirteen-year-old Christian boy who was slain in March, 1911.

Troops with fixed bayonets guarded the court house, and mounted Cossacks with drawn sabres patrolled the streets, to prevent anti-Semitic out-breaks. The authorities were prepared to take every precaution to prevent a pogrom.

When the verdict was announced a roar of protest went up from the crowd that jammed the little court room, which was quickly taken up by the throng that surrounded the court house.

Beiliss, half fainting from fear and excitement, broke down completely when he heard the verdict that made him a free man again after almost three years. He uttered a cry of thankfulness, and then began to weep. His counsel supported him on either side and armed soldiers escorted the Jew to his home, where his anxious wife and little ones were waiting to welcome him.

JAPS WIN TRADE JUST AS THEY DO IN WAR

Not Very Scrupulous, But Their Conquest in Asia is Sure and Steady

London, Nov. 8.—A special to The Daily Chronicle from Shanghai says:

Precisely what progress Japan is making in the commercial world today is a much debated point. So far as regards her conquest of trade in the Far East, there are many conflicting opinions. Those who know anything of actual conditions [illegible] the [illegible] path along which Japan, not too scrupulously marching, have been sounding the alarm to British and European manufacturers and merchants for a long time; but they are met for the most part by stern rebuffs by men who loll complacently in their conservative chairs at home.

Writers in Europe have decided beyond cavil that properly conducted governments should not engage in trade and government ownership. They hold that properly conducted governments have not the right to become manufacturers or merchants, or transportation agents. All precedent is against it, learned writers condemn it, the accepted rules of the government game forbid it, and that properly conducted governments do not do it. And, they add, Japan is a properly conducted government. They will not believe for a moment that Japan's government is a huge banker, a huge trader, a huge trust magnate.

Not Room for People at Home

It is plainly unwise to expect Japan to stay within her own borders. Here is a country whose population is roughly fifty millions, increasing at the rate of 600,000 a year, with a country, over-eighths of which is barren mountain. Inevitably the people who live in this land must have expansion. They must have industrial and commercial expansion or they must die. In that struggle for expansion they have pitted themselves against the European, and they have won; the white man to-day, far less than having any [illegible] for the Japanese, is beaten by them in the [illegible] at any [illegible]. [illegible]

[illegible] they have come to realize [illegible] the real struggles for world power are to be commercial, not military. One finds the following combination in the Japanese, a combination bound to produce [illegible] to-day:—

(1) A working population, intelligent, capable, facile, orderly, extremely industrious and having a low standard of living.

(2) A government astute in the modern conditions, [illegible] Japanese [illegible], Japanese shipbuilding, and Japanese [illegible] and utterly unscrupulous as to the means it uses to that end.

Against this government cleverly no individual firm, corporation or trust can compete—or trader can compete with a government trader. And that is the reason why Japan succeeds in the world's commerce, no matter where the figures lie.

NURSE CONTESTS CROWN'S RIGHT TO FIANCEE'S MONEY

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Dr. Beemer superintendent of the Mimico Asylum, and a material witness having returned, the Attorney-General's action to recover a bankbook and an insurance policy from Ellen Page, nurse, in the estate of the late Fred Hale, a Mimico attendant, will be resumed before Mr. Justice Latchford.

Miss Page claims the $1,200 involved, not under will, but because Hale, her fiance, gave the bankbook and the policy to her on his death bed.

THIS PREACHER ASKS A HEALTH CERTIFICATE

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Dr. James Bishop Thomas, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, announced to-day that in the future he would require a health certificate from persons desiring him to conduct their wedding ceremonies.

"I have had it in mind for some time to make this announcement," said Dr. Thomas, upon being asked for information on the views that led him to this decision. "I was waiting for some of the ministers to unite with me in the requirement, but none has yet seemed quite ready, so I determined not to wait longer. I think it will be but a short time before others will take the same stand."

THE MIDDLE STATES ARE ALL SNOW COVERED, SWEPT BY GALES

Sixteen Inches of Snow in Pennsylvania With More Coming Reports Say

Pittsburg, Nov. 10.—Snow, sleet and wind storms swept Virginia, a large portion of Ohio and Western and Northern Pennsylvania yesterday crippling all means of telephone and seriously retarding wire communication. The storm, which was unabated this morning, it said to have been a contrary one as it failed to follow the coast but jumped over mountain ranges and [illegible] a disturbance that had previously started over the Lake Superior region.

Early to-day the storm is headed north from here toward Lake Erie.

An extraordinary snow fall is recorded from all points available in Ohio, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania. The fall is from 10 to 16 inches with snow steadily continuing. Thousands of miles of wires are prostrated, broken by falling poles or trees; scores of towns were in darkness throughout the night; traffic service was seriously handicapped and trolley lines over a wide area were practically put out of commission.

POLLS SHOW MAJORITY OF 453 FOR HOME RULE

Manchester Guardian Analyzes Vote in Reading and Linlithgowshire Elections.

London, Nov. 10.—Unionist papers display a natural jubilation over the result of the Reading and Linlithgow elections. Ministerial organs on the other hand take the defeat philosophically. The Manchester Guardian in an inconspicuous editorial analysis of the poll in both elections, arrives at the conclusion that the figures show a majority of 453 for Home Rule.

"We see nothing in Saturday's results which materially alter the Irish situation," declares the Westminster Gazette, which also prophesies that the Government's difficulties during the next few months will mainly be from labor party extremists. The Daily News says Reading was hopeless from the beginning, and declares even if the stream went strongly against the Government their duty regarding Home Rule would be unaffected.

MORRISON UNSEATED ELECTION IS VOID

Winnipeg, Man. Nov. 10.—The MacDonald election is void. Alex Morrison, M.P. handed in a long written statement at the opening of the trial this morning, in which he admitted that corrupt acts on the part of his agents during the campaign were not of trivial nature.

The Liberals petition against him was filed almost a year ago.

In addition to bribery and corruption alleged, it was charged that the police powers of the province had been [illegible].

Morrison carried the seat by a majority of seven hundred in the by-election. This is the contest in which Liberal workers were arrested on various pretexts, which were afterwards proved to have no foundation. Two Conservative workers were tried without information of their arraignment being given to the Liberal counsel on charges of grave irregularities and allowed to go with the infliction of fines on pleading guilty.

HAMILTON COMPANY MAY OFFER TO SELL OUT TO THE CITY

If Toronto Buys Railway Contract Company Will Likely Seek to Dispose of its Interests to Municipality—Franchise Has Six Years to Run

Hamilton, Nov. 10.—It is believed locally that in the event of Toronto purchasing from Sir William Mackenzie the Toronto Railway and T. E. L. Companies, the Dominion Power and Transmission Co., the holding company controlling the Cataract concern and the street railway will seek to dispose of its interests in Hamilton to the municipality. Both in the opinion of those thoroughly [illegible] the electrical situation here and is shared by the Hydro-Electric.

The contract between the city and the Cataract Co. for street lighting expires next July and the railway franchise in six years. The competition for private business has been very keen and the Hydro now has 6,000 services, or about half the private contracts in the city. This competition is believed to have inclined the Cataract concern to dispose of its interests if the city will consider a favorable offer.

SIMON SAYS.

BRITISH ARMY OFFICERS WILL REFUSE TO FIGHT ULSTER

They Regard Irish Home Rulers as Desiring Complete Separation

London, Nov.—Although Home Rule is becoming less and less improbable, as the people begin to understand it, there is still a possibility of it becoming law. Among the many considerations that are causing the Government in England to hesitate before pushing matters to the extreme in Ireland, and which are also giving grave concern to the King, is the possibility involved of being compelled to employ the regular army to coerce the anti-home rulers of Ulster into submission.

In the English army the majority of the officers sympathize with Ulster. It is idle to deny the fact. They know that the aim of the home rulers is the partial, and eventually the complete separation of Ireland from England, and from the English crown, and that the Ulstermen are averse to this separation, and are determined to remain subjects of the crown; consequently are loyalists.

They regard the cause of Ulster as just, and many of them [illegible] or than take part in any military measures of a coercive nature against Ulster, will prefer to resign their commission.

This will be done on an extensive scale; and as there has been for some years a dearth of officers in the English army, and it is becoming more and more difficult to obtain men possessed of private means willing to devote their lives to the military service of their country, the prospect of wholesale retirement from the commissioned ranks is a very serious consideration indeed to [illegible] and government.

This is one of the straws which shows which way the wind is blowing.

THREE ARE KILLED BY BAD WRECK IN SNOW AT WANSTEAD

Bodies of Trainmen Consumed in Fire Which Destroyed the Wreckage

London, Ont., Nov. 10.—Conductor Moffatt, of the Grand Trunk, and Brakeman Halloran and Stapleton, all of London, were killed in a rear-end collision of two freight trains at Wanstead, Ont., about nine o'clock this morning. The collision was due to the snowstorm which has been raging in this vicinity since yesterday.

The bodies were consumed by fire which destroyed the wreckage.

Several others are reported injured and will be brought to this city

Plucky Husband Saves Wife.

Beamsville, Ont., Nov. 10.—Horace Whitten and his wife had a thrilling escape from their blazing home when fire broke out from an overheated furnace at 1 o'clock this morning. They were not awakened until the flames gathered considerable headway. Whitten tossed a wet blanket over his wife's head and securing one himself the pair, in their night clothes, made a dash for safety. Both were exhausted. Their fine home was burned to the ground.

Despatcher Killed by Train.

London, Ont., Nov. 10.—James G. Kerr, despatcher on the Grand Trunk here was instantly killed this morning at Hyde Park through being struck by express No. 3. Kerr was out with a gang endeavoring to straighten out the tangle due to the big storm of last night. It is thought that he did not see the train approaching because of the snow flurries, and stepped directly in front of the engine. Kerr was about 50 years of age and married.

BRITAINS TREATMENT OF CANADA IS THOROUGHLY TOLD

Interesting Historical Review by Dr. Adam Shortt at the Canadian Club

Toronto, Nov. 10.—There was a good attendance at the Canadian Club luncheon to-day at McConkey's to hear Dr. Adam Shortt on the subject "Britains Treatment of Canada."

Professor Shortt showed that there was much misconception in the mind of the modern Canadian as to the attitude of Great Britain and British Ministers towards the question of self government in Canada, in the past, and pointed out that there had been great confusion in the fragmentary treatment of the subject.

Britishers Led.

It was Britishers who had always fostered the idea of self-government in Canada, even before Confederation, and they had to thank such men as Lord Elgin, Lord Durham and Lord Sydenham for helping to accomplish it and for teaching Canada what it really meant.

Great Britain was herself still fighting for self-government, as witness the House Rule question and Lloyd George's land reform campaign. Those who were to solve the problem must keep in mind the line followed in the past.

"As far as annexation is concerned it is a dead issue," said the speaker, "blown up or exploded once for all."

Self Government.

Speaking of responsible Government, the speaker said Great Britain had always [illegible] know what it was, but [illegible] had a very [illegible] and [illegible].

Professor [illegible] dealt with the different [illegible] in Canadian history, such as the revolt against the "family compact," by William Lyon Mackenzie in Upper Canada.

THIS WOMAN HAD NEW WAY OF STEALING

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Ethel Lodge, a slight, middle-aged woman, giving her address as [illegible] street, was arrested by Acting Detective Young on a charge of stealing a chatelaine and contents from Mrs. Geo. [illegible], of [illegible], in The [illegible] Co. store. The method adopted by the woman is a [illegible] one and the police say it is the first case of its kind that has come under their notice. Concealing a pair of scissors in her hand, the Lodge woman, whose coat had a cloak pocket, would approach a person carrying a handbag and cut the leather by which the bag was suspended from her victims arm. She was seen doing this by an officer of the store, who notified Detective Young, and when arrested the stolen chatelaine was in her possession.

The woman was arraigned in court this morning and pleaded guilty to the charges. She was sentenced to 30 days in jail and at the expiration of her term will be deported.

MAGICAL EFFECT OF NEW FACE PEELER

(Woman's National Journal)

To maintain a clear, rosy, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercolized wax, which you can get at any drug store. Apply the wax at night as you would cold cream; in the morning wash it off with warm water. If you've never tried it you can't imagine the magical effect of this harmless home treatment. The wax causes the worn, soiled skin to come off in minute particles, a little at a time, until you have entirely shed the offending cuticle. The fresh young underskin now in evidence is healthy and clear looking, so free from any suggestion of artificiality, your [illegible] [illegible]

Biggest Diamond Mine

Twenty-five miles east of Pretoria is what is known as the Premier Diamond mine, the biggest in the world, where 12,000 Kaffirs may be seen any day digging, drilling and hauling trucks of "blue" earth, from which are extracted diamonds to the value of something like $[illegible] per annum.

The total value of diamonds exported from South Africa in a year is about $[illegible], and of this quantity about a quarter are discovered in the Premier mine, the other two chief mines being the De Beers and Jagersfontein.

The Premier mine was discovered by Sir Thomas Cullinan, after whom the great Cullinan diamond of [illegible] carats was named. This diamond was presented to King George by the Transvaal Government, and was cut into [illegible] stones, the largest of which is in the imperial crown.

BATTLE OF STONEY CREEK.

The Battle of Stoney Creek, which is now commemorated by a suitable monument, was one of the most notable actions in the struggle of a century ago between the British forces in Canada and the United States army.

On June 1, 1813, Gen. Dearborn, commanding a United States force of over 2,500 men, left Niagara and marched to within seven miles of the British camp at Stoney Creek, a small settlement some miles from Burlington. According to Miss Agnes Fitzgibbon, one of the best authorities on the war, the place did not receive its name on account of the pebbly bed of the creek, but from an early settler named Edward Stoney. The British force, under Gen. Vincent, numbered 1,600 regulars and a small detachment of militia. A night attack was planned on the Americans at Stoney Creek. The British left Burlington on the night of June 5, and at two in the morning reached the American position. They rushed the camp with fixed bayonets, after killing the sentries. The fight was over in an hour and a half, and the British carried off 130 prisoners and a number of field guns. The camp was destroyed and the Americans defeated and scattered. Seventeen Americans were killed and 38 wounded. The British lost 23 killed and 136 wounded.

Gen. Dearborn reported to his Government that he had gained a victory, and in many American histories this is the story told. But the fact remains that the Dearborn army—a formidable one as forces were measured in that war—was completely demoralized, running away in such disorder to Forty Mile Creek that they left their dead unburied and their wounded uncared for.

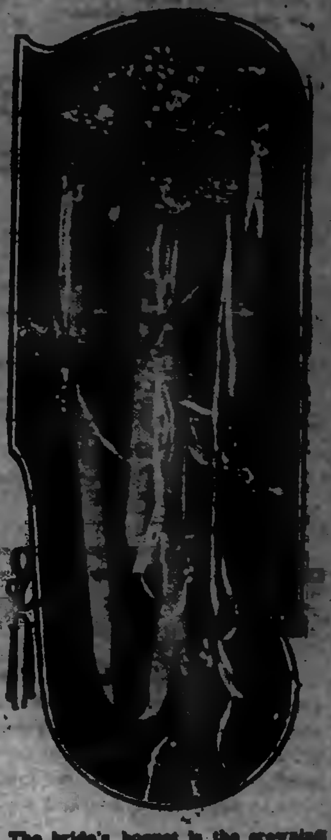
THE BRIDE'S BOUQUET



The bride's boquet is the crowning point in her attire.

The very elaborate bouquet has been supplanted by the prim Victorian bouquets with their quaint lace papers.

The bouquet illustrated is made of roses and lilies completely enclosed by maidenhair. The old fashioned lace paper is a sort of outside frill and holds the flowers and ferns closely in place.

The satin ribbon shower, the length of which depends somewhat on individual taste, is caught with lilies of the valley and maiden-hair sprays.

Buttons in Church Collection

The Rev. Douglas Morgan, curate of Oswestry Parish Church, said in far-off lands like Australia and Canada the Churches were not sheltered by endowments, but because they loved their religion the people made tremendous sacrifices in almsgiving for the support of that religion. The veriest ploughboy among those people in far-off lands would scorn to disdemean himself by offering pieces of metal and buttons and other rubbish which some members of that congregation—as the churchwardens could prove—were accustomed to place in the collection at that church.

Antiquated Tall Hats

During the hearing of an action at Longford Quarter Sessions by a draper's assistant for a year's salary against a draper who failed and was evicted, Mr. Daly (for defendant) said the assistant stayed on when there was no business being done, and when there was nothing to sell in the place. For months before the eviction the shop stock consisted of hundreds of bandboxes and some antiquated tall hats that nobody would buy. His honor gave a degree for salary for portion of the time claimed for.

WISCONSIN TRIES LIFE INSURANCE

The State of Wisconsin has gone into the life insurance business. The first policy was issued only a few days ago. It was for $1,000, the maximum amount that may be written until the number of policies issued exceeds 1,000. Then the maximum is raised to $2,000 until 2,000 policies have been issued, when the maximum goes up to $3,000 and stops. If the [illegible] shall prove successful [illegible], it is probable that [illegible] before the maximum [illegible] made much higher. [illegible] the [illegible] followed by other [illegible] improbable that [illegible] can ever drive private insurance companies out of business. Life insurance is largely a matter of solicitation. Strangely enough, men who are most ready to admit the merits of life insurance seldom avail themselves of its benefits until some agent has turned his batteries of persuasion upon them. The man who deliberately decides upon the amount of insurance that he should carry, who makes a studied comparison of the advantages offered by the different companies, and who then, of his own volition, applies for a policy of insurance, is a rara avis. As a rule, he has to be coaxed and cajoled even after he has been convinced of his duty.

It is this idiosyncrasy of human nature that is the sheet anchor of the private insurance company. The State will get most of the exceptions, the men who do not need to be solicited and perhaps some of the other class influenced by lower rates and State guaranty of safety but the vast majority of insurers will, in the future as now, become policy-holders only when shrewdly and convincingly persuaded thereto by some persevering solicitor.

Doubtless the State insurance will hasten the day when all companies shall be mutualized, and in this it will have conferred a vast benefit upon policy-holders whose overloaded premiums now go to the profit of stockholders instead of being returned to themselves in the shape of dividends upon their policies. If it shall accomplish no more than this it will have been worth while.

[illegible] Caused Usually by Catarrh

Simple Remedy Discovered That Cures Without Drugs.

The American people suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. It undermines more constitutions and creates more sickness than all other diseases combined. It is, therefore, very dangerous.

You can't successfully treat catarrh by internal dosing—you must in some way send a purifying, healing agent through the breathing organs so that the germs can be reached. This you do every time you inhale Catarrhozone. Its rich essences and healing balsams are breathed all through the nose, throat and lungs and effectively destroy every trace of Catarrh. This is a proven fact.

"I endorse Catarrhozone because I know of six bad cases of Catarrh, including my own, that it has cured. It is a superior remedy because it is capable of going where the disease is. I believe it cures quicker than other remedy because it gets nearer to the source of the disease than anything else I know of. I had headaches, bad breath and [illegible] trouble associated with my Catarrh, but they have disappeared since using Catarrhozone, which keeps me free from colds, [illegible] catarrh and all winter ills." OTTO H. KRAMER, Belleville, Ont.

Catarrhozone is needed in every home. Large size lasts 2 months, price $1.00; small size 50c; trial size 25c. At all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y. and Kingston, Canada.

OFFICERS HAVE COME TO HALF-DREAD THE ANNUAL TRAINING

Canadians None Too Willing to Leave Their Jobs For Training at the Annual Camps

That Canadians are a war-like people when their home or liberty is threatened or when the Motherland requires assistance, has been amply evidenced by the part taken by Canadian militiamen in the war of 1812-14, in the Fenian Raids of 1866 and 1870, the Red River Rebellion of 1870 the Northwest Rebellion of 1885, the operations on the Nile and throughout the South African war. But in "the piping days of peace," when the Department of Militia and Defence issues its call to the rural regiments to muster for a two-weeks' training camp, the amateur soldiers are not so ready to respond to the stirring notes of the bugles. Well the officers of the rural battalion understand the effort necessary in recruiting for camp, and they have come to half-dread the annual training period. One of them is authority for the statement that approximately one-half of the members of a rural corps are sons of the farmers, farm hands, and [illegible] legitimately recruited in the regimental recruiting area. The other half are men who, out of work through circumstances or inclination, and without prospect of immediate employment, are ready to shoulder a rifle and draw the Government's good money for two weeks, or four weeks if they can re-enlist with another regiment when the first camp breaks up, as some do.

When a recruit takes the oath and signs the muster roll of a company, he swears that he will turn out with the regiment on all occasions during a period of three years. Less than one-quarter of those enlisting every year ever come to camp again. New men have to be found to take their places in the ranks and the regimental drag net is spread out, bringing in a motley catch.

One reason, of course, for lack of enthusiasm is that the pay is small compared with what an average man can earn in almost any line of industry. The system of efficiency pay is another bone of contention. If a man cannot shoot he cannot get the extra money. Naturally in the eyes of the Militia Department this is a wise provision, but not so does it appear to the recruiting officer. The men whom he should have under his command, the steady, industrious citizens or workmen can earn more money at home and not take any chances of not getting it because they cannot shoot.

GOOD EYESIGHT BECOMING RARE

Moving Picture Shows and Automobiles Contributing Causes

Canadians as a nation, especially city dwellers, are developing short-sightedness at an alarming rate of speed. Such is the startling warning given by a number of the reputable medical oculists. There are numerous reasons given for the alarming increase in short-sightedness, practically all of which place the greater portion of the blame on the advancement made in recent years of civilization. Close work, too much light, poorly lighted offices, automobiling, and the thirst for moving pictures, are among the reasons given.

Dr. Samuel S. Grant, R.O.A., one of Montreal's most prominent oculists, in referring to the advancement of short-sightedness among Canadians, stated that unless something were done quickly to stop the advancement of the ever-increasing disease, there would soon be few persons who would be able to work in offices. "It is astonishing how many people are becoming short-sighted," said Dr. Grant. "Many of the clerks and bookkeepers are to-day developing this big disadvantage, unconscious of the fact. They are losing their eyesight slowly, and do not notice it until they can no longer do any close work.

"By close work I mean working over books or reading within eighteen inches of a book or paper. The eyes become tired and strained as a result of over-usage in close work and gradually lose their sensitiveness. In Germany the condition is much worse than in Canada, for the German letters are much harder to read than the English. It is therefore very lucky that we have not the same letters to read in Canada as in Germany, or the state of affairs would be much more alarming than it is."

"The thirst for moving pictures is also very hard on the eyes and advances short-sightedness. People go into [illegible]

FISH MEAL FOR THE YOUNG CATTLE

The use in Germany of fish meal as a supplementary food or relish for young cattle, and especially for pigs and poultry is continually expanding according to a report made by Mr. C. F. Just, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Hamburg. Germany's entire consumption is imported, chiefly from the British Isles and from Norway. These imports within five or six years rose from a few hundredweights to nearly forty thousand tons worth on an average from $45 to $50 per ton. Difficulty is already experienced in meeting the rising demand for fish meal, and German importers are looking for a fresh source of supply.

In England the use of fish meal is spreading rapidly, and the same article is extremely valuable as a fertilizer.

Fish meal is produced in various kinds and mixtures according to the varieties of fish that are utilized. White fish, including the cod family, provide the best article, and with the lowest percentage of oil. Next come herring, which are taken in vast quantities purely to convert into meal by the factories in Norway. In England and Scotland the offal of all kinds of fish and the refuse and surplus fish indiscriminately are most commonly manipulated. White fish and cod are dried in the open air, and subsequently subjected to hot air blast in cylinders, the resulting product is finally ground into a coarse meal. Herring are first steamed, then pressed, dried and ground into a fine meal.

The conditions surrounding the Canadian fisheries on the Atlantic are, it is believed, favorable for the establishment of fish meal plants, whereby a commercial use can be made of the superabundant fish and offal.

VANISHING WILD LIFE

"To date there are eleven species of North American birds that have been exterminated by 'civilized' man since 1840," says Dr. Wm. T. Hornaby director of New York Zoological Park "and there are twenty-three other species of birds pressing each other closely for the sad distinction of being first to lengthen the list of extinct species." Only one living specimen of the carrier pigeon is now known to exist yet formerly wagon loads were poured into the market. Dr. Hornaby has no hesitation in placing responsibility for this wholesale destruction on man. "There are," he declares, "probably millions of people who do not realize that man is the most persistently wicked and wasteful of all predatory animals. Others kill only what they think they can consume. If something is by chance left over, it goes to satisfy the hunger of the humbler creatures of prey. From one end of the continent to the other there is a relentless desire to kill."

TO HUNT FOR ANDREE

Norwegian to Probe Stories Concerning Explorer's Fate

Christian Leden, the young Swedish explorer, who brought back from Northwest Canada in 1911 Eskimo stories which apparently threw additional light on the supposed fate of Professor Andree, will spend another year and a half or two years in exploration of that far northern district. Mr. Leden said he expected to obtain further information regarding Andree, the scientist, who started in a balloon for the North Pole in 1897.

The explorer has a full description of all instruments in Andree's equipment, and will be able to identify any such articles that he may find in the Eskimos' possession. The stories previously told him related to the descent from the sky of a "large bubble" containing two people, thought by the Eskimos to be devils, one of whom was killed by arrows and the other left to his fate when the natives became frightened and fled.

THAT LINE FENCE

Old Farmer Smith came home in a huff,
From his field the other day,
While his sweet little wife, the pride of his life,
At her wheel was spinning away.

And ever once a gay little song
With the buzz of her wheel kept time,
And his wrathful brow is clearing now,
Under her cheerful rhyme.

"Come, come, little Turk, put away your work,
And listen to what I say;
What can I do, but a quarrel brew
With the man across the way?

"I have built my fence but he won't commence
To lay a single rail,
His cattle get in and the feed gets thin
I am tempted to make a sail!"

"Why John, dear John, how you do go on,
I'm afraid it will be as they say!"
"No, no, little wife, I have heard that strife
In a lawyer's hands don't pay.

"He is picking a flaw, to drive me to law—
I am told that he said he would—
And you know long ago how wrong-ed me so,
I vowed that I never should.

"So what can I do that will get rid
To the man across the way?"
"If that's what you want, I can help you [illegible]
That man with a specter gray.

"Thirty dollars will do to carry you through,
And then you have gained a neighbor;

And shame [illegible] out of the fellow."
They built up his part and sent to his heart
Love's darts, where the good thoughts follow.

That very same night, by the candle light,
They opened with interest a letter.
Not a word was there, but three [illegible] fair,
Said—the man was growing better.

STOLEN RELIC WORTH A FORTUNE

Sacred Persian "Mihrab" Now in Possession of London Collector

Stolen almost tile by tile from the mosque of the Market Place at Kashan, the greater part of a Persian Mihrab, to which every Mohammedan worshipper makes obeisance, has found a resting place in London.

Rectangular in shape, measuring 9 feet 4 inches by 6 feet, the antique consists principally of silver and gold lustre tiles for which the Persians were famous, and was built into the wall of the mosque, pointing directly towards Mecca.

The bulk of the Mihrab is in the hands of Mr. John Richard Preece, who was formerly Consul-General at Ispahan.

Mr. E. W. [illegible], who was associated with Mr. Preece in forming his collection, says that in 1879 this Mihrab was intact, but on inspecting it again a piece had disappeared. Portions continued to disappear mysteriously despite the presence of guards, until it was nearly all gone. Probably the guardsmen were in league with the robbers. One special guard was killed mysteriously at his post, and three others were drugged.

"In the early eighties a servant in the Government employ offered Mr. Preece a beautiful tile, but refused to divulge the source from which it was obtained and how. Through a period of nearly twenty years similar tiles were brought to him and purchased. Then one day, being in the mosque at Kashan, he discovered that his pieces had been plucked from the wall, and the Mihrab so depleted that the authorities were induced to sell the remnants to him."

There are parts missing, and the collectors holding them refuse to sell, so rare and beautiful is the work. The Mihrab comprises over ninety pieces, and the value placed upon it is from $75,000 to $100,000. The design is of a door within a door, and inscriptions in blue from the Koran are in three languages—Kufic, Karmati, and Naskhi. It was executed in the thirteenth century by one Hassan, and the [illegible] now amongst the [illegible].

"THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its features and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

The Bargain Annex Is Eight Years Old To-day

Wednesday, November 12th, 1913

We first opened the Bargain Annex 8 years ago in 1905, and to-day we celebrate the Anniversary of its Inauguration. From a small department it has grown to such proportions that now one hears about it all over the province. We started it with mingled feelings of doubt and hope, but its steady progress has more than fulfilled our highest expectations.

It has now its own manager, buyer and sales force, each week hundreds of customers being served, and up to the present time has never known a failure. Every Wednesday it is opened for business and on this, the four hundred and sixteenth event, we offer the greatest array of Annex Birthday Bargains ever placed before the Peterboro Public.

A portion of the furniture department has been appropriated for this day that we may all the better be able to wait upon the large numbers that will surge through the Annex from 8:15 till 5:30 which is the closing hour. Your attention is directed to the merchandise listed below, which is truthfully described, and selections of which will be placed in the show windows early in the week.

WOMEN'S LLAMA CASHMERE STOCKINGS, 19c PAIR.

A splendid weight of black cashmere fashioned without a seam. The sizes are 9, 9½ and 10 and 25c is the usual value. Wednesday, pair 19c

LACE CURTAINS, 39c PAIR

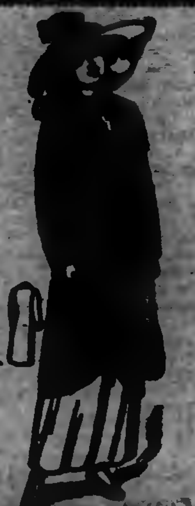
Undoubtedly a cheap curtain, because they are of Nottingham Lace 2½ yds. long. Two patterns are shown, each procurable in either white or ecru. They form an attractive setting to any window. Wednesday per pair 39c

WOMEN'S $1.00 HOUSE WRAPPERS 59c.

Odd lines from our regular stock of $1.00 and $1.25 garments. The colors are mostly blues, greys and reds, the remaining sizes being 34, 36 and 38. If your size is here, you can secure a splendid wrapper for 59c

HEAVY WHITE WOOL BLANKETS $2.45

This is really an excellent line of Blankets, so good in fact, that we call them "Cressman's Annex Special." They are 60 by 80 inches, of a close, firm texture, and unexcelled by most Blankets that cost $3.25. Birthday Annex price, per pair $2.45



99c a Yard Will Buy These $2.00 and $2.50 Winter Coatings

COULD ONE REALLY EXPECT more for 99c than a yard of these splendid Coatings that are all this season's productions? There are Chinchillas, Diagonals, Nigger Heads, etc., in fact every cloth that is new and suitable for winter coats. We bought them at a mill clearance, and as this bill goes to press they are being delivered, but by Wednesday there will be a display of them in the show windows. One only needs to examine their woolly texture, their soft thickness and weight, to realize that seldom indeed can such value be obtained for so modest a sum. Your choice may rest upon a smart plaid design or a reversible material, a pretty brown, or a natty black and white mixture, but whatever it may be you can depend upon serviceability, and satisfaction. Moreover, this is certain—that only on such occasions as a Birthday Anniversary can we think of placing before you such an opportunity. Wednesday, per yard 99c

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns, are a valuable guide in making coats. They are 15c. on the main floor.

SHETLAND FLOSS 5c SKEIN

Here is a special inducement to those who are interested in fancy work. The colors are black, cardinal, pale blue, pink, mauve and white, the Skeins being of full size and seldom marked as low as this. Wednesday, per Skein 5c

EGYPTIENNE HEATHERBLOOM UNDERSKIRTS 97c

They are fashioned somewhat wider than the present style, but they are very easily altered. Every Skirt in the lot was formerly priced at $1.95 and a good range of light and dark colors is presented. Splendid value for 97c

ROCK RIVER COTTON BATTING 8½c ROLL

Put up in rolls of medium size and a little better grade than one expects at this price. Generally one pays 10c for this brand. Wednesday per roll 8½c

LAUNDRY AND CORN STARCH, 5 PACKAGES 29c

This is the "Hoosier" Brand and the packages are of regular size. The price is specially reduced for Wednesday, all one kind or assorted. 5 PACKAGES 29c

Women's Nightgowns of White Flannelette 87c

THE YOKES OF THESE PRETTY GOWNS are daintily trimmed with silk embroidery and tucks, while the material is a soft white "Saxony" Flannelette. They embrace two new Annex lines, and we believe that in paying $1.19 or $1.25 a better gown could not be secured. The present price therefore will make a strong appeal to every woman needing a Nightgown. Wednesday 87c

SEE THEM IN THE WINDOW

Exceptional Value in Flannelette Blankets

$1.35 LINES, SIZES 60 BY 80 FOR $1.20

$1.20 LINES, SIZES 60 BY 72 FOR $1.00

THESE ARE ENGLISH MADE BLANKETS and are finished singly. The larger size is in pure white throughout, while the smaller ones are bordered with either pink or blue. Both are of that soft woolly texture so desirable in blankets of this kind, their substantial make up rendering splendid service year after year. Moreover the Birthday Annex price is cheap—remarkably so, as you may prove for yourself if you visit this department on Wednesday.

A Splendid Shirt for Men at 49c

3 FOR $1.40

THESE ARE MADE OF AMERICAN AND ENGLISH Percales and Prints, mostly of light and medium shades, with cuffs attached. For Fall and Winter wear they will be found to be very acceptable and are remarkably cheap at the Annex price, because this line of shirts usually retails at 75c, 85c or $1.00. The sizes 14 to 17½ cover the needs of the average man, and one may choose from an assortment numbering about twenty-five dozen. Birthday Annex Price 49c

THREE FOR $1.40

Penmans Made Sweater Coats for Boys 59c

WITH SKATING AND TOBOGGANING only a few weeks away, every boy who delights in out-of-doors recreation will need a Sweater Coat. And he or his mother will do wisely to select one from this new shipment of Penmans made coats. They are knitted of heavy wool yarn, some having high button collar, some with reversible turn down collar, and others with V-shaped neck. A big variety of suitable colorings is shown, and we would say by the way, that ordinarily these Coats would retail between $1.00 and $1.25. Birthday Annex price 59c

BLOUSES OF WHITE MUSLIN OR LAWN, 57c

Just about half price for these pretty Blouses that are embroidery and insertion trimmed. The styles are most neat and attractive, a good range of sizes will be shown, and the value is most worthy. Wednesday 57c

"LITTLE DARLING" HOSE FOR THE CHILDREN, 19c

All-wool Cashmere, with silk heels and toes. Pink, sky, tan, red, cream and black are the colors, while the sizes are 4 to 7. In regular stock these Stockings are 25c and 30c. Consider, then, the good buying at the Annex price. All sizes per pair 19c

LACE EDGINGS AND INSERTIONS, 3½c YARD, 30c DOZ. YARDS

In widths varying ½ to 2 inches, there is a host of pretty patterns in these really good laces. They make very dainty [illegible], and will be found very useful in every home. [illegible] should be laid upon the Low Price for Wednesday.

[illegible] FELT HAT SHAPES 45c

Every style and color is represented in this collection of Hats, [illegible] being of a quality [illegible] demanding a price as high as $1.50 to $2.25. But we are making a big [illegible] for the Birthday Annex at 45c

THREE HOUR SALE—11 TO 2 O'CLOCK

Wide, White Flannelette 10½c yard

35 TO 36 INCHES WIDE IS THIS ENGLISH FLANNELETTE, bleached a pure white and is of a soft woolly substance, stout and strong. In regular stock we ask 15c a yard for such quality, and only for three hours on Wednesday will this big reduction prevail. Birthday Annex price per yard 10½c

We cannot fill Telephone Orders for this Flannelette, and no length shorter than five yards will be cut.

[illegible] 59c

Oblong, white cotton, [illegible] make, with [illegible] attached. [illegible] exceptionally good value for 59c

Men's $10 and $12 Ulster Coats for $5.90

JUST ABOUT TEN OF THEM. Heavy winter overcoats made in ulster style with convertible collar. The colors are Black and Dark Checked Grey, the sizes being 36 to 42. This is one of those opportunities characteristic of the Annex, where sterling lines have received a remarkable reduction in price. If your size is here, and you need a coat of this description, visit the department at an early hour and satisfy yourself that here are truly $10 and $12 Coats for $5.90

MEN'S AND BOYS' NIGHT GOWNS [illegible]

In lengthy, roomy sizes of heavy stripe of English Flannelette. All sizes for men—boys' sizes 10 to 15 years. Little more than half the usual price.

NEW KIMONA CLOTHS 13½c YARD

Our 18c cloths, in stripe patterns of grey, brown and purple colors. There is good weight in them and they are soft and warm. Excellent for Kimonas, bath robes, etc. Birthday Annex, per yard 13½c

HEAVY ENGLISH FLANNELETTES 12c YARD

We seldom quote quite so low a price on this line, and in this instance the value is exceptionally good. From 33 to 36 in. wide, patterned in good stripe designs, this Flannelette compares very favourably with most 15c qualities. Per yard 12c

MEN'S FLANNELETTE PYJAMAS, 89c

They are made of a heavy English Flannelette, in stripe designs, the colors being light, while all sizes can be obtained. Each has a military collar and breast pocket, and is offered for at least one-third the regular value. Wednesday 89c

WOMEN'S OVERALL WORK APRONS, 49c

In good quality English Percales of Grey, Blue and China blue shades. The patterns are neat, the aprons well made and serviceable. No one can justly criticize the value at 49c

[illegible] O'CLOCK SALE

Wash Blouses 25c

THESE BLOUSES WILL SEEM ALMOST LIKE A BIRTHDAY PRESENT to the purchaser, for they are really worth 50c and 75c in the usual way. They are made of light and dark prints and chambrays, some having a [illegible] turned down Dutch collar, others being fitted with a high convertible collar. Owing to the extremely low figure, [illegible] will not be served with more than two Blouses. Birthday Annex Price 25c

Women's Winter Coats

THERE ARE 14 COATS IN ALL, some being black, some in colors. And while they have been carried over from last year, they are good serviceable coats that will bring warmth and satisfaction, and are quite up-to-date in style. Formerly they were priced $10.00—some even more and to dispose of them quickly we [illegible] made them a particularly attractive bargain for the Birthday Annex. The ridiculously low price is $2.98

The Reliable Annex Laundry Soap 9 Bars for 25c

IS THERE A HOUSEWIFE WITHIN THE BOUNDS OF PETERBOROUGH who does not know of the splendid cleansing properties of the Annex Laundry Soap? Hundreds of homes use it every wash day, and find it to be most satisfactory in every way. The Bars are full in size, it is made from a special formula expressly for us, and our name is stamped upon it as evidence of the faith we repose in it. The Birthday Annex offer is certainly mighty cheap. 9 BARS 25c

Telephone Orders will be filled as completely as possible, but we advise a personal visit if one would secure the best selection.

Annex Opens 8:15 The CRESSMAN [illegible] Annex Closes 5:30

Bed Comforters 99c

WHEN YOU ARE PASSING THIS STORE, pause for a moment and glance at these Comforters which you will find placed in the window. They will greet your eye with a pleasing medley of coloring, for their coverings are in shades of blue, fawn, pink, [illegible] etc., on both sides. Their size is 60 by 72 inches, the filling warm and light, making in all an exceptionally good value comfort for 99c

"Mill Ends" 25c an end

FROM ½ TO ¾ OF A YARD is the length of these Ends; in several instances there being a number of pieces all alike. The mill sent us down about 200 of them, comprising an assortment of all wool [illegible], suitings, etc., in good textures and colors. To those people who appreciate the economical buying there is in "Mill Ends" we would say that the earliest choice is, of course, the best. Birthday Annex price, per End 25c

PLAN YOUR KITCHEN ON SCIENTIFIC LINES

Modern Conditions Demand That it be Run on the Principle of a Factory

Perhaps no part of a new home has quite such an allurement for a woman as has the kitchen—and if the house be old this is very apt to be the point from which all plans for rejuvenation begin. The little drawers, the cupboards, the flour bins all delight the feminine heart, so much so, in fact, that the housekeeper is prone to multiply these unnecessarily. Every drawer, one should remember, is an additional care, every cupboard and every locker a place that must be dusted periodically—washed frequently. This takes time and strength. It adds minutes to the length of each working day—hours to the net result of energy wasted during the year.

Not that drawers, cupboards and lockers are undesirable. On the contrary it is these very compartments, intelligently designed, that make of the kitchen a practical place in which to do the work of the house, but these appointments must be used understandingly. Too many or too few seriously cut down the efficiency of the kitchen. They add to the complexity of the business and of the house when they should eliminate friction and reduce the amount of labor required.

There is only one way to successfully plan a kitchen and its accessories which is to follow out the same method employed by efficiency engineers when they take hold of a man's factory store or office and convert cumbersome methods into a simple, frictionless system, highly organized to do work efficiently. This way consists in carefully analyzing the requirements of a business and then designing the simplest apparatus with which to do that business.

In small houses a "buffet kitchen" is frequently installed and has proved itself almost a necessity to the housekeeper who does her own work. This combines every function of the kitchen, pantry and serving-room in one room and has proved itself practicable in houses accommodating a family of as many as six people.

A very unique plan carried out in a number of bungalows is that of completely eliminating the dining-room and dividing its functions between the kitchen and living-room. The main idea of this innovation is to provide at small cost a house where the mistress can do her own work. This is made possible by a pivoted arrangement of the partition between kitchen and living-room. When meals are [illegible] to serve this partition is opened and the small dining-table, ordinarily kept in the kitchen, is pushed into the living-room, which becomes for the time being the dining-room. At completion of a meal the process is reversed, the table being pushed back into the kitchen where the dishes are washed and put away.

As to the sanitary equipment for the kitchen much is to be said for glass shelves, glass covers and also for enamelled wall covering. These, however, are quite expensive, and any housewife can work wonders in a kitchen, even an old kitchen, without them. All that is absolutely necessary is a clean floor with a hard, smooth surface, well-painted walls and woodwork in some light color, a can of white enamel paint for shelves and pantry, a judicious selection of modern, labor-saving devices, the daily use of the common household chemicals, plenty of sunshine and fresh air.

MRS. "GENERAL" DRUMMOND noted suffragist leader and prominent official in the Women's Social and Political Union.

PIONEER SUFFRAGIST

This Old Lady Was Preaching Woman's Rights Half Century Ago

Fifty years ago, when women mentioned anything about "equal rights" or "equal pay for the same work" in behalf of womankind, the lordly male smiled derisively and most of the women themselves [illegible]. Now it's all different. Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood is one of the few original women suffragists—"equal righters" they called themselves in the old days—who lived to see her ideas become popular.

MRS. LOCKWOOD

A half-century or more ago Mrs. Lockwood was preaching the gospel of equal rights, political and economic. She studied law, then an unheard-of thing for a woman to do, and she applied for admission to the Supreme Court of the United States. Denied at first she succeeded in having a law passed admitting women lawyers to practice before any court in the neighboring Republic. She also was twice a candidate for the presidency of the United States. Besides her notable work for women suffrage Mrs. Lockwood fought valiantly for universal peace, the betterment of Indian conditions and temperance.

The little hat worn with this tailored costume reminds one of the bonnets worn by the little old ladies of to-day. It's a Victorian bonnet such as the late Queen used to wear, without strings.

It is a great change from the hats women have been wearing as it sets back from the face and shows the hair almost back to the crown of the head.

Hitherto any woman who showed more than the tip of her nose and chin after she had adjusted her hat properly was very much behind the times.

The Force of a Jet of Water

A factory in Grenoble, France, utilizes the water of a reservoir situated in the mountains at a height of 500 yards. The water reaches the factory through a vertical tube of the same length, with a diameter of considerably less than an inch, the jet being used to move a turbine. Experiments have shown that the strongest man cannot cut the jet with the best tempered sword; and in some instances the blade has been broken into fragments without deflecting a drop of water, and with as much violence as a pane of glass may be shattered by a blow from an iron bar. It has been calculated that a jet of water a small fraction of an inch in thickness, moving with sufficient velocity, could not be cut by a rifle bullet.

Queen Elizabeth's Time

Teetotal hospitality would never have done for Queen Bess, for wherever Elizabeth went there had to be ale—strong ale. One [illegible] the [illegible] of her host, the Earl of Leicester, as expressed in a letter from Hatfield to Lord Burleigh: "There is not one drop of good drink for her here. We were fain to send to London and Kenilworth and divers other places where ale was; her own beer was so strong as there was no man able to drink it." And one quart of this "excellent weak" of good strong ale for breakfast, we are told, put the queen in good spirits for the start of the day's work.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 5, Welland Ship Canal," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, November 18th, 1913.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Engineer in Charge, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Department on the payment of the sum of fifty dollars. To bona fide tenderers this amount will be refunded upon the return of the above in good condition.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $100,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES.
Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary.

TALE OF THE SMOKING PINE

Indian Legend That Accounts for the Tree That is Found in Maine.

When the chief, Asculmo, who presided over the tribe of Indians that dwelt on the banks of the Bumbahook, was struck dead by a thunderbolt, the people of the tribe buried him near the banks of that stream. And there today, near Hallowell, Me., over the spot of his grave stands the smoking pine. This is the story the Indians tell of the origin of this tree.

When the first white men came to inhabit this land they found the Indians a strong and sturdy race inhabiting this new country. To them the white men brought vice and disease, and soon the Indians' native strength and vitality began to ebb. They grew feeble, lost their former hardihood and vigor, and were soon unable to cope with the more powerful stranger in the land.

Chief Asculmo saw this and warned his people that the Great Spirit had spoken their fate, which was to be that of destruction. He counseled them not to join in strife with the white man, but to call him into council and to smoke with him the pipe of peace.

"I am soon to die," added the old chief, "and where my body lies there shall arise a great pine which shall forever smoke as a token of eternal peace between the red and the white people."

The prophecy of the old chieftain was fulfilled. The compact of peace between the Indians and the English was made and soon thereafter Chief Asculmo died struck down by a thunderbolt. Then it was that his tribesmen decided to leave the land and move on westward.

On visiting their beloved Chief Asculmo's grave to bid him a last farewell, they beheld with awe and wonder the complete fulfillment of his prophecy. There stood a beautiful tall pine from whose leaves and branches a haze of smoky mist was constantly rising. Hence it is that from that day on this tree has been called the smoking pine.—Celia K. Stark.

Strange Guests at St. Bernard

An enormous flock of swallows was overtaken by a heavy snowstorm near the famous hospice of St. Bernard in the Alps last winter, Ave Maria states. When the good monks saw the birds they opened the doors and windows of their building that the little feathered strangers might have shelter.

All the rooms were crowded with them, thousands remaining until sunrise. The next day proved fine and the guests pursued their way toward Italy. This is very pleasant to learn, but it saddens one to know that a vast number of [illegible] birds failed to reach the hospice and were found dead in the snow by the tender hearted monks.

DEVELOPER OF PITCHERS

Will Robinson Has Knack of Bringing Out Best in a Man

When he is not developing the Giant's young pitchers and teaching Rube Marquard how to keep his curve ball under control, Wilbert Robinson, the old Baltimore catcher runs a cafe in Baltimore.

Robinson played on that wonderful Oriole team of 1894-5-6 put together by Ned Hanlon. He was one of the game's best backstops and in 1895 he tied with Clements, the Philadelphia catcher, with the splendid average of .982.

As a developer of pitchers, Robinson proved to Manager John McGraw of the Giants that he is able to bring out everything in a man, by teasing Rube Marquard and making Jeff Tesreau worth while.

It was Robinson who gave the late John T. Brush some return for the $11,000 he invested in Marquard. In Baltimore Robinson took hold of Joe Corbett, after Joe had drifted from pillar to post, and made him one of the greatest pitchers in the land. Corbett was a wonder in his day and he owed it to the big catcher.

In addition to Corbett there were McMahon, Hawke, Esper, Hoffer, Pond and Hemming tossing curves to Robinson, and one and all felt more secure with him back of the plate taking their curves.

Although not a heavy hitter, Robinson was a consistent batter and broke up many games with his timely hits.

WILL ROBINSON

His best batting average was in 1894, when he hit .354. Robinson has a job with the Giants as long as he is able to use a big glove, and he is without doubt the most valuable lieutenant Manager McGraw has on his pay roll.

PROVIDING A WATER SUPPLY

Natives of the Soudan Utilize a Hollow Tree, Which Serves the Purpose Admirably.

Surely the strangest use to which a growing tree can be put is to turn it into a reservoir. Yet this is what the people of Kordofan in the Soudan do with the tree which the botanists call "Adansonia Digitata."

The tree, which is known to the natives by the name of "Homr," groups being called "Tebeldi," attains a considerable height. The trunk, which measures from 30 to 50 feet in circumference, is, like so many of the bamboo family, hollow, and the natives have discovered that it makes an excellent cistern for storing water for the arid season. Should the cavity not be large enough the natives hollow it out still further. The Soudanese have also a method of cutting the opening for the reception of the water just at the top of the trunk where the branches begin, so that during the rainfall the great offshoots of the tree act as gutters and guide the water into the trunk. At the same time pools are dug at the foot of the tree to collect the rain and from these the water is transferred to the trunk by buckets. Sometimes, though rarely, the tree cracks under the weight of the water, after which the trunk is of little use. However, the natives have found that cracks can be successfully stopped with cement, and recently a number of broken-down trees have been thus repaired.

Curiously enough, the presence of large quantities of water in the trunks in no way impairs the growth of the trees, whose use in this way is undoubtedly an ingenious solution of the water supply problem.

Every ball club wants good hitters, but the best hitting teams do not always win the pennant, and many a time a light-hitting, well-balanced team will succeed in finishing ahead of their heavier-hitting opponents in the race for the bunting.

The light-hitting Chicago American club won a pennant in 1906, although it never had a man hitting over .280, and but four players hitting above the .250 mark, and one of these was George Rohe, who was used the greater part of the time in utility roles.

The foregoing is one of the exceptions that prove the rule, and in the majority of cases, the heavier-hitting clubs always finish well up in the race. In 1909 the two clubs which played for the world's championship, namely, Pittsburg and Detroit, led their respective leagues in team batting.

Yet [illegible] the old Philadelphia National League team with such wonderful hitters in its line-up as Big Ed Delehanty, Larry Lajoie, Elmer Flick, Sam Thompson, Billy Hamilton, Jack Clements, et al., were never able to capture a pennant. In the Southern league it is the exception when the heaviest hitting teams win the gonfalon, as in most cases it is generally won by a well-balanced club that possesses few good hitters.

Paper Garments

The best results yet attained in various attempts that have been made to produce a wearable cloth from paper are said to be, those produced by a patented process employed in Germany. Narrow strips of paper are spun into yarn, which may be woven to form cloth. Better results are had by spinning paper and cotton together, and still better cloth is made by a combination of paper and woolen yarns.

The fabrics do not, of course, possess the strength and durability of ordinary cloths; but useful clothing is made of them at a low price. They may be washed without injury.

OLDEST LIVING THING

The Famous Cypress in the Churchyard of Santa Maria del Tule

In southern Mexico there stands the oldest living thing in the world—the famous cypress in the churchyard of the village of Santa Maria del Tule. This tree is situated in the intendency of Oaxaca, a few miles east of the city of that name. Experts judging by the gigantic bole of the Santa Maria del Tule cypress and by the slow growth of the species, have estimated the age of the monster to be between 5,000 and 6,000 years. These figures are staggering to the imagination. Taking the lowest computation, when the seed from which the tree sprang fell upon the earth, King Menes was reigning in Egypt—3,000 B. C. When Cheops drove his subjects with the lash to the labor of building the great pyramid, it was a slender stripling of 300 years. And it had reached a lusty youth of 1,500 years when the Hebrews made their exodus from the land of the Nile.

The discovery of America and the conquest of Mexico by Cortez would seem, in its life, things of only a few months ago. The last scientific measurement of the Santa Maria del Tule cypress was made by Dr. von Schrenk in 1903, a century after Humboldt discovered it, while on his famous tour of equatorial America. Dr. von Schrenk found that its trunk, four feet from the ground, had the astounding girth of 126 feet.

Before the broad and towering bulk of this one life, which has persisted without interruption since the date of the dawning of history, Dr. von Schrenk halted in awe. Had the foliaged creature possessed eyes and a tongue, what treasures of information could it have added to the annals of man. What revolutions in Mexico it could have related, what rises and falls of monarchies and civilizations in tropical America.

But flights of fancy gave way to immediate scientific duties. Authorities on trees had declared the discovery of the approximate age of this cypress to be one of the most important problems in [illegible]. They had expressed a hope that the next scientist who should visit the ancient living monument would not fail to complete the evidence needed.

The Mayor of Santa Maria del Tule, however, opposed a barrier of adamant. Measure the circumference of the tree? Surely. Photograph it? Indeed, yes. But to take an instrument and bore from the trunk a plug two feet deep and one-half an inch in diameter? Heavens, no!

In vain Dr. von Schrenk urged that this experiment had been made hundreds of times without damage to trees, and that by counting the rings shown on the plug he could learn the tree's average rate of growth and thus solve one of the greatest scientific problems of the world. The Mayor was all humility and [illegible]. Anything he possessed was at the disposal of the scientist. But touch the tree he should not.

So Dr. von Schrenk was compelled to content himself with measuring the bole and taking some photographs of the tree. He also observed a wood tablet which Humboldt, 100 years before, had nailed to the tree, the [illegible] vitality of which [illegible] had kept [illegible] by a growth of bark covering the tablet.

Indians Degenerating

Mrs. J. E. Willmott, president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, in an address recently said work among the Indians of the Canadian West was very discouraging. You may attribute it to your head, or rather to the condition of your brain.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, P.L.S., returned yesterday from [illegible] where he spent an outing with the Lloyd [illegible]. [illegible] The party [illegible] Mr. R. A. Mottram, warden of [illegible] County; W. T. C. Boyd, R. B. Rogers, Lawrence Boyd, J. Hatch, who had charge of the hounds, and his assistant, [illegible]. The party bagged four deer of which one was shot by Mr. Rogers. The party all wore bright red hats to prevent chance of accidental shooting in mistake for a deer.

Alleged Thieves Remanded.

At yesterday's police court, Chas. Johnston and Walter Mahaffy, two scavengers residing about three miles west of Jackson Park appeared before Magistrate Dumble. They were charged with the theft of a [illegible] coat an overcoat and hat and they pleaded guilty. Johnston, charged with stealing some seventeen hens, pleaded not guilty. The hens are the property of Mrs. Alex. Turner, and were stolen on Thanksgiving morning. The men were remanded until next Tuesday.

First Hebrew Circumcision.

The first case of that old Jewish rite of circumcision, one of the oldest in all the contemporary religions was solemnized here at 11 o'clock yesterday at the house of Mr. Fine, corner of George and Sherbrooke streets. This rite involves many ceremonial adjuncts, including a specific number of candles burning. The local Rabbi performed the rite. Candles have been burning at the Fine home since Saturday, which is course, is the Hebrew Sunday.

Police Commissioners Met.

The Police Commissioners met yesterday afternoon with Judge Huycke, Mayor Bradburn and Police Magistrate Dumble present. The matter of Hallowe'en troubles was discussed. Boys did a lot of mischief. The boys arrested complained that when arrested they were denied the privilege of telephoning their respective mothers. This was denied by Chief Thompson. A complaint was read that the police were not backing up the License Commissioners. His Honor thought it only fair for the complainants appear and present specific charges. It was decided to hear such complaints on Saturday Nov. 22nd, at 4 p.m. Chief Thompson brought up the subject of P. C. McGinty, who has been off the force for a considerable time through illness. It was decided to pay him half pay until further consideration. Mr. G. F. Hawood was appointed to the force, vice P. C. Tucker, resigned. Officer Patterson was confirmed in his position to succeed P. C. McGinty.

IF MEALS HIT BACK AND STOMACH SOURS

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends Indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach [illegible] and indigestion in five minutes.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE IS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

They love to take it and it doesn't harm the tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or is feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which contains directions for babies, children of all ages, and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

The "A" in Comment

How an error led to the accepted spelling of comment was explained by Sir Everard im Thurn, in the course of an address to the members of the Royal Horticultural Society at London.

He said that in the course of its growth the nut which was now known as the coconut was similar to the face of a monkey, and so the Spanish and Portuguese word "coco," meaning a grin or grimace, was attached to it.

When Dr. Johnson was compiling his famous dictionary he hid an article on the "coco nut," but a careless proof reader passed a mistake in the spelling of the word, the compositor having inserted an "a," and the word appeared as "cocoanut," a spelling which has been used ever since.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

Written by
DR. DAVID H. REEDER,
Chicago, Ill.

CONSUMPTION: About a score of years ago the Home Health Club began the battle, in the homes of the people, against consumption. The fight started at that time by teaching prevention as well as practical methods of home cure, has been taken up and exploited, improved upon and magnified by able men and women not only throughout America, but over the civilized world.

It's a good fight. The series of newspaper articles supplied by the Club so many years ago were desired by thousands and so they were printed into and became a part of Vol. 2 of the Home Health Club books. Thus they became the nucleus or foundation for the tremendous and successful warfare against the "great white plague."

The organization of the Children's National Tuberculosis Society has been one of the powerful agents developed and it is going right to the bottom of the problem for the benefit of future generations. Stop the development of consumption in the children and teach them how to avoid it and the problem solves itself in the most natural way.

The most natural question for you to now ask is "How to stop the development and how to teach my children to avoid it?" In a little pamphlet the Children's National Tuberculosis Society gives out, there is some splendid information along these lines. I am going to quote two paragraphs under the heading of Early Symptoms of Consumption:

Many people have consumption without knowing it. Since it is extremely important that treatment should start as soon as possible early discovery is necessary.

With most people the disease starts as a catarrh of the air passages which lasts for some time. Later there is a slight cough lasting a month or more, slight fever in the afternoon with alternating flushing and pallor of the face. Little streaks of blood may appear in the expectoration, which may increase to profuse hemorrhages later. Loss of weight is always suspicious of consumption, especially when accompanied by any of the other symptoms. Persons with beginning consumption take cold frequently, become exhausted even after light exertion and display a change in disposition, becoming irritable or depressed with disinclination for work formerly enjoyed. Night sweats and quickening of the pulse from the poisonous toxines are also common symptoms. The temperature of a person with suspected consumption should be taken at various times of the day, since fever may not be present the entire 24 hours.

CLUB NOTES.

Dear Doctor: My mother is troubled with gall stones and has had two quite hard attacks lately. The pain seems to go from her stomach to side and then to her back, but most in her side. After one of these spells she has to be careful or she can feel the pain again. It usually takes a week or two before it is gone entirely. The past year she has [illegible] [illegible], but not of late. The doctor says she will have to be operated upon. I would like to know if there is any way of obtaining relief without an operation. She seems well otherwise.

About two years ago I read in the paper that juice of an onion would cure anyone troubled with gall stones. The writer claimed that it would dissolve the stones and also told of a friend who had been operated on for gall stones. One of the gall stones that was removed was so large he had it put in his cane. One day on coming home he laid his cane on the kitchen table near an onion that was cut in half. When he returned for his cane the stone was most dissolved. My mother is fifty years old.

M. S.

The Home Club has many times published a simple and practical method of home treatment for gall stones and it has been very successful in many cases. In some cases, however, the stones are too large and cannot be passed. I have never tried it, but it may be quite true that the juice of onions would dissolve gall stones if you could apply the juice to the stones, but you cannot be sure that the taking of the onion juice will have the desired effect, because only a small portion of it would go to the place desired. I am going to suggest that you thoroughly try out the Home Health Club method of treatment at the same time use the onion juice. It may effect a complete cure. It is as follows: Each night before retiring take 2 tablespoonfuls of pure olive oil and in the morning take a teaspoonful of pure cream of tartar in a tumbler full of cold water. This treatment is to be continued two weeks. It will probably cause a great deal of looseness of the bowels, in fact it must do that, in some cases even amounting to quite a severe diarrhoea, but it should be persisted in nevertheless. I trust that the onion juice may make the passing of the stones much easier. The stools should be carefully watched for signs of the stones. She must, of course, take great precautions against becoming constipated again or she is very likely to have further trouble. It seems to me that it would be very wise to at least give this treatment a thorough trial before resorting to surgery.

FIRST HUNGER-STRIKERS

The hunger strikes of the suffragists represent the revival of a very old and once widespread custom, known in the East as dharna (or dhurna) baithna, or "sitting dharna." This custom was once very common in India, but is now almost obsolete. It was chiefly resorted to in order to force payment of a debt. The creditor would sit at the debtor's door and taste no food until his claims were satisfied. If the debtor allowed the creditor to starve it was believed that he laid himself liable to supernatural punishment, especially if the starver happened to be a Brahmin; accordingly, Hindus of lower caste would sometimes engage a Brahmin to starve for them. The custom was much abused, being used to levy blackmail upon persons who were not debtors at all. It also gave rise to various analogous practices, for instance, that of certain beggars in the Punjab, known as "strap-riggers," who twist a leather strap around the neck and throw themselves on the ground before a shop until alms are given them. Again, in order to obtain compliance with some demand a person would threaten to commit suicide or kill one of his own children unless his wish was granted. All such practices are forbidden by the Indian Penal Code.

An identical custom once prevailed in Ireland, and is frequently mentioned in the Brehon laws. It is recorded that St. Patrick "fasted upon" Laoghaire, the heathen over-king of Ireland, until the latter embraced Christianity, and in accordance with the superstitions of the times the king and his family felt it incumbent upon them to fast at the same time until this test of endurance was won by the saint.

Do you Believe

In going straight to the weak spot in treating disease? If so, you will never use anything but Peps for coughs, colds, bronchitis, and throat and lung troubles. Listen why!

Peps are tiny tablets, which contain rich medicinal ingredients, so prepared that they turn into vapour in the mouth, and are breathed down to the throat, the breathing tubes and lungs direct.

Cough mixtures go—not to the lungs and chest at all, but to the stomach. There is absolutely no direct connection between stomach and lungs.

When you have a bad cold, your digestion is weakened. You lose appetite, and if a man, your usual smoke does not "taste good." In other words, your digestive system is lacking tone. All cough mixtures make this condition worse.

Don't ruin your stomach to heal your lungs. Take a remedy that goes right to the lungs—Peps.

[illegible] how they end coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throat, [illegible], asthma, and all lung troubles. Contain no poison, and are best for children.

Dr. Gordon Stables says:—"If you wish to cure and end a cough, if you desire to keep [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] by their action."

Have you tried this famous remedy? If not, cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps, 50c. box.

In the Interests of Suffering Humanity

February 28, 1912.
[illegible] Spence St., Winnipeg.

The Sanol Manufacturing Co. Ltd.,
Winnipeg, Man.
Gentlemen,—

I beg to draw your attention to the fact that I have suffered from rheumatism for the last nine years, and particularly for the last five. I [illegible] [illegible] to stand, walk, or in fact, help myself in any way. My [illegible] and [illegible] swollen, drawn and stiff, could not bend them in any way. I tried everything, went to the Banff Springs three months in 1906, twice to Hot Springs, Arkansas, two months in 1907, four months in 1908 done me no good. I heard of SANOL last September and have been taking it ever since, and I am glad to say the swelling is about all gone. I am going around the house on crutches, also my joints are loosening and straightening, and I fully expect that SANOL will cure me.

I believe SANOL will cure rheumatism, for my case is a hard one, and in fact has been pronounced incurable, and if I improve for the next three months as I have for the last three I will be walking in good shape.

I remain,

Yours truly,
John J. Lane.

P.S.—You can show this letter to anyone you feel like, and send them to me as I can tell them better than I can write it.

TWO SCORE BOATS MEET DOOM IN STORM: MARINERS MEET DEATH IN WAVES: TWENTY BOATS OVERDUE, MAY BE LOST

Name of Overturned Freighter Eight Miles Out of Port Huron Was Still Unknown at Noon—Her Thirty of Crew Given Up as Drowned

Fort William Reports Many Boats Unheard From; Others On the Rocks

Toronto, Nov. 11.—Northern Navigation Company's big passenger steamer Huronic, aground on White Fish Bay.

The Tomlinson steamer, either the "Hartwell," or the "James B. Davidson," is reported sunk off Goose Cap Point.

A giant freighter 600 feet long, unidentified, is floating bottom up north of Port Huron.

Forty lives perhaps lost.

An unknown steamer stranded on Gull Rocks, with twenty eight men on board, is in grave danger.

An unknown steamer is reported ashore at Isle Royal.

An unknown steamer is reported ashore at Point Iroquois.

An unknown steamer ashore at Cooper Harbor.

An unknown steamer is reported ashore on Angus Reef in the bay near Alpena, Mich.

The steamer "Howgood" is high and dry near the mouth of the St. Clair River.

Mariners say the storm is the worst for many years on Lake Superior. The probability is that many more vessels have met disaster, but several days will pass before all the damage done can be learned.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 11.—When the tug Sarnia City returned this forenoon after an all-night watch over the big steel freighter, which lies upside down in Lake Huron, she brought no additional information as to the identity of the unfortunate vessel. The name of the derelict remains far beneath the water and the waves are still rolling high.

Capt. Reid, of the tug, returned more firm than ever in his belief that all of the thirty or forty members of the crew of the [illegible] must have been drowned. The wreck not having been reported until late yesterday, it was difficult to ascertain when the disaster occurred, and where it took place. The overturned vessel probably drifted several miles.

Capt. [illegible], in charge of the life saving station, left the [illegible] with his crew for the scene of the wreck.

[illegible] parties were also organized to patrol the shore in search of wreckage.

Reports indicate that a shifting of cargo may have been responsible for the accident.

Light Ship and 6 Sink.

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 11.—Lightship No. 82, carrying a crew of eight persons, and stationed in Lake Erie, off Point Abino, fifteen miles west of this city, was reported lost early today by incoming vessels, and was believed to have foundered during the recent storm.

Wreckage of the lightship floated into Buffalo harbor this morning and was picked up on the beach at the foot of Michigan street. The flotsam consisted of a boat railing, two or three doors apparently off a boat, and several life preservers, marked "United States L.V. 82."

The ship carried a crew of six men.

WONDERFUL TURBINES FOR THE AQUITANIA

Engines With Total Weight of 1,400 Tons Now Being Installed in Mammoth Cunarder.

London, Nov. 11.—Wolfield turbines will drive the mammoth Cunarder Aquitania, which is now having its engines installed at Clyde Bank. They have a total weight of 1,400 tons, and to enable them to be lowered into the hull of the ship, one of the four great funnels has not yet been placed in position.

There are more than a million turbine blades, the combined length of which is more than 140 miles. The blades vary in length from one and a half to twenty inches.

These turbines are absolutely the latest production of marine engineering. Thousands of pounds have been spent in experimenting, and full use has been made of the great experience gained by the Cunard Company in the construction and running of their other turbine ships, the Carmania, the Lusitania and the Mauretania.

KNIVES OF SURGEON TO CURE CRIMINALS

Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 11.—Two prisoners who were sent from here to Chicago by Circuit Judge Bridgeman to undergo operations by Dr. R. H. Pratt, of Evanston, Ill., for the cure of moral delinquencies, returned today and faced the court.

"I am a new man now," said George Corbet, one of the men. He stood erect; before the operation his shoulders sagged. His face was clean and he had the appearance of one who is cured mentally and physically.

Charles Chappell, the other man, had pleaded guilty to burglary and was known as a [illegible].

"I believe I am cured," he said; "I want to lead a decent life."

Judge Bridgeman announced the two would be paroled and their actions carefully watched.

TOT BURNED AS MOTHER LOOKS ON, UNABLE TO AID

Bellaire, O., Nov. 11.—Before the eyes of his mother, who lay in bed too ill to rise to aid him, Clifford Arndt, aged five, was perhaps fatally burned to-day.

The boy was playing with matches. His mother's screams brought neighbors, but too late to save the child from injury.

ONE APPLICATION WILL REMOVE HAIRY GROWTHS

No woman need longer tolerate ugly hairy growths, for with a single application of a plain delatone paste it is an easy matter to quickly banish hair or fuzz from any part of the face or neck. Just mix some water with a little powdered delatone and spread this on the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub it off and the skin will be free from hair or blemish. After this treatment, the skin should be washed to free it from the remaining delatone.

BODIES OF SAILORS FOUND BY FARMER

St. Joseph, Ont., Nov. 11.—The bodies of five drowned men, all with life belts on them "Wexford" and the other "London" were found in Lake Huron beach, five miles south of here this morning at 8 o'clock by Robt. Turnbull whose farm is situated on the lake shore.

The bodies were not far apart. All the men were young and apparently sailors. Mr. Turnbull had occasion to go to the beach. The storm was still raging.

Commercial and Financial Papers Forecast Great Industrial Depression

with her other countries, is on the verge of a serious setback in trade, which will put an end for the present to the good times which started in 1909. This view, based on unemployment statistics and other conditions, has been appearing much of late in commercial and financial newspapers; and it has been expressed publicly by one or two directors of banks. As far back as last spring the indications were visible; and although optimistic forecasts have been made by competent men in other countries, the general view here is pessimistic. The reason is that the people has been left long free of all, in the shape of an increase of unemployment, which set in early.

A good authority, Privy Councillor Otto Schwarz, predicts that the coming industrial crisis will be "of shorter character and of greater [illegible] than the crises of 1900 and 1907." He holds that even the current year's progress in most [illegible] [illegible] Lloyd George [illegible] in England, [illegible] the French and Italian [illegible] later, both of whom have [illegible] themselves optimistically will be proved to have measured the situation too [illegible].

[illegible] the heavy fall of securities [illegible] due only in part to the Balkan situation [illegible] the American stock [illegible] proved to be. Trade, they say, [illegible] that [illegible] can be found with [illegible] 1908, when [illegible] steadily [illegible]. Dr. [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] themselves for a [illegible].

A [illegible] writer, Dr. Zeidler, takes a [illegible] view. The coming crisis, he says, is a German, not a world crisis; and [illegible] has been [illegible] in England and [illegible], the prosperity of Germany and why serious [illegible] of unemployment are being heard in Germany only. [illegible] since 1908 has [illegible] and [illegible] industrial foundations and is building [illegible] any other country.

QUEENS WILL HAVE A STRONG SEVEN

Only Won One Game Last Winter, But Expect to Do Better This Year.

Kingston, Nov. 11.—The annual meeting of the Queen's Hockey Club was held on Saturday evening. A report was brought in stating that the manager appointed last year had not returned and that although Queens had only won one game from McGill last year and the season had not been as successful as was looked for, still the prospects for the coming season in regard to players and finance looked very bright. The officers elected for the coming season were: Hon. President, Prof. M. B. Baker; Vice-President, L. S. Smith; Assistant Secretary-Treasurer, [illegible]; Manager, M. Shields; Hon. Coach, J. J. Harty; Coach, Prof. M. B. Baker; Captain of the first team, Kenneth Macklinnon.

BEILISS PROTECTED AFTER ACQUITTAL

Superintendent of Brick Works, Where He Was Employed, Shields Him and His Family.

Kiev, Russia, Nov. 11.—Mendel Beiliss, after his acquittal by the jury last night on the charge of murdering the boy Andrew Uschinsky in March 1911, was quietly released at a late hour and taken to the Zaitzeff brick works where he was formerly employed there he met his wife with some members of his family and several friends, and on the invitation of the manager they all passed the night in the superintendent's house.

No disturbances occurred in the streets of Kiev, thanks to the announced intentions of the authorities to suppress with an iron hand any disorders which might be instigated by the [illegible] antisemitic agitators in the city. To-day Cossacks still patrolled the streets and also the surrounding districts.

EVE. THAW'S MAID USED AS A BLIND

She Does the Publicity Act While Her Mistress Rests

Toronto, Nov. 11.—Harry K. Thaw has a mania for getting out, and Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw now in Toronto at the King Edward hotel has a mania for staying in.

This staying-in-ness does not refer entirely to the public eye, although Mrs. Thaw has a penchant for that organ of publicity, the present abode that she can't be pried out of, is her room.

No meals for her in the dining-room—too public. No promenades in the hotel corridors—too [illegible]. Interviews with the press—too public.

Last night the most talked of woman in the world turned up from the station, went up to her room, has been there ever since. All people who stood at the King Edward with the idea of being in the same room with a celebrity, fixed their eyes on a merry twinkled [illegible] a girl who looks like Mrs. Thaw and dressing like her. But she wasn't. She was the maid that the very astute [illegible] carries around with her as a blind.

The blind got the champagne and the stares, the management got the money, and the bells got the quarantine. Evelyn incidently got a rest.

MR. CROTHERS FRIEND OF LABOR HAS ALWAYS HELPED WORKER

Criticism in Toronto Weekly Shown Unfounded if His Record Since Taking Office is Examined

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 11.—Last Saturday's Toronto weekly in an article headed "Minister of Labor," contains at least one true statement. As applicable to it no one will dispute the assertion "the criticism of political opponents counts for little or nothing"—especially as in this case where particulars and facts are studiously avoided. It is said that "Mr. Crothers' sympathies are naturally with big business." That is a large joke that will strike those who know the Minister of Labor. Did he exhibit such sympathies when he cut in two the price of school books in Ontario? Or when he secured the re-instatement of the railway conductors and their back pay? Or when he had the machinists and boiler-makers returned to work?

Mr. Crothers has always expressed his sympathy with the principle of the Industrial Disputes Act and has administered it with greater efficiency than it formerly had been. When he was placed in charge of the Labor Department he found complaints had been made by workingmen of alleged delays in the administration of the Act and he at once gave instructions that it must be administered as expeditiously as possible, with the result that in his first year the time taken in the establishment of a Board of Conciliation was less than half that taken the next preceding year. The number of days lost in strikes was less by 800,000. Prior to the year 1912 for 20 years there was in the mines of Nova Scotia on an average a strike every year. Since, there has been no strike there, and but two or three comparatively small disputes which were quickly and satisfactorily adjusted.

There has been but one prolonged [illegible] strike since Mr. Crothers took charge of the Department and that still continues on Vancouver Island. Conditions there are unique, especially in view of the presence of the Western [illegible] union and both parties [illegible] to use the Act, although by the Minister repeatedly urged to do so. As [illegible] what was considered the best interests of all concerned, including the public, a Royal Commission was appointed to investigate and report. And Mr. S. Price, for many years Mining Commissioner for Ontario was appointed sole Commissioner. No man in Canada is either by reason of experience, integrity or reputation better qualified for that work, and no fault has been found with his report either by the miners or by the mine-owners.

SHOOTS MAN DEAD WHO RESCUED HER

Hackensack, Nov. 11.—Weary of the attentions of James Feeney, who saved her life when she was a child, Mrs. Bessie Ross, 19 years old, a bride of five months, last night shot and killed him on board the canal barge Traveler at the Riverside Pier of the Erie Railroad, Edgewater.

With the revolver in her hand she ran ashore to Thompson's [illegible] and told the proprietor what she had done. He sent for the police, who locked up Mrs. Ross. County Prosecutor Wendell S. Wright ordered an inquest for to-day, expecting the young woman would be released to-night.

Mrs. Ross told the police that she and her family used to live at Cliffside, under the Palisades. When she was three years old, Feeney, then 20, saved her and her mother from drowning. Ever since then he had been planning to marry her.

A year ago the young bride's father began to run a barge between Edgewater and Lewiston, Me., and last spring she met Ross there. They were married last June and she accompanied her husband on his barge trips here. Whenever they arrived at the New Jersey port, Feeney, a fireman on a Hudson River tow, would visit her and urge her to elope with him.

One of these visits occurred last night. Feeney boarded the vessel at 9 o'clock, and while Ross was forward, he went below and found Mrs. Ross. He demanded that she run away with him, and when she refused and tried to run out of the cabin, he grasped her by the arm. Mrs. Ross's screams attracted her husband, who ran below and grappled with her assailant.

While her husband dragged Feeney on deck, Mrs. Ross got a pistol and ran up above. [illegible] she continued:

"I've stood all the persecution I intend to."

Two shots were fired, one hitting Feeney's leg and the other piercing his heart. Mrs. Ross ran ashore as he crumpled up on the deck.

"I am sorry that it has cost a human life—the life of a man who saved mine—but it was my only way out of it," said Mrs. Ross last night. "I felt that sooner or later he would kill me."

AIR SUPREMACY FOR BRITAIN IS CHURCHILLS LATEST IDEA

Warns Taxpayers to Expect Biggest Naval Bill That Kingdom Has Faced

London, Nov. 11.—Speaking at the Lord Mayor's banquet last evening at the Guildhall, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, warned the country to look for the biggest naval bill so far when the next budget is introduced in Parliament, and declared that Great Britain is determined to win the aerial supremacy of the world.

The First Lord went on to say that the development of the German and other navies compelled increased expenditure and greater exertion than ever before in times of peace. The Government would, he said, embrace every opportunity of abating competition in armaments, but as long as such competition existed England would never hold back.

Speaking of the aeronautic possibilities, Mr. Churchill said the Government intends to develop this branch of the nation's defence. He maintained that the British hydro-aeroplane, although still only in the experimental stage, was superior to all others.

Supremacy in Everything.

"That is not enough," he proclaimed. "We will have supremacy in everything, not in aeroplanes alone. The [illegible] safety of the country must be maintained by force of [illegible] over the whole sphere of [illegible] development [illegible] the first nation of the world. Other nations have started sooner than England. France's genius and Germany's [illegible] perseverance have produced results which [illegible] and we cannot equal.

"You have to make up your minds [illegible] play [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible]. The [illegible], the [illegible] and the [illegible] must be [illegible] to [illegible] naval strength and naval security."

POISON ON A DARE TWO ARE DYING

Newburg, N.Y., Nov. 11.—Trying to out-do each other on a dare, Edward Grant, twenty-nine years old, and William Doherty, twenty-[illegible] years old, both of this city, swallowed a quantity of mercury tablets this afternoon, and both of the men are in a dying condition tonight in St. Luke's Hospital, suffering from bichloride of mercury poisoning. Physicians say they cannot recover.

The men had been taking a few glasses together and in their wanderings found a vial of small tablets in the street. According to Grant's statement to the physicians, they knew the tablets were poisonous, but they "wanted to see what they tasted like." Doherty dared Grant to swallow a few and the latter did so. Doherty then was dared by Grant and he ate several of the tablets.

Several hours later Grant was found in the waiting room of the Newburg and Beacon ferry house. Beside him was a vial containing the remainder of the mercury. He was taken to the hospital and a few minutes afterward Doherty was discovered lying in the street about a block from where his friend was found.

Both men were conscious when they met in the hospital ward. As soon as Doherty recognized Grant he said, "I'm with you to the end, kid." Physicians say that each of the men swallowed about [illegible] grains of the poison.

PROVINCE OF ALBERTA NOW HOLDS A BIG OIL DEPOSIT

R. C. Wilson, Seattle Drilling Expert, Says it Exists in Large Quantities

Calgary, Nov. 11.—That there is plenty of oil in the Province of Alberta, but that it is impossible to say till thorough and practical tests have been made, in what part of the territory it exists in largest quantities, was the statement of R. C. Wilson, of Seattle, expert oil driller, with seven years' experience in the Alaska oil fields, and with large experience also in Pennsylvania.

"So far, my observations in this Province have been very casual and [illegible]," said Mr. Wilson, [illegible] is less and in others greater, the average depth at which oil is found is about 2000 feet."

Asked as to his opinion in which section of the Province oil would be found in the greatest quantities, Mr. Wilson said he was not prepared to answer that question.

"The formation of this country is so broken and the original deposits so greatly disturbed that that is a very difficult question to answer. All that the boring companies can do is to take the advice of geological experts and sink wells in what appears to be the most likely places. The heavy seepages of oil in different parts of the Province and the [illegible] geological indications show that there are large bodies of oil, however, but actual drilling only will determine in what quantities. [illegible] that there is oil in large quantities in some parts of the Province."

FAITH IN THE NORTH

Peace River Man Looks for a Gold Rush Some Day

Big and bronzed, Sheridan Lawrence of Peace River, unfolded some interesting tales of the northland while on a visit to Winnipeg. For instance, he discovered to the world another Dr. Grenfell, another Dr. Lain of Labrador, in the person of a fine old man named Baldwin, who ministers to the wants of the settlers and the Indians and takes what they can give in return, perhaps a load of wood or the carcass of an elk, but more often his services are free.

That there will some day be a gold stampede to the Peace River is the prophecy of the northerner. In the sand bars of all the rivers there is gold, he said, but so far it could not be panned in paying quantities.

It is 600 miles by water from Edmonton to Fort Vermilion and measured by the map the distance between the two points as the crow flies is almost as great as between Moose Jaw and Edmonton, but here is the word of this man, who has lived at the northern point for over a quarter of a century, that grain planted later matures at the same time as the cereals of Alberta and Saskatchewan. The summer days are longer in the north, with more sunlight, hence the result.

"The conditions in the country are practically the same as when I entered it 20 years ago," said Mr. Lawrence. "Fur trading is the chief occupation. Good prices are paid and there is no want among the Indians. Independent traders have corrupted the morals of the tribes to a certain extent and they are not accorded the same credit as in the early days when they dealt exclusively with the Hudson's Bay, but the Indians are being taught some bitter lessons and they are improving. So far as I can see the Indians are decreasing somewhat in numbers."

In answer to a question as to how he came to go away up into that country where the mail comes in ten times a year, passing all the fertile lands of the west, Mr. Lawrence said that in the early days his uncle, H. J. Lawrence, was located at Fort Vermilion as a church missionary. This uncle induced his father to leave Frontenac county, Ontario, and go up there as farm instructor. They went via Calgary 30 years ago, travelling all the way in carts across an unbroken prairie to the Athabasca River.

Iron in Plants.

Experiments are under way at the agricultural bacteriological station in Vienna to increase the quantity of iron carried in certain plants, with a view to the effect on the human system when these plants are used as food. Artificially prepared foods containing iron do not always produce the desired effect, because the iron is not completely assimilated. This difficulty, it is thought, may be overcome by causing plants to take up an increased quantity of iron during their natural growth. By adding hydrate of iron to the soil in which it was growing, the experimenters have succeeded in producing spinach containing a percentage of iron seven times as great as that found in ordinary spinach. It is believed that the process will prove successful with other ferruginous plants.

A Remarkable Case

A remarkable case has been treated in Aberdeen Royal Infirmary. A married woman, who was a patient there was operated upon, when no fewer than seventy-three ordinary pins, eleven hairpins, and a small piece of steel wire were found embedded in the bowel. The woman is unable to account for their presence there, the only possible explanation being that for a considerable period she had, during sleep, extracted a pin from her nightdress and swallowed it. She is said to be recovering.

Why should a man choose his wedding day, of all times, to make a fool of himself? A Baltimore doctor is to be married to a Philadelphia woman whom he has never seen, and whose face he will not see until after the ceremony. The couple have carried on their courtship by telephone.

BANKRUPTING THE GREAT POWERS.

Mr. Daniels, U. S. secretary of the navy, said a pregnant thing a day or two ago in expressing approval of Winston Churchill's proposal of a year's holiday in naval construction. "The world," he said, "is today facing the anomaly of making its navies less adequate by increasing them."

It is a truth tersely put, says the Hamilton Herald. Every year the first-class battleships planned and laid down are bigger, more powerfully armed, and more costly than those of the year before. The effect of this is that in two or three years the most powerful vessels of to-day will be retired to the second line and in two or three years more the majority of the great fighting machines will have become virtually obsolete. It was different in the old days before steam and steel armor. Then a war ship was of service so long as she could float.

The inevitable outcome of the present competition in naval armaments, if it be continued, will be the bankruptcy of the naval powers. For the cost must increase at a steadily accelerating rate. The necessity of maintaining the British margin of superiority over Germany is admitted by all but hopeless peace cranks. The need is all the more urgent because of the fact that the British navy contains a much larger proportion of old and therefore comparatively unserviceable ships than does the new and up-to-date German navy. Indeed, the margin of superiority is not so great in reality as it is on paper. But in order to maintain her advantage Britain must spend on new ships double what Germany spends, and the cost of each new first-rate battleship is greater than the last, as a consequence the financial strain is becoming greater each year.

All the more reason why the other nations of the Empire should lend a hand in bearing this burden. Wealthy as Germany is, she will hardly undertake to build against Britain, plus Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and perhaps India and South Africa too. An energetic naval policy on the part of each of the self-governing states of the British Empire might do more than many peace conventions to bring about an agreement for the reduction of naval armaments.

New Treatment Now Advocated For Bronchitis

Is Having Wonderful Success, and is Making Most Remarkable Cures

For bronchitis a different form of treatment is now advocated. It consists of a scientifically devised vapor that penetrates to the uttermost recesses of the lungs and bronchial tubes. Every spot that is sore, every surface that is irritated is at once bathed with soothing balsams and healing essences that make chronic bronchitis an impossibility.

This treatment now so universally employed in bronchitis, throat troubles, colds, etc., is called CATARRHOZONE. It acts just as air of the pine woods acts, as a healing antiseptic remedy for all diseases of the breathing organs.

Just think of it—a remedy that can be carried with the very air you breathe to the seat of bronchial or catarrhal inflammation. A remedy powerful enough to kill germ life and yet so healing that disease flees before it. Catarrhozone is truly a wonderful remedy. In many lands it has won its way, and is affording grand results to sufferers from colds, catarrh, throat weakness, asthma and bronchitis. There is no sufferer from a grippy cold or any winter ill, that won't find a cure in Catarrhozone, which is employed by physicians, ministers, lawyers and public men throughout many foreign lands. Large size lasts two months and costs $1.00 and is guaranteed; small size 50c., sample size, 25c., all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y. and Kingston, Canada.

A GREAT MANY LONDONERS ARE THE VICTIMS OF OPIUM

Gilded Palaces Bring in Huge Sums to Their Proprietors —Luxurious Dens in West End

A newspaperman accompanied by an ex-inspector of Scotland Yard, dressed in the plainest of plain clothes, spent several days, and nights in exploring the fashionable haunts where many Englishmen imitate the habits of the Chinese, and their researches proved that, without a doubt, the opium den is as well, if not better, patronized by the fashionable "West Enders" as it is by his more humble and poverty-stricken brother in the east end of London.

In the East end the Chinaman or his opium-drugged English brother lies in an open cubicle upon a none too clean mattress. For the privilege of paying a few pence he is allowed to squat in a grimy hole, where he rolls his opium into his beloved pea, lights it at the flame, plugs it into his pipe, and sucks until he is literally wafted into the opium maniac's heaven. But the difference between an east end and a west end opium den is almost as vast as the area which divides the North Pole from the South.

In a so-called fashionable West End den some sort of introduction is essential before a visitor is allowed within the sacred precincts of the "exclusive circle." Indeed it is safe to say that rarely, if ever, has a casual visitor effected an entrance on his own footing.

However, the detective stated that there are, not a hundred miles from Piccadilly, numbers of touts who act in the capacity of "introducing agents" to the proprietors of these opium palaces. Those who are familiar with the haunts of Englishmen infected with an insatiable taste for opium would, indeed, be amazed at the luxury and elaborate upholstering which characterizes the West End headquarters of the opium fiend. Everything breathes of comfort. The most elaborate Eastern hangings adorn the walls, while Turkey carpets into which the feet sink almost ankle deep cover the floors.

In various parts of the room divans, couches, and settees are scattered around, it would be almost impossible to imagine any Eastern palace more luxurious in every detail. Morning, noon, and night there is always a staff of waiters ready to administer to the wants of privileged patrons, whose requirements are faithfully carried out in every detail. For the proprietor of a fashionable opium den amasses a small fortune in a very short time, and, therefore, it pays him well to study the whims of those who come to him to satisfy their cravings.

"The most curious thing about opium dens in London," said the Scotland Yard man, "is the rapidity with which they spring up and flourish. Indeed, they seem to become widely known almost as soon as they are founded. Your opium den runner, strangely enough, has no need to advertise his ensign. He needs no advertisement; give him a couple of customers and, sure enough, in less than a week his clients will increase and multiply as carrion flock to the carcase."

Perhaps the most striking feature of London's opium dens is their indescribable art of secreting themselves. Indeed, it is safe to say that hundreds of thousands of people pass by these "havens of rest" daily, and yet not one person in a thousand would believe that "this respectable-looking house" is an opium den.

UNCANNY REMEDIES

Days When Viper Broth and Spider Pills Were in the Pharmacopoea

Quaint medical remedies which were popular in bygone days were described at the City of London School by Dr. F. M. Sandwith, Gresham Professor of Physic, in a lecture on "Drugs Old and New."

After pointing out that herbs supplied the first drugs, the lecturer described how animal products were accepted as medicines, some even remaining in the first English pharmacopoea published in 1618. Tiger's flesh and new-born puppies were among the old remedies. One book recommended a live spider to be rolled in butter and formed into a pill and then swallowed, as an antidote to jaundice. Vipers were held in high esteem, and a broth made from them was said to strengthen the sight. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries powdered mummies were prescribed.

In some of the older herbal works a striking feature was the constant recommendation of remedies for bruises, which gave some idea of the manners of the day. John Gerrard, who was chief gardener of Lord Burleigh's garden in the Strand, and had a garden of his own in Holborn, published a book in 1597 which recommended "Solomon's seal" for taking away in one night the blackness of bruises caused by falls "or women's wilfulness in tumbling upon their hasty husbands' fists, or such like."

PRINCESS MARY'S WILL

Rather a Self-opinionated Young Lady is King's Daughter

Princess Mary is said to be the most determined lady in the royal household. Her Royal Highness is fast growing up, and she is forming her own circle of friends and her own manner of life.

The one point of dispute between her and the Queen is her hair. Princess Mary dislikes to have it falling about. The Queen will not allow it up, but a compromise was reached. Princess Mary usually ties it back in a small thick plait doubled up at the neck with a ribbon.

The King is amused at his daughter's strong will, which seems likely to overrule even that of the Queen's. Among her girl friends are Lady Rachel Cavell, the elder daughter of the Countess of Essex; both of Lord Cowan of Kedleston's daughters, and Mrs. George Keppel's second daughter.

A very special friend of the Princess is Lady Rachel Cavell, of whom both Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra are very fond.

Odds and Ends of News and Timely Suggestions

Dairy stables should be well ventilated, lighted and drained. They should have tight floors and plainly constructed walls. Keep the stable and dairy room in good condition, and then insist that the dairy, factory or place where the milk goes be kept equally well.

Whitewash the dairy stable twice a year; use land plaster in the manure gutters daily. Use no dry, dusty feed just previous to milking; if fodder is dusty sprinkle it before it is fed.

Do not move the cows faster than a comfortable walk while on the way to the place of milking or feeding.

Never allow cows to be excited by hard driving, abuse, loud talking or unnecessary disturbance. Do not expose them to cold or storms. Do not change the feed suddenly.

Feed cows liberally, and use only palatable feedstuffs; in no case should decomposed or mouldy material be used. Provide water in abundance, easy of access, and always pure, fresh, but not too cold.

An English-born Canadian, now growing apples in Nova Scotia, made successful experiments with growing the famous Cavillo Blanc in the land of his adoption.

Some of the apple trees in the wonderful apple belt of Nova Scotia are fully two hundred years old, and still yield their full quota of luscious fruit.

To prove the possibilities of an acre of land, and to interest young men in Agriculture, the Ontario Department of Agriculture offers a prize in each county to the young man who produces the greatest profit from an acre of land.

No garden is complete without some of the herbs. Among the best for use are mint, sage, lavender, summer savory, thyme, anise, coriander, dill and winter savory.

The butcher can never pay the breeder what a good heifer calf is worth when she is sold as veal.

BREAKS A BAD COLD IN A JIFFY! TRY IT

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends cold and grippe in a few hours — Don't stay stuffed up.

You can end grippe and break up a severe cold either in head, chest, body or limbs, by taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

WOMAN VOTES AT 103

Eugene, Ore., Nov. 11.—Bearing lightly her 103 years, Mrs. Sarah Todd, sister-in-law of Abraham Lincoln, walked to the polls and cast her vote in favor of a proposition to appropriate $375,000 in aid of the State University.

Mrs. Todd was supported only by a cane as she made her way to the polls. She says she is not a militant suffragist, but that she believes heartily in woman suffrage and expects during the rest of her life to set a good example in citizenship for her younger sisters to follow. She will be 104 years old next March.

SHORT WOOD MEASURE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—A few days ago I ordered a cord of wood from one of the local coal dealers. This cord should of course contain 128 feet, i.e., 4 x 4 x 8 feet in measurement. When I piled it in my cellar, the "cord" only measured 96 feet. The dealer told me the wood might have shrunk. Is this right?

Citizen.

Reply.—Possibly our correspondent ordered a "load" instead of a "cord."—Ed.

LIKE MOTHER USED TO MAKE

"I was born in Indiany," says a stranger, lank and slim,
As us fellers in the restaurant was kind o' guyin' him,
And Uncle Jake was slidin' him another punkin pie
And a' extra cup o' coffee, with a twinkle in his eye—
"I was born in Indiany—more'n forty years ago—
And I hain't been back in twenty—and I'm workin' back'ards slow;
But I've et in every restaurant 'twixt here and Santy Fe,
And I want to state this coffee tastes like gittin' home to me!

"Pour us out another, daddy," says the feller warmin' up,
A speakin' 'crost a saucerful, as Uncle tuk his cup—
"When I seed your sign out yonder," he went on to Uncle Jake,
"'Come in and git some coffee like your mother used to make'—
I thought of my old mother and the Posey county farm,
And me a little kid agin, a-hangin' in her arm,
And she set the pot a-bilin'—broke the eggs an' poured 'em in"—
And the feller kind o' halted with a trimble in his chin.

And Uncle Jake he fetched the feller's coffee back and stood
As solemn, for a minute, as a undertaker would;
Then he sort o' turned and tiptoed to'rds the kitchen door—and next
Here comes his old wife out with him, a-rubbin' of her specs
And she rushes for the stranger, and she hollers out "It's him!
Thank God, we've met him comin'! Don't you know your mother, Jim?"
And the feller, as he grabbed her, says: "You bet I hain't forgot"—
But, wipin' of his eyes, says he: "Your coffee's mighty hot!"

-- KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED --

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its fineness and price.

He discusses these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this now through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

He feels it is part of his service to keep the public informed.

The Bargain Annex Is Eight Years Old To-day

Wednesday, November 12th, 1913

We first opened the Bargain Annex 8 years ago in 1905, and to-day we celebrate the Anniversary of its Inauguration. From a small department it has grown to such proportions that now one hears about it all over the province. We started it with mingled feelings of doubt and hope, but its steady progress has more than fulfilled our highest expectations.

It has now its own manager, buyer and sales force, each week hundreds of customers being served, and up to the present time has never known a failure. Every Wednesday it is opened for business and on this, the four hundred and sixteenth event, we offer the greatest array of Annex Birthday Bargains ever placed before the Peterboro Public.

A portion of the furniture department has been appropriated for this day that we may all the better be able to wait upon the large numbers that will surge through the Annex from 8:15 till 5:30 which is the closing hour. Your attention is directed to the merchandise listed below, which is truthfully described, and selections of which will be placed in the show windows early in the week.

WOMEN'S LLAMA CASHMERE STOCKINGS, 19c PAIR.

A splendid weight of black cashmere fashioned without a seam. The sizes are 9, 9½ and 10 and 25c is the usual value. Wednesday, pair 19c

LACE CURTAINS, 39c PAIR

Undoubtedly a cheap curtain, because they are of Nottingham Lace 2½ yds. long. Two patterns are shown, each procurable in either white or ecru. They form an attractive setting to any window. Wednesday per pair 39c

WOMEN'S $1.00 HOUSE WRAPPERS 59c

Odd lines from our regular stock of $1.00 and $1.25 garments. The colors are mostly blues, greys and reds, the remaining sizes being 34, 36 and 38. If your size is here, you can secure a splendid wrapper for 59c

HEAVY WHITE WOOL BLANKETS $2.45

This is really an excellent line of Blankets, so good in fact, that we call them "Cressman's Annex Special." They are 60 by 80 inches, of a close, firm texture, and unexcelled by most Blankets that cost $3.25. Birthday Annex price, per pair $2.45

99c a Yard Will Buy These $2.00 and $2.50 Winter Coatings

COULD ONE REALLY EXPECT more for 99c than a yard of these splendid Coatings that are all this season's productions? There are Chinchillas, Diagonals, Nigger Heads, etc., in fact every cloth that is new and suitable for winter coats. We bought them as a mill clearance, and as this bill goes to press they are being delivered, but by Wednesday there will be a display of them in the show windows. One only needs to examine their woolly texture, their soft thickness and weight, to realise that seldom indeed can such value be obtained for so modest a sum. Your choice may rest upon a smart plaid design or a reversible material, a pretty brown, or a natty black and white mixture, but whatever it may be you can depend upon serviceability and satisfaction. Moreover, this is certain—that only on such occasions as a Birthday Anniversary can we think of placing before you such an opportunity. Wednesday, per yard 99c

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns are a valuable guide in making coats. They are 15c, on the main floor.

SHETLAND FLOSS 5c SKEIN

Here is a special inducement to those who are interested in fancy work. The colors are black, cardinal, pale blue, pink, mauve and white, the Skeins being of full size and seldom marked as low as this. Wednesday, per Skein 5c

EGYPTIENE HEATHERBLOOM UNDERSKIRTS 97c

They are fashioned somewhat wider than the present style, but they are very easily altered. Every Skirt in the lot was formerly priced at $1.98 and a good range of light and dark colors is presented. Splendid value for 97c

ROCK RIVER COTTON BATTING 8½c ROLL

Put up in rolls of medium size and a little better grade than one expects at this price. Generally one pays 10c for this brand. Wednesday per roll 8½c

LAUNDRY AND CORN STARCH, 5 PACKAGES 29c

This is the "Hoosier" Brand and the packages are of regular size. The price is specially reduced for Wednesday, all one kind or assorted. 5 PACKAGES 29c

Women's Nightgowns of White Flannelette 87c

THE YOKES OF THESE PRETTY GOWNS are daintily trimmed with silk embroidery and tucks, while the material is a soft white "Saxony" Flannelette. They embrace two new Annex lines, and we believe that in paying $1.19 or $1.25 a better gown could not be secured. The present price therefore will make a strong appeal to every woman needing a Nightgown. Wednesday 87c

Exceptional Value in Flannelette Blankets

[illegible] LINES, SIZE 60 BY 80 FOR [illegible]

[illegible] LINES, SIZE 60 BY [illegible] FOR [illegible]

THESE ARE ENGLISH MADE BLANKETS and are finished singly. The larger size is in pure white throughout, while the smaller ones are bordered with either pink or blue. Both are of that soft woolly texture so desirable in blankets of this kind, their substantial make up rendering splendid service year after year. Moreover the Birthday Annex price is cheap—remarkably so, as you may prove for yourself if you visit this department on Wednesday.

A Splendid Shirt for Men at 49c

3 FOR $1.40

THESE ARE MADE OF AMERICAN AND ENGLISH Percales and Prints, mostly of light and medium shades, with cuffs attached. For Fall and Winter wear they will be found to be very acceptable and are remarkably cheap at the Annex price, because this line of shirts usually retails at 75c, 85c or $1.00. The sizes 14 to 17½ cover the needs of the average man, and one may choose from an assortment numbering about twenty-five dozen. Birthday Annex Price 49c

THREE FOR $1.40

Penman Made Sweater Coats for Boys 59c

WITH SKATING AND TOBOGGANING only a few weeks away, every boy who delights in out-of-doors recreation will need a Sweater Coat. And he or his mother will do wisely to select one from this new shipment of Penman made coats. They are knitted of heavy wool yarn, some having high button collar, some with reversible turn down collar, and others with V-shaped neck. A big variety of suitable colorings is shown, and we would say by the way, that ordinarily these Coats would retail between $1.00 and $1.25. Birthday Annex price 59c

BLOUSES OF WHITE MUSLIN OR LAWN, 57c

Just about half price for these pretty Blouses that are embroidery and insertion trimmed. The styles are most neat and attractive, a good range of sizes will be shown, and the value is most worthy. Wednesday 57c

"LITTLE DARLING" HOSE FOR THE CHILDREN, 19c

All-wool Cashmere, with silk heels and toes. Pink, sky, tan, red, cream and black are the colors, while the sizes are 4 to 7. In regular stock these Stockings are 25c and 30c. Consider, then, the good buying at the Annex price. All sizes per pair 19c

LACE EDGINGS AND INSERTIONS, 5½c YARD, [illegible] DOZ. YARDS

[illegible] widths varying ½ to 2 inches, there is a host of pretty patterns in these really good laces. They make very dainty trimmings, and will be found very useful in every home. Special emphasis should be laid upon the Low Price for Wednesday.

WOMEN'S FELT HAT SHAPES 45c

Every style and color is represented in this collection of Hats, the felt being of a quality formerly demanding a price as high as $1.25 to [illegible]. But we are making a big clearance for the Birthday Annex at 45c

THREE HOUR SALE—11 TO 2 O'CLOCK

Wide, White Flannelette 10½c yard

35 TO 36 INCHES WIDE IS THIS ENGLISH FLANNELETTE, bleached a pure white and is of a soft woolly substance, stout and strong. In regular stock we ask 15c a yard for such quality, and only for three hours on Wednesday will this big reduction prevail. Birthday Annex price per yard 10½c

We cannot fill Telephone Orders for this Flannelette, and no length shorter than five yards will be cut.

MEDIUM MODEL CORSETS 39c

Strong, white coutil, D. & A. make, with 4 hose supporters attached. Medium bust and skirt, exceptionally good value for 39c

Men's $10 and $12 Ulster Coats for $5.90

JUST ABOUT TEN OF THEM. Heavy winter overcoats made in ulster style with convertible collar. The colors are Black and Dark Checked Grey, the sizes being 36 to 42. This is one of those opportunities characteristic of the Annex, where sterling lines have received a remarkable reduction in price. If your size is here, and you need a coat of this description, visit the department at an early hour and satisfy yourself that here are truly $10 and $12 Coats for... $5.90

MEN'S AND BOYS' NIGHT GOWNS [illegible]

In lengthy, roomy size of heavy striped English Flannelette. All sizes for men—boys' sizes 10 to 15 years. Little more than half the usual price.

NEW KIMONA CLOTHS 13½c YARD

Our 18c cloths, in stripe patterns of grey, brown and purple colors. There is good weight in them and they are soft and warm. Excellent for Kimonas, bath robes, etc. Birthday Annex, per yard 13½c

HEAVY ENGLISH FLANNELETTES 12c YARD

We seldom quote quite so low a price on this line, and in this instance the value is exceptionally good. From 35 to 36 in. wide, patterned in good stripe designs, this Flannelette compares very favourably with most 15c qualities. Per yard 12c

MEN'S FLANNELETTE PYJAMAS, 89c

They are made of a heavy English Flannelette, in stripe designs, the colors being light, while all sizes can be obtained. Each has a military collar and breast pocket, and is offered for at least one-third the regular value. Wednesday 89c

WOMEN'S OVERALL WORK APRONS, 43c

In good quality English Percales of Grey, Blue and China blue shades. The patterns are neat, the aprons well made and serviceable. No one can justly criticise the value at... 43c

TWO O'CLOCK SALE

Wash Blouses 25c

THESE BLOUSES WILL SEEM ALMOST LIKE A BIRTHDAY PRESENT to the purchaser, for they are really worth 50c and 75c in the usual way. They are made of light and dark prints and chambrays, some having a neat turned down Dutch collar, others being fitted with a high detachable collar. Owing to the extremely low figure a customer will not be served with more than two Blouses. Birthday Annex Price 25c

Women's Winter Coats

THERE ARE 14 COATS IN ALL, some being black, some in colors. And while they have been carried over from last year, they are good serviceable coats that will bring warmth and satisfaction, and are quite up-to-date in style. Formerly they were priced $10.00 — some even more and to dispose of them quickly we have made them a particularly attractive bargain for the Birthday Annex. The ridiculously low price is $2.98

The Reliable Annex Laundry Soap 9 Bars for 25c

IS THERE A HOUSEWIFE WITHIN THE BOUNDS OF PETERBOROUGH who does not know of the splendid cleansing properties of the Annex Laundry Soap? Hundreds of houses use it every wash day, and find it to be most satisfactory in every way. The Bars are full 5c size, it is made from a special formula expressly for us, and our name is stamped upon it as evidence of the faith we repose in it. The Birthday Annex offer is certainly mighty cheap. 9 BARS 25c

Telephone Orders will be filled as completely as possible, but we advise a personal visit if one would secure the best selection.

Annex Opens 8:15 The CRESSMAN Company Limited Annex Closes 5:30

Bed Comforters 99c

WHEN YOU ARE PASSING THE STORE, pause for a moment and glance at these Comforters which you will find placed in the window. They will greet your eye with a pleasing medley of colours, for their coverings are in shades of blue, fawn, pink, green, etc., on both sides. The size is [illegible] by 72 inches, the filling warm and light, making in all an exceptionally good value comfort for 99c

"Mill Ends" 25c an end

FROM ½ TO ¾ OF A YARD is the length of these Ends; in several instances there being a number of pieces all alike. The mill sent us down about 200 of them, comprising an assortment of all wool coatings, suitings, etc., in good weaves and colors. To those people who recognize the economical buying there is in "Mill Ends" we would say that the earliest choice is of course the best. Birthday Annex price, per End ...... 25c [illegible] Johnson's time [illegible] we use exclusively to-day to [illegible] the flesh of sheep prepared for food, was commonly used as a synonym for sheep.

The word wife, now used almost exclusively to designate "spouse"—that is, in the feminine sense, a wedded woman—was formerly and is still, but only in compound words and a few dialects, as that of central Yorkshire, merely a synonym for "woman."

[illegible] some words which are now exclusively in the feminine gender were not formerly so restricted in their application. For example, the word girl at one time designated an infant of either sex.

Militia, used at one time to designate the entire military forces of a nation, lost its original significance, perhaps, during the Civil War in England, when the citizen soldiers of the Commonwealth replaced the trained bands.

Nephew and niece, restricted in their applications to-day to the children of a brother or sister, formerly designated the children of sons and daughters, that is, grand-children. Another restriction characteristic of more modern times is that of the use of the word buxom, of which we [illegible] "comely," "well-developed," or "plump," meant, formerly, "yielding" or "pliable." Ignorance of the true meaning of the word led to this mutation, and at one time the people spoke of buxom, rather than of good, health. Shrewd, from denoting one who had a malignant temper took unto itself the meanings "accursed," "vicious," and "dangerous," but soon cast them off for "characterized by keen insight; discerning; sagacious; astute."

LONG LIVED LEGEND OF DEMON BARBER

Sweeny Todd's Fictitious Deeds in Fleet Street—Hoggarth House Pulled Down

It is more than likely that the gruesome story of Sweeny Todd, the horrible barber of Fleet street, will cling to the famous London thoroughfare long after every one of the supposed scenes of his atrocities has been completely cleared away.

The actual building in which Sweeney Todd was supposed to have carried on his murderous trade was recently demolished, and once again the legend—for legend it is from beginning to end—was revived.

The house referred to was 186 Fleet street, next door to the famous old church of St. Dunstan-in-the-West. Here Sweeney Todd, as the legend has it, was wont to pose to the unsuspecting world as a harmless and even useful, necessary barber.

His barber's chair was supposed to have been fixed over a trapdoor, and no sooner had the customer taken his seat and lain back confidently for the "clean shave" guaranteed by Sweeney Todd, than the trapdoor would fall, the customer would disappear beneath the floor, and down below the work of darkness would be completed with a blow on the head.

Sweeney Todd was not a man—so the legend would have us believe—who wasted anything. He would not only take great care of any money or jewels on the persons of his victims, but even their bodies were made to serve the ends of his demon machinations. What was more likely, to such a creature, than that the flesh should be served up next door as pies!

Such was the legend. The truth as searched out not many years ago showed that Sweeney Todd should really be classed with Mrs. Harris—there was no such a person. No barber was ever known, in Fleet street, who treated his customers with other than courtesy, and with all despatch, though of a different kind from that meted out by the "demon barber."

So completely had this story got hold of the public that even Charles Dickens makes use of it in "Martin Chuzzlewit." And when, in some excavations on the spot, a pile of human bones was dug up, it seemed that the seal of complete proof was set upon the story of the barber's butcheries. Nobody seemed to see that the bones were, of course, those of persons long buried and forgotten in the churchyard of St. Dunstan.

By some curious mishap this legend arose out of a true story from Paris. In this there was a barber, and there was a pie-maker, but it is not supposed that they joined forces in the manner suggested by the Sweeney Todd story. An ingenious writer was responsible for bringing the story over the Channel, and fixing it—apparently for ever—on Fleet street. A play was even written round the story.

How It Feels at One Hundred and Fifty-seven Below Zero

In the course of a series of experiments with extreme cold, carried on at Berlin, Raoul Pictet, an investigator, inserted his arm, bare beyond the elbow, in a chamber refrigerated to a temperature of 157 degrees below zero Fahrenheit and kept it there for several minutes.

He suffered no permanent damage, but experienced a number of peculiar and painful sensations. The chief of these and the most trying was a boring of pain in the bones of the hand and arm. The pain [illegible] rapidly. It was located chiefly in the interior parts of the arm and was far less intense in the portions near or at the surface. The skin was purple when the limb was withdrawn and in about ten minutes a violent reaction set in with violent burning sensations of the skin wherever it had been exposed.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Embarrassing Rules Prevailed for Time in Commons' Tea-room

The new regulations of the Kitchen Committee of the British House of Commons with reference to the particular classes of eatables that may be supplied in the members' tea-room have been revised, but, in the interval there were some heartburnings and amusing experiences. Two members coming down from one of the Committee rooms decided to have tea together, and therefore repaired to the tea-room. One of them ordered tea, toast, and fruit, the other called for tea, bread and butter, and a boiled egg. It transpired, however, that eggs were no longer available in the tea-room, so the two members retired to the dining-room, where they were dismayed to learn that tea was no longer served. Here was a problem for statesmen, and they proceeded to solve it by directing a waiter to collect the different refreshments in the different rooms and convey them to the smoking-room. The waiter did so, but at the entrance to the smoking-room he was stopped by the superintendent with the announcement that eggs and fruit were not allowed to be supplied in that room. The hungry and thirsty legislators vainly sought to discover any person in authority who could tell them where and when and under what conditions they could eat what they wished to eat, and, baffled at every point, they at last decided to confine their repast to tea and toast. One of them was heard to say something about the advisability of "hanging the Kitchen Committee with their own red tape."

EFFECT OF FEAR

The Response of the Body When an Emergency Arises

In a paper on the subject of fear and its effect upon the human body, prepared by Dr. G. W. Crile, a London physician, it is explained that under the influence of fear the organs of the body are divided sharply into two classes—those that are stimulated, and those whose work ceases temporarily.

Under the first classification come nerve systems, which cause movement—the mechanism for raising the hair, the respiration, the sweat glands, and, it is found, the thyroid gland and the adrenal gland.

On the other hand, the entire digestive functions are paralyzed. So far as we know, the organs stimulated increase the efficiency of the animal either to fight or flight. The increased action of the muscles of the heart increases the efficiency of the circulation; the secretion of the adrenal gland causes a rise in the blood pressure; the increased activity of the thyroid gland causes an increased activity of the tissues, and the production of glycogen is a symptom that the body is preparing fresh supplies of energy. Increased respiration is necessary to co-ordinate the supply of oxygen with this manufacture; even the sweat glands and dilated nostrils are playing their part. The digestive organs cannot help, they can only hinder; so the body does the best it can by shutting off the nervous current to them and saving the vital force which they would consume.

Thus, because fear first rose from injury, its phenomena are due to a stimulation of all the organs that add to efficiency in self-preservation—and a stoppage of those which are non-combatants. Fear takes many forms in civilized society, but nature has only one means of expressing it physically, and that does not alter.

VOICE IN THE STORM

"Rock of Ages" Heard Amid Screams on Battered Liner

While the liner [illegible] was being tossed and battered by a cyclonic storm between Cape Town and Hobart the terrified passengers, huddled on the deck, heard the voice of one courageous woman, Miss Rowe, singing "Rock of Ages."

The liner was swept by the heavy seas, the steerage quarters were flooded, woodwork was smashed to splinters, and iron beams and [illegible] were tossed about the decks.

The door of the chief officer's cabin on the deck was [illegible] open by a heavy wave, and the officer was carried on to the bulkhead. The carpenter was washed along the deck and badly injured, and the [illegible] had to be carried out in the dark as the electric light plant was swamped.

The screams of women and children added to the horror of the awful din caused by the crashing waves. An officer with a little girl in his arms had to swarm up the rigging to save himself and his charge, and an elderly man was flung from the deck to the cabin.

Through all the crew worked with desperate bravery and the liner eventually reached Hobart in a dilapidated condition. For two days the [illegible] with one biscuit each.

Captain Forden, the commander, was presented by the passengers with an address appreciative of his remarkable seamanship on arrival at Hobart.

Strike of School Children

The village of Strathblane, Scotland, experienced the novelty of a strike of school children. The attendance dropped to about a dozen, though there are 100 pupils on the school register. Some time ago the School Board decided to abolish some of the holidays. Much resentment was shown by the parents, and their feelings were reflected in the absence of the children.

The Wrong Man

A strange case of mistaken identity was disclosed in Clonmel, Ireland, when it was found that a man, who appeared to answer a charge of drunkenness, was not the man who had been arrested for the offence. The Head Constable said the policeman who arrested the man was new to the town, and it was probable that somebody had imposed on him, and given him the name of the man who appeared in court.

Generous Breeze.

Apropos of the bumper crops of 1913 Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture said in Washington:

"I heard a story the other day about a longheaded farmer. An auctioneer was to auction off his fields of standing grain and the farmer said to him:

"'I hope to goodness we have a good stiff breeze the day of the auction.'

"'A good stiff breeze? What use will that be?' asked the auctioneer.

"'You must be green, young feller,' said the farmer. 'Don't you know that when grain's waving in the breeze it looks to the bidders—you see the same heads two and three times over.'"

A SKELETON FACTORY

Big One in Paris Has Almost Monopoly of Strange Trade

Making skeletons for a living does not seem to be a business that would pay very much, and yet there are a number of places where skeletons are made. In making skeletons it does not mean that they are made artificially by some composition resembling bone, but that they are "made" by removing flesh and ligaments, drying the bones, whitening them and assembling them, fastening them together with slender wires in place of the ligaments, which, of course, will not remain solid like bone, but disintegrate.

In these places skeletons of almost everything, from a common tadpole to a human being, are made. There are places where artificial skeletons are made for various purposes, such as theatrical productions and the like, but this is done along with other work where all sorts of things, from [illegible] ivory paper cutters to massive pillars, are made.

The real skeleton factory deals in nothing except the genuine skeletons, and they not only sell these and fit [illegible] for them to all sorts of medical men and institutions and schools, but they are also willing to "rent them" for any period.

The biggest share of the skeleton [illegible] is carried on in France, the biggest "factory" being located in Paris, where there is a complete equipment and stock for furnishing skeletons of everything, even extinct animals; skeletons of fishes and men or elephants and rabbits and everything today that has enough of a skeleton to put together. So great is the business in this place that it has branches in London and Berlin, and it gets out great catalogues, and sends them broadcast, showing lists and cuts of their choice lots of skeletons.

Most of the human bones employed in the French manufacture belonged, in life, to criminals or to unknown persons whose bodies were unclaimed after death in hospitals or almshouses. After being utilized in the dissecting room the remains were removed to this factory.

The proprietor of this factory practically controls this industry. The preparation of the skeleton takes many months from first to last, and is a very [illegible] process. There must be a thorough chemical treatment of the bones in the first place, to insure their hanging together and remaining in an unaltered state.

The preparation of skeletons is really far more important than one would think, as it provides thousands of medical students and others with the means of making a proper study of the construction of the human frame, and helps in the constant work of medical and surgical advance.

DIPPING SHEEP

A tick seems smart enough to know that he will find more tender and juicy pasturage on a lamb than on an old sheep, but ticks annoy sheep of any age.

In order to be sure that one has a dip that will be effective, he should mix up a sample according to directions and test it on a few isolated ticks to see if it does actually cause death or only temporary unconsciousness. Many of the dips are not standardized and, even when made up in the solution as directed, will not be found to be strong enough to kill ticks. If warm water is used in making the dip it will penetrate to the skin better. Many fleeces are so oily that cold water can scarcely make its way through them.

One should take great care to see that the sheep is entirely immersed in the dip and that it is kept there for at least one and better two minutes. To simply let the sheep walk through the dip in great haste does not ordinarily produce very good results. A forked stick or a broom can often be used to advantage in keeping the sheep under the dip.

Sheep should be dipped a second time in about ten days after the first dipping. This is because the dip will not kill ticks in the embryo or egg form. On any sheep there are likely to be a great many eggs and these developing will make good foundation stock for another crop of ticks unless they are killed by the second dipping.

Vagrant Was Remanded.

At yesterday's court, Clayton Barte, was charged with vagrancy. The prisoner said he and another boy had run away from an industrial school in the State of Vermont. He registered here as "Barton." He sold in a local second hand store, a stolen rifle. The prisoner when arrested had on his person a lady's gold watch and some rings. He was remanded for a week.

A Proper (?) Liar.

Adjutant McElhoney, of the Salvation Army, during Sunday's downpour of rain gave the young man, Clayton Barte, yesterday charged with vagrancy, in the police court, money to pay his hotel accommodation. GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT, BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Make it thick, glossy, wavy, luxuriant and remove dandruff—Real surprise for you.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and just try it.

Yesterday a man in Port Hope arrested for being drunk, said he had "drunk whisky without water." If he had been a Peterborough blockhead he would have remarked that he found a bottle down a ray of the moon at 10.37 p.m.

A cripple, paralyzed on one side, who had tramped from Montreal to Port Hope, walked into the Police Court of the latter town and asked help to send him to Toronto. If the pretty little lakeside town had been Peterborough he would have met with success.

LORD SANDWICH PSYCHIC HEALER

Old Nobleman Says He Cures Mental and Physical Diseases.

London, Nov. 11.—The Earl of Sandwich has announced himself as the possessor of remarkable psychic healing powers by which he says he has cured many mental and physical sufferers, although he is without medical or surgical knowledge. The announcement was made by Lord Sandwich at a meeting at the University College of London to inaugurate a clinic for psychotherapeutic treatment of disease.

The establishment of the clinic was supported by Dr. Maurice Craig, lecturer and physician for mental diseases at Guy's Hospital; William McDougal, F.R.S., fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, and Charles Spearman, Grote professor of mind and logic at the University of London.

Lord Sandwich asserted that he has never failed in his treatment of sufferers. He cited many cases in all classes of society, including 60 wounded officers and soldiers sent home during the Boer war, all of whom recovered without the aid of physicians or nurses. He said he could not explain the power, but knew the results, and believed that many persons possess the same gift without being aware of it.

The Earl of Sandwich, descendant of the peer who invented the "half of a meal" of that name, is 74 years old and has been noted for eccentricities for 30 years. He was long an ardent admirer of Mme. Melba, who might have won the coronet of Countess of Sandwich if she cared.

The earl wanted to fight a duel several years ago with a politician of Huntingdon, his native place, who accused him of interfering with the territorial army scheme.

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable. Take Cascarets to-night; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your inside organs of all the bile, gases and constipated matter which is producing the misery.

A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. All druggists sell Cascarets. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

A WARLIKE PRINCE

The Kaiser's Son Startled Berlin With His Book

Something like a sensation was caused in Berlin by the publication by the German Crown Prince of a book called "Germany in Arms." The book, which is "most reverently dedicated to the German Emperor and the Prussian King," contains the following motto: "The world does not rest more safely on the shoulders of Atlas than does Germany on her army and navy."

The imperial editor asserts that Germany, more than any other land, has to trust to its armaments, and that as its geographical position is unfavorable, and as all nations do not regard Germany with affection, the country has the sacred duty imposed on it always to maintain its army and navy in a state of readiness. "Only in this way, relying on our good sword, can we maintain that place in the sun which is ours, but which will not be voluntarily conceded to us."

The Crown Prince goes on to say that diplomacy may delay the conflict for a season, but those in responsible positions must know that once a gigantic conflagration is lighted it is not so easy to extinguish.

Speaking of the delight of riding to an attack, the Prince says there is one delight still greater—namely, that of meeting the enemy at the end of the gallop, and the fight for life and death.

HAIR ON HIS FINGER GROWS BY THE FOOT

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 11.—William Dolan, a city employe, is sitting at home to-night trying to fix his mind on everything he did and every place he went yesterday. If he can recall everything he believes that his fortune is made, for he will be able to bring joy to the bald-headed folk of the universe.

To-day he felt a sharp pain at the end of the index finger of his right hand. He looked at it and saw that a hair was growing from its tip. It grew as he watched it and it grew when he looked away, and as he hustled for the nearest physician it was still busy.

By the time he was in the physician's office it was twenty inches long and still growing well. Examination by the X-ray showed that there was fifteen feet of the hair still to come.

Physicians have been unable to explain the mystery. Dolan is in good health and has never been ill in his life. He is a decided brunette and the hair is as decidedly blond.

"JAMES CARRATHERS," LARGEST FREIGHTER LOST; BOATS WITH MARKED NAMES ASHORE; ALMOST SCORE MORE LOST--WRECK LIST

Half Dozen Added to Total of Doomed Boats Tossed in Week-end Gale—Search for Bodies Up and Down Shore

Two More Victims of "Wexford," Toronto Boat, Found Near St. Joseph

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Six boats were added to the list of known wrecks during the morning. The list of those boats which met their fate during and because of the terrific week-end gale on the Great Lakes stands to-day at nineteen, as follows:

The steamer Nottingham is hard aground on Parisian Island, in Lake Superior. A great portion of the bottom has been ripped out.

The tug Martin foundered in Lake Michigan. Crew of nine were drowned. Tug sunk.

The James Carruthers, the largest Canadian freighter on the lakes, is wrecked. Boats and oars bearing her name have been found. She is said to be at the bottom.

The Chas. S. Price is believed by some to be the boat lying upside down outside Sarnia. Seven bodies from this boat have been washed ashore. She is unheard from otherwise.

The Huronic reported by wireless to-day a Tomlinson steamer was ashore at Iroquois and the steamer Stewart ashore at Whitefish.

Searchers along the lake shore below Goderich have just reported the finding of a life raft and five oars from the steamer Argus. The boat is not known here.

The steamer Wexford, owned by the Western Steamship Company of Toronto, grain laden from Fort William was lost on Lake Huron with her crew of twenty, all of whom belonged to Collingwood and Goderich. Several of the bodies of the victims have come ashore at St. Joseph and Port Franks.

The Canadian steamer Regina was lost with all on board. Ten bodies have been washed ashore at Port Franks. It is believed to be her hull which is still unidentified off Point Edward.

The steamer Turret Chief, of the Merchants' Mutual Line, of Toronto, went ashore off Keweenaw Point, Mich. The crew was saved after a frightful experience.

The United States lightship, No. 82, stationed in Lake Erie off Point Abino, Canada, was torn from her anchorage and wrecked, and the crew of eight men perished.

The steamer L. C. Waldo, of the Roby Transportation Company, went to pieces on Gull Rocks, Manitou Island. The crew was rescued by the Portage Lake ship Canal life savers, who arrived on a tug. The sailors suffered terribly from exposure.

The Huronic, the Northern Navigation Company's steamer, got off the bar at Whitefish at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon without damage. The Alberta left Whitefish to cross Lake Superior westbound at 7 a.m.

The steamer Northern Queen, of Buffalo, was lost off Kettle Point, Lake Huron, with her entire crew.

Two unknown steamers are ashore on Isle Royale. Rescuers are standing by, but are unable to approach the wrecks close enough to learn their identity.

The barge Halsted is stranded on Washington Island, Lake Michigan, and her crew of probably six are reported frozen to death.

The steamer Hutchison is aground at Iroquois Point, Lake Huron, and is filled with water.

The steamer Hartnell is also ashore at Iroquois Point, and full of water.

ATTITUDE OF SCOTCH LIBERALS ALARMS THE GOVERNMENT

Cabinet Council Held Yesterday, and Several More Coming This Week—Scotch Presbyterians Fear Catholic Aggression

London, Nov. 12.—The Keighley election illustrates the delightful uncertainty of English politics. For [illegible] days the Unionists have been living in a paradise of their own creation. Home Rule is dead, proclaimed the Globe on its posters last night. Yesterday they even hoped by the enormous defection of the labor vote to win Keighley. This constituency has, however, been Liberal from the beginning, and its retention by the Solicitor-General, even with an increased majority, is not [illegible].

Scotch Presbyterians Fearful.

Responsible Liberal leaders recognize, even if they do not admit publicly, that the most important of the autumn bye-elections was Linlithgow, and its real meaning is that Scottish Presbyterians are exceedingly uneasy about the possible coercion of Ulster Presbyterians. This feeling is undoubtedly widespread. I personally saw many evidences of it among traditionally Scottish Liberal families, whose inherited hatred of Toryism to-day fights their growing fear of Catholic aggression and the coercion of their Ulster co-religionists.

This state of affairs together with the vote of Linlithgow formed the main subject of debate at yesterday's Cabinet Council. The [illegible]

MAY LET LARKIN OUT.

Dublin, Nov. 13.—It is rumored that the British Cabinet has ordered the release of James Larkin, head of the Transport Workers' Union, who was imprisoned in connection with the strike here.

THE WEATHER.

NO SHORT SEASON SAYS NAVIGATION OFFICIALS

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—There will be no shortening of the season of navigation by the Marine Department, despite the severe damage on the lakes from the storm of this week. J. G. Macphail, Commissioner of Lights, stated to-day that they would maintain all lighthouses, with the exception of eight or ten, until navigation ceased. Navigation will close on Lake Superior about December 17th and on the Lower Lakes a little later. The lighthouses will be maintained until the last date, excepting those where it would be dangerous to leave the keepers for fear they might perish.

A Tip For Him

The Preacher—"Do you know where little boys go who fish on Sunday?"

The Kid—"Yes, sir; all us kids around here go down ter Snyder's crick below the bridge."

Foodstuffs Fall in United States

The price of foodstuffs is higher in Canada than in the U.S. Exporting from Peterborough and vicinity has practically ceased. The rush of wheat into the U.S. from all countries, together with the home supply, has done what was expected, and if Canada had no duty the Canadian farmer would lose an enormous sum on wheat alone, as it would come in from the U.S. Other foodstuffs are following suit. World competition will soon have the effect in the U.S. intended by President Wilson. Does the farmer want it here?

UNIONIST PAPERS TREAT LIBERAL WIN LIGHTLY

London, Nov. 12.—Practically every prominent Unionist paper ignores the result of the Keighley election in its editorial columns to-day. The Times has only a passing reference, speaking of the local popularity of the successful candidate and Keighley's notoriety for being unaffected by electoral changes in other parts of the country.

It is understood in Liberal circles that yesterday's Cabinet meeting concerned itself with Ulster and Larkin's imprisonment. A decision, it is said, was arrived at to begin negotiations with the Unionist leaders immediately, presumably on the basis of the exclusion of Ulster or a portion thereof from the provisions of the Home Rule Bill.

NINE DROWNED AS TUG SINKS IN LAKE

Menominee, Mich., Nov. 12.—It was reported here early to-day that the tug Martin had foundered in Lake Michigan during Sunday's gale and that her crew of nine men were drowned.

It also was reported Deputy U.S. Marshal, Chris. Keenan, was on the tug and lost his life.

LIBERALS HOLD KEIGHLEY AND EVEN INCREASED MAJORITY

Sir. Stanley Buckmaster Re-Elected, and His Win Puts Fresh Spirit in Ranks of the Party

KEIGHLEY.

Buckmaster, Liberal	4,730
Lancaster, Unionist	[illegible]
Bland, Labor	3,646
Majority	670

London, Nov. 12.—Fresh spirit has been put into the Liberal party by the return of Sir Stanley Buckmaster, who had to seek re-election in consequence of his elevation to the Solicitor-Generalship of England. He has retained his seat, and not only so, but has increased his majority to the extent of 63 over the Unionist and Labor candidates. The excitement in the division was unprecedented, and the poll, which exceeds that of 1911 by 267 votes, constitutes a record.

The Irish vote was heavy, and is said to have been anything between 600 and 900 strong, as Linlithgow and Reading electors had been urged throughout the campaign by Liberal-Unionist candidates to concentrate their minds mainly upon the Home Rule question. The Labor candidate confined his propaganda to purely labor issues, incidentally claiming credit for the passage of the Trades' Dispute bill, Old Age Pensions and kindred measures.

Sir Stanley claims the lesson of the victory to be only too obvious, which is to free the British Parliament from preoccupation with Irish problems and to open the way for the great changes Lloyd George has foreshadowed in his land campaign.

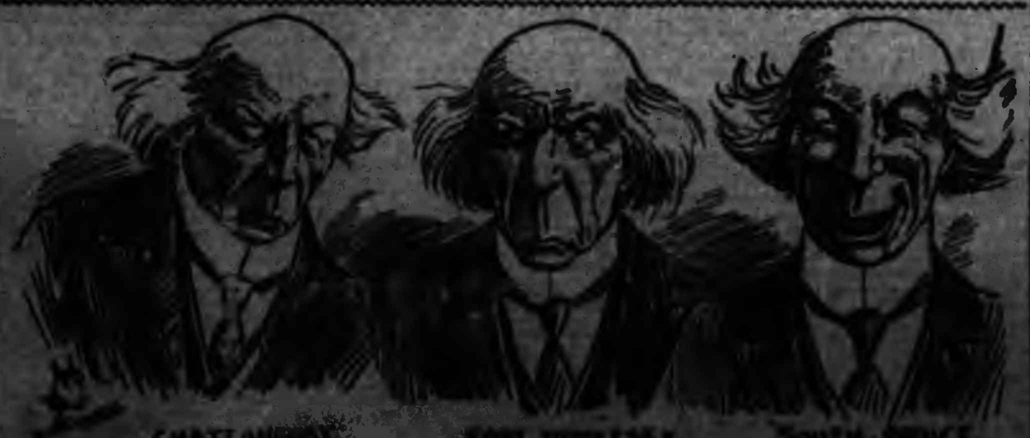
DR. FERGUSON, OF FORMOSA, IN THE CITY

Prominent Missionary Worker Tells Interesting Story

Dr. Ferguson, who addresses the Laymen's Missionary Convention, in our city this afternoon, and the meeting to-night, does medical mission work in the big tropical island, stretching through three degrees of Northern latitude, which the Japs wrested from the Chinese in their last war with them. In a brief interview granted us last week, we learned that mission work goes on with much more freedom than under the old Chinese regime. But while the Japs rule well, there is a limit to their sway. The doctor lives among all the conveniences of modern life: telephones, electric lights and well policed streets. But from his back door he can see the mountains where the notorious "head hunters" hunt one another living in fierce uncultivated savagery.

No," said the doctor, in reply to our question. "We are not allowed to evangelize the headhunters. We hope to begin work among them soon. A few Buddhist priests were permitted to go; but they were lazy; their work did not count for much.

When asked about the neighboring country of Korea, the doctor gave his opinion that the glowing accounts of Korean missionary triumphs are not exaggerated. He was in Seoul recently on the day when more than a hundred Korean converts were liberated, after their unjust arrest on false charges of conspiracy against the Jap government. The day of release was a great day, the doctor says. But the native Christian community were meeting the unwarranted suspicious attitude of the authorities in an exemplary Christian spirit.



BUMPER CROP TO CLEAR OFF DEBTS

Toronto, Nov. 12.—"We have seen the last of the wild-cat land-boomer in the West for all time. He has gone never to return and the country is better for it." So said Dr. Alex. D. McRae, land commissioner of the Canadian Northern, who is on a trip to the East from the coast, and was seen at the offices of the company.

The West is picking up again and making haste to pay her debts with the money she is getting from this year's immense crop, which will probably exceed last year's record by 30 million bushels.

BYLAW TO PROHIBIT BURNING LEAVES ON ST.

WILL BE ENFORCED BY THE CITY COUNCIL.

Fire Against Sidewalk Curb Destroys the Concrete—All Offenders Will Be Punished—A Move in the Right Direction.

The City's Board of Works met in regular weekly session last night. There were present Chairman Ald. Buller, Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Aldermen Anderson, Gillespie, G. Walter Green, Johnston, Duncan, Duffus and City Engineer R. H. Parsons.

The City Engineer reported favorably on J. J. Turner & Sons' request for permission to construct a coal shute in the pavement at their business premises. The request was granted.

Must Not Burn Leaves on Street.

A by-law will be prepared to prohibit burning leaves or rubbish on the streets. The prevailing custom is to burn such stuff at the curbs, which destroys the face of the concrete pavements.

Surety Bond.

Foley & Gleeson's surety bond for $3,500 in guarantee for a proper fulfilment of their contract for street paving will be accepted, and their personal cheque for same amount returned.

The City Engineer will have to be consulted in all cases of obstruction of sidewalks in centre city for building purposes.

HE GETS $14,000,000.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Nov. 12.—Ronald Campbell, Summerside, has received word of the death of his brother, Hector, in Australia. Deceased was a sheep rancher and was worth $14,000,000 at the time of his death, all of which he leaves to his brother.

WILL TRANSFER SUSPENSION WIRES TO HYDRO-LIGHT POLES

Agreement Between City and Street Railway Co. to This Effect Passed Council Last Night--City to Pay Costs

The City Council met last night in special session with Mayor W. H. Bradburn presiding. There were also present Aldermen Anderson, Buller, Gillespie, Johnston, Duncan, Duffus, G. Walter Green.

The agreement between the City and the Street Railway Co., under which the latter shall use the Hydro Electric lighting poles on George street, from McDonnel to the C.P.R. and on Charlotte street from George to the G.T.R., carrying the suspension wires of the railway, was submitted by the City Engineer and approved of. This agreement was conceded to be reasonable. The change of wires is to be at the cost of $200 to the city. The city is also to pay the expense of establishing the connecting links with any alternate feed wire system rendered necessary by the change. That is to say, if in removing all poles other than Hydro Electric from George street, the Street Railway Company find it necessary to run their feed wires down Water street, the city shall pay the expense of erecting the connecting link or links necessary to carry the line current from the feed wires on Water street to the trolley wire on George street. But few of such connecting links will be necessary under all circumstances. Any question as to costs, apart from the fixed sum of $200 for transferring the suspension wires, is to be adjudged by the Dominion Railway Board.

The by-law authorizing the execution of this agreement passed its three readings.

ST. JOSEPH "PHANTOM CITY" AMBITIONS NEVER REALIZED

Wealthy Montreal Man Planned Model Metropolis on Lake Huron and Built Magnificent Hotel on Prospects

St. Joseph, where the Wexford bodies were picked up, is a small fishing village, with a history of disappointment ambition. About fifteen years ago Mr. Nelson, Coutaine, of Montreal, conceived the idea of turning it into an important city. A magnificent hotel was built and luxuriously fitted, but it was never occupied. Two or three other large buildings were erected.

Shallow Water.

The first essential to attract business was a dock capable of accommodating the largest lake freighters. The water is shallow at this point of Lake Huron, and immense capital outlay would have been required to dredge channels for a dock of the nature required. Two docks were built to meet the requirements of the first trade that was expected but both of them floated away.

The founder of the movement to make St. Joseph into a great city were unable to secure sufficient capital for large permanent docks so it has remained a small French fishing village, with the ruins of a splendid hotel and of office buildings as the only monuments to a great effort.

St. Joseph is situated about 25 miles south of Goderich, on the shores of Lake Huron, and it is said that a number of Montreal financiers lost considerable sums of money trying to make it a centre for the water-borne trade.

CLEVELAND HIT BY FAMINE; HAS NO MILK, COAL OR BREAD

Cleveland, O., Nov. 12.—With the city under from two to six feet of snow the problem of distributing the available food and coal supplies in the city caused the greatest anxiety to-day. Fifteen hundred babies have been without milk for thirty-six hours and prospects of getting any milk into the city are not very good, but of other food except green stuff a fairly large supply is on hand. The big milk companies yesterday made sales only to those who wanted it for babies and the greater part of the demand was thus supplied.

Factories began shutting down yesterday because of the shortage of coal and they may not be able to open for a week. Retail dealers say a famine of coal for dwelling houses and apartment houses is almost inevitable.

Three Reasons Why POSTUM
Instead of Tea or Coffee

A Food Drink Postum made of choice whole wheat, roasted with a small portion of New Orleans molasses, contains the nutritive elements of the grain, and is wholesome and nourishing. Tea and coffee have no food value whatever.

Has Fine Flavour Postum has a dark, seal brown color, which changes to rich golden brown when cream is added. It has a delightful aroma, and a rich, snappy flavour, which many say they like as well, if not better, than tea or coffee.

Free From Drugs Postum is absolutely free from any drug. Tea and coffee contain caffeine, a poisonous drug—from 1½ to 3 grains to the cup. It often causes biliousness, headaches, heart agitation, and other ills. Postum being pure and free from caffeine or any other drugs, may be used freely by young and old.

Postum comes in two forms:

REGULAR POSTUM must be well boiled to bring out the flavour and food value.

INSTANT POSTUM is a soluble powder. Made instantly by stirring a spoonful in a cup of hot water—with sugar and cream added.

If coffee don't agree try POSTUM.

She betrayed her great musical gift at a very tender age, and developed a passion for the art.

Like the late Lord Wolseley, another British field-marshal, Earl Roberts, the hero of Kandahar, will be succeeded in the peerage by a daughter. Lady Aileen, Lord Robert's daughter, had only one brother, who died fighting during the South African War in heroic circumstances which won for his memory the glory of the Victoria Cross. The late Lord Wolseley's only daughter was born in 1872, and is unmarried. She was made heiress to her father's viscounty by special remainder to her and her male issue. Others distinguished peeresses in their own right are H.H. Princess Alexandra Victoria, Duchess of Fife, the Baroness Elisabeth Clifton of Leighton Bromswold, Lady Hambleden and Lady Macdonald. The Barony of Fauconberg and Conyers and the Barony of Amherst both are held by women; so also is that of Burton; whilst the Countess of Cromartie is yet another of the several ladies who are peeresses in their own right.

Theory Better Than Practice

The two Short brothers, whose aeroplanes have met with great success, have a solemn compact neither will fly, and that both will succeed or fail in their calling as constructors of flying machines solely by their theoretical knowledge, leaving the practical side of the work to others. The compact was made several years ago, and to-day both can say that although they have been successful in inventing and building aeroplanes, neither has ever been up in one.

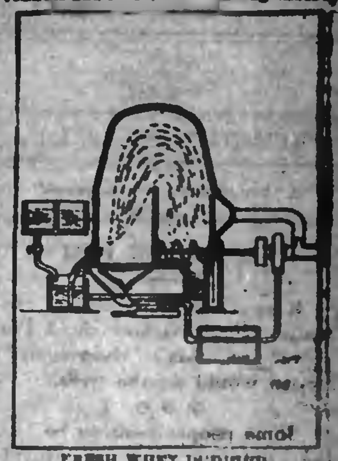
FOOD MADE FROM WHEY

Apparatus Converts Liquid By-Product Into Edible

Another by-product can be utilized by this machine for making food from whey. The food consists of a white powder that contains approximately 75 per cent. of milk sugar, 15 per cent. of milk albumen and 10 per cent. of mineral salts, and is substantially free from fat and casein. When the casein, etc., of milk is coagulated by rennets and acids, as in making cheese, the clear liquid that remains behind and which is chiefly milk sugar, is whey. In this apparatus the whey is sprayed into a chamber in which there is intense heat. Most of it is dried almost instantly, and as it drops down on the other side of a barrier in the chamber it is sucked into a pipe which conveys it to a storage chamber. Particles that are not converted into powder fall to the bottom of the first chamber and remain there.



FRESH WHEY IS DRIED

ROCK REMOVER

Skids Come Together Under Stones When Horse Starts up

A simple and effective apparatus for removing rocks from fields has been designed. A pair of strong skids are hingedly connected at their rear ends and have a form of buffer there. The front ends are connected by chains to a ring that is hooked up to a horse's harness. To remove a rock the skids are thrown open on each side of the obstacle and the horse started up. As the animal pulls away the skids close beneath the stone and it rolls back against the buffer. The implement is then driven to the spot where the rocks are being transferred and left there. For the easy and expeditious removal of stones from a rock field this implement seems to be all that could be desired, as the skids close with sufficient force to uproot rocks if the latter are not too large.

"A Progressive Peterborough"

Our Point of View

If anything was lacking to make us realize how short the years are, this "shop early" slogan would do the trick.

Some people seem to be of the opinion that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the individual who was responsible for putting the harm in Liberal harmony.

The revelation of the newest mystery in connection with wireless telegraphy is interesting. If it is possible to pick up a wireless message through an ordinary telephone receiver, there seems no reason why the usefulness of this agency of communication should not be manyfold increased.

Evidence abounds of the soundness of Canada's position among the nations of the world. For the first seven months of the year the revenues show an increase of nearly $5,000,000 over a similar period last year. A revenue of $96,191,614 is no small achievement for a country of less than 8,000,000 population.

WHERE WE ARE NOW — PROGRESSIVISM.

The following clever article from the pen of Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.A., M.P., was written for The Times by request:

"A hundred thousand years ago men, women and children dwelt in caves. It may have been a little longer than that, but the finding of remains and the laying bare of ancient conditions show that a hundred thousand years ago. Man was a cunning creature, but nothing more. Then came an age when the jaw moved farther back, and men came out into the plains and formed tribes. By and by, as in the case of Babylonia, people learned to weave, to handle metals, and at last to write. The method of government, however, changed little from the earliest days of the race, with this exception, that while formerly war was waged with wild beasts alone, now it began between tribes. To make a long story short, the war chief became King, and like the general of an army in the field even of this day, his rule was absolute. From this on descent began to develop, one class rising in favour and prosperity, the other gravitating in the other direction. In the course of many, many centuries the oppression by the great drove the man who lived by the day and down to the line of starvation, to combine with his fellow serf against the classes. To this form of struggle later was opposed the modern doctrine of freedom in everything which in industry is the freedom of the individual, who can in all matters of production and trade do as he likes. Then by and by the money, individual capitalist combined with individual capitalist into great companies, and companies into mergers and trusts. Once more the serfs (this time the wage-earners, particularly the unskilled) rise in rebellion against their masters who with their monopoly of capital, political power, and ways and means, have put the great mass of people (workers) where they were four thousand years ago, in the days of the absolute kings, or one thousand years ago in the days of the feudal nobles. What is to be the result? The unskilled wage-earner cries out that if there must be combinations or trusts let the people run the combinations for the general good. Let Parliament take the place of Capitalism, which uses all forms of freedom of trade (which is really privilege, not freedom), for its own benefit. And Parliament handles many things in that way now, but they are chiefly means of transportation. "Let the means of production be added," they will say. "We will then have a whole people at work for their own common benefit. If in addition it is found necessary in order to preserve a high state of civilization that negro and [illegible] be shut out and their work also, then we can put on a prohibition tariff against them. Our country is big enough to support us all in comfort, and why not let it do so? But free competition, free labour, free rights of private combination and free trade (which includes free competition, etc.) must go. They mean everything to the Capitalist, but worse than nothing to the wage-earner. The people have as good a right to form a trust as anybody else. This is the latest word in industrialism and politics.

From this it will be understood why it is that Liberals are opposed so generally in Great Britain and the United States, in their policy, even by their own friends. The truth is that freedom of competition, upon which Liberalism is founded, has been extended to the most harassing and oppressive of all the evils of the world. It was freedom to do as people pleased that was the father of slavery. The weaker went under. Progressivism proposes co-operation in place of freedom of trade and competition. Protection is not a principle. It is merely an expedient. When expended, if expended far enough, it becomes Progressivism. The Initiative and Referendum (the same thing) which enables the people on a petition of a certain number, to vote on any measure, puts all the power direct- not individually (and sometimes not at all) as at present.

Your Bad Taste In the Morning Is Due to Catarrh

Destroy This Poisonous Disease Before Your Health is Seriously Injured.

Perhaps you haven't thought of calling those unpleasant symptoms that affected your nose and throat by any particular name—but it's Catarrh just the same.

When the attack is severe, your eyes are watery and look weak. Your breath is offensive, due to inflammation in the nose and throat.

At last science has discovered a real remedy, a new scientific marvel which acts like no other Catarrh remedy on earth. "Catarrhozone" operates on a new plan; it is a direct remedy, goes instantly to the source of the trouble. Its rich, fragrant essences and healing balsams are breathed in vapor form through a special inhaler and give instant relief.

Catarrhozone doesn't stop at the relief stage—it goes farther—keeps on going till a cure is effected. Bad cases are cured, as you can judge from the following letter:—"Every morning for six months last winter I awoke with a bad taste, an awful breath and stuffed up feeling in my nostrils," writes Bob H. [illegible], of Regina. "It was simply an awful case of chronic Catarrh. Relief first came from Catarrhozone. I used that inhaler twenty times a day and took it to bed with me at night. I am cured, and by the use of Catarrhozone stay cured. Now I am free from irritable throat trouble, coughs, colds, headache, or catarrh."

No medicine on earth is so certain to cure every form of Catarrh or throat trouble as "Catarrhozone." Get the large $1.00 size, lasts two months and is guaranteed; medium size, 50c.; sample size 25c. all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

CHANGES CAREER BEGAN IN RING

"Peerless Leader" Was Once a Star Boxer

Way back in the nineties Frank Chance thought his calling in the world was to be under the jurisdiction of the old Marquis of Queensbury rather than on the baseball field, and he didn't make such a bad showing either. He succeeded in presenting his case so strongly that nobody in Fresno had any desire to stand up opposite him in the squared circle.

Frank weighed about 190 pounds then, was as active as a kitten and possessed plenty of skill with his hands. He used to add suits of clothes and athletic goods, as well as an occasional purse to his collection by taking on all comers at Fresno Hall.

One day there came to Fresno Hall a young giant from the Middle West who tipped the scales at 220 pounds, and who was heralded as one of the coming heavies. On the strength of the records he brought to town he was duly installed as constable.

The new constable had not become well acquainted with his star before Frank's friends got busy with a challenge which was promptly accepted. A purse was made up, an evening's bout arranged, and the tickets for the exhibition were at a premium at a dollar a seat.

The two went at it hammer and tongs for four rounds without either one having much of an advantage. In the fifth round the big fellow swung a vicious upper-cut that went wild and Frank swung one that took the constable on the point of the jaw. Nobody counted. Somebody yelled for a doctor, and seconds and referee worked over him for two hours before they could bring him to, while Frank sat over in his corner frightened into believing he had laid out his man for keeps.

That's about the last time that Chance ever handled a pair of gloves. One's enough for him now.

The game of poker is one always dear to a ball player's heart and Frank Chance was no exception. Frank, however, was always blessed with such an amount of luck that copper cents were scarce. Now, it happened that Fresno, at this time, although a town of no large dimensions, nevertheless possessed a Chinatown. Here, often, with a crony or two, did Frank try his skill. But the "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain" succeeded in taking nearly every pot.

One evening Frank's companion scented a little "fixing" in the air and promptly hit one of the Orientals in the eye. It was a long way home, but Chance never made a better run around the sacks than the way he stepped it out in front of that mob of howling Chinese.

As a football hero, Chance made a great record, but he was on the injured list most of the time, as he took little care of himself in the scrimmages. A baseball [illegible] is not much worse than a gridiron quintet anyhow, and Chance seems to be used to both.

TROLLEY LINE TO OPEN AN ALBERTA DISTRICT

Thirty Miles Long—Will Haul Crops to Market and Elevators.

Lacombe, Alta., Nov. 12.—No more long hauls for Lacombe farmers hurrying their crops to the nearest railway outlets would seem to be the expectation about to be realized according to plans of the Lacombe and [illegible]. With eight miles of grade now finished and contracts let for ties and rails being closed, the outlook has now brightened decidedly for the completion of the new line in time for the movement of next year's crop. The road is to be built of standard gauge with steel sufficiently heavy for large locomotives. The total length of the new line will be something like 30 miles. A gasoline electric system is to be installed, and the bonds of the new line are guaranteed by the Government to the extent of $7,000 per mile.

CANDIDATES FOR THE "SHILLING" IS STEADILY ON THE DECREASE

Brilliant Uniforms Attract Men to Serve the Flag—Poverty a Contributing Factor

According to London recruiting sergeants reforms are urgently needed to encourage promising men to enlist in the British Army.

"For a long time complaints have been made in military circles," a recruiting sergeant said, "that the number of candidates for the 'shilling' is regularly and steadily on the decrease. But I, for one, am far from surprised, for the 'powers that be' seem to overlook the fact that at present no great inducements are offered—in times of peace, at any rate—to join the army. For instance, I feel sure that more men would speedily enlist if, after a number of years' service, soldiers were allowed to wear civilian clothes on their evenings out so to speak. A large number of the best and most conscientious soldiers I have ever met have frequently complained to me that it seems unjust to them to have to wear uniform when going to the theatre, or to visit their friends.

"Again, uniforms should be made smarter than they are, for what invariably attracts the man with a much-depleted wardrobe is the prospect of getting a really smart, well-fitting red coat for the asking—that is to say, always providing the difficulty of passing the doctor is overcome. Moreover, from the standpoint of enlisting, at any rate, I think the fact that red coats will probably never be worn again in action has had a depressing effect on candidates for the 'King's shilling.' You see, the average class from which privates chiefly spring have, since their earliest days, heard tales of the gallant deeds of bygone wearers of bright red uniforms; and, therefore, although many people may laugh at the apparent paltriness of such a consideration, the prospect of going into action in khaki instead of scarlet is not so alluring to the enlister who has not quite decided whether to 'take the shilling' or not.

"And there is another point. I do not think the number of candidates for enlistment will increase to any great extent until better means of obtaining employment are found for soldiers when they have to leave the Army.

"Of course, it is the primary duty of a recruiting sergeant to make the prospect of 'taking the shilling' as alluring as possible, but many men come to them only as a last resource, when they have failed to earn a living in absolutely every other walk of life."

It is in the East End of London, in the poorest districts, that recruiting sergeants have, as a rule, the busiest time. "People who don't know what it is to want a meal would not believe how often men who haven't tasted food for hours, and sometimes for days, come to me and want to enlist," said a recruiting sergeant in the neighborhood of Bethnal Green, "simply to procure food to keep body and soul together. And very often these men turn out to be first-rate soldiers when once they have learned what discipline means, and what it is to be able to hold up their heads without fear of a policeman telling them to move on."

ORDER OF THE THISTLE

Knighthood Conferred by the King on Lord Haldane

The King directed that Lord Haldane of Cloan be appointed a Knight of the Thistle, in succession to the late Earl of Crawford.

The Thistle is one of the most coveted orders of knighthood, and dates back several centuries. Its Knights number twenty-three. They include the King and the Duke of Connaught, the Duke of Argyll, the Duke of Buccleuch, the Marquis of Zetland, Lord Aberdeen, and Lord Rosebery.

TANNING BY ELECTRICITY

Better Leather is Produced in Much Shorter Time

A new electric tanning process, invented by the Swedish scientist, Dr. A. Groth, and applied on a practical scale in an English works, is attracting much attention, and one of the prominent electrical firms is to take it up for commercial use. With this method, the hides are put in special vats along with metal conductors, so as to carry out an electrolytic action and this will tan the hides in much less time than usual, for instance, six weeks as compared to several months. Leather of better quality is produced in this way, and the method gives a perfect and solid tanning. Various electrical devices in the shape of regulators, also safety apparatus for overcurrent, make the process almost an automatic one.

LONG, LONG AGO

Tell me the tales which to me were so dear,
Long, long ago, long, long ago;
Sing me the songs I delighted to hear,
Long, long ago, long ago.
Now you are come, all my grief is removed.
Let me forget that so long you have roved;
Let me believe that you love as you loved,
Long, long ago, long ago.

Do you remember that path where we met,
Lon long ago, long, long ago?
Ah, yes, you told me you ne'er would forget,
Long, long ago, long ago.
Then to all others my smile you preferred,
Love, when you spoke, gave a charm to each word;
Still my heart treasures the praises I heard
Long, long ago, long ago.

Though by your kindness my fond hopes were raised,
Long, long ago, long, long ago;
You, by your most eloquent lips have been praised,
Long, long ago, long ago.
But by long absence your truth has been tried,
Still to your accents I listen with pride,
Blest as I was when I sat by your side,
Long, long ago, long ago.

FATHER RECOMMENDS JAIL TERM FOR BOY

For stealing a gold chain and locket which he afterwards pawned for $2.00. Harold Stewart was sentenced to five months in the Central Prison by Magistrate Denison today.

The father appeared and suggested that a term in jail would do the boy good.

Spanish Jews in Asia

How many people know that there are some Asiatic Jews who speak Spanish? When the Jews were driven from Spain by Ferdinand and Isabella, a large number fled from the persecution of the Christian to the protection of the Mohammedan. They settled in Asiatic Turkey, Greece, and the Balkans. Their language is more correctly described as a Castilian-Hispano-Portuguese dialect of Latin, and it is said that many of them speak also Hebrew, modern Greek, and Arabic.

— KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED —

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its fineness and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this now through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

He feels it is part of his service to keep the public informed.

WITCH'S LOVE CHARM

Four women were condemned to six months' imprisonment each at Lecce, Abruzzo, Italy, for body-stealing and witchcraft.

It appears that Signora Antonia Mar[illegible], living at Lecce, was determined that a railway signalman should marry her only daughter, and decided that the best way to bring this about would be to bewitch him. For this purpose she paid a couple of women to steal a corpse from a neighboring cemetery.

This they then consigned to [illegible] [illegible], who enjoys a great reputation in the locality as a witch. Having selected a number of bones she set to work to prepare a love philtre, grinding the bones to powder in a mortar. She added a quantity of bronze [illegible] which she had commissioned a [illegible] to scrape at midnight from the big bell of the parish church.

Some peasants who chanced to be [illegible] while the incantations were in progress divulged the story to the police.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

Written by
DR. DAVID H. REEDER,
Chicago, Ill.

PLAY AND HEALTH: It has been given out by the most famous medical college in this country, that most of Appendicitis, with which we so frequently come in contact is the direct result of a downcast mental condition. Despondency, fear, worry, anger, a grouch so to speak, is the immediate or predisposing cause. Now, the great John Hopkins Medical University does not give out such information as this until it has made thorough and exhaustive investigation. It must know whereof it speaks. There are always people who will promptly declare their disbelief in such statements and cite as proof some laughing young girl or boy who came near dying before the appendix was removed.

Looked at from all sides, however, that proves nothing. A laughing face may hide a grieving heart. I have heard many people say that they laugh the loudest when they had the most like crying. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine," is one of the Biblical proverbs which has been proven true as many times as it has been tried. I think there are a few things in this world that cause more real sufferings than worry and fear. Eliminate those two mental conditions and you will stop the revenue of half the doctors.

There are many thousands of grouchy old sobersides who go to church regularly and think they are pious, because they are solemn, when as a matter of fact they would serve God more truly if they would dance the tango for a couple of hours at least three times a week. Not that I would have them stop going to church, not by any manner of means, but get a merry heart. Let a laugh break right out loud, even if it cracks the skin on that sour old face. A hearty laugh that comes from a merry heart is more quickly contagious than the measles. Some say that the measles eliminate a lot of diseased matter from the system. Well, if you suppress the measles you bottle up in the system a lot of diseased matter that ought to be eliminated, but a person is not benefitted by the measles and should avoid and prevent the disease always.

Speaking about dancing the tango. You can hold up your hands in holy horror if you will, but I approve of it. It's not only a beautiful and stately dance, but it exercises nearly every muscle in the body and does it with the beautiful rythm of inspiring and mirth provoking exhilerating music. I have five sons and a grandson and I want every one of them to dance the tango. There isn't a step in it that I cannot take and if all the grandads in the country would like to keep young like I do, then let them limber up with something in the form of an all around exercise that employs the play impulse.

One physical culturist has told us that a woman can get no better all around physical exercise than to wash, iron, sweep and wipe the dust off the pictures on the wall. Personally, I never could make play or get any mirth provoking pleasure out of that kind of exercise and I don't believe there is a human being living that can get more satisfaction out of every day duties than I can. After the duties are done, however, I want to play, and after play I want to rest, and I do rest. Make the best and most of everything, especially of yourself. There's good in everything—hunt for it—find it—rejoice and be glad—crown your gladness with music and dancing not only smile, but laugh.

CLUB NOTES.

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if same are addressed to Home Health Club, [illegible] Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago. Send full name and address with 4 cents postage.

Goitre: I have had a great many inquiries of late about goitres. During the score of years that I have conducted the Home Health Club many people have told me of various cures. Some have tried to sell to me their secret [illegible], while others exhibit the true Home Health Club spirit and want to help others as they have been helped. This department is conducted for the benefit of the readers of this paper and I am always glad to have you write me about your sickness and suffering and I will do my best to suggest a safe and effective home method of cure. Recently I have suggested a simple and safe method of home treatment for goitre. I do not wish to publish it at large until it has proven successful, so I will give the directions privately and without charge in a personal letter to a limited number who will agree to make a written report of their progress, success or failure, writing to me at least every two weeks for two months, by which time a satisfactory result should be apparent.

Common sense as well as scientific knowledge will prove to any one that no harm is likely to result from the method of treatment and most of you have everything at hand in your home that is needed to carry out the treatment.

Dear Doctor: I have been bothered with sour stomach or heartburn for eighteen years. My food does not seem to leave the stomach from one meal to another, and becomes sour and ferments, causing bloating of gas, and a dull aching pain all the time. My appetite is good, but nearly everything I eat disagrees with me. I am tired all the time, have [illegible], aches all through my body, stiff joints, rheumatism, headache over the eyes, and in the back of neck, and pains across my back and hips. I can hardly straighten up at times when I bend over. I have always worked on a farm and worked hard. [illegible]

MANY WHITE GIRLS ARE IN THE EASTERN HAREMS

Sad Fate of Young Women Who Mary Polygamous Orientals

The perils undergone by white women who marry colored men were emphasized by Mr. Foster Fraser, a widely known Asiatic traveller, in an interview at London.

These dangers formed the subject of a warning recently issued by the Australian Government at the request of the Colonial Secretary. This warning primarily concerned marriage with the Pathans and others of the hill tribes of the North-western Frontier of India, but Mr. Fraser extends the warning so as to include Mongols and Caucasians.

"It is extraordinary," he said, "to find the number of white women who are in the harems of Persia, for example. They are mostly English and American dancing girls who have met Persians who were traveling abroad, and, fascinated by tales of life in Eastern palaces, have married them.

"When I was in Persia I came across a typical case. It was that of a girl who had been an attendant at a stall at the Crystal Palace. There she was seen by a Persian in the entourage of Nasr-ed-Din, a previous Shah, when he visited England. She married him according to Roman Catholic rites, and with her sister went to Persia with him.

"Once in his own country, however, he immediately placed her in the harem, where she found herself but one of several wives, and was forced to live a life of seclusion, cut off from her own people. She met only the Persian ladies of the royal harem, to whom, curiously enough, she used to translate Conan Doyle's detective stories, in which they were greatly interested.

"Eventually her husband died, and she desired to return to England, but many difficulties were placed in her way, and it was only by the persistent good offices of the wife of the British Minister that she was able to depart, taking with her her son on the strict promise that he returned to Persia when he was sixteen years of age. Subsequently, I believe, she married an Englishman, and now lives at Peckham.

"Marriages between Chinese, Japanese, Egyptian, Siamese, or Persian men and white women are rarely happy. The men from these nations who travel are naturally wealthy, and women who become fascinated by them forget that they will have to live in a totally different atmosphere. An intolerable longing for home comes to them, and escape is impossible."

As an example of the danger of mixed marriages to white women a legal case may be cited, in which it was held that a white woman married in England was no longer the wife of a Siamese after she had been deserted for three months, this process being sufficient for a husband to end his marriage in Siam, and the wife was bound by the laws of her husband's country.

HE HAD LIVED LIKE A LORD

Impostor's Six Months' Penance for a Round of Champagne Dinners

How a man worth nothing contrived to live at the rate of $10,000 a year was related by the chief constable at Lincoln Police Court, when Arthur Lionel Ashton, aged twenty-seven, was charged with obtaining food and lodging from the Waverley Hotel, Lincoln, by false pretences.

"I have never encountered a man before with such self-assurance," added the chief constable. "He is a man of considerable education and quite an accomplished criminal. He has defrauded twenty hotels at least in Liverpool."

The evidence showed that the accused invariably represented himself as Ernest Shand, the comedian. He arrived at the hotels in hired motor cars, had the best of everything, and gave champagne dinners to his acquaintances.

At one hotel he robbed the box for the Commercial Travellers' Children's School. He was first convicted in Ireland, and had been deported from Canada for false pretences.

Sentence of six months' imprisonment was passed.

BIG MENAGERIE FOR PLEASURE

Animal Lover Makes Friends With His Pets and Plays With Them Fearlessly

Few people visiting Cobtree Manor, Maidstone, a stately old country house, in quiet and beautiful surroundings, would imagine that they had alighted on the largest private menagerie of caged animals in England. Yet this is the case, for Mr. T. R. G. Tyrwhitt-Drake has for some years been assiduously adding to his collection of wild animals, until now it is by far the most remarkable private menagerie in the country. Mr. Tyrwhitt-Drake, who is the hon. secretary of one of the strangest clubs in existence—the Amateur Menagerie Club—an exclusive organization, with Lord Lilford as its president and the Earl of Altamont as vice-president, which is devoted to the purpose of encouraging the keeping of wild animals and birds by private individuals, has always been passionately fond of animals of all descriptions. At present the menagerie includes over eighty animals, including two lions, four baboons, four bears, three leopards, five wolves, four dingoes, two wolf-dog hybrids, two jackals, two camels, two foxes, a spotted hyena, a sacred Indian bull, a three-legged duck, and any number of strange cattle and birds.

An interviewer who called at the Manor discovered Mr. Tyrwhitt-Drake and a somewhat ferocious-looking lion seated together on a garden chair enjoying the sunshine.

"I beg your pardon," said the journalist hurriedly; "I had no idea you had company," and prepared to retire.

"Please don't go," cheerted Mr. Drake; "I'm just going to bring a leopard out."

There was no escape from so pressing an invitation. When the lion had been taken back to its cage a very beautiful young leopard came out and, after a spasmodic effort to seize a little white domestic cat that was purring in the neighborhood, held a sort of private and whispered conversation with its master. One of the prettiest sights is provided by two benevolent-looking lion cubs, who share a cage with a retriever dog. The animals play together all day long, but the little retriever has established a complete mastery over the young lions, and is an acknowledged "boss" of the cage.

FORTUNE FOR A LABORER

Harbinger of Good Tidings Has to Chase His Man

How an agricultural laborer earning $3.75 a week at St. Osyth, near Clacton, tried to elude a solicitor's clerk who brought to him the tidings that he had been bequeathed $150,000 is told in British papers.

This fortune was left him by an old schoolfellow who emigrated to the United States years ago, and died there recently. A representative of a firm of solicitors made a number of inquiries before he could find any trace of the man. Eventually he went into an inn, the landlord of which knew the lucky farm laborer.

Shortly afterwards the man passed the inn, and the solicitor's representative shouted to him. Instead of stopping he walked on more quickly. When he was overtaken he explained that he thought the man was a detective, though why he could not tell, having nothing on his conscience.

DREAD OF CATS

Investigator Thinks We May Once Have Been Birds

Ailurophobia means a positive and utterly unreasoning hatred of cats. It comes from the Greek word meaning "tail wavers," and is being applied by scientists to that class of people who cannot stand the presence of even a most harmless kitten.

It seems that thousands of years ago Herodotus, the Greek historian, took a delightful journey through Egypt and brought back as many wonderful stories as any modern traveler ever collected, and he met cats in this Egyptian country and gave them a name of his own, "ailurophobia."

Not long ago a noted physician undertook an investigation of this subject and sent out a list of questions to all ailurophobes whom he could locate. Answers came from England, Germany, France and Russia. Much curious information was obtained. He found thirty-one well authenticated cases in which these ailurophobics could tell when a cat was near, though they could neither hear nor see it. He learned that cats cause asthma in some patients, that some people even suffer lockjaw in the presence of a cat, and temporary blindness, hysterical convulsions, and seasickness may also be ascribed to the same cause.

But why are people afraid of cats? Why is the hero who can face a tiger terror stricken at the sight of a cat? Why does a certain well known General grow pale, faint and unable to breathe when he knows there is a cat in the room? Why does an equally distinguished physician grow almost seasick in the presence of an innocent puss? These are all strong men.

His answer is not thoroughly satisfying. He says it is an inherited remainder of an animal instinct which we possessed in the days before we were humans, and probably used this instinct for our defense. That leads us to think that we were once birds or mice, for no one claims that the apes, our supposed ancestors, are afraid of cats.

Plucky Invalid

A plucky rescue was witnessed on the Tay at Perth, when the fourteen-year-old daughter of John Harrison, was carried [illegible] by an [illegible], while playing the bank got out into the river. Alexander Gallacher, a gardener, who was just recovering from a serious operation, had his attention drawn to the drowning child, and, caught as he was, he threw off his jacket, and plunged into the flooded river. After a severe struggle the invalid managed to bring the girl to the bank, both being in an exhausted condition.

WONDERFUL FLIGHT

Aviator Flew High to Avoid Strong Head Wind

A new flying record was made by the French aviator Gilbert. In less than eight and a half hours he flew from the north of France to Vittoria, in Spain, a distance of 512 miles, without once alighting. From Paris to Bordeaux, a distance of three hundred miles, he travelled at an average speed of 74 miles an hour, and during the latter part of his journey he flew at an altitude of 10,000 feet in an endeavor to avoid a strong contrary wind. After covering in under eight and a half hours what it takes an express train fifteen hours to accomplish, he was so little fatigued, that after a two hours' rest he resumed his flight and added 155 miles to his record—making 688 miles in less than eleven hours.

Breaking It to Him Gently.

"My dear nephew," wrote a wealthy old uncle, "allow me to congratulate you on your approaching marriage, and please accept from me the accompanying wedding gift. You will find it extremely appropriate in the circumstances." With much expectation the prospective bridegroom opened the parcel and found inside a large book marked "Household expense book."—Tit-Bits.

MYSTERIOUS ISLAND

They Rise From Lake Bottom and Look Substantial

A curious phenomenon is frequently seen on the Panama Canal. At times the Gatun Lake has not a speck of any kind on its surface except for an occasional white-capped wavelet; an hour later the surface is seen to be dotted with small green islets. These small "floating islands," as they are called, are masses of vegetation and earth loosened from the bottom of the lake, and they have been found on examination to consist mainly of sticks and leaves held together by clay, with grass and other vegetation growing upon them. Though these islets have been found as large as three acres in extent on the lake they are no obstacle to a steamer, though they would impede a launch, and they are firm enough for a man to walk upon safely. The sudden appearance of these islets is caused by the change of wind.

You had a sore place, and had to choose between two remedies, one of which went to the sore spot direct, and the other by a roundabout way, and might never get there at all, which would you prefer?

When you have a cold, asthma, a sore chest, catarrh, or any lung trouble, you can select between two remedies—Peps, which go to the sore spot direct, and any of the ordinary cough mixtures, [illegible], which go [illegible] to the lungs and breathing passages, but to the stomach, which is not ailing at all.

Don't coddle your stomach in an attempt to heal your throat and lungs. Peps go direct to the throat and lungs. Peps are tablets containing certain [illegible] [illegible] which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the capillaries and tiny air passages of the lungs, [illegible].

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing.

Disquieting facts about the torture of Indian natives by the police were revealed in the British House of Commons [illegible] Sir William Byles asked the [illegible] Secretary for India if "he had [illegible] official information about the [illegible] torture case, in which four [illegible] were convicted of torturing [illegible] respectable Indian peasants for [illegible] of extorting a confession [illegible] from them;

"If [illegible] it was proved [illegible] of the judge and [illegible] that the charge was deliberately [illegible] by the police, and that the [missing] property was found afterwards [illegible] the real thieves, who were convicted in Bombay;

"If the torture inflicted on these [peasants] was described by the Crown Prosecutor as revolting to humanity, [and] included stringing up one peasant by a rope passing through his fingers [to] a beam and lashing him till he [became] unconscious, and in the case of the others forcing their [illegible] through their legs to their toes and [keeping] them for hours in that position, and in depriving them of sleep for four days and four nights, and compelling them to dig in a field for the alleged stolen property (buried [illegible] by the police to bolster up the extorted confession);

"If the extorted confessions were regarded as voluntary confessions by a third-class honorary magistrate, who questioned the accused in the presence of the policemen who had inflicted the torture without making any adequate examination of the bodies of the accused, and who then remanded the accused to the custody of the same policemen."

Mr. Montagu regretted to say that the facts stated were substantially correct.

PHOSPHORESCENT LIGHT

[illegible]

Several remarkable lectures were given at the Congress of [illegible] at Monaco, attended by scientists from all parts of the world. The greatest attention was paid to a lecture by Prof. Raphael Dubois of Lyons University, who claimed he had discovered the most exact principle whereby phosphorescent light was emitted from glowworms, fireflies and innumerable marine creatures, even certain microbes. Prof. Raphael, one of France's leading physiologists, showed that this "living" light was the product of zymosis, which he called luciferase oxidizing on another chemical compound, which he called luciferine. As soon as these substances, when mingled together, come into contact with water they gave forth light. Prof. Raphael had succeeded in isolating both these bodies, and been able to keep them in bottles for several months without becoming luminous as long as they were in a dry condition. Prof. Raphael's researches had immense practical importance in connection with the discussion on the question of the production of cold light, a brief account of which was sent from Paris, while they also bear on certain problems of the ultimate construction of living tissue.

SANITARY ASH SIFTER

Inventor Claims That It Will Not Fill Air With Dust

Anyone who has ever sifted ashes knows what a dusty job it is under ordinary conditions. The dust from the ashes permeates the air and gets into the hair as well as the lungs. A hardware man has devised an ash sifter which he declares has none of these objectionable features. The sifter fits on top of the ash can and [illegible] consists of a hopper and a hood with a chute leading out of the [illegible] end of the hood from the hopper. The sifter is placed on top of the can, where it fits closely, and the scuttle of ashes is dumped into the hopper, the lid of which is [illegible]. By turning a crank at the side the ashes are thoroughly [illegible], the fine particles dropping into the can and the coal being carried out through the chute into the scuttle, which is hung up in waiting.

Drink Buttermilk

Buttermilk is one of the best of drinks. It should not be taken too cold nor too fast.

As much care ought to be observed in buying buttermilk as in buying sweet milk, as there is just as much likelihood of impurity and dirt.

It is a fat producer. It has all the advantages of sweet milk except that it is more easily digested.

MAN AFTER DEATH

Extraordinary Scientific Researches Into Disembodied Spirits

News has reached Paris of the extraordinary researches into the nature of disembodied spirits, made by two Dutch doctors who have conducted the investigation. They constructed an apparatus whereby they claim they are able to measure the density and volume of the weight of a man after death, which they term "man-force." The instrument, the details of which were revealed to them in the course of a series of seances, is called a "dynamistograph," or force register, but is more popularly known among the public here as a "spirit [illegible]."

It consists of a large upright cardboard cylinder, impervious to air and closed at each end with a tin disk, the whole being placed in an extremely sensitive weighing apparatus. The spirits declare they can enter this cylinder [illegible] through the cardboard walls, but are prevented from rising or sinking through the metal disks, and are thus confined for the time being. After a long series of experiments the two doctors announce that the "man-force," or disembodied spirit, has a density equal to that of [illegible] and [illegible] weight of [illegible] grams. They also declare that the "man-force" is charged with electricity and is composed of a [illegible] [illegible]. It is not eternal, they [illegible], but lasts usually about one hundred years after death, ultimately decomposing gradually. Acting under the close supervision of a disembodied person, one of the investigators has modeled in clay a figure of a "man-force" as it would appear if visible. The figure is a very uncanny appearance and consists merely of a head, shoulders, and breast, terminating in a point like a balloon. The head is hairless and has no ears, while the other features have the vague appearance presented by a snowman during a sharp thaw.

Her Majesty Gives Books

The Queen presented a further gift of books to the Victoria League for Children in the Dominions, which exists for the great need for good literature in the remote parts of the Empire.

[illegible]

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (but not sub-agency), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Engineer in Charge, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Department on the payment of the sum of fifty dollars. To bona fide [illegible] this amount will be refunded upon the return of the above in good condition.

Parties tendering will be required to [illegible] the [illegible] wages [illegible] schedule [illegible] to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $100,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
[illegible] JONES,
Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary,
Department of Railways and Canals.

There is a small shelf in the proximity of the wheel which is set at just the right angle for scissor sharpening and with this any woman is enabled to sharpen a pair of scissors whereas under ordinary circumstances, this is a rather difficult task. It is also possible to sharpen any other small piece of cutlery.

Chain Hooks Over Rim of Barrel and Into Handle Slot

Here is a truck especially for the transportation of barrels and kegs, but that can be used, of course, for boxes and other freight. The chief feature, however, is the chain. This chain has one hook on one end and two at the other. From the top of the truck handle to a little below its middle is a vertical slot, in which are a number of openings. The double-hooked end of the chain is thrown over the rim of a barrel and the other end is hooked into one of the openings in the slot at whatever distance is required to make the chain taut. The barrel is then held firmly on the truck.

SHATTERED ROMANCE

Lady's Claim For [illegible] Change on a [illegible]

A case which came before the Tower Bridge Police Court revealed a shattered romance. Miss Florence Elsie Gardiner was summoned by Herman Rudd for detaining "a flower-pot and foreign stamps collected by owner there, a model weather-house, a hair brush and comb, a bangle, a cycle box, a butter dish, collection postcards (in sets) to fill an album, and a cigarette album and cards."

Rudd explained that he left these trifles in Miss Gardiner's keeping at a time when he was engaged to be married to her, but when the engagement was broken off they were not returned.

"How long were you engaged?" Rudd was asked, and answered promptly, "One year, four months, and twenty days."

It appeared that Miss Gardiner had offered to return the goods in dispute if he would pay her five shillings for her labor in sticking the stamps on the flower-pot and varnishing them. The fact was elicited that Miss Gardiner had not only designed the weather-house, but also painted it.

The magistrate made an order that the flower-pot and the model weather-house should be given up on payment of $7.25.

Man With the Grouch Draws His Conclusions From Observation of Pet Pair of Geese.

"I don't believe in suffragettes nor in the so-called new woman," said the man with the grouch. "They're against the law of nature.

"I'll tell you why it isn't natural," he went on. "I've been observing life in the barnyard, and I've learned by studying the real place of woman in the economy of life.

"My wife has started in to raise a couple of geese, and they are the most human things you ever set eyes on. She calls 'em Darby and Joan.

"Well, [illegible] every that tub! He waddles up to it very pompously the first thing in the morning and takes an eye-opener.

"Then, with the utmost care and deliberation, Darby proceeds to take his morning bath and make himself beautiful. He splashes in the tub, preens himself and has a beautiful time in his lordly, masculine way.

"When he has entirely finished he [illegible] with glee, comes out of the kitchen tub and waddles off to graze on the new shoots of grass.

"Now that he is through with the tub Joan may have her turn. She may have what is left, now that her lord and master is quite finished.

"It's a lesson in wifely subjection to see Joan make her toilet and then waddle around contentedly in the wake of her proud, domineering mate.

"It goes to show what woman's place in the world really should be, according to the law of nature."—New York Telegram.

Playing With Live Cartridges

Reuben Rawlins, a boy living at Heath End, near Farnham, was seriously wounded by the explosion of a live cartridge. He and another lad were playing on Caesar's Camp, the training ground for Aldershot, when they found two live cartridges. Taking them home, they lighted a fire in a bucket and laid the cartridges on the top. As the fire did not burn very well one of the lads stooped down to blow it. Suddenly the cartridges exploded. Rawlins was so seriously injured about the head and face that he was taken to Tilbuner's Cottage Hospital at Farnham in a precarious condition. The second lad escaped with slight injuries.

Mr. Du Maurier Finds the Only Novel Movement in Ragtime

Mr. Gerald Du Maurier had some amusing things to say of the stage at the annual dinner of the Playgoers' Club, held at the Hotel Cecil. After all, he went on to say, it was the playgoer who created the fashions in drama. If the state of the playgoer were healthy, then surely must the drama be healthy too. He was continually hearing and reading of the new movement in drama, but, personally, he had been unable to detect it unless it were ragtime. But that was not new. It was merely a good melody marred, or a poor one galvanized into life. The one-step was supposed to be a new discovery in dancing, and the success of it was that it need not be learned. Anybody could do it; in fact, it was the first thing a baby did when it could walk by itself. All these new dances, such as the Bunny-hug and the Turkey-trot, were only forms of the oldest dance in the world—St. Vitus dance. As regarded the drama—the successful drama, that was to say—he could not see that it had changed much since the days of Shakespeare. A good deal of fuss was made nowadays about producing, but it was very difficult to spoil a good play or make a bad one. If a scene were good, what matter the setting. The greatest service the producer could do the author was to let the play play itself—that was to say, if the author knew his job. As a manager he believed in the play that was commercially [illegible].

Old-time Wallpaper

A sample of the first wallpaper used in America is in the possession of Frank Hall of Hartford, Conn. It was imported from London, England, in 1783, by Samuel Talbott, to paper the rooms in a house in Glastonbury, which was built for him by his father, Deacon Benjamin Talbott, in 1735-1736. The paper was taken from the walls of the house in Glastonbury, and is in as good a condition as when it was placed there, a [illegible] of the [illegible] material. Mr. Hall was offered a large sum by a big New York wallpaper firm for the paper, to use in a window display, but he refused the offer. He sent a sample piece to Admiral George Dewey, a descendant of the Talbotts. Mr. Hall himself is a descendant of the Talbotts.

WHAT STAB-LIKE PAIN IN THE BACK IS SURE INDICATION OF KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Mrs. Anna [illegible] writes as follows from her home in Valencia:—"For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my limbs became bloated and shaky, I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me. Such blessings of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right, and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I strongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut."

Commissioner Rees Is Very Low.

Word was received last night from Salvation Army officials that Commissioner Rees, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is very low and little or no hope is held out for his recovery. Roots Gave Trouble

A resident living on Hunter street found his sewer pipe plugged yesterday by roots of a nearby elm tree. The little fibrous roots had, in their search for water found a minute hole in the sewer pipe. Inside that they grew and spread until the pipe was completely choked. This reminds us that twelve years ago, when the city took over the water works, the old underground tanks were filled in. Near the convent was one of these tanks ten feet deep. When the city started to fill this tank, it was found to be absolutely full of a tangled mass of tree roots that had found their way through pinhole sized apertures.

Old Dynamite Accident Recalled.

Thomas Cooper, a dynamite expert and scrap iron contractor from Montreal suffered permanent and perhaps fatal injury in the yard of the Steel Company of Canada, at Belleville, when a stick of dynamite exploded as he was leaning over it. This recalls a fatal accident which occurred about 26 years ago when two men were blown to atoms by a waggon load of dynamite exploding in a swamp near Lakefield. Only a glove finger or two of the men were found caught in the folks of trees about 100 yards away. A hole in the roadway ten feet deep and 30 feet across was blown out and all trees nearby blown to the ground.

Protestant Home Shower.

The "shower" reception at the Protestant Home last night, as [illegible] by the Times, was a huge success. The people of Peterborough recognize not only the splendid results crowning the work done to make a comfortable and happy home for the aged Protestant poor of Peterborough, but also the admirable administration of the superintendent. The reception was attended by over 200 people. Over 150 jars and pots of pickles and preserves, a liberal supply of sheets and towels, a webb of linen and other goods were presented.

PARENTS WILL NOW BE HELD RESPONSIBLE

By request of Chief of Police Thompson, who is greatly interested in the well being and morality of the children of Peterborough, the following is inserted:

"Hereafter the parents of the children will be brought before the Magistrate, and a fine will result instead of the child being brought to my office and warned as I have been doing in the past, since the Act went into force," said Chief Thompson to-day, in regard to the question of boys under the age of 16, and girls under the age of 16 being found on the streets after 9 o'clock, contrary to the new Act, forbidding the children from being on the streets after the above time.

Numerous cases have been settled in the Chief's office, so as to save trouble for the parents. Sometimes the officer would take the child home, and the parents would come before the chief next day and warned, but the parents seem to think that this is too easy and therefore, the Chief desires to warn the parents of children under the age limit that they will, in the future be the ones to pay the penalty by paying a fine, which after each conviction will increase.

A [illegible] deputation waited on Chief Thompson yesterday in regard to the matter. They were informed that the notice forbidding the children to be out after the above hours would be published in the papers.

The Act provides for a fine of $1 and costs for first conviction; second conviction $3 and costs and the third, $5 and costs.

The death occurred in Limerick recently of the Rev. [illegible] O'Brien, Protestant Dean of Limerick in his [illegible] year.

Damage amounting to $2,000 [illegible] done by an outbreak of fire [illegible].

DID CHILD WAKE UP CROSS OR FEVERISH?

Look Mother! If Tongue is Coated Give "California Syrup of Figs" To Clean the Bowels.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Counterfeits are being sold here. Don't be fooled!

Social and Personal

The public are invited to contribute details of At Homes, Receptions, Teas, Arrivals and Departures of Visitors, and other social and personal events. Telephone [illegible] or write.

Mrs. W. J. Green, 375 Brock street, will not receive to-day.

Mrs. (Dr.) Morgan will not receive to-day, but on the second Friday of each month.

Mr. Ross Cameron has returned from a business trip to Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wood, who spent the week-end in the city, the guests of Mrs. John Wood, Belmont avenue, have returned to Toronto.

Miss Elizabeth Irwin has returned home after spending the past six months in Vancouver, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Graham Ferguson.

Port Hope Guide—Miss Hazel Elliott, of Peterborough, has been visiting her friend, Miss Edna Campbell, Perrytown, for the past week.

Miss Dorothy Allan went to Toronto yesterday morning to attend a vocal recital by the pupils of Mr. M. M. Stevenson, at Toronto Conservatory of Music; also to see the performance of "Joseph and His Brethren," at the Princess Theatre. Miss Allan is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, 1, Bedford Road.

City in Paragraph

Sunlight and Shadow on the Dial of a City Life.

The De Laval Company of this city organized a fire brigade.

The Fire Chief is busily engaged these days in the installing of the new fire alarm boxes.

A bicycle rider was yesterday assessed $4.00 for riding on the sidewalk.

Music for the Laymen's Banquet will be furnished by the Temple Band who have offered their services.

The Hydro Control here has been handed over to the Water Commissioners.

The Peterborough County Council will convene for the fall session on Tuesday, Nov. 18th.

The excavation work in connection with the installation of the magnetite lights at Lindsay, is nearing a close.

Lindsay paid $6 for special constables on Hallowe'en. This is good economy and might be followed here.

Hereafter the Water Commissioners will be paid $1,400 annually, $600 to the Chairman and $400 to each of the others.

It will be some months yet before the city's streets will be illuminated by means of the Hydro-Electric system.

The interest in the bowling alleys at the Young Men's Christian Association is well maintained and from seven o'clock until closing time they are in constant use.

At yesterday's police court Fred Stabler was charged with supplying liquor to W. [illegible], a blacklister. Stabler pleaded and paid $23.75 for his indiscretion.

DODDS
PILLS

It is said that some farmers are unloading cold storage eggs at 25 cents and unloading them on the market at 40 cents a dozen.

Regina Standard: As the police commission met behind closed doors this week, there was little known of the outcome of their discussions. Things are run differently here.

The assistant fire Chief and some of his husky boys in blue took an exercise run with the hook and ladder wagon yesterday morning.

No, Sadie, the new fence placed yesterday by Mr. J. J. McBain over the Hunter street creek, is not in connection with a very badly needed public bath for Peterborough.

Port Hope contributed $6.85 towards speeding on his way to Toronto to John Solan, a cripple, referred to in yesterday's issue as having walked to that town from Montreal.

James Roddick who has for sixty years been keeper of "Gull Light" light house, well known to many of our readers, near Port Hope, has been succeeded by Samuel Nicholls. Roddick was charged with "running out" his duties.

The people of Hamilton have risen in their indignation and decided to boycott their local milk dealers for putting the price up to 9 cents. A similar movement might be made here to stop farmers asking 40 cents for 31 cent cold storage eggs.

Lindsay Warder of yesterday, says that some of their local hunters "returned with a legal compliment of deer." Were the deer given the hunters as a compliment or did they shoot the legal complement?

A Hallowe'en Escapade.

At yesterday's police court, a case of disorderly conduct was tried. The defendants were two young men named Marty and Sheehan. A fence had been torn down on Hallowe'en. When Sheehan was arrested that night, he said he was looking for a piccolo. The policeman who arrested Sheehan said he heard no music, but distinctly heard the cracking of the fence. To Mr. Corkery, for the defence, the policeman said he saw the fence upright at 5 o'clock and later on saw it lying down with Sheehan on top of it. P. C. Meagher said Sheehan told him that a man named Hickey had torn down the fence. Judgment reserved.

PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD IN REGULAR SESSION

A meeting was held of the Public Library Board, in the Board Room last night. There were present, Mr. W. G. Morrow, chairman, and A. Mowat, T. F. Matthews, H. R. H. Kenner, J. Corkery and H. Ritchie.

A letter from Mr. L. J. Pettit was received advising the Board that Mr. J. H. Firth had been elected to represent the Teachers' Institute on the Public Library Board for the ensuing year.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Corkery presented the report of the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of the following accounts:

Peter Hamilton Co.	$ .50
Bell Telephone Co.	.40
H. Edmondson	1.25
Ed. Courtney	25.00
Otonabee Power Co.	11.91
Wm. James	1.30

J. D. Craig	2.00
Trebilcock Bros.	4.00
Trebilcock Bros.	30.23

The report was adopted.

The inaugural meeting of the Children's Hour held Tuesday afternoon had been a great success. More children between ages of 7 and 10 presenting themselves than could be accommodated. It was decided to continue meetings, but arrangements will be made to limit the number attending.

The Property Committee was authorized to proceed with improvements to the ventilation.

Meeting adjourned.

WEDDING BELLS.

Taylor—McCue.

A quiet wedding was solemnized by the Rev. R. G. Peever yesterday morning, when Mr. Merritt Ford Taylor and Miss Eliza McCue were united in marriage. Both are from Chemong Indian Village.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a number of friends of the young couple, who returned to Indian Village after the wedding.

Dr. Carre has resigned as superintendent of Omagh Asylum after many years service.

Two heads of cabbage cut by Mr. J. [illegible], Ballybofey, County Donegal, weighed 28 lbs. and 37 lbs. respectively.

FIVE MASKED MEN GET BIG HAUL, $10,000 IN A B.C. BANK

Hamilton Branch of the Union Bank Victimized—Cashier Shot—Escape Running Battle

Hamilton, B.C. Nov. 13.—Five masked men robbed the Union Bank of New Hamilton, four miles east of Hamilton, yesterday shot the cashier and escaped with $10,000 after a rifle battle with citizens.

A special train was sent west in hope of intercepting the bandits, as it was believed they escaped down the Skeena River.

The cashier returning from dinner surprised the robbers at work. One robber opened fire, the bullet striking the cashier between the eyes. The wound is not serious. Citizens attracted by the shot hurried to the bank just as the robbers were leaving. The fleeing men engaged in a running battle with their pursuers, until they found shelter in the timber on the edge of the town. Six men suspected of being implicated in the robbery were arrested between Hamilton and New Hamilton.

DRASTIC ACTION COMING IN COOKSVILLE TRAGEDY

Greer Indignant at Another Adjournment—Witness Is In Ireland.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Owing to the continued unsatisfactory nature of the evidence at the inquest into the Cooksville auto tragedy on September 25, which killed three men, another adjournment was made last night to Nov. 20; and Crown Attorney Greer promised to treat further reticence on the part of witnesses with drastic action. One subpoenaed witness is said to have gone on a visit to Ireland.

Edward Hicks, the chauffeur, testified that he was not driving at the time of the accident, but his explanation of how the accident occurred was described by Mr. Greer as "a physical impossibility."

Thomas Robinson testified that while returning from the Streetsville fair, three autos passed him on the Dundas road, and none were speeding.

"Everybody swears his head off on that point," remarked the Crown.

YOUTHFUL, BEAUTIFUL SKIN EASY TO HAVE

(From the Clubwoman.)

You may be as healthy as a bird in the air and still have a poor complexion. Changing seasons and temperatures, winds, dust and dirt, are apt to injure any skin, even though the general health be good. When these external influences spoil the complexion, the natural thing is to remove the spoil by external means. Ordinary mercolized wax will do this. It will actually absorb the weather-beaten film-skin, a little each day. In a week or two you'll have a brand new complexion, a new skin. The exquisitely beautiful and youthful complexion thus acquired, comes so easily, with no harm of discomfort, there's no reason why any woman should not adopt this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings. This will not fail in any case.

To quickly remove wrinkles, signs of care and age, bathe the face occasionally in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. The results will surprise you.

HOUR BY HOUR THE ANGRY LAKE GRUDGINGLY CASTS UP ITS DEAD AFTER THE TERRIBLE STORM

PAPERS ALL LOST WITH SHIPS CORRECT CREW LIST NOT FOUND

Companies Are Sending Representatives to Scene of The Disasters--Many Inquiries

Toronto, Nov. 13.—All hope that the James Carruthers may have ridden out the storm has now been abandoned. Mr. A. A. Wright, of Toronto, is sending a representative of the firm to Goderich to-day to look after the bodies that are washed ashore. He will also study the wreckage that is found to see if evidence of a collision can be found.

A Splendid Crew.

Mr. Wright feels convinced that nothing short of a collision could have caused the accident. The James Carruthers was the latest development in the construction of lake vessels. Mr. Wright stated that her crew, both deck and engine room hands, could not be excelled on the lakes.

Heavy Loss.

He estimates the financial loss at $[illegible]. The hull is insured for $[illegible] with a number of underwriters, the insurance having been placed by Messrs. Johnstone and Higgins, of New York. The balance is covered by the firm's own insurance fund. "The ship can be replaced," said Mr. Wright, "but what distresses us is the loss of the crew and the sorrow brought to their relatives."

It is impossible to give the addresses of members of the crew, as the men were signed on aboard the vessel, and the articles are lost with the ship. It is believed that four of the crew belong to Cookstown. The offices are besieged by telephone calls asking for information of relatives, but often the inquirers are uncertain themselves what vessels their friends were on.

A Veteran Captain.

Eleven years ago, Captain Wright, of the James Carruthers, secured his first command on the steamer Advance, of the Mathews Line and the Gales, of the St. Lawrence and Chicago Navigation Co. He had been nearly thirty years in the lake trade, and was regarded as an exceptionally able navigator. He is survived by his wife, three children and his mother, who lives in Toronto.

An Old Servant.

The chief engineer, Mr. Edward J. O'Neil, had served on the line for over twenty years.

Mr. W. Ledlard, the first mate leaves a wife and four children in [illegible], Ont. At one time he lived in Owen Sound. His father was Rev. Mr. Ledlard, who has preached in Toronto, and his sister, Miss Mary Ledlard, is a missionary in Japan. Mr. Edgar Ledlard, of Toronto, is his brother.

May Revolutionize Warfare

A man named Ulivi is conducting a series of experiments at Havre before the French Military authorities to demonstrate his claim to a new discovery. He asserts that by means of the ultra violet rays he can explode gunpowder and other similar explosives at a distance of 14 miles. If he makes good his claim there will be little use for big guns, and may revolutionize warfare. Destruction of the machine built for killing would be a world saver.

NO OFFICERS OUT AS "ARMY" ENROLLS

Suffragettes Given Affront by Men Selected to Whip Forces Into Shape.

London, Nov. 13.—The enrollment of the "suffragette army" started at Bow, in the East End of London, last night, when about three hundred men and women were asked to make a declaration worded thus:

"The People's army. I promise to serve the common cause of justice and my comrades under our duly elected officers. I will be a friend to all and a brother to every member of the peace army. I am a sincere believer in universal adult suffrage.

Not a single army officer of the several expected was present, but Zelie Emerson, the Suffragette, announced that the new army would have an instructor, a soldier, who had served his country in Egypt.

BUYING UP CATTLE AT PRINCE ALBERT

Prince Albert, Nov. 13.—Recent American legislation removing the duty on cattle entering the United States has had far reaching effects in this district, because of its great mixed farming area. Buyers have been scouring the whole country side purchasing stock and in consequence the market value has taken a rapid rise. Large shipments have been made and congestion on the railway lines and in the stock yards at Winnipeg is the immediate result. One firm in Prince Albert received an order for 700 head, and the same company, during the last five weeks has shipped 1,5000 head of cattle to various points. They now have in their yards 600 head of excellent stock, one animal weighing 2,300 pounds, and other consignment of 600 is expected this week.

HUNDREDS ADDED DAILY TO DUBLIN'S 30,000 WORKLESS

Estimated To-day That 100,000 Are Living on What Charity They Can Obtain in Irish Capital as Trade of City is Paralyzed

London, Nov. 13.—Two thousand men were added to-day by a dramatic stroke to the number of men and women, estimated at 30,000, who are already workless owing to the labor war in Dublin, which has now lasted nearly three months. More than 100,000 men, women and children are living on what charity they can obtain. The trade of the city is paralyzed. Many firms have had to appeal for financial assistance to save them from filing petitions in bankruptcy and there are no signs of a settlement.

At the dinner hour delegates from the Transport Workers' Union went round the shipping sheds calling out on strike all the dock workers engaged there. All the shipping lines trading to and from Dublin are affected. No explanation was given to the companies. Many vessels were in course of discharge, and are now up and the port is closed except for passenger traffic.

BODIES COMING ASHORE ALL NIGHT SOME LASHED TO RAFTS; FROZEN

Goderich, Nov. 13.—Nothing of importance in connection with the lake disaster has developed since the finding yesterday afternoon of three bodies from the steamer John N. McGean, an American boat. These are now in Brophy's undertaking rooms awaiting the coroner's inquest, which will open at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

By papers on the bodies they have been identified as Thomas Stone, John Owen and Smith, of Sarnia, the last named a swarthy young fellow.

They are young men, well dressed, and one had over eighty dollars in his pockets. They were lashed to a life raft and had evidently made a desperate fight for life. The Charles Naftel farm, along the shore of which they were found, is five miles south of Goderich.

After an all night drive, Undertaker Brophey arrived at eight this morning from Grand Bend with the bodies of four victims from the Wexford—Murdock MacDonald and Jas. Glen, of Goderich and Archibald Brooks, second Mate, and Richard Lougheed, second engineer of Collingwood.

The body of Donald Macdonald, supposed to be on the Wexford, has not been found. An inquest on the bodies from the Wexford was held by Coroner Dr. Campbell, of Zurich.

Undertaker Brophey reports that when he left Grand Bend last night bodies were coming ashore two and three at a time. Grand Bend is 30 miles from Goderich and Kettle Point, where the other bodies have been found, is still farther away, and communication is difficult.

NAVAL POLICE LAND RIVER PIRATE TRIO

New York, Nov. 13.—A miniature naval battle was fought under the shadow of Brooklyn bridge just after midnight this morning when detectives concealed aboard barges, and policemen in launches exchanged shots with armed river pirates. Four detectives were injured, but three river pirates were captured and three motorboats loaded with stolen coffee were recovered.

Watch had been set because the New York Dock Company complained that coffee valued at more than $[illegible],000 had been stolen during the last two nights from their barges in the East River. Early this morning three large motorboats with engines muffled were seen to draw up alongside the coffee barges. Three men climbed aboard the barge and began to throw bags of coffee into their motor boats. The hidden detectives ordered the men to throw up their hands, but instead each drew a revolver and began to blaze away. The detectives closed in, however, and a hand to hand fight ensued, during which a detective was thrown into the river, and three others were slightly injured. One of the pirates succeeded in getting away in his boat and was rounding the Battery at full speed when two police launches intercepted him and effected a capture. The other prisoners were taken aboard the barge.

"LIFE FOR A LIFE" IS THE NEW RULE IN THE FOREST

Milwaukee, Nov. 12.—Now that the deer season is open in Wisconsin and upper peninsula of Michigan, the prospects are that the new rule of the woods, the "blood code," will be in effect more than ever before, and that in consequence the city hunters who shoots men for deer will be endangering his own life as much as the lives of others.

Constant warnings have not served to make city hunters careful, and even laws have not availed to stay the annual slaughter of human beings shot by reckless users of rifles, who "thought it was a deer." Hence the "blood code" is gaining recognition, though it is an "unwritten law."

A Terrible Code.

It is a terrible code, this new law of the woods, but it is held up to be the only way by which city hunters can be forced to recognize the danger of the [illegible] of a rifle. This is the [illegible] of the unwritten "blood code." "If any one shoots at you by mistake for a deer, get him, for he'll get you if you don't."

This word is being passed by the lumberjacks as well as by the experienced hunters, and is said to be doing more than any other agency to make the woods safe.

Five years ago there were twenty men shot by mistake in the northern woods by men who thought they were deer. Last year there were only three such killings, for the "blood code" [illegible]

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Commissioner David M. Rees, of the Salvation Army, showed a slight improvement in his condition today over yesterday.

DRILLING FOR GAS FIND SEAM OF COAL

Camrose, Alta., Nov. 13.—It is reported here to-day that an outfit drilling for natural gas passed through a fifteen foot seam of splendid coal. The find is made at a depth of 400 feet. At present the drilling has reached a depth of 500 feet. The contract calls for a depth of 1500, at which it is expected natural gas will be struck.

COPPER WIRE TO MONTREAL

Bell Telephone Co. Has Gangs of Men Adding to Their Already Good Service

The Bell Telephone Co., recognizing that the growing demands on their admirable long distance lines from Toronto to Montreal, require augmentation, have gangs of men stringing No. 11 gauge copper wire to Montreal. Gangs of men are busy both in this city and between Madoc and Ardendale. The gang in Peterborough, under the supervision of Mr. Ross, is now working along Water street and other local thoroughfares. The Peterborough-Montreal connection will be via the Norwood Road and through Madoc and Ardendale. There are 17 men now employed on this work in Peterborough. Three other gangs are working between Madoc and Allendale. It is expected that the Peterborough-Allendale link will be finished by Christmas.

HAND OVER HAND TO SAFETY, 40 FT.

Thrilling Achievement of a Workman When Scaffold Broke Away

Toronto, Nov. 13.—A perilous hand over hand trip along a beam, forty feet in the air, with his legs dangling in space was successfully made this morning by Albert McClelland, a cement worker, employed by Henry Hope and Sons at the new Street Railway barns near Morley avenue, when the planking upon which he and John Meacham were working collapsed, Meacham fell and was badly injured but McClelland had time to grasp a beam above him and was able to climb along it to safety. The distance was only about 15 or 20 feet, but nevertheless the achievement was a hazardous one.

Meacham was only partially conscious when fellow workmen hurried to his assistance, expecting to find him dead. Dr. Phipps whose residence is close by on Queen street was summoned and after first aid the injured man accompanied by George Humphrey was sent to the General Hospital, where it was found that his hip was fractured and he may be seriously injured internally.

Meacham is a married man residing at 12 Sackville terrace.

McClelland is an Englishman, who has only been in Toronto a short time. He lives on Carlaw avenue.

LARGE ATTENDANCE DELEGATES LAYMEN'S MISSION CONFERENCE

Morning and Afternoon Sessions--Banquet in the Evening a Huge Success--Synopsis of the Speeches

The Conference of Laymen's Missionary workers for the County and district, which assembled in our city yesterday, is part of a campaign taking in all the County centres in the Province. The morning and afternoon meetings were held in the lecture hall of Murray street Baptist Church. About 150 were present at the morning meeting. Among them were Revs. Mr. Thompson, Hastings, Moderator, Presbyterian Synod; W. Coupland, ex-President, Methodist Conference; Rev. J. R. Webb, Vice-President Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec; Canon Davidson, R. Pogue, James Rollins, F. J. Sawyers, Mr. Peever, Mr. Mandell, Mr. McLean, Gilmour Memorial; J. W. Gregory, Lakefield; G. A. Brown, Dr. Haigh, S. J. Abernethy and several others represented Campbellford; besides many others.

MORNING SESSION.

Many Prominent Men From All Parts Present—Good Addresses Given.

Mr. J. A. Aylmer took the chair at 10.45, welcoming the delegates to Peterborough. "We are beginning," he said, "to realize that the Christian church is a missionary church. There has been neglect in the past through disloyalty to our king and disobedience to His command."

After prayer by Rev. R. J. Beaver, Mr. J. Cuthbertson, who superintends the work in Japan of the international police Christian Association, gave his impressions of nine years' work among Jap policemen. When he first went out he was the only missionary among 1,200,000 people. Japan needs 400 new missionaries to-day. 80 per cent of the Japanese live in rural districts and 96 per cent. of these are untouched by the gospel. The missionary is very lonely. He is a stranger among people of strange speech, he has his fierce temptations. He misses the co-operation of laymen who should be living what he preaches. All white men in Japan are called Christians, but concerning white men in Japan, it is said "All white men are immoral.

"Buddhism in Japan, as we find it to-day, has no practical value as a religion. A man will ring the bell in a Buddhist temple and pray for success in his business as a brothel-keeper, promising one-tenth of his gains to Buddha, and does not feel there is any inconsistency in so doing. Buddhism is a religion of fear and has no certain hope of the future. Shintoism also has no ennobling ideas."

The speaker, through connection with the police, had a good position at the funeral of the late Emperor. He told how at the first sound of the gong for the procession the victorious General Nogi committed suicide in the traditional Japanese manner that he might honor his sovereign.

Rev. Walter Daniel, field secretary for Baptist Western Missions, spoke on the need for the creation of a Missionary atmosphere. God created the air that surrounds the earth. He also created a long time ago, in the first century a spiritual atmosphere. The first gospel preachers had supreme respect for the authority of Christ, and right ideas regarding stewardship. In the bright and brief discussion which followed Mr. D. M. Rose, Secretary Anglican Church Laymen's Missionary Movement, spoke of two methods of creating a missionary atmosphere: (1) Steady, educational work in our churches by study classes, etc., twelve months in the year. (2) Special campaigns from time to time.

Canon Davidson said we need right thoughts, Godward and manward right words Godward and manwards and spiritual aspirations.

A minister asked the layman to tell us what was preventing the creation of a spiritual atmosphere, and was promptly answered, "Want of information from the pulpit."

Rev. J. W. Gregory raised a cheer by saying, "If mother would talk about missions in the home and father would talk about missions, the children would come to believe in missions and you could not make them believe otherwise if you tried.

Mr. Cowan said there should be definite aim in effort and pray for missionary work. Rev. H. C. Priest told of a Sunday School which had a long list of scholars who had become ministers and Missionaries, and at the foot of the [illegible] the words "Who will be the next?" [illegible] and mentioned missionaries that had gone from former circuits in which he had labored.

Rev. Mr. [illegible] [illegible]

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Large Attendance and Interesting and Instructive Addresses Were in order.

At the Afternoon [illegible] in addition to those previously mentioned there were present: Rev. F. Conners, R. B. Grobb, W. Johnston (Lakefield), D. McDonald (Warkworth), W. Lowe (Norwood, J. R. Butler (Cavan) and Judge Hodgins (Toronto. The attendance was larger than in the morning.

In the absence of Mr. Vincent Eastwood, who was out of town, Ald. G. A. Gillespie presided.

Rev. H. J. Keith offered prayer.

Mr. J. H. Arnup, assistant secretary of Foreign Missions for the Methodist church, spoke on "The Missionary Committee." It should commence its organization right here. The men who were interested in missions were those who attended conferences like this; and these men should get official endorsation from their church and get to business. Preparation for committee work consists in (1) Missionary conviction. (2) Knowledge of mission fields of the particular denomination, of the giving possibilities of the church, of missionary methods and of the one unfailing eternal resource for missionary effort. The duties of the Missionary Committee should be to act as the executive of the church in communicating the message of Christ to the world, just as the pastor and church board were the executive for communicating the influence of Christ to the local congregation. They should educate through sermons, prayers in Sunday and prayer meetings and then should proceed to the every member canvass.

Rev. H. C. Priest, formerly missionary in India, now General Secretary for Canada of the Missionary Educational Movement, referred to the printed list of missionary literature with which the delegates were furnished. This list was the result of the joint efforts of the Denominational Mission Boards who have been working together for ten years to produce the literature. The books could be obtained through the denominational boards. Special commendation was given to George Trull's book on Missionary Methods for Sunday school workers and to two books for boys' missionary study classes, "Uganda White Man at Work," and "Livingstone the Path Finder." Two similar books for girls were "The Black Bearded Barbarian," (an account of Mackay of Formosa) and "Under Marching Orders," (an account of the Boxer persecution in Pekin).

Mr. Robt. Laird, Secretary Finance Board Presbyterian Church, spoke eloquently on the value of the Every Member Canvass. (1) It contributes powerfully to the missionary cause. (2) It promotes knowledge of the great missionary enterprise. (3) It lays bare the deeper motives of missionary effort. The gains of such a canvass were: (1) The reorganization of church finances, through the canvass including current expenses as well as missionary gifts. (2) New workers were recruited. (3) The missionary burden became distributed over the entire congregation. (4) The congregation increased in power. Men discovered they could do things. (5) The individual is confronted with his personal responsibility as a worker in the Kingdom of God. The speaker closed with the thrilling words "To my fellowmen a heart of love, to my God a heart of flame, to myself a heart of steel. This spirit is promoted by the Every Member Canvass for missions.

Dr. J. Y. Ferguson, of Formosa, gave some deeply interesting accounts of the characters met with in his hospital work in Formosa. He said he was a layman and when he preached like every layman he had to go straight away and practice. Sixty or one hundred patients would demand his attention after a sermon and every one had a special reason for wanting to be attended to first. He had to practice gentleness and patience: for some of his most troublesome patients turned out the best converts.

Mr. D. M. Rose, told us how to conduct the every member canvass. Official endorsation should be obtained from the congregation. This [illegible] should be set apart for special missionary [illegible]

Writer Points Out How Impossible It Is to Mark Culminating Point in Man's Career

Who talks of fifty years as the culminating point in man's career? Were all the great work performed by men even beyond seventy erased from history the human race would be bereft of some very potent achievements. Jefferson founded a university by his own activity after he had passed three score years and ten. John Quincy Adams, although he had been President of the United States and [illegible] [illegible] by far his greatest deeds after he was sixty-five. His [illegible] [illegible] constitutional convention when he was almost a [illegible]. Franklin did valiant service in helping to frame the Constitution of the United States after he had passed a [illegible] and [illegible]. Seventy saw Gladstone so vigorous that he was still good for the greatest battle of his political life and a [illegible]. England's foremost living [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Science is making lives longer than they were in the days of our grandfathers, and also far more comfortable. The same agency that prolongs bodily vigor will surely lengthen the [illegible] of men's most virile mental labor. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Chinese in Canada

Altogether there are now about 30,000 Chinese in the Dominion, of whom a little over 20,000 are in British Columbia and some 2,000 in Ontario. The Immigration Department reports that the money to pay the poll tax is being advanced to Chinese either by labor organizations in the Chinese Republic or by relatives who have accumulated a thrifty bank account.

NOTES OF SCIENCE

A scientist of Amsterdam [illegible] a method by which he secures a [illegible] excellent substitute for rubber [illegible] [illegible]. It is claimed that the product has all the qualities of [illegible] at one-sixth the cost. Another [illegible] source of rubber substitute is [illegible] "triumfetta" tree of Natal. This [illegible] has been heretofore regarded as [illegible] [illegible] useless, but recently [illegible] one ton per week has been shipped to London, where it is used as insulation for electric wires.

There is a tendency among the automobile manufacturers to make use of silver-plating instead of nickel for covering the exposed metal parts of the machine. The latter has the advantage of hardness, but when exposed to the weather it becomes covered with an oxide which is hard to remove, while silver is whiter, takes a higher polish and when it becomes tarnished it is easier to clean. The difference in the cost of silver is slight.

A funnel has been devised for the use of automobile owners which dispenses with the use of the [illegible] skin usually necessary to remove the water from gasoline which gets there by condensation and which seriously interferes with the operation of the motor. The funnel is supplied with two copper screens, through which the gasoline must pass before reaching the tank, and these screens are said to be so fine that the water will not pass through the mesh without the least difficulty.

SUN-POWER PLANT

One of Unusual Interest is Produced in Egypt

At Meadi, a suburb of Cairo, is a sun-power plant of unusual interest. It consists of five reflectors, each 204 feet long, whose cross section is in the form of a parabola, with the generator units at the focus. The last-named are of zinc, built of rectangular sections 14 inches wide. To render them efficient, they are painted with a black paint of high heat-absorbing capacity. The water is introduced at the lower end and the generator at its upper end is provided with a steam connection four inches in diameter. The reflectors are lined with silvered glass mirrors. The plant works best at a pressure slightly below the atmosphere.

"A Progressive Peterborough"

Our Point of View

An Ohio philosopher has founded a new cult which he calls Taloosophy, the Art of Making Happiness Epidemic. We don't know anything about the art, but one way to make happiness epidemic is to open a keg of beer in a printing office.

In addition to the Board of Estimates Tammany lost all of the county offices, and if the truth were known the braves are now singing "Hell to the Chief" instead of "Hail to the Chief."

The vocation of the farmer has undergone such a great change in the past few years that no longer does "the ploughman homeward plod his weary way," but he approaches his house in a 20-horse-power automobile.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, we regret to say calls upon the people of the Dominion to repudiate the debt to the motherland which did so much for Canada. The Canadian people will not answer this call, except to repudiate the Liberal leader and his mistaken policy.

We almost forgot to say that South Bruce was carried by the most unblushing fraud, by gross corruption and flagrant bribery. It was a carnival of the most vicious sort—the most shameful saturnalia of electoral debauchery ever known in the annals of Canada." We almost forgot it, but really no report of a bye-election is complete without this.

The Whitney government did not win the early by-elections, but when the general elections came on its majority went up from 45 to 72.

SLANDER.

We take the following from The Toronto Globe, which we commend to the earnest consideration of fair-minded Canadians:

"It is the pettiness of the Borden Government, the mean and ignoble things it does, and its heartless way of doing them, even more than the high-handed buccaneering of some of its members, that disgusts self-respecting Canadians and makes them ashamed. One does not expect from the Prime Minister brilliance or high statesmanship or the far vision. The level of the average Chancery lawyer is his height. One does not look for leadership from the inexperienced Parliamentarians and third-rate politicians he called to his Cabinet. The [illegible] they have made of the naval question may be attributed to weakness and confusion among themselves. Their blundering over the tariff may be explained as mere economic stupidity. But, in the name of decency, why cannot the Government of a country like Canada, in its treatment of its country's servants, behave with the justice and generosity of any well-decent private citizen or business corporation."

If Breathing is Difficult, If Nostrils are Plugged, You Have Catarrh

At Last a Remedy that already has Permanently Cured Thousands.

Perhaps you haven't heard of the new remedy—it's so pleasant to use—fills the nose, throat and lungs with a healing balsamic vapor like the air of the pine woods. It's really a wonderful remedy—utilizes that marvelous antiseptic only found in the Blue Gum tree of Australia.

The name of this grand specific is Catarrhozone, and you can't find its equal on earth for coughs, colds, catarrh or throat trouble. You see it's not longer necessary to drug the stomach—that spoils digestion—just simply inhale the balsamic essences of Catarrhozone, which are so rich in healing that they drive out every trace of Catarrh in no time.

"I look upon Catarrhozone as the most valuable medical discovery of recent years," writes R. V. Potter, of Prince Albert. "As a long sufferer from nasal and throat catarrh I was obliged to take considerable medicine and, although it helped me, my digestion was always disturbed and the catarrh didn't go away. With Catarrhozone it was different. It cleaned my nose and throat of all phlegm and discharged a stuffy feeling in my nose and frontal headaches. To-day I am entirely free from Catarrh, and I use my Catarrhozone Inhaler a little every day in order to prevent the disease from returning."

With Catarrhozone experimenting ends. A permanent curative action begins. Lasting relief from Catarrh results. The large size costs $1.00, lasts two months and is guaranteed. Small size 50c.; sample size 25c. All storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

In commenting on the above The News says that "God hates a hypocrite." The Globe gave its support to all the electoral rascalities of the Ross Government. There was at least as much corruption under the Laurier Administration as under any Administration that ever existed in Canada. But for ten years The Globe entered no protest. It cheered the Liberal group which blocked inquiry in the House of Commons. It condoned electoral corruption, administrative rascality and partisan rapacity. It had infinite toleration for the ill-doing of a Liberal Government. It pursues Conservative Ministers with slander and insult.

Does any decent Canadian doubt that there are men of high character and fine integrity in the Borden Cabinet? Is it right that the Prime Minister should have to submit to the angry abuse of a slanderer and a bully? Do Mr. Graham and Mr. Pardee and Mr. Mackenzie King care to have their political battles fought in this coarse and brutal fashion? Is it not time for Conservatives to unite against this deliberate and continuous attempt to lie and slander their leaders out of office? What do the rational Liberal journals of Canada think of the language and methods of the party-mad organ they are expected to follow?

As to The Globe's specific protest we have yet to learn why a new Postmaster was appointed at Seaforth. We do not believe public officials should be dismissed for party reasons. There must be occasional dismissals for infirmity, incapacity, dishonesty or partisanship. There were at least as many dismissals by the Laurier Government as there have been by the Borden Government. This is no justification for any unjust removal but it is a reason for moderation of The Globe's fury. For ten years while the Liberal leaders held office it had no zeal for civil service reform. In so far as reform in the inside service was effected the Laurier Government acted in response to public opinion aroused by the independent and Conservative press of the country. The Globe, enlisted when a Conservative Government came into office.

The organ general goes far afield for the examples of infamy. There are hundreds of Liberal office holders in Toronto and not one has been dismissed during the two years that the Conservative leaders have held office. Is this not a fair indication of the general attitude of the Government towards the Civil Service? May we not judge somewhat by what happens at our very door? No doubt there have been unjust dismissals. We agree that the whole patronage system is vicious. Let us unite by continuous appeal and argument to secure a permanent non-partisan service. But let us be human enough to remember that for 15 years no Conservative was appointed to office from one end of Canada to the other. The temper among Conservative workers, therefore, is very like that which prevailed among Liberal workers after 1896. For fifteen years the Liberal managers had their way in the outside service. All this time The Globe accepted with easy tolerance the system that it would now end by abuse, slander and misrepresentation. It aims not so much to achieve reform as to make party capital and by its course hinders the movement to which in years it has not given one day's honest and disinterested service.

SHORT CORDS OF WOOD.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I saw a letter in your paper yesterday signed citizen in which the writer says he bought a cord of wood that he found only contained 96 cubic feet instead of 128. I bought a cord two weeks ago that measured 101 feet. This is not a terrible matter but the man selling many cords must make a good thing at the year's end of business.

REMEMBER!

(Published by Request.)

You said you'd write when the year was over,
And winter's come and the year's at end,
O not as lover writes unto lover,
But just you know, as a friend to friend.
This line is only to say my home is
The same old village; I feel somehow
You could not fail me or break a promise,—
Remember, now!

Still, while the skurry of snows succeeding
Flushed up the rivers and swelled the rills;
And summer's blossom, and rose love-bitten,
Grew pale, and died as the daffodils;
And hedgerows glistened adrip, and whitened,
And brambles reddened with hips again!
For your word given how my heart lightened,—
Remember, then!

Through blind ill-hiding a window, that is
Alit and ruddy in front of me,
I, at my blackened and frost-scrawled lattice,
See fair hands trimming a Christmas tree,
For New Year's on us,—I trust, a better;
You will not dally? You will be true?
You'll keep your promise, and write the letter?
Remember, do!

LARGE ATTENDANCE DELEGATES

the second Sunday the scheme should be carefully explained. The audience was consulted as to the number of canvassers to be employed. The speaker thought there should be one canvasser for 15 or 18 people. Hand-picked canvassers were best. Dates should be fixed when the canvass should be completed and some check should be kept on the canvassers by the secretary to see that the work was done.

Rev. Walter Daniels spoke with much enthusiasm on "Securing best results from this conference." He said a meeting like this was one of the most important events in the history of the world. When we go back to enthuse our brothers in every congregation we would be doing real mission work.

Mr. Cowan moved the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

The men gathered in this County Conference, representing a large number of Churches of this County of all Communions, do hereby agree:

1st.—That the Every Member Canvass, helpful in many ways, offers the very best solution of the financial difficulties of our congregations, both for missions and current expenses.

2nd.—That every member and adherent of our churches should be a regular contributor to the funds of the church.

3rd.—That we believe every church in this county would be strengthened and helped by joining in the simultaneous Every Member Canvass in December, and we pledge our efforts to secure such a canvass in our own churches, promise to help in the canvass and our co-operation in making such canvass as general throughout the county as may be possible.

The meeting then divided up into four Denominational Conferences, held in different parts of the building. The Anglican conference was led by Rev. Canon Davidson, the Presbyterian, by Rev. J. Rollins, the Methodist, by Rev. R. J. Peever, and the Baptist, by Rev. J. R. Webb.

BANQUET A SUCCESS.

A Record Attendance and Most Successful Affair of Its Kind Held for Many Years—[illegible] Present.

The evening banquet, held at 7 o'clock in the Market Hall, was splendidly served by Mr. F. Coleman. Guests to the number of [illegible] sat down, which is the largest gathering of its kind ever held in this city. The Salvation Army Band, under the leadership of Mr. Perrier, was in attendance and played at intervals during the meal. Sacred music seemed to be most appreciated.

The chairman was supported on his right by His Honor Judge Hodgins, Rev. J. H. Aramp on the left, Dr. R. Y. Ferguson. Immediately after the supper a photograph was taken by flash light.

Rev. R. B. Grobb read the Great Commission from the last chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, and offered prayer.

Mr. Mulligan gave a solo, "How Marvelous, How Wonderful is My Saviour's Love for Me."

The chairman, Judge Huycke, referred to the inspiring view in front of him and to the fact that similar banquets were being held at [illegible] and Kingston, and read a telegram from a lawyer brother of Canon Davidson, who had spoken at other county gatherings.

Rev. R. Y. Ferguson was introduced as a student of Dr. Munro Grant. He said he had circled the globe and had never witnessed so grand a sight as he saw before him. "I, as your agent," said Mr. Ferguson, "have sought to become acquainted with men in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, and as your representative, I tell you of beautiful Formosa. The island has had a chequered history. Given to the Dutch in 162[illegible] it was ruled by the Dutch for 38 years. A Chinese pirate drove them out and for 200 years was under the Chinese who drove the Aborigines to the hills where they have lived ever since as enemies of mankind generally. In 1895 the Japs took possession, but the 200,000 head hunters occupy half the island. At present we work among the Chinese, the Presbyterian Church of England taking two millions and the Canadian Presbyterians one million. As the Japs have made great progress in medical work, it was my duty to prove whether medical mission work was really necessary. Our number of patients every year was 8000 in my first humble hospital. We choose from the Christian students of the Japanese hospital, our house surgeons. Our hospital cost $25,000. We have a staff of 27 not counting the Coolies, and 70 beds for patients. The nurses can do what we men never dared to do—give the Chinese a bath. We have worship every evening in the wards. We have a system whereby Chinese patients [illegible] to read. Over 60 per cent. [illegible] through the hospital," concluded Mr. Ferguson.

Judge Hodgins was introduced as a nephew of the distinguished statesman, [illegible] Hodgins. The Judge spoke of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in relation to our national life. The speaker said he had to do with the [illegible] of the movement, and never believed in the pessimism of those who said it would spend its force. This gathering, the largest so far of all the country conventions should give the lie to this pessimism. In our provinces we have chosen as a nation not to provide our immigrants with the Gospel. The responsibility lies with the churches. They must do this good work if the country is to be successful.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement has to do with two things—it has two sides. Its objective side is the endeavor to improve men and this endeavor has reacted on those who endeavor to improve their fellows, and there is a wonderful result that follows getting a man to express himself. We do try to get the very best that is in the laymen. Nine-tenths of the churchmen in all the churches are willing to do work if they are asked to work. This work has afforded a great outlet for the talent of the business man.

God works best through the most efficient men. The Laymen's Missionary Movement interests the best men and enlists their co-operation, making them better men, thus improving our national character.

We have our place in the sun. It is for us to say if we will keep it. It is for us to see that Canada carries out her obligations not only financially and political, but religious. Love God, honor the King, love the brotherhood.

Rev. J. R. Aramp also gave a very interesting and instructive talk.

SURE, SAFE WAY TO BANISH HAIRS

(Aids to Beauty)

The electric treatment for removing hairy growths is rapidly falling into disuse since it has been found that a thick paste made with powdered delatone and water gives more satisfactory results and works much quicker. This delatone paste is applied to the objectionable hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes it is rubbed off and with it comes every trace of hair. Washing the skin to free it from the remaining delatone leaves it soft and spotless. Buying the delatone in an original package insures strength and purity.

The attorney for the gas company was making a popular address.

"Think of the good the gas company has done!" he cried. "If I were permitted a pun, I would say, in the words of the immortal poet, 'Honor the Light Brigade.'"

Voice of a consumer from the audience, "Oh, what a charge they made!"

-- KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED --

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its features and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this news through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

He feels it is part of his service to keep the public informed.

First Professional Baseball Team Got Insignificant Salaries

In 1869 the first profession ball club in the world was organized. It was the famous Cincinnati Reds, the pioneer paid baseball club, in whose existence the game as it is to-day had its inception.

In 1869 this club played through the entire season, from March 15 till November 15, and never lost a game. It finished the season with a standing of 1,000. Its pay roll for the year, including every cent that went to the players in salaries, was $9,500.

There were 10 players on the club, of which one was a pitcher, Asa Brainard, and another was a substitute. The average salary per player was less than $1,000, or, to be exact, $950. The highest paid man was George Wright, the shortstop, who got $1,400. Captain Harry Wright got $1,200 for his share. The pitcher, who went through the season with a clean record, got $1,100. Six men drew $800.

And Hans Wagner in more modern times was paid a cool $10,000 for galloping around somewhere between second and third, hitting the ball and running the bases. Ty Cobb is said to get $12,500. Some difference!

Here's the salary of the first professional ball club, taken from the ledger of the treasurer:

Harry Wright, captain	$1,200
George Wright, shortstop	1,400
Asa Brainard, pitcher	1,100
Fred. Waterman, third-base	1,100
Charles Sweeny, second-base	800
Charles Gould, first-base	800
Douglas Allison, catcher	800
Andrew Leonard, left field	800
Calvin McVey, right field	800
Richard Hurley, substitute	800

ZAM-BUK

MRS. A. SAICH, of Cannington Manor, Sask., writes:—"My brother suffered severely from eczema. The sores were very extensive, and burned like coals into his flesh. Zam-Buk took out all the fire, and quickly gave him ease. Within three weeks of commencing with Zam-Buk treatment, every sore had been cured."

This is but one of the many letters we are constantly receiving from people who have proved the healing powers of Zam-Buk. For eczema, piles, sores, burns, cuts and all skin troubles there is nothing like this wonderful balm. No skin disease should be considered incurable until Zam-Buk has been tried.

BURDEN OF WEALTH

Modest Request of a Londoner He Asks Huge Fortune

"Will some millionaire kindly give me a million pounds for two years, and in return I will write a diary of all I do with it?"

Shorn of all verbiage, that is practically the request of an advertiser in the London "Times." It is four years since he first published his ambition to be made a millionaire, and as no lunatic came forward with the money he repeated his announcement. Heading it, "Notice to Millionaires," the advertiser says: "It has constantly been stated in the press that many millionaires have expressed views to the effect that their great wealth is a burden to them; that wealth does not bring happiness; and that, in short, they would rather be without it.

"The advertiser, a gentleman whose occupation has precluded him from 'making money,' but who would know how to direct its use sensibly and unostentatiously in a manner befitting the responsibilities of wealth, and who at the same time would derive pleasure and benefit from the handling of large sums, invites some dissatisfied millionaire to present him with one million sterling in order that the fallacy of 'the burden of wealth' may be proved.

"The advertiser undertakes to keep a daily Diary of his 'Investments, disbursements, thoughts and doings as a millionaire,' the Diary to be produced at the end of two years before a selected Committee of Business Men for their opinions as to the success or otherwise of the venture.

"The advertiser must in the meanwhile have the sole and unhampered control of the money.

"It is against human nature to expect any genuine reply to this notice, but should anyone care to seriously consider it, the advertiser will communicate with principals only, whose letters will be regarded as confidential."

He promises to return the original capital at the end of the two years.

HIS OWN DETECTIVE

Jeweller Disguised Himself and Succeeded in Tracing Stolen Pearls

Charles Gys, a Paris jeweller, who was swindled out of three pearl necklaces by a man named Braun, by his own exertions succeeded in finding the thief and recovering the pearls.

Braun pretended to Gys that he had a customer for the necklace, but decamped when they were entrusted to him, ostensibly abandoning his wife and children. Mme. Braun exhibited great grief at being deserted, but M. Gys had a suspicion that she was aware of her husband's whereabouts so he had his hair dyed, donned a false beard and ragged garments and, completely disguised as a typical Parisian mendicant, posted himself outside her residence and shadowed her when she went out.

Three days passed, and then, with her children she went to the railway station and took the express for Vienna. M. Gys was in the same train, and on reaching the Austrian capital he saw Braun awaiting his family on the platform. He followed the party, and learning that, besides being a swindler, Braun was a deserter from the Austrian army, easily induced the authorities to issue a warrant for his arrest.

Captured after a vain endeavor to use a revolver, Braun confessed that he had pledged the necklaces for $4,300 to three Parisian moneylenders. Continuing his researches, M. Gys found the bank in which Braun had deposited this money, secured evidence to show that the three moneylenders were Braun's accomplices, and had them arrested, and eventually traced the pearls.

Marriage Feast Turned to Wake

From county Kerry a remarkable succession of events is reported as having occurred in a house situated between Tralee and Castle Island. The first event was the marriage of one of the members of the household. While a merry party the same night was in the height of the enjoyment of the wedding feast the guests were shocked to learn of the death in an adjoining room of a two-year-old child who had been ill for some time, but not seriously. The wedding party then resolved itself into a wake, the traces of the festival being removed. While the wake was in progress it was announced that a birth had just taken place in the house, the mother being a near relative of the family.

LARKIN FREED; DUBLIN LEADER GIVEN OVATION

Laborites of British Isles Not Satisfied and Will Fight to Finish

Dublin, Ireland, Nov. 13.—James Larkin leader of the Transport Workers' Union whose members have been on strike since early in December, was liberated to-day from Mount Joy Prison where he was serving a sentence of seven months imprisonment for sedition. Larkin subsequently appeared at the Labor headquarters in Liberty hall and the occasion was seized upon by his fellows to make a remarkable demonstration of their devotion to him.

London, Nov. 13.—The release of James Larkin from prison in Dublin to-day has far from satisfied the labor world of the British Isles. It seems still further to intensified the determination of the trade unionists to fight the labor dispute in Dublin to a finish.

MAY MEAN GENERAL STRIKE

An emergency meeting of the Trades Union Parliamentary Committee has been summoned for November 18th when a general stoppage of work in the United Kingdom will be taken into consideration.

Robert Williams, general Secretary of the Transport Workers Union, said this afternoon: "It must not be assumed that the release of James Larkin is the sum total of our demands. We are going for a still greater triumph in Dublin. The Government must cease to act in collusion with the employers by giving facilities for importing scab labor.

Mr. Williams intimated that he had not any doubt unless the employers gave way before Tuesday next, that the Trades Union Parliamentary Committee would decide to call on the workers of the United Kingdom to take such steps as were necessary to break down the anti-labor and anti-trades union methods of the despots of Dublin.

BRAMWELL BOOTH MISSES BROTHER

Chicago, Nov. 13.—General Bramwell Booth, commander in chief of the Salvation Army, arrived in Chicago last night just a few hours after his brother, General Ballington Booth, head of the Volunteers of America, had left. The brothers have been estranged for 17 years, and their friends had hoped they would meet here and effect a reconciliation.

"I was pleased when I heard my brother was in Chicago," said Gen. Bramwell Booth, who will hold conferences in this city with Salvation Army leaders in the West.

"A friend told me he was here and I did not know he had left. I would be most pleased to meet him again, but I would not seek the reconciliation. If we should become reconciled it would be because we are brothers, and would not mean the unification of our forces."

General Booth expects to remain in Chicago until November 17, when he will go to New York, where he probably will have an opportunity of meeting his brother.

CZAREVITCH MAY NOT LIVE 6 MONTHS

New York American Private Cable From Vienna Saying His Case is Hopeless.

New York, Nov. 13.—The New York American publishes the following special cable from Vienna: The Czarevitch, the Czar's heir and only son, cannot live more than six months.

Such is the opinion of the most distinguished surgeons here, who have been called in consultation over the boy, now in his tenth year. They say he suffers from rapid tuberculosis of the bones and is incurable.

Of course no one dare whisper this in St. Petersburg, but the Czar knows his son is in an extremely precarious condition. He cannot walk; a muscular orderly carries him when he appears in public.

Many baths and special treatment have been tried, and every sort of expert advice has been consulted, but the boy's condition has defied the skill of the greatest doctors and specialists. The agony is really very great for the Czar and his wife and much sympathy is given them. Shop windows throughout Europe are hung with pictures of the Czarevitch, and silently the public awaits the inevitable; they realize that the tragedy must soon reach its climax.

DID HIS DUTY

How the King When a Prince Deferred to Discipline

Presiding at a meeting at Devonshire House in connection with the "Duty and Discipline" movement, the Earl of Meath said: "We have in the King one who recognizes the meaning of the words 'duty' and 'discipline.'"

On one occasion, said the Earl, the King, then a Prince and naval officer, arrived at Gibraltar, and rowed for an hour and a half in the teeth of a gale in order to pay respect to a senior officer.

On another occasion an order was given to the Prince to run out a torpedo-boat when he much desired to attend Goodwood Races. His senior officer suggested that perhaps the Prince could arrange with someone else to take his place. "No," he replied. "If it is the same to you, sir, I would rather do my duty."

The object of the Duty and Discipline movement is to bring home to parents and teachers the danger of allowing children to grow up without control.

Collapsible Tubes For Butter

They want butter in collapsible tubes in India. The heat is so intense there that it is almost impossible to pack butter in tubs or tins, as it is fluid almost from the moment it is made. Then again, it spoils rapidly when exposed to the hot, moist air. This seriously retarded the efforts of the Government to stimulate the dairy industry. So the Director-General of Commercial Intelligence opened negotiations with the makers of machinery for the manufacture and filling of such tubes as are used for oil-paints, vaseline and tooth pastes. One of these manufacturers says the tubes would have to be made of pure tin, as the volatile fatty acids of the butter would act upon lead and copper and form poisons. And such parts of the filling machines as are now made of copper would have to be of porcelain.

A Strange Belief

Among the superstitions that formerly prevailed was a belief in the efficacy of various parts of a human corpse when applied to the seat of disease. Thus Aubrey, an old writer, says: "'Tis certain the touch of a dead hand wrought wonderful effects. A painter, of Stowel, in Somersetshire, had a wen in the inside of his cheek as big as a pullet's egg, which, by the advice of one, was cured by once or twice touching or rubbing with a dead woman's hand (and, contra, to cure a woman, a dead man's hand). He was directed to say the Lord's prayer, and to beg a blessing." He was perfectly cured in a few weeks. Aubrey also says, recalls the "Family Doctor," that a hunch-backed child was cured in the same fashion.

VEAN GREGG OWS HIS SUCCESS TO THE SPOKANE MANAGER

Big Left-Hander Was Discovered by Catcher Ostdeick—Has Great Control

Vean Gregg, the big Cleveland southpaw, owes baseball life to Harry Ostdeick, former catcher and manager of the Spokane team in the Northwestern League, who saw possibilities for the big fellow and persuaded Joe Cohn, the owner, to keep him, according to W. A. Moriarity, who played in the outfield with Spokane several years ago. Moriarity now is a printer in Duluth.

"Gregg was one of the greenest and most bashful ball players I ever met," says Moriarity. "He played at Wallace, Idaho, where Spokane got a line on him. That was seven years ago. At this time Gregg was setting the bushes afire in Oregon. His home was at Lewiston, Idaho. Tales of his prowess as a strikeout man travelled quickly in that country, and soon was pretty well known.

"It had become advertised around that he would pitch as a trial at Wallace Sunday afternoon. There was a big crowd of rooters.

"Gregg left Baker City the Saturday morning before, appeared in the box Sunday afternoon, pitched the game, struck out 15 men and allowed but four hits, and then asked me if I thought the manager would lend him half a dollar to get something to eat. He hadn't eaten since Saturday morning. He had had coaching for pitching the game. He got a regular berth after that.

"Later he was sold to Cleveland for $4,500. He didn't report because he said he could make more money working at his trade as a plasterer. The next year, however, he agreed to report to the Naps., and his progress needs no rehearsing.

"Gregg is from pretty much the same territory as Walter Johnson, world's record holder for scoreless innings, and Claude Hendrix, the Pittsburg star. The fans around that Northwestern circuit are certainly a most rabid variety. There is big money up on every game, and it is as much as a player's life is worth to make a flagrant error.

"Gregg showed his pitching ability early. He had the steam, and certainly had control of the ball. For a time when he was threatened with extinction by the owner of the Spokane club he was in ill-health, and Ostdeick knew he would be good later on. He had been catching him, and in those days the battery of Gregg and Ostdeick drew attention."

... [illegible] at London, who is over eighty, agrees with the verdict of Lord Alverstone that judges are at their best from 65 to 80.

"I cannot understand why people say that this is the day of the young man," he said. "Now, more than ever, it is the day of the old man with vitality. The older a man is, so long as he is quite fit, the better he is intellectually—the broader his vision, the saner and wiser his judgment and the more mature his opinions.

"How deeply I appreciate Lord Alverstone's same remarks, and also Justice Phillimore's pregnant saying that the work he does now is so hard that if he was a younger man he could not do it. Of course he couldn't. The young man could do his work, for his old age gives him the power he needs. Though I am weak in the body, my brain is as clear as ever it was, and on certain things I can concentrate and think better to-day than I could when I was 30, surrounded by distractions to intellectual development.

"I stand by the old man as the best for all great and responsible posts—the best to keep in these positions as long as it is possible.

"The old man of vitality is the greatest man in the world, for he has done with the illusions of youth, but he has not done with life, and to the end it remains full of savor."

NO MORE STOLEN COATS

At Least, Not in Restaurants That Have This Device

At last it looks as if the thief who preys on restaurant patrons had stolen his last hat and coat. Here is shown a sneaky hat and coat rack which can be opened only with a key. Two strips of metal with their lower ends [illegible] have a lock attachment to hold them together. When the lock is open the outer strip, which is resilient, can be pulled out an inch or two and the hanger of a coat and the brim of a hat inserted. The strip then springs back into place and is locked, the hat and coat being gripped safely between the teeth. The idea is that each person who enters the restaurant, or whatever the place is, is given a key with a number corresponding to one of the racks. He locks his clothing up while there and upon leaving deposits the key at the desk.

A KEY FOR EVERY PATRON.

MOST FAMOUS STREET

Identified With Financial Matters For Centuries

Someone has said that in the history of Lombard Street lies the history of London. This to a great extent is true. For centuries past Lombard Street has been practically the hub of the money market of London, and where the money is there one usually finds the people who make history.

The name Lombard is derived from Longobards or Lombards, who, about the thirteenth century, supplanted the Jews, who from the Norman conquest were the great money-lenders. The sign of the three golden balls was first used by the Lombards, the forerunners of the modern "uncle." It was the emblem of St. Nicholas, the patron saint of citizens, merchants, and mariners.

It was with the Lombards that Edward III. and Henry V. literally pledged their crowns and jewels to obtain funds for the wars which culminated in Crecy and Agincourt. They were, moreover, the accredited financial agents to the Papacy, collecting and remitting to Italy the moneys due in respect of English benefices held by foreigners and of other ecclesiastical claims.

To them we owe a good part of our financial vocabulary—such words as "debtor," "creditor," "bankrupt," "cash," "journal," "ledger," and "diary." They also introduced the use of the letters "£ s. d."—lire, soldi and denari.

Among the famous goldsmiths who lived in Lombard Street were Sir Thomas Gresham, who built the first Royal Exchange, and gave it to the City of London in 1566, and also endowed Gresham College; Sir Robert Vyner, who made Charles II.'s crown at a cost of $105,000; and Edward Backwell, who was chief financier to Charles II., to most of the nobility, and to the East India Company.

Among other curious facts, it might be mentioned that the first London directory was issued in Lombard Street by Sam Lee in 1677.

Fatal Rifle Practice

While practising with a gun in some woods at Rhiwlas, a few miles out of Oswestry, Mr. William Corbett, a well known resident of the town, met with an accident which had fatal consequences. The trigger got caught in some undergrowth, and the gun being loaded, the contents were discharged into his head. Mr. Corbett was taken to Oswestry Cottage Hospital, where he died.

Quarrelled About Lloyd-George

When charged at Ammanford with obstructing the highway, it transpired that Hugh Thomas and Thomas Davies had met in the Ammana Hotel, where they quarrelled about Mr. Lloyd-George. Thomas challenged Davies to fight. Later a policeman found a crowd assembled in Glanamman square, and saw Thomas on the ground with Davies on top. The magistrates dismissed Davies and fined Thomas 25 cents and costs.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

WELLAND SHIP CANAL.
Section No. 5.
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 5, Welland Ship Canal," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, November 18th, 1913.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Engineer in Charge, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Department on the payment of the sum of fifty dollars. To bona fide tenderers this amount will be refunded upon the return of the above in good condition.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $100,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railways and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES.
Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary.
Department of Railways and Canals,
Ottawa, 20th October, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Harbour and River Improvements in the [illegible] River, [illegible], Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Friday, November 21, 1913, for the construction of the Harbour and River Improvements [illegible].

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of [illegible], District Engineer, [illegible]; J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; J. L. Michaud, Esq., District Engineer, Post Office, Montreal, P.Q.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to [illegible] of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, [illegible], 1913.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.—[illegible].

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD LIMIT.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including Wednesday, the 31st of December next, for the right to cut pulpwood on a certain area situated on the Mattagami River in the District of Timiskaming.

Tenderers shall state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to the Crown dues of 40c. per cord for Spruce, and 20c. per cord for other pulpwoods, or such other rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the right to operate a pulp mill and a paper mill on or near the area referred to.

Such tenderers shall be required to erect a mill or mills on or near the territory and to manufacture the wood into pulp and paper in the Province of Ontario—the paper mill to be erected when directed by the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Parties making tender will be required to deposit with their tender a marked cheque payable to the Honourable the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, for ten per cent. of the amount of their tender, to be forfeited in the event of their not entering into an agreement to carry out the conditions, etc.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For particulars as to description of territory, capital to be invested, etc., apply to the undersigned.

ACCIDENTALLY HANGED

Suspended From a Rope Used For Beating Carpets

A tragic occurrence took place in Cork involving the death of John Lawrence, aged fourteen. The boy was playing in the garden of Miss Mayne, on Patrick's Hill, having gone there on a visit with his mother. A rope used for the beating of carpets was suspended in the garden, with a loop attached to the end. His horror-stricken mother discovered him suspended from this by the neck, presumably whilst playing, and though at once medically attended life was found to be extinct.

WATER DIVINERS AND THEIR RODS

Not by Any Means a Humbug Says Scientific Authority

There took place in Paris and its suburbs a series of experiments arranged by the Congress of Psychology and carried out by different finders of springs and seekers of metals using a hazel rod, a pendulum and a magnetised metal wire. If the results were not always conclusive, they nevertheless showed that at the bottom of it all there is something real which is worthy of being studied.

We cannot in fact ascribe to hazard so many lucky coincidences, says Camille Flammarion, the great French astronomer, although that is the way in which embarrassing questions are sometimes solved. We must therefore resort to systematic analysis and many controversies will doubtless arise before everybody is in agreement on the subject of the mysterious power of the rhabdomancers.

It really seems very difficult to explain the facts which were observed; such, for example, as these: In the Bois de Vincennes, diviners guided by their rods were charged with discovering some dry subterranean cavities. They explored the ground and their bulbs of wood or metal wavered here and there. One of them, Mr. Pelaprat, announced the existence of a cavity of sixty feet. The controllers examined the plan of the locality and certified to the correctness of the fact. Next, Mr. Probst, king of the rhabdomancers, with his bamboo sceptre, discovered an invisible quarry. He showed its limits, indicated its depth, its width, its length and noted the presence of four pillars near three ancient wells. This was verified and found to be correct.

Messrs. Probst and Forrest succeeded in recognizing the contents of sealed envelopes in which were inclosed pieces of silver, lead, copper, aluminum and zinc. There is something that seems to belong to sorcery, and, as in principle one has always a tendency to deny what one does not understand, more than one sceptic will smile on reading the results of these experiments. Let no one forget that in the fifteenth century the art of printing was treated as magic and that Louis XI. was obliged to protect the printers against those who believed them sorcerers, for no one imagined that writing could be reproduced all by itself and people supposed that it was necessary for the devil to mix himself up with it. To-day very many minds are clearly better in regard to the unknown forces of nature, which they would like to imprison in a nutshell—or, to speak more exactly, in the restricted limit of present undefined theories.

The experiments spoken of and the hypotheses which they suggest are very much older than is generally imagined. At the end of the seventeenth century the famous Malebranche showed these phenomena, attributing them to the devil and declaring dogmatically that if the rod turned it should do so in everybody's hands. The discussion begun in 16[illegible] was still current in 1693, the year in which saw the Abbe de Vallemont demonstrate in his "Physique Occulte" that all human beings, not being endowed with the same nervous sensibility, there was nothing surprising in the fact that the emanations caused by subterranean waters should reveal themselves to certain temperaments and not to others.

FOUL FEET IN CATTLE

Keep Animals Away From Filth and Cleanse With Coal-tar Dips

It is not at all uncommon for cattle to show a very sudden lameness which on careful examination proves to be an abscess-like formation between the hoofs. The starting point is usually a small scratch or abrasion in the skin, which offers a suitable avenue of entrance for the germ causing the trouble. These germs live in the soil, manure and other filth about the yards and feedlots. During dry weather they cause very little damage. When the yards are muddy, or the stables unclean, the growth of germs is favored. At this time also the continued action of the wet, foul material makes the skin between the claws tender and easy to injure.

An examination of the lame foot will usually reveal swelling and tenderness. If the space between the claws be cleaned out, the skin abrasion is usually plainly evident. Sometimes there is a thick, cheesy covering of gravish pus over the surface of the sore. At other times the pus may burrow beneath the skin, and often form pockets that are filled with this cheesy material.

Treatment consists in keeping the affected animals out of the mud and wet manure for several days. Thorough cleansing of the part with any of the coal-tar dips, using five teaspoonfuls per pint of water once daily, is very necessary. All loose shreds of skin should be cut away, and pus pockets well drained. In mild cases the application of pine tar proves a very effective treatment. The severe forms should receive, in addition to a thorough cleansing, a dressing of equal parts of iodoform and boric acid under a bandage for several days. Taken in time and vigorously and persistently treated, healing should not be prolonged beyond a week. It will take, some cases with absolute [illegible] more severe type, which results [illegible] healing and more bandaging [illegible] dressing.—C. G. Lipp.

BLACK AND WHITE

Colored Miner Weds the Girl With Whom He Eloped

The ending of the love story of a black man and a white girl was foreshadowed at the London Sessions when a good-looking young man of color, named George Wilson, pleaded guilty to causing bodily harm to David Davies. For a long time, said Mr. Macdonald (for the prosecution) the two men had worked side by side. Then Wilson fell in love with Davies' daughter, a girl of eighteen. Her stepmother was in favor of the match, but nothing could persuade the father to give his consent. The lovers eloped and went to London, where Wilson went to a registry office, and paid the necessary fees. Before the wedding had taken place, however, the girl's father followed in pursuit, and, having obtained their address from his wife, he discovered the couple at an hotel in Hammersmith, from which the marriage was to have taken place. There was a scene, and Wilson, in a fit of temper, struck "the typical old Welshman" on the jaw, which was fractured. Prior to the elopement, added counsel, the girl was warned that marriage would result in her being turned from home, but she was still determined to marry the man she loved. The marriage would now take place as soon as possible—probably next day, for the father had withdrawn his objection. At first he was heart-broken, but he had told counsel that he had a vision. "The Lord appeared to me last night," he said, "and told me to 'behave in a Christianlike way to this girl and man, and to forgive him, although he is black.'"

A Waltz King

M. Poincaré enjoys the title of being the Waltz King of Paris. The Society of Dramatic Authors, of which he is counsel, gave a ball some years ago, and organized a waltzing competition in which Poincaré took part. He is an admirable waltzer, and was considered to have won the competition and to be entitled to have the distinction of "Waltz King" conferred upon him. Poincaré was presented with a laurel wreath, but he would rather not have won the competition, for when it came to an end all the ladies wanted to dance with him. He danced a hundred waltzes that night, and became so tired that he left the ballroom, as he was almost unable to move his legs.

In the treatment of Diabetes Mellitus we distinguish between [illegible] for the [illegible] ... in the last few years numerous preparations, promising complete cure, have made their appearance, but none of these have been able to reduce, or even eliminate sugar, ... ANTIDIABETES. This preparation is ... as effectually as SANOL'S ANTIDIABETES applied in cases where sugar remains in spite of a diet free of carbohydrates. Experience proves that this remedy has caused no bad effects whatever.

The above paragraph is made up of extracts from a written statement of one of the most eminent physicians on the Continent of America. We strongly request anybody suffering from this dreaded disease to write to us for a copy of his letter. We can also send testimonials from some of the most prominent people in nearly any town in Canada who think it a privilege to be able to recommend a medicine which brings such relief to any person who has suffered like themselves.

This remedy is manufactured by the Sanol Manufacturing Company, of Winnipeg.

Quebec House, Westerham, Kent, England, where James Wolfe, the immortal hero of the Plains of Abraham, spent his childhood, was secured for the Canadian people as a whole by the public-spirited act of Mr. Joseph Burton Learmont, of Montreal, well known in the business world, but better known as one of the leading antiquarians of Canada and one of the most confident patrons of the arts in the Dominion. With the exception of Sir William Van Horne's palatial residence on Sherbrooke street, Montreal, there is probably no private house in the Dominion which has more artistic and historical treasures than the Learmont homestead.

When it was announced that Mr. Warde, the present representative of the historic Kentish family which has owned Quebec House for many generations, was compelled by reason of the increased taxation, to dispose of the property, an agitation arose amongst Canadians resident in England, lead by Mr. Beckles Willson, the author, who was the tenant of Quebec House, to endeavor to secure the house and grounds as a Canadian shrine in England. The government of the day took no action, however, and an attempt was made to secure the purchase of the property, or at least its securing on long lease, by a Canadian syndicate but; but this proved unfeasible and it looked very much as if the prize would fall into American hands until Mr. Learmont stepped into the breach and secured the property for Canada.

It is his intention to convert the house into a Wolfe museum, to be filled with relics of the great soldier who led the British forces to victory on the Plains of Abraham. It is intended to so refurnish the house as to make it as closely as possible a replica of the residence when [illegible] Wolfe and his parents lived there. As a start, Mr. Learmont secured from Mr. Warde his priceless collection of Wolfe letters, commissions and portraits. The house itself dates back as far as 1507. It has wonderful old fireplaces, Jacobean stairways, the arms of Henry VII and great oak panelled rooms.

Apart from its association with Wolfe, Quebec House possesses historic interest as having been mentioned by W. M. Thackeray in his great novel, "The Virginians," it being made the boyhood place of Colonel Lambert and Harry Warrington.

Westerham is historic ground indeed. It includes Squerryes Court, where Wolfe played as a boy with Jack Jervis, who afterwards became the great Admiral Lord St. Vincent. [illegible] is a cenotaph bearing the inscription:

"Here first was Wolfe with martial ardor fired,
Here, first with glory's brightest flame inspired;
This spot so sacred will forever claim
A proud alliance with its hero's name."

Mr. Fred. C. Wade, K.C., of Vancouver, who possesses the finest collection of Wolfe portraits and literature in Canada, and who was chiefly instrumental in the erection of the monument to Wolfe on the Plains of Abraham and of a [illegible] by Canada over his grave at Greenwich, was keenly interested in the movement to save Quebec House. He is author of the phrase: "Had Wolfe not succeeded at Quebec, there would have been no North America for Nelson to save."

PRESERVING FENCE POSTS

Creosote Pays For Itself in Lengthening Life of Wood

Wood-rot, in all its forms, is due to the action of fungi working under suitable air and moisture conditions. In fence posts these conditions are most favorable at or near the surface of the ground and hence it is there that decay first starts. Some woods, like cedar and tamarack, are more resistant to fungus attack and may last as fence posts from eight to ten years. Unfortunately, however, the supply of these woods has grown very scarce, and one is faced with the alternative of importing durable material at a high price or of applying preservatives to the common non-durable woods which grow in the wood lot. The latter alternative is not only cheaper, but also much more effective.

Creosote, a "dead" oil of coal tar, is perhaps the best preservative for this purpose, as it does not dissolve out of the treated wood, when in contact with moist earth. It costs from eight to fifteen cents per gallon.

There are two methods of applying the creosote, but before either method can be applied it is necessary to have the posts well seasoned, if the best results are desired. This seasoning is best accomplished by peeling the bark from the posts and then stacking them in loose piles in the open air for several months.

Then they can be given two coats of creosote with a brush or dipped to a point six inches above the ground line. In either case the creosote should be heated to the boiling point.

Old Prophecy Partly Verified.

In the Morning Times, of October 22nd, 1888, 25 years ago, appears a long letter prophesying the changes that would occur in Peterborough in the next quarter of a century. The writer says, directing his horoscope on the future, "I was taken over the former Ashburnham cricket ground, when the whole town used to attend lacrosse matches. On the spot where Mike Tierny (now in New York), and Jim Sheehy (now in Chicago) used to face the ball stands the North West Sugar Refining Co." The prophecy has been verified as regards the cricket ground being built up, but our local sugar factory, which died a-borning, went to the South Ward.

Fined Twenty-Five Bones.

At yesterday's police court a young man named Rose was charged with supplying liquor to a blacklister, "Sunny Jim" Wilson. Wilson said he could not remember whether Rose brought the liquor to his house or not. Rose, in the box, said he took no whiskey to Wilson's house. He bought a bottle of whiskey and gave it to Con. Ryan outside Wilson's house. He did not know Ryan was on the blacklist. Ryan took in the whiskey. About a month ago Ryan asked him to buy whiskey, but he refused, thinking Ryan might be a blacklister. Con. Ryan, in the box, said he told Rose a few months ago that he was on the blacklist. On Friday he gave Rose money for whiskey. Rose was fined $25. Ryan was fined $10 with ten days to get it. Rose's fine was made payable forthwith.

"CASCARETS" CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

Cure Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath—Candy Cathartic.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

One would easily think that some of the local Aldermen are trying to boost Peterborough industry, including shoe shine parlors and dressmaking, by the mud covering most of our street crossings, yesterday.

By a funny coincidence The Times, of Nov. 12th, 1888, 25 years ago, says jokingly "Navigation was open on our streets yesterday." How history repeats herself! Last Sunday our streets were almost impassable from the heaviest rain of the year.

There is a certain street car conductor in this city who is bashful. He tries not to show it. MUSIC and DRAMA

"THE DREAM MAIDEN."

Allen Lowe, author of "The Isle of Spice," "The Defender" and other popular musical shows of past seasons, and who is an old resident of Canada, has written the book for the new operetta, "The Dream Maiden," which comes to the Grand Opera House, Wednesday, November 19, is to come to the city to personally arrange for the appearance of the production here.

Mr. Lowe is particularly enthusiastic about the score of the operetta, written by Bela Laszky, the Austrian composer. Speaking of it he says, "If my book proves to be just one third as good as his music, I shall consider it the greatest of my works."

He says that in many respects the piece is an entire novelty, and he believes it the daintiest of light operas since "Robin Hood." One of its novelties is the opening, which Mr. Lowe describes:

"The opening is an absolute novelty in comic opera. When the overture begins, the curtain rises on a black stage, and the only sign of light is seen on the black drop upon which appear the clouds driven by the early morning breezes and the ripple of the stream first catches the rays of the early morning sun.

"The call of the night birds and the rustle of the leaves are heard. The sun begins to tinge the east and the village of Bellamore awakens to the important day in its history. The milkmaid, the shepherdess, the maid of the inn, the plowman, the wood chopper, and the hostler of the Lion D'or all appear in pantomimic representation of the work of the dawn. As the lights go up, there is seen confined in the stocks, "Peter the huntsman, who is being punished for an ill-advised comment on the alleged mighty chancellor of the duchy. He is being teased by the urchins of the village and the whole thing blends into the opening chorus and from that the action in a way that carries the audience into the story of the play by an action which is most novel and very effective.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try It! Hair Gets Soft, Fluffy and Luxuriant At Once — No More Falling Hair.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cents bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

200 STUDENTS OF ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE IN BATTLE---CAPTAINS IGNORE STORM SIGNALS?

CAPTAINS DISREGARD THE STORM SIGNALS VESSEL OWNERS SHOULD BE COMPELLED TO INSURE LIFE OF EVERY MAN IN SHIPS CREW

Mr. Gamey Will Try to Have Sailors Included in Workmens Compensation Act--No Hull Inspectors

Draft of Laden Ships on Lakes is Limited by Depths of the Canals

Toronto, Nov. 14.—"Sailors ought to be included in the Workmen's Compensation Act if we have the jurisdiction and I am going to bring the matter to the attention of the Government at the coming session of the Legislature," said R. R. Gamey M.P.P., this morning.

"I think all the vessel companies should be compelled to insure every man who sails on their boats, for at least a thousand dollars. It would not cost much and it would provide something to take widows and orphans over the winter in a calamity like this which hits many poor homes.

Disregard the Signals.

"I left Port Arthur last Saturday night," continued Mr. Gamey. "All the storm signals were out and the newspapers were notifying the boat people of the approaching stormy weather. The boats should not go out in the face of the storm signals, as they do. Look at the position the men are in. The captain orders that the boat is to start its trip no matter how dirty it looks, whether the sailors think it safe or not. If the men rebel it is [illegible] punishable by severe penalties. [illegible] they are liable to what has happened. That is exactly their position.

Should Send In List.

"Another thing," continued Mr. Gamey. "Before he leaves port every captain should be required to send to the head office of his company a list containing the name of next of kin of every person aboard his boat. This would be a simple matter and would avoid the harrowing position so many people are now in, because they do not know whether their sailor relatives were aboard any of the ill-fated boats, or not.

No Hull Inspector.

"And something else," Mr. Gamey went on. "There is no Dominion Inspector of Hulls and there surely should be. There are Government inspectors of boilers and equipment, but none for hulls. Of course, the Insurance Companies have hull inspectors, but the Government should have one too.

"We have a fine storm signal service," said Mr. Gamey "but what is the use of it if the captains will not be more careful. I spoke to one vessel owner about it and he replied, "Our captain knows no storm until it strikes him." We really have a splendid signal service that is not appreciated by the boat Captains," concluded the member for Manitoulin.

NEW PARTY PLATFORM NOW DEMANDED FOR LIBERAL PARTY

Liberal Organ at the Capital Advocates New Policy for Party

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—General expression is being given to the dissatisfaction in the Liberal ranks on the present lack of policy on the part of the party, and especially on the tariff issue. There has been so much shifting of position that the rank and file have difficulty keeping pace. Sir Wilfrid has been indulging in his usual airy speeches which consist of general platitudes that he will frame a tariff giving higher prices for the producer and lower prices for the consumer. He fails, however, to make any definite promises or lay down any real platform.

Can't Get Together.

Sometime ago it was announced that a Liberal convention was to be called to frame a platform. Now it is said that the idea of a convention has been abandoned. A convention would have to draft a platform and a written tariff pronouncement might be embarrassing while there are such divergent views in the different wings of the Liberal party that it is apparently going to be impossible to find any common ground.

Dozen Shades of Thought.

Between the western free traders led by Dr. Clark of Red Deer and the high Protectionists of which E. M. Macdonald of Pictou is considered the mouthpiece there are a dozen shades of thought. The Liberal leaders have evidently decided now that to reconcile these various factions is almost impossible.

Same Book.

As matters now stand, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his lieutenants are loudly asking for a tariff revision. This can be interpreted in the West as free trade or reciprocity, and in the East can be used where thought wise to mean that the protection for manufacturers which the Liberals for fifteen years kept in force will not be touched. A convention and a platform promises to be embarrassing and the idea has apparently been abandoned.

Want New Policy.

In the meantime many Liberal papers are demanding that their party draw up a policy and show considerable dissatisfaction with their present policy of [illegible]. An interesting feature of the present situation is the advocacy by the Ottawa Free Press, the Liberal organ in the capital, of a permanent tariff commission. This was the policy of the Conservatives, and a bill to establish one was killed by the partisan majority of the Liberals in the Senate.

DY AN ODD DESTINY THEY DIED TOGETHER

Goderich, Nov. 14.—Mysterious destiny alone can explain the tragic end of Murdoch and Donald McDonald, cousins.

Neither had been connected with the Wexford. Murdoch, who has been wheeling on the Turret Court, did not feel well, and came south on the Wexford.

Donald, a Grand Trunk fireman, had gone north on a vacation trip on the Turret Cape, but, wishing to resume work on the 15th, boarded the Wexford for Goderich.

Neither young man reached Goderich alive. The Wexford perished in the blizzard ;the McDonalds were drowned.

They were about the same age, 24 or 25. Murdoch was a son of Mrs. Norman McDonald, and Donald a son of Captain Malcolm McDonald. Both were born in Goderich.

The young men were unmarried.

STEAMER "MAJOR" ADDED TO BIG LIST

Sault Ste Marie, Ont., Nov. 14.—The steamer George B. Burnham, which arrived here this morning, reported that she had sighted the steamer Major about forty miles northwest of Whitefish Bay. The Major had been abandoned. Her funnel was gone, whilst most of her after part had been washed away. The crew was rescued by the steamer Byers.

McMANIGAL TO BE DEPORTED SHOULD HE ATTEMPT ENTRY HERE

Notorious Dynamiter Expected in Montreal To-night on His Flight to Europe

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—If Ortie McManigal, the dynamiter tries to enter Canada he will be stopped by the Immigration authorities and deported. The crimes of which he has been convicted are such that it leaves no doubt that he would be deported. However no word has been received by officials at Ottawa of his entrance though it is rumored here he entered Canada at Detroit last night.

Mystery in His Movements.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14.—Ortie McManigal, dynamiter, whose confession aided in sending the McNamara brothers to San Quentin Prison and 38 other Union labor officials to Leavenworth Penitentiary, was in Detroit Wednesday or yesterday, according to a story in the Detroit Free Press to-day. McManigal was released from the County Jail at Los Angeles, Nov. 3rd.

McManigal was accompanied, it is said, by Detective Malcolm McLaren, who arrested the dynamiter in this city three years ago.

On a train running between this and Buffalo, it is said, McManigal and Detective McLaren were joined by Detective William J. Burns and the three men had a conference regarding McManigal's future action.

Horrors; Smokes For Women, Babies; Use of Weed Grows

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—An enormous increase in the consumption of Cigarettes in Canada is shown to-day by figures compiled by the statistical branch of the Inland Revenue Department. These figures show that during the months of July, August, September there were 319,446,182 cigarettes consumed, which is, roughly speaking, an average of four packages for every man, woman and child within the confines of the Dominion. It is an increase of more than 50 millions over the corresponding months in 1912.

The increase is believed to be the greatest per capita of any years of which the department has a record.

FOUND GUILTY ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Pleading guilty to committing an assault on James R. Rogers, editor of "Jack Canuck" Ross Creson, until recently a Hamilton correspondent for this Weekly, was fined $10 and costs or 30 days in jail by Magistrate Denison to-day.

Rogers who was not severely hurt appeared in court and stated that the defendant came into his office at 35 Adelaide street west about 5.30 last night in a very excited condition and demanded money.

When Rogers turned his back Creson struck him across the head with the butt end of a whip. Two Witnesses in the office chased the man and handed him over to the police.

"How else are we going to get even with the newspaper man?" remarked Crown Attorney Corley. If they were all used like this there would be none left," said the colonel.

"I notice Baker, who brutally assaulted a newspaper man recently, was only fined $20 yesterday by a certain judge in the city," Mr. Corley replied.

"If he had come before me I would have sent him to jail the Colonel declared.

LAWYERS WINNERS IN NEWSPAPER ROW

Montreal Nov. 14.—After a hearing of twenty-one days the hearing of the Toronto World case against Sir Hugh Graham, proprietor of the Montreal Star, the International News and others for alleged conspiracy and for an injunction preventing defendants from entering into a contract which deprives the plaintiffs of the right to syndicate in Canada certain newspaper features, such as Mutt and Jeff, is expected to close to-day. In its own particular way the case has proved a record-breaker the addresses of the big legal battery alone having consumed nearly a week.

The Montreal Herald and The Star both of which papers are interested the former because it is part of the plaintiff's case, that the contract with The International News was an attempt to injure the Herald, and the latter on account of the part played in the proceedings by Sir Hugh Graham and its managing editor, C. F. Crandall, who denied the alleged conspiracy.

Both journals have also published verbatim reports of the evidence, the contribution of one paper at the beginning of the hearing being seven pages.

The case has also affected some thirty papers in various parts of Canada, who have been deprived of the Syndicate features during the hearing.

MR. LANGDON DAVIES IN SAN FRANCISCO

Before University Audience World Peace Advocate Urges Intervention in Mexico.

Stanford University, Cal. Nov. 14—Touching upon the Mexican situation in an address advocating World Peace, B. N. Langdon Davies English author and Cambridge economist, speaking before a University audience here last night advised intervention in Mexico but not specifically by the United States.

With regard to the trouble in Mexico, Professor Langdon-Davies said; "You ask if I think there is no place in the world for force. Yes, there will be for a long time a place for force. There is room for a force which denies the right of any nation to cut its own throat or the throats of other nations, and to destroy its natural resources. It is the right and duty of some nation to interpose force in such a case.

METROPOLITAN LOSES DEVIATION APPEAL

London, Nov. 14.—The Privy Council this afternoon dismissed the appeal of the Toronto and York Radial Company versus Toronto concerning the proposed deviation of the railway's tracks off Yonge street. The result was a foregone conclusion after the respondents were not called on to reply to the appellants' arguments.

LARKIN SUPREME--IRISH TROUBLE MAY GET TO BELFAST

Westminster Gazette, Mouthpiece of Asquith Cabinet, Warns Nationalists and Mr. Redmond to Assist End of Trouble or Home Rule Will Suffer

London, Nov. 14.—Larkin's release is held here to-day to be the Government's first and only grudging step to end the highly dangerous labor situation in Dublin.

The sudden strike of the Transport Workers' Union, affecting immediately 1,000 workers, had, by to-day, paralyzed the shipping trade. Practically all work was at a standstill in Dublin, and it was feared in some quarters to-day that the trouble would spread to Belfast and other Irish ports in ways perilous to Home Rule.

Employers declare that this strike is only the last kick of the Larkinite crowd.

Heavy losses are expected to accrue to Irish farmers consequent upon the stoppage of profitable cattle exports and the resulting increase in the price of food.

This, it was declared, might bring the strike to a natural end before long, especially in view of the paucity of funds in the Larkinite exchequer.

This Not London View.

This complacent view of the situation, however, is not shared in Ministerial quarters in London. The Westminster Gazette, which speaks with exceptional Ministerial authority, says it is extremely important that the strike should be settled before things drift into disorder and disaster that would follow. The Gazette appeals to Mr. Redmond and the whole National party to assist in a settlement. This will remove the impression that they were antagonistic to the legitimate grievances of the Dublin workers.

FRESHMAN BADLY INJURED IN DISGRACEFUL STUDENT RIOT

Police Called Out to Quell Disturbance at Ontario Veterinary College

Toronto, Nov. 14.—A disgraceful outbreak of student rowdyism in which two freshmen, Roth and Brismade were injured, occurred at the Ontario Veterinary College this morning. When the first year students were attacked by the second and third year men. Roth, who sustained internal injuries was hurried in an automobile to his home at 136 University avenue. A kick in the knee cap was the extent of the injury to Brismade.

After Revenge.

Some time ago about thirty silk hats belonging to the second and third year students, were slashed through during lectures. To get revenge the two classes who suspected the freshmen, combined forces and raided the first year class room this morning where a lecture was going on.

The first year showed fight and soon pandemonium reigned. Coats and vests were removed and the two opposing forces engaged in a terrible melee. Chairs and tables were smashed and everything moveable shared the same fate.

Trampled on By Crowd.

During the "scrap" Roth was knocked down on the floor and in the condition the crowd stamped on him, besides which, he received a blow from a chair on the chest.

Dr. Grange, the principal of the College, hearing the uproar, called up the police department and soon about fifteen constables and a patrol wagon appeared on the scene, but by that time the warlike tendencies of both forces were satisfied and the battle was terminated.

Horrified Pedestrians.

Afterwards the students appeared on Temperance street outside the college and hurled defiance at each other in the form of class yells. Passers-by were horrified at the sight of large pieces of horse meat and whole bovine legs which the excited students hung out from the upper windows.

BRAVE MEN CARRIED WOMEN ACROSS ICE-SHEETED DECK

More Than One Member of the Crew of the Steamer L. C. Waldo Showed Courage in Time of Danger

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14.—August Lambe of Rouge, first engineer of the wrecked steamer L. C. Waldo; Chas. Keefer, assistant engineer, Toledo; A. H. Shaw, oiler, Port Burwell, Ont., and Clarence Egan, deckhand, arrived in Detroit this morning by train from Houghton, Mich., to which place they were taken after being rescued from the steamer as she broke to pieces on Manitou Island. Together with 18 other men and two women, these men sat in the forepeak of the vessel huddled together, while the waves smashed against the boat and every moment was expected to be their last.

They smoked cigars, which they had with them, and save for one can of tomatoes and two cans of peaches they had nothing to eat for 36 hours. Bravery and heroism was shown by more than one member of the crew.

When the vessel struck, Mrs. A. H. Rice the wife of the steward, and her mother were in the after cabin. They were seized with hysterics and refused to go to the forward part of the ship. Chas. Keefer, Rice, and Adolph Johnson, a fireman, were the last to leave the after end of the boat, and when the women refused to go they caught them in their arms and dragged them over the entire length of the ice-coated deck. Many times they were swept from their feet and all were soaked with the waves.

In the forepeak a fire was built in the bath tub and a chimney made with buckets with the bottoms knocked out. The crew remained [illegible]

MAKES FACE YOUNG—
TIGHTENS LOVE TIES

("Aurilla" in Woman's Sphere.)

A fretful expression, a wrinkled face and a faded complexion, do more to drive the male members from home than is commonly supposed. It was one of my greatest difficulties to appear smiling, fresh and elegant when my dear ones were with me. But I have overcome all that. I have changed my mental attitude and I now find it second nature to look cheerful. Due partly to this, partly to a remarkable treatment recommended by a friend, my appearance has so improved I look fifteen years younger than before.

A simple face lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel, proved a wonderful wrinkle-chaser. I still use this occasionally. To renovate my complexion I purchased an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at my druggist's and before going to bed [illegible]

DREAMS TRACED TO MEMORY

Scientific Explanation for What is Referred to as Phenomena Now Accepted.

Almost all scientific observers agree that the materials of which dreams are made are memories of past experiences of the individual. Curiously enough, the memories that occur most frequently are those of the previous day and those of early childhood. The former class are to be found in every dream, and are probably an essential condition to its formation; the latter (recollections of childhood) seem to be of even greater importance, since they contribute much to the hidden meaning of the dream.

In many cases where the incidents of a dream seem to be entirely unfamiliar it has been shown by careful investigation that they correspond to actually experienced events that have escaped the memory of the waking self. Delboeuf records an interesting example of this. In 1862 he dreamed that he found two lizards [illegible] [illegible] Asplenium ruta muraria [illegible]

On waking he could not remember ever to have heard the name of the fern in his dream, although he discovered that a fern called Asplenium ruta muraria really existed. Sixteen years later, however, he happened to be turning over the pages of a friend's album of dried flowers, and to his surprise came across the very fern, with the Latin name written underneath in his own handwriting. He then remembered that in 1860, two years before the dream, he had met the sister of this friend, and to please her had written the Latin names under the various plants in her album at the dictation of a botanist.

Fifteen years after the dream he also discovered the source of the lizard procession in an old illustrated paper, dated 1861, which as a regular subscriber he must have seen. Innumerable cases of a similar nature are on record, and go to show how remarkably heightened the memory may be in dreams. They also warn us not too readily to believe that incidents in a dream which seem entirely new are really so.

Showing Earth's Formation.

Boring for oil affords an opportunity to gather a rather intimate knowledge of the interior of the earth, as just developed in Pennsylvania, where a bore has reached a depth of 4,600 feet, and will be driven fully 900 feet further. At 4,140 feet a fine grade of lubricating oil was found, in 30 feet of sand. The oil was good, but not in great quantities. It is of a grade worth about $6 a barrel. From 4,400 to 4,480 the men drilled through hard salt, and just below that they found more oil, but in small quantities. Now they are again in the limestone.

THE BEST DIGGERS

The Gopher of the Plains Wonderful Little Creature

It is said that, of all living creatures, the gopher is the one most perfectly adapted to digging in the ground. This creature is short-legged, almost neckless, without visible ears, and with extremely small eyes. In its tunneling work the gopher employs its long and powerful front teeth as a pick to loosen the ground. At the same time the fore feet, which are armed with long, curved claws, the sides of the toes being lined, in turn with bristles that prevent the passage of dirt between them, are hard at work both in digging and in pressing the dirt back under the body. Then the hind feet take it and push it farther back.

When a sufficient quantity of earth has been accumulated in the rear of the gopher, the animal whirls about, and by bringing his "wrists" together under his chin, with the palms of the "hands" held vertically, he pushes the earth out in front. A gopher will move backward just as rapidly as forward, and he can push the soil either way. His movements in excavation are almost as rapid and automatic as those of a shuttle. It has been estimated that a pocket-gopher can make two hundred complete strokes with his teeth in one minute. The jaws are so arranged that thirty-eight distinct single cuts are made by the forward stroke of the jaw, and twenty-eight by the backward stroke. Thus, it will be seen, the jaws of this curious little creature may accomplish a grand total of thirteen thousand two hundred cuts a minute when in active operation. He is immensely destructive to crops, and is, therefore, not popular.

The pocket-gopher digs as long as he lives, extending his burrow from year to year. He digs all summer and generally all winter, since he is not a hibernating animal. All his life is practically passed underground, except when, for an instant, on rare occasions, he emerges into the air to push a load of earth from a freshly opened hole. But he vanishes so quickly that it might be said he is never seen.

If a gopher in captivity finds a whole potato he will cut off little slices, trimming them to suitable shape with his sharp teeth, and transfer them to his cheek-pouches by a swift movement. To remove them from the pouch he presses his fore feet firmly against the sides of his head and carries them rapidly forward, dumping the contents of the pouches on the ground before him. These pouches are often packed so full of bits of roots, stems and leaves as to give the gopher a strongly distorted appearance.

The Bothwell Times man recently purchased an automobile, and a brother scribe having asked for the secret the good brother Jerome makes the following reply. The "secret" is, don't drink, smoke, chew or flirt with women, but be temperate in all things, get a fair price in all business affairs, be careful, and take off your coat and work like—hallelujah.

There is refreshing commonsense in the way they do some things in France. Miss Minnie Nell, an American suffragette took it into her head to smash seven windows in Paris in order to direct attention to the desirability of granting votes to women. And the lady has been promptly committed to an asylum as a lunatic unfit to be at large. That's the way to deal with the suffragettes.

THE UNKISSED SUFFRAGIST.

When the prime minister of Great Britain was horsewhipped in Scotland the other day Canadians naturally wondered what Mrs. Pankhurst, who is lecturing in the United States, would say and this is her comment: "It was perfectly proper, and another step in the cause for which we fighting."

How ordinary people will wonder what sort of moral sense has this "leader" of the suffrage movement in England, that she can sanction such humiliating and painful acts as the attack on Mr. Asquith. By their sex and gentleness women are protected from retaliation on the part of men in physical encounters, yet the militants in Great Britain, led by the notorious Mrs. Pankhurst, deliberately take advantage of their sex to do bodily violence to the prime minister of their country.

In this way they unsex themselves and forfeit the respect of men. In this way they demonstrate their lack of sane and reasonable qualities which mark those who alone should be allowed to vote. Rudyard Kipling who was familiar with a certain mannish type of British woman, knew what he was talking about when he wrote: "The female of the species is more deadly than the male."

ROMAN CHURCH TO BLAME

The illiteracy of Roman Catholic countries is hard to explain away without laying blame upon the Church. Extension deals with Spain's case as follows: "The number of pupils of both sexes from five to fifteen years of age was given as 4,396,937. To provide for these the government had only 31,838 schools. But it is a well-known fact that two-thirds of the children of school age attend private or religious schools, Spain thus offering as good educational facilities as most civilized countries." But on November 1st the Heraldo de Madrid, of Madrid, spoke editorially as follows "Out of a total population of some 19,000,000 that Spain possesses 12,000,000 can neither read nor write. In thousands of villages and small towns in the interior of the country no one knows how to read or write There are in Spain 30,000 rural villages without schools of any kind and many thousands which can only be reached by a bridle path, there being no highroads nor railway communication of any kind. Attendance at board schools is voluntary, not obligatory. Seventy-six per cent. of the children in Spain are illiterate and this is especially noticeable in the capital." The statement of Extension (American Roman Catholic) does not seem to fit very well with that of the Spanish newspaper. Perhaps the Spanish newspaper does not [illegible] know anything about Spain.

Old Winter Coughs
Now Easily Cured

A New Remedy Now Cures Without the Use of Cough Syrups or Drugs.

Just think of it—you can clear away that hard, racking cough, drive it completely out of the system, make yourself perfectly well by the new breathing cure that employs no medicine at all.

You wonder how; a very simple method; you simply breathe in through a Catarrhozone Inhaler rich balsamic essences that heal and soothe away the cough in a few hours' time.

In using Catarrhozone you bathe the lining of the nose and throat with that powerful antiseptic of the Blue Gum Tree of Australia, which is probably the surest cold and cough cure in the world to-day.

Clarence E. Cresswell, writing from Medicine Hat, says: "To cure a sneezing cold in about ten minutes the one thing I know of to do it is Catarrhozone. To relieve an irritated throat quickly, nothing can equal Catarrhozone. It simply eats up a cough or cold of any kind. I know of colds that have hung on for months that Catarrhozone cured quickly. Nearly every man I know carries a Catarrhozone Inhaler with him day and night, and in this country it makes a wonderful protection against all winter ills."

Get the dollar outfit, including the hard rubber inhaler, and medicine to last two months; medium size 50c., sample size 25c., at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Foxes are making their presence severely felt along the slopes of the Kilsyth and Campsie Hills in Scotland. Within a week one flockmaster had no fewer than eighteen lambs devoured by the foxes.

School Children's Religious Strike

As a protest against the employment of a teacher of the Roman Catholic faith a number of children at their parents' request absented themselves from a school in the Springburn district of Glasgow.

Parents Demand Inquiry

As a protest against the refusal of the Board of Education to grant an inquiry, parents at Batlock's Heath, near Netley, kept their children from school. Seventy children were withdrawn in a week.

Burglars Oblige a Vicar

Burglars earned the undying gratitude of the Rev. H. G. Hills, vicar of All Saints', Battersea, by carrying away "fifty of the most abominable cigars I have ever known," but leaving a considerable sum of money intact.

Vicar of St. Michael's

The Rev. John H. J. Ellison, vicar of Windsor, son of a former vicar and brother-in-law of the Archbishop of Canterbury, has been appointed to the living of St. Michael, Cornhill, the gross income of which is stated to be $4,500.

Rise for Grave-diggers

Owing to the increased cost of food the grave-diggers employed at the Hammersmith Borough Council's cemetery petitioned for increased wages, and the council has granted them an increase of 75 cents a week, from $6.75 to $7.50.

Badger-baiting Not Sport

At Ystrad, Wales, ten men were charged with cruelty by baiting a badger. A policeman saw the defendants with others on the mountain near Clydach Vale. There were a number of dogs and they badly mauled a badger which was carried about in a bar. The magistrate said this was not sport but cruelty, and fined the defendants.

Gift For Street Garden

Mr. C. E. Master, formerly High Sheriff of Surrey, gave $10,500 to the town of Guildford for the laying out as a garden a site until recently occupied by a number of business premises and known as Rum Corner in High street. The spot had for many years been the narrowest point on the main road between London and Portsmouth.

BEILISS ON WAY TO ST. PAUL

Central Figure in Recent Ritual Murder Trial Fleeing Russian Chance of Prison or Death

Minneapolis, Nov. 14.—Mendel Beiliss, the central figure in the recent "Ritual Murder" trial at Kiev, Russia, is on his way to St. Paul to make his home, according to a statement made last night by Mrs. Sarah Danovicki, 112 Minnetonka street, St. Paul, sister-in-law of Beiliss.

Realizing that to stay in Russia would only mean that in a short time he would be imprisoned or assassinated, Beiliss is fleeing to a land where so many countrymen found new homes.

INVENTS NEW WAY OF BOXING

New Sport Introduced by Versatile Frenchman

M. de Coubertin, well known for his advocacy and practice of sports and particularly for his patronage of the Olympic games, has invented a new sport, which he demonstrated to a circle of friends in Paris.

It is boxing on horseback. Such an exercise does not appear feasible at first sight, since the "base" is unstable. A horseman can use his sabre, a lance, and even a revolver, but is he not disarmed from fisticuffs?

M. de Coubertin solves the difficulty by seating his rider on a wooden horse. The object of this curious experiment is to give the equestrian a good seat. If the steed is well-ridden the body and hands are left free for the "noble art."

The inventor of the system claims that it inculcates the proper grip of the thighs, gives security of seat, and at the same time exercises the muscles necessary for boxing. In two lessons in different sets at the same time.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked on the envelope "Tender for Christian Island Timber," will be received until noon on Tuesday, the 18th day of November next, for 400,000 feet, B.M., of timber of ten inches and upwards in diameter at the stump, comprising about fifty per cent. of Maple, twenty-five per cent of Beech, the remainder being Birch, Basswood, Ash and Hemlock, to be taken out by the Indians of Christian Island during the coming winter and delivered on the shore of the island at convenient points for shipment.

Tenderers should state the prices they will pay for the different kinds of timber per M. feet, B.M., over and above the Crown dues as stated hereunder.

Measurements of the timber are to be made by an Ontario licensed culler and sworn returns of same shall be furnished in accordance with the Timber Regulations of the Department.

An accepted cheque on any chartered Canadian Bank for $300.00, made payable to the order of the undersigned, should accompany each tender, which in the event of failure to carry out the undertaking, will be forfeited to the Department. Cheques sent by unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Reasonable advances to the Indians, if required, as the work progresses, shall be made by the successful tenderer.

The Crown dues payable on timber as per tariff are as follows:—

Maple and Ash, $2.00 per M. feet, B.M.

Beech, Birch and Basswood, $1.50 per M. feet, B.M.

Hemlock, $1.00 per M. feet, B.M.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted, and the Department will not pay for the unauthorized insertion of this advertisement in any newspaper.

THE RAILROAD CROSSING.

(Published by Request.)

I can't tell much about the thing,

But 'pears to me, I got a most outlandish heavy lick.
It broke my leg, cracked my scalp,
and tore my arm most' out.
But take a seat. I'll try and tell just

You know the railroad cuts across the road by "Marvin's hole."
Well, there I seed a great big sign raised high up on a pole.
I thought I'd stop and read the thing
and find out what it said;
And so I stopped the hawses on the railroad track and read.

I ain't no scholar, recollect, and so I

And then I tried the next one. It commenced with e-n-g.

I got that far, when suddenly there came an awful whack.
A thousand fiery thunderbolts just scooped me off the track—
The hawses went to David Jones,
the wagon went to smash,
And I was thrown full seven yards above the tallest ash.

I didn't come to life again for 'bout
a day or two,
But though I'm crippled up a heap,
I sorter struggled through.
It ain't the pain, nor 'tain't the

But stranger, how I'd like to know the rest of that 'ere sign.

VICTIMS OF LATE DISASTER KNOWN HERE

Local Man Went to School With Many of the Dead.

A member of the Munro House staff, who formerly resided at Collingwood, yesterday talked with The Times representative, who showed him a list of Collingwood dead, who perished on the steamer Leafield, as a result of the recent disasters. He knew personally most of the victims from Collingwood. He was well acquainted with Alf. Northcote, first mate, who boarded with his mother recently. Fred Bagley, second mate, was also a personal friend of the local man. Mate Bagley has been ill for a considerable time. He had sailed with Keir, first engineer and Bowie, second engineer. He also went to school with Captain Sampson, lost with the steamer Wexford. As the local man referred to is of a modest retiring disposition his name is omitted.

- KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED -

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its features and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this news through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like THE TIMES.

He holds it is part of his service to keep the public informed.

FASHION CORNER

New York has been much interested recently in the fall-opening of the big shops. Most of the more important stores inject into this occasion more or less of a social element. Elaborate settings are prepared and invitations extended to patrons, either by letter or newspaper announcement, to attend at specified hours, when the costumes are displayed upon living models.

A round of the various exhibitions gives one a very good idea of the new modes which will be brought out in the metropolis. Of course, the more extreme styles are most conspicuous in displays of this kind, as they are bound to depend more or less upon the spectacular for their appeal. However, as modifications of these advance ideas will be seen throughout the country, a study of the costumes presented is very interesting.

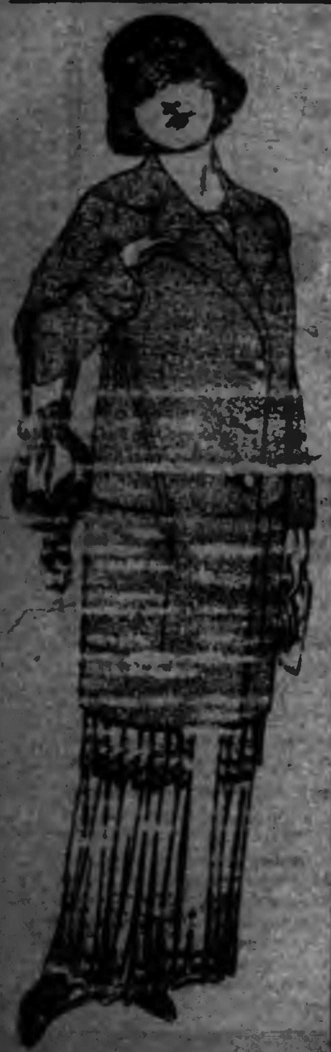

FIGURE ONE.

Two distinct styles seem to be struggling for supremacy—clinging draperies which reveal the silhouette, and the more bouffant effects recently imported from Paris, expressed in wired tunics, ruffles and [illegible]. Almost all the shops showed both, with a preponderance of draped styles.

A well-known French dressmaker, whose [illegible] pictures of his newest models have set the fashion world agog, evidenced in his coat suits a strong preference for draped styles and blouses of the Balkan type. In the evening gowns, shown in the pictures in the wonderfully beautiful gardens connected with his French establishment, the crinoline, as he called the hooped and ruffled effects, was very much in evidence. Velveteens, [illegible], cloth, and regal lace also formed an important part of the [illegible] upon these [illegible] of fashion, which so interested the American audience. In conformity of the anticipated acceptance of shorter skirts, practically all of the skirts on his models were shown ankle length or shorter, both in suits and dancing dresses, even when the latter had trains.

There was certainly little doubt of our wearing shorter gowns this winter, and while we cannot but regret the passing of the more graceful long skirt, to which we have become accustomed, shorter garments have hygienic and economic advantages which no practical woman will overlook.

But returning to the fashion openings [illegible]

finishing the sleeves at the elbow. The lower part of the waist is of the brocade, and a girdle of black velvet tied directly at the front of the figure and ending in heavy black-and-gold tassels, gives an attractive finishing touch. Crowning the toilette, and quite in harmony with it, is a little hat of antique gold lace. It is quite transparent, permitting the coiffure to show through. It has an easily-fitting crown and a tiara-like, upstanding frill at the front, which is most becoming.

The tiara and other types of Russian jewelry will, they tell us, be much worn at formal functions this season. Buckles, girdles, bracelets, and other articles of jewelry in more general use are shown in the intricately-wrought designs set with dark, semi-precious jewels characteristic of this semi-barbaric country.

The top-boot is another extreme novelty which has recently been imported from Russia. This was shown at the fashion openings, not only in black but in brilliant red and green leathers. Whether or not it will be taken up to any appreciable degree, it is impossible to say at this early day. One fact may unhesitatingly be stated, however, and that is that we are to have a revival of fancy street footwear. The vogue of hosiery of a contrasting colors are with pumps, which was noted during the summer, has been transferred to a call for shoes with vari-colored tops. Brocade silk in gray, brown, terra-cotta, blue, and Russian green is being used in the uppers of shoes of dull and patent kid made by a prominent bootmaker.

In evening footwear, sandal effects are strong, and slippers with novel trimmings. Our second illustration shows a little gold lace butterfly ornamenting the slipper, and the first the girl's black suede pump has a very smart finish in the form of a single crystal button. This picture shows the practical and popular sports' coat used as an evening wrap. It seems anomalous that a garment originally intended for outdoor, sporting events should now be worn with frilly evening garb, yet such is the case. Attending the theatres any evening, one notes numbers of young girls wearing these smart little coats over lace and chiffon gowns. Sometimes they are in strong colors, such as cerise, hunter's green, and orange, and very frequently also in white "bearcloth", which is a new and attractive member of the chinchilla family. Bearcloth has a very high pile, or nap, but is supple to the final degree. It is warm and hangs in beautiful folds, and promises to be very popular.

Under her white coat, this young girl, whom we saw at the opening of a new play the other evening, is wearing a frock of broidere chiffon in old blue and rose. On her head appears a little black velvet hat of modish mushroom type, with a quaint little wreath of [illegible] flowers and a black velvet bobbie under the side. The hat, which was carried [illegible]

CHINA'S POPULATION OF MILLIONS IS OVERESTIMATED

Vast Tracts of Territory Unpeopled and Unproductive in Land of Flowers

It has been generally assumed that China is so densely populated that millions of its people are unable to find a livelihood on land, and are compelled to live in houseboats on the rivers, and some authorities, in considering China's problems, have regarded the possession of her vast territories beyond the Great Wall as being absolutely necessary in order to provide for her surplus population. Inquiries, however, have been made by those in a position to make them, and the results of these have done much to disprove the generally accepted theory that China is over-populated. For instance, Sir Alexander Hosie, while acting as commercial attache to the British Legation, wrote in his report on the foreign trade of China:

"Having visited 15 of the 18 provinces of China proper, as well as the three Manchurian provinces, and seen how scantily many of them are populated, I doubt very much whether the whole of China, Manchuria and the new dominion contain a population at all approaching the usually accepted 400,000,000."

Mr. Rockhill, who travelled extensively in China before he was appointed United States Minister to Peking, estimated that China proper had not a larger population than 300,000,000. A Chinese newspaper in referring to the frontier troubles stated that "the root of all these troubles is that we have done nothing to populate the vast territories along our borders. A fair land, vast, undefended and unpopulated is sure to attract the attention of aggressors."

But as the rich have not shown any inclination to leave their comfortable homes to sojourn in this remote land, and as the poor have not the means to enable them to leave their homes and develop this land, it would seem as if China had very little use for these outlying territories at the present time.

NERVE NECESSARY FOR GOOD BATTER

"Home Run" Baker Talks of Pitchers Who Aim at the Head to Frighten a Man

"The first thing a boy needs, to become a good batter, is good eyes. "He must have nerve, too. Strength is necessary, but almost every ball player is strong. The exercise he gets playing is bound to strengthen him. The big thing is nerve, though. Unless a boy has plenty of nerve he cannot hope to succeed. It requires nerve to stand up to the plate and let the pitcher throw at your head. The good hitter will duck out of harm's way and return to his position and defy him to do it again. If a batter backs away because he is afraid of the ball, he is gone.

"There are any number of pitchers whose stock in trade consists of a 'bean ball' and a prayer. They throw the ball at the batter's head until they drive him from the plate and then sneak a couple of fast ones over the middle.

"A batter needs just as much nerve in a minor league as he does in the majors. In fact he needs more, for many minor league pitchers are 'bean ballers.' I mean that many are shy of control, not that they throw at your head more frequently than the big fellows.

"My receipt for batting is to look upon the star pitchers as if they were bush leaguers. If a recruit gets the idea that the great pitchers are going to beat him, he never will get anywhere. No player can afford to be afraid of a pitcher. I think this feeling helps me when I face such men as Mathewson. I know such men have such good control that they will not hit me and I simply wait until I get a good one."

WONDERFUL TRIBUTE

Unstinted Praise For John Bull and His Sons From Unusual Source

Commenting upon the absence of warships and armed men along the boundary between Canada and the United States, the Philadelphia North American published a remarkable article, well worthy of being quoted at considerable length.

"Perhaps history does not present such another case," says the writer, "of two peoples under separate governments, with no purpose or design of governmental unity or even of formal treaty, and yet with so universal a feeling of oneness. No American holds a Canadian to be a foreigner. No Canadian looks upon an American as alien.

"Instead of a feeling of distrust, because we are so rich and populous and powerful, the Canadian feels in that very fact his greatest sense of security; next to the security he places in his own manly self-reliance—a feeling that Americans can understand and respect. They share its inspiration as they shared its common source. For we know that the foundations of the American people and the American republic were laid by a stream of pioneers that poured from those little Celtic islands of which England is the largest factor.

"What a marvel has filled this England! For nearly a thousand years her shores have been inviolate from the foot of an invader, while all the rest of Europe has been crisscrossed in paths of blood. With an inscrutable purpose unparalleled since the Romans marked the earth for their own, the sons of England have driven towards the outer marches of the world.

"Eastward and westward has gone their genius for empire. It subdued the virgin forests and the trackless prairies of North America, and with equal assurance it 'built up the wasted places' of ancient civilizations and imposed order on the chaotic despotisms of India. Then, with undiminished vigor, it turned to the jungles of Africa and let light into the remotest corners of the Dark Continent.

"Wherever it has gone it has carried law and has held aloft the ideal of liberty. Freedom of conscience is not an English invention. But out of England have come the men who have spread it over the face of the earth.

"Her parliament is the mother of representative government, and to-day remains the most responsible and the most responsive government on the face of the earth—with the possible exception of those improved governments set up in the newer Englands beyond the seas.

"Her language is the vehicle of poetry unmatched since the golden age of Greece. Her Cromwell and Marlborough are the nearest rivals for the crown of the greatest soldier of the modern world. Her sailors, from Drake to Nelson, were on the sea for 300 years what Napoleon was on the land for 15. Her mighty navy is to-day the most powerful single influence for peace in all the world.

"Back of all this is the [illegible] English character, with its love for order, its respect for law, its devotion to duty, its [illegible] will to do what is to be done, its quickness to know the rights of others, and its unyielding courage to defend them."

Birth of New Metals

Modern research has brought to our knowledge, at a marvellous rate, not only new compounds but even new elements. Prof. H. T. Kalmus, of Kingston, notes that of the fifty metallic elements now known, only seven were in commercial use 2,000 years ago, and until 100 years ago the rate of addition was less than one metal for each two centuries. Within the last twenty-five years, however, fourteen metals have been added to commercial use—an addition at more than one [illegible] the previous rate.

WHITE CANNIBALISM

Terrible Story of Escaped French Convicts From Devil's Island

A story of cannibalism recalling the famous murder trial, R. v Dudley, in which wrecked sailors were indicted for killing and eating a ship's boy, was related in the French Press. Four convicts, named Meuillard, Bacheron, Fossey and Machevel, arranged to escape from Devil's Island, the penal colony in French Guiana. They left one night, and Bacheron promised to lead them to a place where they would be able to dig for gold and make enough to live on till they could escape from the colony altogether. They left with a sword, a spoon, some loaves of bread, and some preserved vegetables in tins. Fossey acted as guide, saying that he knew the way to the River Mana, where gold was plentiful. After a few days' march Fossey admitted that he had lost his way. The four then wandered about aimlessly for eight days more, living on roots. Starvation overtook them. Machevel broke down, and his three companions killed and ate him. By means of stealing a boat the survivors got to Mana, where they were able to steal a larger boat. They were wrecked at the mouth of the Maroni, and taken back to prison at St. Laurent. The three men confessed to eating their companion.

Hoodwinking Poor People

At Limerick County Court Judge [illegible] exhibited a blue paper, and said a tradesman had sent it to a debtor. On the top of the form in large type were the words: "County Court.—For the recovery of debts as per Act of Parliament," thus giving ignorant persons the impression that it emanated from the county court direct. This was a very serious offence, and he would punish very severely persons guilty of using such forms. It was threatening the court itself. If this method of hoodwinking poor people was not stopped he would have to send the guilty persons to prison.

SOME INFORMATION ABOUT EVERGREENS

How to Tell the Different Varieties of Pine—the White a Giant Tree

To the observer and lover of Nature, the pine trees of Canada give infinite delight. From one end of the country to the other, they adorn the fields, the woodlands, and many a lofty hilltop. When many other trees of the forest are stripped of their glory, these, claiming all seasons for their own, provide evergreen foliage which protects the weary traveler from the hot suns of summer and the stormy blasts of winter.

The pines stand among us as representatives of an ancient race. They were known in Bible times, being mentioned in Sacred Scripture. There are several species of pine. Amongst the most important is the White pine, which grows to a height of about 200 feet, attaining an age of from two to three hundred years. From the stem of this tall tree project large branches, from which spring smaller ones, bearing the twigs, on the end of which are tassels, composed of green needle-shaped leaves of a feathery lightness and arranged in clusters of five. This tree flowers in the spring, and the fruit ripens into long, slender, woody cones within two years. The cones appear either in pairs or several together, and are found projecting horizontally from the branches, to which they often cling for several years. In color they are green at first, but later become brown, eventually falling, to remain for many years unchanged on the ground.

Beneath the scale of the cone, when opened wide we find nestled at the base two little seeds in twin boxes, each provided with a little wing so that it can sail off with the wind to find a place to grow. The pine is one of the most useful trees, providing us as it does with the material for our homes.

Though found in poor soils, and in the same localities, the Red or Norway pine, is less common and less valuable than the white pine. It grows to a height of about 150 feet, having a large diameter, and can be easily recognized by its reddish bark. The long, slender needles, which grow in pairs, are half-round, and are more or less covered with a glaucous bloom.

The wood of the Red pine is used extensively for interior building purposes. This variety is valuable for planting as a landscape tree on account of its beauty of foliage and rapidity of growth.

Amongst the most valuable and best known of our native conifers is the Pitch pine. It usually grows to a height of 80 feet. The bark of the trunk has scales like the covering of an alligator. The color of the foliage is lighter than the White pine; the needles are stiff and coarse and in bundles of three; the cones are large and very much broader than those of the White pine, the scale being armed with a stout, sharp spike at the middle of the outer margin. The cones remain on the tree after the winged seeds have been shed, so that one of the easiest ways of recognizing the tree is to look for these broad, short cones hanging from the older branches.

The Grey, or Jack pine, is a small tree quickly distinguished from all its neighbors by a dark reddish bark upon the trunk, and gray-green foliage clustered on short branches, giving a sombre aspect to the tree. After the seeds have been scattered from them, the small, short cones cling for several years to the branches. Under adverse conditions of soil and moisture the Jack pine is very hardy and thrifty.

The pines, which are the harps of the lonely places, are very susceptible to the wind. When stirred by the breezes, they send forth strains of music which delight the ear. When in a meditative mood there is no place more luring than a fragrant pine wood, filled with the musical undertone of its own soft and low murmurings, for courting that quietness, so essential as a preparation for the incoming of high and noble thought.

Setting aside the economic value of the pines their magnificent beauty should alone render them worthy of protection and preservation. Therefore we should use all our influence to save them from destruction, and should see that no tree is needlessly sacrificed.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

HUGS IN COWSHED

How a Dairyman Blinded an Inspecting Committee

After having had several bouts with the Portland Sanitary Committee about cowshed regulations, a Dorset dairy farmer had an elaborate joke at the expense of the inspection committee. He made preparations for the visit by spreading linoleum over the floor of his cowhouse, displaying hearthrugs in convenient positions, hanging the walls with pictures, a mirror, and a motto, "Until we meet again," and furnishing the interior with chairs and a harmonium. When the committee called he gravely asked them to wipe their feet on the doormat, and explained that the harmonium was for the cow to play while the calf danced. The committee were too much annoyed to feel hurt, but when they had gone the farmer informed his friends that they were so taken up with the decorations that they had forgotten to examine the drains or to fulfil any of the objects of the inspection.

Therefore, gentlemen, I shall feel very thankful to your hon. Board either to provide me with a cottage house or to leave me alone."

THE INFIELD FLY RULE

Fine Point in Baseball Not Generally Understood

There is still a little confusion about the exact operation of the infield fly rule. This rule declares the batter to be out whenever he puts up a fly ball that can be handled by an infielder, with the first and second occupied, provided there are not two men out at the time. This does not apply to a line hit, but any high fly which an infielder can get under. The rule does not apply if only first base is occupied. There must be runners on both first and second and less than two out. This rule was adopted a number of years ago in order to avoid the chance of a cheap double play, which often came up before this rule was put in force. With men on first and second and only one or none out, if the batter lifted a fly ball to an infielder, said infielder, if a foxy player, could muff or trap the ball, failing to catch it on the fly. Of course, in that case the runner would be forced to advance, and the fielder, if a smart player, could force two of them out and thus get a double play, which could not be prevented in any way by the batting side. Of course, if only first base was occupied he would not get a double play on the fly ball for the batter could always beat it to first if he ran it out, but with first and second both occupied it was easy to make a double play, hence the rule.

As soon as a fly of this nature is hit the chief umpire is required to declare the batter out while the ball is in the air. It does not make any difference then whether the ball is caught or not so far as the batter is concerned. He is out anyway, and the base runners are not forced to advance, but may hold their bases. This declaring of the batter out on such a fly prevents a double play of a cheap variety. Now, the infield fly does not have to be caught to retire the batter, who is out anyway as soon as he puts up the ball and it is so declared by the umpire while the ball is in the air. But it makes a difference to the base runners whether the fly is caught or not. If it is caught by one of the infielders it is the same as any fly ball and they must hold their bases until the catch has been made. But if it is muffed or allowed to fall to the ground without being touched the base runners do not have to retouch their bases and may continue to the next bases, if they can make their way there without being touched with the ball. This is a point which has caused quite a good deal of argument. Some have claimed that the runners had to remain on their bases until the ball was either caught or muffed or allowed to hit the ground. President Lynch of the National League, however, decided that this is not the case. If the ball is caught the players must hold their bases the same as on any other fly ball. But if it is not caught they do not have to go back and touch their bases and can go as far forward as they are able to. This is a good thing for young players to remember.

THE FIRST WIRELESS

Marconi's First Demonstrations Made in 1896

The "Wireless World" contains an interesting article dealing with some early experiments in wireless telegraphy. Mr. A. H. Hanscomb recalls visiting Mr. Marconi in a little room which he occupied near the Bournemouth pier in 1896, on a day when the fashionable watering-place was, in consequence of a storm, practically isolated from the outside world. Mr. Hanscomb says:

"I remarked: 'This is where you come in, I suppose?' He smiled, and modestly replied: 'We'll see what we can do.' He then retired behind a screen, and I heard a few moments' 'clicking' on his transmitter. He was inquiring of his assistant in the Isle of Wight what sort of weather they were having at Totland Bay. In a few moments he handed me a reply message stating that the weather was 'cold but fine.' At the same time he remarked: 'I am glad to have been able to demonstrate in so unexpected a manner the superiority of my form of telegraphy. You see, I am independent of fog and snow, or any of the other elements which go to make the English weather.'"

It was, indeed, one of the first illustrations of the triumph of "wireless."

CANADA'S PULPWOOD

Increasing Demand For Fir and Hemlock—a New Process

Statistics show that spruce still constitutes over seventy-five per cent. of the pulpwood cut in Canada, but there is an increasing use of balsam fir in the eastern provinces and hemlock in British Columbia with very satisfactory results in each case. When the sulphate process, recently brought into use in Canada, comes into wider use, there will be a decided increase in the amount of fir and hemlock used for pulp. This process which is used at present by three mills in Quebec, yields excellent pulp for the manufacture of finer grades of paper and for wrapping. The solution used for dissolving the chipped wood into pulp, consists of seventy-five per cent. sodium sulphate, "salt-cake," and twenty-five per cent. of lime. No acids are used, giving economy of maintenance, and almost all kinds of wood are adaptable to the process, which is, in this way especially, superior to soda and sulphite methods.

Get All of the Milk

Careless milkers do not always get all the milk. It is a [illegible] practice [illegible] the cow [illegible] milked, as it not only robs the dairyman of the richest portion of the morning or evening supply, but damages the cow. If the milk is not all taken, so that the udder is completely empty, it tends to lessen her daily supply and shorten her period of lactation. It may require a little more time and patience to secure the last bit of milk from the udder, but this is as important as getting the first part, [illegible]. The cow that is [illegible] milked will soon be giving less milk. [illegible]

CENTURY OLD HOUSE

Gone From City Street After Cut In Two From Spite

Toronto lost a landmark when the last half of Captain James Sparks' log cabin was removed from Brockview Avenue, near Queen Street, where it stood for over a century.

Old Captain Sparks for the whole of his working life was engaged in the navigation of the lakes, and commanded many schooners, his last vessel being the "Beaver," which was wrecked at Rochester about 1860. He died in 1862, having almost reached his 74th birthday.

His widow died in 1911, and the old log cabin and the property upon which it stood was left to two sons. The two sons could not agree. One wanted to sell the property and the other did not. So the first decided that he would cut the old log cabin in half and take his share away, that the second might not be able to live in it himself or let anybody else live in it. Accordingly he engaged several men with crosscut saws and the southern portion of the old cabin was shortly taken away. That was in 1911. Until recently the northern half stood on its original site, where it was built over a century ago. Finally, however, the land became too valuable to lie idle and was sold, this necessitating the removal of the house, which was one of the oldest buildings in the city.

STRIKE RIOT

A Lively Time at a Boot Factory in England

Owing to the introduction of outside labor during a strike at the boot factory of Messrs. Leake Brothers at Melbourne, England, a riot took place. The firm, who do not employ unionists, dismissed one man who joined the union and endeavored to persuade others to do so. Forty men handed in notices and Messrs. Leake imported five men. The others resented the introduction of such labor, and a crowd of 600 demonstrated outside the factory. Police reinforcements were hurried on to the scene, but were assailed with stones. The rioters, after smashing the factory windows, attacked the manager's house, wrecking the windows. The police made baton charges, dispersing the strikers.

CONSUMPTIVE AS LODGER

The Housekeeper Was Awarded Damages by the Court

Judgment for the plaintiff was given at Monaghan Quarter Sessions in a case in which Eleanor Gwynne, a boarding-house keeper, sued Mr. Thomas Clarke, merchant, Monaghan, executor of the will of the late Benjamin Clarke, to recover damages for injuries to her premises caused by Benjamin Clarke, when residing as a lodger in the house of the plaintiff, in that he infected the house and furniture with a contagious disease—pulmonary consumption. Judge Johnson quoted a number of decided cases, showing that a person who, knowing that he is suffering from an infectious disease, succeeds in gaining admission as a lodger, either by falsely representing that he is not suffering from an infectious disease, or by warranting that he is not suffering from some particular infectious disease, renders himself liable in damages. The plaintiff was entitled to the full amount of her loss through the disinfection of the room and the destruction of some of the articles, [illegible] and to [illegible] for the loss of lettings.

Tombstones in Garden

Digging in his garden at Cardiff, a local resident, Mr. D. Evans, unearthed a series of tombstones bearing the date 1876. Mr. Evans was not in occupation of the house, and apparently the garden had not been thoroughly dug up for years. It is believed that the stones are simply memorials, and that the bodies repose in one of the Cardiff cemeteries.

The Duke of Teck is a keen soldier and a well-known sportsman. He was in South Africa with the 1st Life Guards, of which he was then a major, during the South African War. One day, with several other young officers, after a long day's work, he came upon a war correspondent, whom he asked how he liked being under the Boer fire. "Not at all," replied the wielder of the pen; "anyone may have my share of such adventures who cares for them." The officer, in much-worn khaki clothes, said, "Well, we have to go under fire whether we like it or not, you know." "Yes," retorted the correspondent, "but that's what you're paid for, isn't it?" The others in the group laughed, and the correspondent was much taken aback to find that he had thus been making free with a prince of royal blood.

Bloodhounds' "Evidence"

Benjamin Chant, charged at Hampshire Assizes with setting fire to a haystack, was acquitted by direction of Commissioner Radcliffe. It was stated in evidence that two bloodhounds taken to the scene of the fire followed a trail which ended at Chant's house. Later, when Chant was placed with five other men, the dogs singled him out. Counsel for the defence said that there was no case, as no one could tell what was in the dogs' minds. The Commissioner said the dogs' evidence was valuable, but it only proved that the man had been near the stack.

A further case arising out of a Sydenham lady's domestic "menagerie" was heard at the Greenwich Police Court. Mrs. Juliette Hughes was summoned for abusing her neighbor, Mr. T. Owen, a stockbroker. Mr. Thomas, counsel for Mr. Owen, said that Mrs. Hughes kept a number of dogs and ducks and geese—quite a menagerie, in short. He read a letter which she had written to Mr. Owen, saying that he had accused her of stealing a garden hose. "You have spoiled my character," she wrote, "and children call me a French pincher." The conduct of Mrs. Hughes had become unbearable. Mr. Owen had been in his house for seventeen years, and was most anxious to stop this annoyance. Mr. Owen, sworn, said that Mrs. Hughes from her front garden called to him, "Can you smell the goose? Can you smell the rubber burning?" There had been some words over the garden hose and some geese, and they had had to call in a sanitary inspector about the smell from the geese. He had put up with the annoyance for two years. Mrs. Hughes now said she remarked to someone in her house, "Can you smell the rubber burning?" She did not apply the remark to Mr. Owen. She admitted sending pictorial postcards to him on which she had written, "Can you smell the goose?"

Mr. Hutton bound Mrs. Hughes over to keep the peace for twelve months and ordered her to pay 54 cents costs.

Lord Rosebery was the guest at the annual dinner of the London Press Club at De Keyser's Hotel, and in the course of an interesting speech the ex-Premier stated that he believed the British Press was the best and purest in the world.

The Press, he said, were critical, were not dispassionate, they sounded occasionally the bugle notes of war and strife from the top of the mountain, but in the secluded spot he occupied he had neither passion nor wish to stir up strife, and he observed the whole drama in an atmosphere to which they could not aspire.

So far as he could make out the reporter had largely disappeared. Now he only reported the great lions of the Front Benches, every wag of whose tails it was necessary for every citizen to observe. The removal of verbatim speeches from the newspapers gave space for other matter of a more interesting kind, and that was probably one of the greatest reliefs that the newspaper reader ever experienced. The Press, though a great steam engine in power, was a little sensitive in its relations. If it were not sensitive it would not have the sympathy of the public and could not speak the views of the nation. He believed in the power, the potentialities, and even more in the responsibilities of the Press.

The Press has developed greatly since the days when the Spanish Armada threatened in 1588. Then a mere fly sheet was issued. Now every day we produced not a newspaper but a library. The pouring of this great Niagara of information upon the public carried its responsibility as well as it conferred great benefit. One heard a great deal about the apathy of the public on the great questions of the day; and he thought it was perfectly true. There was a profound apathy. People had no time to bother about anything except their own concerns and the last football match.

Was not that apathy due to the prodigious amount of startling news which the Press offered to every inhabitant of these islands? Was it not a fact that this great number of impressions, hastily and consecutively made, had blunted the receptivity of the brain? Was it not possible that the population nourished on the perfect journalism had not the slightest interest in any possible events that could occur to-morrow?

He felt that the responsibility for the apathy of the country as regards public questions was largely due to the perfection to which journalism had been brought.

The power of the Press was enormous, far greater than that of any member of Parliament or any Minister of the Crown. He prayed journalists in issues which involved peace or war to diminish them as much as possible. From the bottom of his heart he asked the Press when any such issue might occur, and the atmosphere was electrical enough at the present moment, not to say a word that might unnecessarily or except in defence bring about on their fellow-countrymen the innumerable catastrophies of war.

Found Unconscious

Constable Gwilym Jenkins and David Thomas, a farmer, were found unconscious on the road near Carmarthen on Sunday night, the constable suffering from a fractured skull and the farmer with his arm broken. Jenkins, who is stationed at Llanarthney, six miles away, had used the farmer's trap to drive a prisoner to Carmarthen and the men were on their way home again. The policeman was in a precarious condition, but Thomas was able to return to his home.

Ill-paid Pastors

The Rev. Morgan Price, Chwilog, speaking at Portmadoc in support of the movement to ensure a minimum wage of $400 a year to Welsh Congregational pastors, said there was a danger of Welsh Congregational churches losing some of their best ministers unless a living wage was guaranteed. As one who had at one time worked in the collieries, he might say that boys of fourteen or fifteen years of age working in the collieries were earning more wages than a good number of Welsh Congregational pastors.

Lord Rosebery Ironical

Lord Rosebery has made a complaint about the condition of the Roman road, an ancient bridle road near his home, the Durdans, Epsom. Writing to the Epsom Rural District Council he said: "I have a great respect for the ancient Romans; but they must have been an even more remarkable race than they are reputed if they were able to make use of this road in anything like its actual condition."

Camels for Argentina

The Argentine government plans to import camels as an experimental way to take the place of horses and oxen in semi-arid regions.

Hydro Power for Russia

Plans are under way for an extensive utilization of the water courses of Finland to furnish electric light and power to St. Petersburg.

Belmont and Methuen Council at their last meeting introduced a by-law to expend $1500 on roads and bridges for 1914. As the Legislature supplements the amount under by-law, a sum of $3100 will be spent next year.

Anaemic Mothers Here is Relief!

[illegible] Can Enrich Your Worn-Out Blood and Quickly Renew Your Health With Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Sufferer of Twenty Years States Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a Real Cure

"I can't remember any time during the past twenty years when my heart wasn't aching. If I bent over, dark specks would come before my eyes, and it seemed as if all the blood in my body wanted to rush to my head." Thus opens the letter of Mrs. Enoch S. Spry, of Putnam P. O., and continuing her interesting statement she says: "Work or exertion made my heart beat terrible, and going upstairs caused such shortness of breath that it fairly frightened me. I tell you how I feel to-day and you can understand what a great cure Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made. I feel strong enough now to work like a man, as for going upstairs on the run, it doesn't bother me at all. I eat and sleep as any person ought, and as for dizziness which used to frighten me so much, it has entirely disappeared. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful medicine. They helped me, and I know every woman that uses them will have comfort and good health."

A large number of friends and relatives followed the remains to its last resting place.

KIDNEY [illegible]

PROHIBITION IS FAILURE IN STATES

Liquor Problem Will Have to be Solved by the Municipalities

Toronto, Nov. 14.—In introducing Mr. Koren, who addressed the National Municipal League on the status of liquor license legislation, the chairman, Mr. C. Kidder, referring to Mr. Koren's splendid record on the "Committee of 50," which was organized in 1896 in New York city, with Seth Low at its head, to investigate conditions of the liquor traffic and gather statistics.

Mr. Koren, in opening his remarks reminded his hearers that he had no experience of Canadian liquor traffic conditions, and anything he said that afternoon applied solely to the United States.

Some people considered that the chief object was to regulate and not tax the industry. The speaker referred to the unsatisfactory conditions existing even in many of the prohibition States, the worst examples being the States of New Jersey and Maine, "where the most abhorrent conditions exist."

"Much of the evil lies in the makeup and present system of licensing boards in many of the States. There are two parties to liquor legislation. Is it not possible to find some guiding system of government that will help future generations on this question?"

The speaker referred to enormous amount of literature disseminated on the subject which for the most part dodged the issue. "It has settled down to be a municipal problem and as such must be handled by the municipality."

"We are beginning to see and realize that the only methods of regulation of the traffic must be worked out in conjunction with the chief spokesmen of the trade itself.

"The production and consumption are rising by leaps and bounds in spite of the spread of prohibition throughout the States of the Union. It is because of the belief that conditions are worse if anything than have been pointed out, that we of this league have banded together to find out some better way. There is a large amount of wealth to be got for the purpose of fighting the trade," said the speaker.

TEN STEEL FREIGHT CARS ABOUT DAILY

The turning out of ten steel freight cars a day and from eight to ten steel of the latest addition to the Angus Shops operated by the C.P.R., at Montreal. The new buildings for the construction of steel cars are now operating freight cars have been added to the Canadian Pacific Railway's rolling stock. Officials of the railway express appreciation as to the manner in which the new manufacturing equipment has been placed. In the month of April work was started on the buildings, and in one record-breaking period of five months everything was completed and the first steel freight car turned out. By the end of September, the six month, sixty-eight cars started in as freight carriers between the Pacific and the Atlantic oceans. The buildings consist of two structures 100 feet by 200 feet and 100 feet by 162 feet respectively for the manufacturing of both classes of cars, a building 72 feet by 485 feet for the exclusive manufacture of freight cars, and four buildings 228 feet by 200 feet for passenger car work.

The blacksmith shop, wood mill, and wooden freight car shop previously used in the manufacturing of wooden cars and which had the capacity of turning out thirty-two cars a day, will be utilized in the work of steel car construction. The only change to be made will be the affording of more space in the blacksmith shop for the huge presses and machinery required for steel construction. A new bolt-nut and rivet shop was constructed to which all this class of machinery could be moved. The shop, which is 60 feet by 420 feet, will enable this class to be handled in the most convenienced manner.

Plans may be seen and forms of tender and specifications obtained at the office of Mr. W. J. Press, Mechanical Engineer, Ottawa, Ontario, and at the offices of Mr. A. E. Doucet, District Engineer, Quebec, and Mr. T. S. Armstrong, District Engineer, Cochrane, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders must be made on the printed forms supplied by The Commissioners, and that each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a Chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, for a sum equal to five per cent (5 per cent.) of the amount of the tender.

The cheque deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected, will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,

P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

The Commissioners of The Transcontinental Railway.

Dated at Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 3rd, 1913.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from The Commissioners, will be not paid for.

SIX MILLION INSURANCE LOSSES CAUSE COMPANIES TO DEMAND CENTRE BOARDS ON BOATS

Centre Boards Should be Put Into Freight Carriers to Prevent Rolling of Cargoes--Gale Hits Many Insurance Firms Hard

Montreal, Nov. 15.—The detailed losses now in possession of underwriters and brokers interested in marine insurance in Montreal are sufficient to occasion the utmost gravity, and it is estimated by leading marine surveyors that $6,000,000 will not cover the extent of the underwriters' insurance liabilities in the recent lake tragedies. One marine firm in the city is involved to the extent of one million. The remainder of the enormous liabilities is shared by brokers' houses, chiefly in New York and Lloyds in London, though some other firms in Montreal are concerned to a lesser degree. The terrible storm struck the great lakes shipping interests at a most unfortunate time, because quite recent criticisms have been published in the London financial press drawing attention to the shipping casualties of late on the St. Lawrence and stating that Lloyds' Agency were about to increase the insurance rates.

It may be regarded as a culminating disaster, and the enormous extent of its liabilities will cause a complete revision of the present insurance system. Risks hitherto winked at will now be severely considered. The toll of the storm is in some respects disquieting. Particularly is this so in regard to the alarming references to wheat freighters having completely turned turtle.

Nearly all the vessels that were wrecked or sunk had no centre board. The centre board is demanded on the ocean-going freighters. It is a bulkhead that runs the entire length of the ship, from the bow to the engine room astern, dividing the vessel longitudinally into equal parts, and by its existence a cargo of wheat, which is unstable as water if left to itself, is steadied during a heavy roll of the vessel from port to starboard, and in the event of a bad list lessens the terrible danger of turning turtle. It may be assumed to-day that its introduction into every wheat freighter on the great lakes will be demanded by the marine insurers in the future, and also the question of safe loading will be rigidly enforced.

ANOTHER NAVAL AUTHORITY CONDEMNS LIBERAL POLICY

Admiral Freemantle, Able and Distinguished Officer, Characterizes Liberal Proposal as Impracticable Chimera

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The Borden attitude upon the naval question is being justified more and more as time progresses by men who are expert in such matters. The latest justification comes from Admiral Freemantle, of the British navy, and one of its most distinguished officers. On the Liberal Dominions' naval question he states he is disposed to treat [illegible] and alleged difficulty of a combination of Canadian or Australian squadrons in time of war. The Australian navy at all events can scarcely be sneered at as a "tinpot navy," and is already a force to be reckoned with but whether large or small any squadrons provided by the dominions, born and bred as they would be in the traditions of the British navy, could not but be anxious to join in making one great Imperial navy in case of war.

Impractical Chimera.

Centralists insist that when Britain fights every dominion must be fighting too. Free choice for Britain and compulsory choice for the dominions? The answer is "Certainly," and Laurier's tentative proposal for the neutrality of Canada under certain conditions is an unpracticable chimera. An Empire must "bear each other's burdens," not only in European complications, but in the fishery or boundary disputes of Canada, or Australia or of New Zealand. Japanese trouble must concern the whole Empire, whether federated or not, and it is a narrow view to suppose that the difficulty is always a British one, as the South African War should have made clear.

Must Share the Burden.

It is believed this latter point will become more evident as the question of union for defence is further studied. We may have federation, representation, co-operation, or union, but the Empire must act in unison. Our dominions beyond the seas have in peace the advantages of our diplomatists, our consuls, and very often of our money, and they must share with us the disadvantages of the United Kingdom's geographical position in close proximity to powerful empires with aims and ambitions which may conflict with the interests of the British Empire.

GERMAN PRINCE AND WIFE SEPARATED

Second Son of Kaiser Reported to Be a Party to a Royal Divorce.

London, Nov. 15.—Continental despatches tell of discord between Prince Eitel Fritz, the second son of the Kaiser, and his wife, who was the Princess Sophia, Duchess of Oldenburg. They were married in 1906. It is now declared they have actually separated, and it is even said the princess has gone to America, but this is not confirmed.

They have no children and an element of romance is given to the stories by the statement the duchess married against her will, being already in love with an army captain of noble birth. The Berlin Kleine Journal has hinted of a divorce in high quarters but no confirmation was obtainable on the subject from the German capital, though the tongues of gossip are wagging freely.

STREET CAR SERVICE FOR THE EAST WARD

It would seem that the East Ward does not get a fair share of our admirable local street car service. A petition is now being circulated in what was formerly known as Ashburnham, asking that the car service be extended eastwards on Hunter street and, until the present bridge is rebuilt strongly enough to sustain street cars, so that the line be continued on Hunter street east, to Rogers street. On Rogers street the line will run as proposed in the petition to Hazlitt street and thence to Concession street and to Auburn. It is included in the petition that a system will be inaugurated whereby transfers will be given at the Hunter street bridge, whereby passengers in the interim, may walk over the bridge and take the East Ward cars or vice versa.

FIFTY THOUSAND RIFLES FOR SUFFS

"Lady Grace of Westmore" Has Offer from a German Supporter.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—The National Zeitung publishes a report that the woman registered at the Hotel Adlon as Lady Grace of Westmore, who has been collecting a million signatures for woman suffrage, is none other than the Austrian vaudeville artist, Amelie Heller, whom Louisa Marchioness of Waterford adopted as her heir some years ago.

The fair Amelie, whose violin playing enchanted the marchioness, has got the signatures of Caruso, the tenor singer, and the Countess Lonyay, and she has gathered in on her list all ranks in Germany, from the courts to cabmen.

She showed a correspondent a letter from a suffragette enthusiast in Germany, offering 50,000 old Mauser rifles at $1 each to be distributed by British militants, "the same as I supplied to Ulster patriots."

Asked if she was Amelie Heller, Lady Grace, of Westmore cried and said: "I don't see why the Berlin newspapers should attack me. I've done nobody any harm and I am helping everybody I can."

HATCHES OF 'PRICE' WASHED OFF WATER POURED IN, CARGO SHIFTS

Diver felt His Way Along Ships Side and Spelled Out Name Sixty Feet Below Surface—No Signs of Collision Were Discovered

Sarnia, Nov. 15.—The mystery of the "Mystery Ship" is solved. The great steel freighter Charles S. Price, over 500 feet long, lies on the bottom of Lake Huron, where she turned turtle on Sunday last during the awful storm which swept the lakes. Diver Baker of Detroit, in company with Capt. R. B. Thompson, on the tug Sport, unlocked the secret of the lake at break of day this morning, in short order after disappearing beneath the surface of the water in his diving outfit. For nearly a week the lake has held its awful secret. For nearly a week anxious mothers and wives have waited for some inkling as to the identity of the big steamer. But not until this morning, with a smooth lake and favorable conditions, could the name of the ship be learned. Speculation has had every missing steamer the overturned boat. But the muddy water held fast to its mystery. Last night Capt. Thompson and Diver Baker decided that the time had come to clear away the mystery which has held everybody in suspense for nearly seven days. When the tug steamed into the river from the lake this morning the suspense tried the nerves of the marine men and anxious relatives. Capt. Thompson and Diver Baker immediately revealed the name of the steamer to the eager reporters. There is no boat under the Price as Capt. Thompson dragged his anchor around the sunken steamer and found no obstacle.

When asked as to his theory of the overturning of the steamer Charles S. Price, Capt. R. P. Thompson said:

"The boats hatches were washed off in the heavy storm and the water poured into the hatches. The cargo had been shifted over so that the steamer was turned over on its side, at such an angle, and this together with the fact that her watertight compartments which are in the bottom of the steamer were filled with air instead of water, turned her over. I am of the opinion that there are some of the bodies of the crew still in the boat, although they may have all had time to take to the life boats. Both the diver and myself believe that the members of the crew who worked in the engine room and aft are still in the steel hull."

Without Moment's Warning.

The Price appeared to have turned over in turtle fashion and without a moment's warning to the crew. Diver Baker found no bodies. He says he believes there may be some, but he couldn't get inside of the steamer to learn. It is probable that work will now be immediately begun by the owners of the Price.

HUERTA IS DEFYING POWERS MEETS HIS NEW CONGRESS

If He Should Quit, Which is Unlikely, Government Will be Confirmed as at Present

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 15.—A man believed to be General Francisco Castro, commanding the federal garrison of Juarez previous to the attack, was arrested at El Paso at noon. He said he was Col. Antonio Gobea, but the police say they are positive that he is General Castro.

Mexico City, Nov. 15.—In the face of the tremendous pressure of the United States, supported by all the world powers, Gen. Huerta prepared to organize his congress to-day. It is stated on the best authority that the Mexican dictator, who was on the point of quitting when the European envoys told him their governments would not help him, changed his mind, shifting to an attitude of defiance, because President Wilson has been carrying on tentative parleys with the Constitutionalists.

The hopelessness of the situation, however, has been made plain to him, by Sir Lionel Carden, the British ambassador, who advised him to resign. Equally strong advice was offered by the German and French ministers and other diplomats. It is thought that in the end he will quit amid a patriotic splurge by his congress.

This opinion prevails, despite the following announcement made at the palace to-day to the effect that as Carranza had refused to accede to any suggestion to intervention or mediation from the United States, the Huerta Government could do nothing less than to maintain the dignified attitude towards Washington adopted by Gen. Huerta.

SPANISH STEAMER "BALMES" ABLAZE

According to Wireless Passengers Have Been Transferred to Pannonia

Montreal, Nov. 15.—A message purporting to come from the Cunard liner Pannonia, received by the Marconi Company's operator at Cape Race, Nfld., intimates that the Spanish steamer Balmes is on fire at sea and that her passengers have been transferred to the Pannonia.

The operator in forwarding the message to the local offices of the Marconi Company, states that the communication must be considered as a freak, as the Pannonia is nearly a thousand miles away from Cape Race. He also stated on this account he had not been able to secure confirmation of the information from the Pannonia.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL PUBLISHES SPECIAL ORDERS FOR DRESS

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—An amplification of the regulations regarding the wearing of orders and decorations, issued by the lord chamberlain's office, his royal highness the governor-general has been pleased to authorize the following special regulations for the Dominion of Canada:

1. Orders, miniature decorations and medals will be worn with evening dress on the following occasions: (a) on all state occasions when the governor-general or administration is present; (b) at dinners and evening parties given by the governor-general, or, in his absence, by the administrator; (c) at all official military dinners not covered by existing regulations.

2. Orders, miniature decorations and medals may be worn with evening dress on the following occasions: (a) at the opening and prorogation of provincial legislatures; (b) on official occasions at the residence of the lieutenant-governor of a province, within that province.

3. The foregoing are the only occasions when orders, miniature decorations and medals will be worn with evening dress.

McGILL NOW COLLEGE CHAMPIONS VARSITY BEATEN IN BIG FIGHT

Varsity Line Unable to Stand the Pounding of the McGill Squad, and McKenzie is Not Given Protection

Varsity Stadium, Nov. 15.—Whether blue or red would mingle with white at the end of the last scheduled game in the Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union here to-day, it was not very easy to say at the start, but it was sufficient to let the Toronto and Montreal fans know that Varsity would entertain McGill in one of the greatest gridiron battles of the year, and a record crowd of 8000 people flocked to see the struggle here. That it would be a regular see-saw affair from start to finish was the opinion of all the experts. On this struggle the championship hung to a certain extent. If McGill won the struggle they clinched the title, but if Varsity won they tied the league up and would have to play off with the red and white at Ottawa or elsewhere. McGill came up yesterday and they reported all of their players in fine condition, but the blue and white had a rather different story to tell.

The betting was 10 to 7 in favor of McGill on account of Varsity's weakness behind the line. Dutch McPherson and his gang of rooters, numbering nearly a thousand, enlivened the afternoon with their songs, yells, etc. and "Dutch" had several new ideas which pleased the crowd.

The score—McGill 11, Varsity 2.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Mostly fair and about the same temperature.

REELS STUCK IN MUD WHILE HOME BURNED

Montreal, Nov. 15.—While Mr. Cohen, his wife and four children were watching their house burn at No. [illegible] Cartier street to-day the hose wagon was stuck in the mud on the street a few blocks away. The family had a narrow escape from death in the blaze. The street was in a fearful condition, so one fire horse balked, and the wagon stuck fast. Other horses had to pull it out.

APPLYING THIS PASTE MAKES HAIRS VANISH

(Toilet Tips)

The popularity of the delatone treatment for removing hairy growths is due largely to the fact that it is quick in action and does not mar the skin, and since its introduction many beauty experts use it in preference to the electric needle. To remove the hair or fuzz you mix some powdered delatone with a little water to make a paste, apply to the objectionable hairs, then in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have entirely vanished. Excepting in rare instances, one treatment is sufficient.

SIX ALLEGED HANDBOOKS RAIDED WOMEN COMPLAINED TO POLICE

Toronto, Nov. 15.—At Saturday noon the police conducted further raids on supposed handbook keepers.

The following were taken to the police stations after a cleanup in which a dozen detectives took part:

Pat Elliott, [illegible] East Queen street, butcher.

Thomas Smith, cigars and poolroom, [illegible] East Queen street.

Geo. McFarlane, proprietor of the Rupert Hotel, East Queen street.

Sylvester O'Brien, tobacconist, [illegible] Parliament street.

John and James Chadwick, 104 Sherbourne street.

The police made the raids following numerous complaints received by Inspector Gregory from women that their husbands were being robbed.

When Inspector Gregory gets finished with the handbook fraternity in Toronto they will be a very chastened lot from present indications. "These raids are only preliminary," stated the inspector yesterday. I intend to clean out every handbook joint in Toronto before I get through and I have the men to do it. At the present time I am working on a few other cases and expect to have more men in the toils before next week is out."

The inspector's opinion of handbook men is very uncomplimentary, and he is camping on their trail night and day. "I have had little women and children come to me during the past two months," said he, "with tears in their eyes and state that their husbands and fathers were not only betting all their money with these sharks, but were being robbed. The victims of the handbook men are not usually high salaried men and can ill afford to lose any part of their wages. The bets taken average from $1 to $2 and track odds are but seldom given. As a rule the bookmaker gets his own odds. One instance may be given. A bank clerk in the city had got himself in the clutches of a handbook man and could not or felt that he dare not refuse to bet with him for fear that fellow would inform his employers.

SCOTTS WIDOW DECLINES ROYAL OFFER OF ROOMS

Refusal Taken as a Protest Against Way Antarctic Explorers' Fund Was Divided.

London, Nov. 15.—Lady Scott, the widow of the Antarctic explorer, was offered recently a suite of rooms in the Hampton Court Palace by King George. The suite are given for life to the widows of eminent men who are unable to maintain their persons with their private means.

To the surprise of the King, Mrs. Scott declined the offer on the ground that she could not pursue her art as a sculptress at Hampton Court. Her refusal is understood to be really a protest against the scale on which the fund in memory of her husband and his fellow heroes has been distributed as between them and the permanent memorial. She thinks the fund should have been so divided as to place her above the necessity of being an object of royal benevolence.

Quite Different.

"Oh, Willie, you must put your drum away. This is Sunday."

"But, mother, I was goin' to play some sacred music."

Rice forms the principle article of food for about one-third of the human race.

Chivalry of Boy Scouts

The Marchioness of Tullibardine, speaking at the Scout Craft Exhibition in the Music Hall, Edinburgh, said she thought the knights of the Middle Ages had handed on the torch of chivalry to the boy scouts, and it was for them, with their ideals of politeness to women and their daily search for opportunities of being helpful, to keep that torch burning brightly and to grow up fearless and of stainless honor.

Nightingale's Comrade

The death took place at the Hospital of St. John and Elizabeth, Grove End, St. John's Wood, of Mother Stanislaus Jones, one of the community of Sisters of Mercy at the institution. She was ninety years of age, and was the last survivor of the band of Sisters of Mercy who accompanied Miss Florence Nightingale to the Crimea in 1854 to minister to the sufferings of the sick and wounded. In 1897 Queen Victoria conferred upon her the Order of the Royal Red Cross.

A "Penniless" Gentleman

For breaking two windows in the office of a local solicitor, James Albert Saltoun, gentleman, was, at Berwick, fined $2.50, and ordered to pay $6.00 damages. Defendant stated that he was penniless, and that the solicitor held a policy on his life which he wanted in view of his financial condition. The solicitor said that the policy belonged to defendant's wife, and defendant received a weekly allowance sufficient for his maintenance.

AEROPLANE VS. AIRSHIP

The aeroplane has much greater elevation powers than the dirigible. It can climb to 15,000 feet, and then its endurance is about exhausted. The Zeppelin dirigibles can rise to 10,000 feet and then travel for twenty hours at that elevation.

The dirigible has an average speed of forty miles an hour, against seventy-five miles an hour of the aeroplane. But no aeroplane loade with guns and ammunition has yet travelled at a speed greater than sixty miles an hour. This is the speed of the Zeppelins being built for the German War Office. The aeroplane that runs short of fuel falls to earth. But when a dirigible has no more fuel it becomes a mere balloon.

This is the reason the Zeppelins are being built larger. They can then carry enough fuel to enable them to run 500 to 700 miles into the enemy's country and return without alighting.

LADY TARRINGTON one of the most beautiful women in England. As Eleanor Searay, she was maid of honor to Queen Alexandra during the reign of Edward VII.

Keep the Chicks Warm

Don't expect to be able to do justice to your chicks in boxes about the kitchen stove: have plenty of brooder capacity ready, and don't be afraid of having the brooders too hot if the chicks can go in and out at will. Keep a hen and her chicks in a nice sunny place out of the wind, letting her out only on warm days; give another one liberty to go and come at will, hustling for a living on cold, wet, windy days, the chicks following after chirping and crying to be cuddled; or try two fireless or brooders furnishing somewhat similar conditions, one a great abundance and one too little heat, and compare mortality. Filling a brood of chicks in a cold box is like putting twin babies in a cold bed and saying, "Now, kiddies, get warm;" they'll do it in time, but in the meantime, what?

"A Progressive Peterborough"

Our Point of View

What a low down trick they would play on us if the turkeys we are fattening for Thanksgiving Day should go on a hunger strike.

Pullman porters have formed a union. Anxious to learn, now, if there will be any walking delegates in its connections.

English suffragettes are now stamping their slogans on coins. Probably under the theory that money talks and circulates.

One British editor explains that Great Britain's sympathetic co-operation with the U. S. as regards Mexico is due to gratitude for taking Mrs. Pankhurst off its hands for a while.

How would the ladies connected with the churches in Canada like to have to guard them by day and night for fear they might be burned down by the militant suffragets? Yet this is what the ladies in England are doing. Each week a list of watchers is hung in the churches.

A New Jersey school teacher has resigned because she was not permitted to wear a tight skirt while on duty. Probably no member of the school board that laid down the dictum concerning the lady's skirt would think any woman had the right to say whether his trousers should be loose or otherwise.

How time flies! It is only twenty-two years since Sir John Macdonald passed off the scene, and yet Sir John never [illegible] an automobile, never heard the spattering of a motor bike, never held a strap in a trolley car, never posed for a motion picture, never posted a letter regularly for less than three cents, never listened to the squeaky voice of a phonograph, never saw an aviator capering round in the atmosphere with a heavier-than-air machine, never dispatched a message by wireless, and never was kept awake at night by the frantic howling of an "emergency."

THE TANGO AS A PROBLEM

The tango, it seems, has attained the dignity of a sociological problem, in the United States. Mayor Harrison of Chicago has appointed a committee of the city council to frame a tango ordinance, which will decide what is good in the modern dance and what is of the devil, so to speak. A Cleveland judge recently constituted himself a judge of terpsichorean morality, and, after witnessing several exhibitions of the famous dance, decided that it was within the pale of decency.

Now we hear that a New Jersey clergyman has faced the problem bravely. It seems that the members of his congregation abandoned tennis and golf and passed their leisure hours in the tango's exercise. A contest between the spiritual and the temporal seemed inevitable, but the clergyman was a resourceful man. He opened the door to the sinner and has established a school in which the young people of his parish are taught properly the modern dance.

The tango's invasion has swept everything before it with our friends to the south of us. A few years ago they were dancing the dignified waltz and quadrille of their fathers and mothers. Now their fathers and mothers in emulation of their children are leaping, dipping and squirming like frogs on a hot griddle. Canadians will no doubt follow suit in due course.

Couldn't Breathe Through His Nose Stuffed With Catarrh

Catarrhozone Inhaler the One Means of Relief, and it Cured Quickly

The extraordinary efficacy of Catarrhozone is without parallel. A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes, a harsh cough is cured in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system. In case of asthma and bronchitis the relief and certain cure that comes from the healing balsamic extracts in Catarrhozone is simply wonderful.

"For more than twenty years I suffered with a cough, bronchitis, asthma and nasal catarrh," writes J. F. Fenwick, of Staunton, P.O. "Every attack I had seemed to grow worse and I could hardly breathe on account of an accumulation of phlegm in the nose and throat. One day I tried Catarrhozone and in ten minutes was wonderfully relieved. I could breathe freely and naturally through the nose, and blood spitting was stopped—the phlegm was cleared away and my regular breathing restored. No remedy can do more than Catarrhozone."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00. Smaller sizes 25c and 50c. At all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE LIBERAL PARTY

People hear much these days about the rehabilitation and regeneration of the Liberal party. There is only one way to do it—that it is representatives in and out of Parliament should enter into rivalry with the Conservatives on the basis of service to Canada and to the Empire. That rivalry can only take the form of co-operation in what is good and condemnation of what is bad.

It cannot take the form of mere hide-bound partisanship.

It cannot take the form of obstructive tactics, whether by setting up unobtainable ideals, by criticising its opponents, by refusing to help.

It can only compete by showing itself more willing, more capable, more broad-minded, more imbued with the true ideals of representative government in service to the whole citizenship, and doing it with enough sincerity to warrant conviction.

The Liberal party is justly under a cloud. For fifteen years it was insolent, arrogant, self-sufficient and defiant.

The opportunity to rehabilitate the party is in the hands of its representatives in Parliament and in the Senate. By their works and aid, not by their noise and hindrance, will the independent citizens judge them.

At Grimsby Workhouse when a guardian enters a room where a pauper is seated the pauper is expected to rise to his feet.

Hen Nurses Kittens

A cat in Devon which gave birth to four kittens in a hen's nest was driven away by the hen, which then refused to give up possession of the young.

Fortune For Tapestry

At the sale of Sir Lionel Phillips' furniture at Christie's four panels of Burgundian tapestry, representing historical subjects, sold for $73,500.

Prize Dog For the King

The King accepted from Colonel the Hon. Le Poer Trench, of Windsor, a yellow Russian retriever, St. Hubert's Peter, which won the first prize and championship at Cruft's Show.

Toothache Causes Suicide

Recurring attacks of toothache were stated at a Coseley (Staffordshire) inquest to have been the cause of the suicide of Ada Rose Toy, aged twenty-one, a domestic servant, who drowned herself in a canal.

Clergyman Dies in a Café

While the Rev. T. H. Austin was having tea in a café in Leicester he suddenly collapsed and died. The rev. gentleman had been vicar of Queniborough, Leicestershire, for over thirty years.

Shark Landed by Trawler

A steam trawler landed at Swansea, Wales, a shark measuring 15 feet in length, with a girth of 8 feet. The shark was caught in the nets about 120 miles northwest of the Fastnet Rock.

Gipsy Women's Gold

Two gipsies were fined $20 each at Reigate for assault. They fought with a farmer and his men for the possession of two horses. The court was crowded with gipsies of both sexes, and the fines were paid in gold by some women.

Home Manufactures

Strong appeals were made in speeches at a meeting of the Cork Industrial Development Association in favor of support for Irish manufactures. The City High Sheriff said their splendid motto was: "Go buy the products of your own land," and it should be impressed on the mind of every man and woman in the country.

Costly Cat and Dog Scene

While Mr. T. Connolly was showing a handsome cat to a visitor in a bar at Monaghan, Ireland, a dog came on the scene and the cat jumped at the back of the shelf, knocking down and smashing forty bottles of whiskey and brandy valued at $60.

"Freedom of the Workhouse"

Notice of motion was refused by the chairman of the Cork Board of Guardians to confer the freedom of the workhouse on the Lord Chancellor, "as the Corporation were going to confer the freedom of the city on him," the chairman describing the motion as "ridiculous."

Are Ladies' Hats Perishable Goods?

An amusing incident occurred at Aberdeen during the carters' strike. An agreement was arrived at with the Northern Co-operative Company that the carters of that concern should remove only perishable goods from the station. A Co-operative lorry began to load goods for the company's stores, and the strikers' delegate found that the goods included ladies' headgear. He remained dissatisfied with the explanation that the hats were perishable goods.

Token for Speaking Welsh

The latest practical step taken by the Cymry Cymreig Caerdydd towards the utilization of the Welsh language in everyday life and business is a beautiful button which is to be worn by the members and all Welsh-speaking Welshmen who may care to do so. There is every reason to believe that the button will be adopted universally as a token of a pledge to utilise the mother tongue on all legitimate occasions, and never to address a wearer of the button except in Welsh.

No More Game Gallows

For many generations it has been the custom in the Midlands to hang vermin which they shoot on gallows, probably as a warning to others. This custom is to be discontinued on several estates in Buckinghamshire, the keepers having intimated that in future they will be satisfied if they receive the feet of the destroyer of game. The frequent sights of rows of weasels, stoats, ferrets, jays, and hawks hanging in a state of decomposition will thus be avoided.

Powerful Magnet

What is described as "the most powerful electro-magnet in the world" is installed in the laboratories of Professor Becquerel, of the Polytechnic School of Paris.

According to a French scientist potatoes must be added to the list of radioactive substances.

BOY SHOT PLAYING BATTLE FOUR WERE USING RIFLES

Thos. Price Died in Hospital--Youths Began Firing at One Another Because Game Was Scarce

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Thomas Price, of 53 Duchess street, died in the Western Hospital at 6.15 p.m. as the result of a play battle between four young boys using real rifles Saturday afternoon near Port Credit.

Cecil Babcock, of 1 Otter avenue, is being held by the police at No. 3 Station on a charge of having inflicted the wounds.

The two boys, but 17 years old, went out to Port Credit with 22-calibre rifles to shoot birds along with W. Sherman, 226 Mutual street, and R. Malcolm, of 107 Mutual.

They were out near the gold club, and seeing no birds began to fire around at different objects. Soon after each one got behind a post and they began firing at one another. Price was wounded in the forehead, just above the left eye. He was rushed to the Western Hospital in a private ambulance called by the others.

Babcock, who is said to have fired the shot that struck Price, said to the Police that he returned Price's fire and then broke his gun to reload when he turned he saw Price fall to the ground wounded.

It is said that the boys had no quarrel, but just started to "shoot around for fun."

The others are being held to await developments.

PUPLIC OPINION

WOOD MEASUREMENT

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I notice in your valuable paper that some of the users of wood are very much disappointed in the measurement. It seems rather queer that such should be the case as our wood dealers are—or should be—on the square. However, it appears, strange to say, that a cord of wood measured in the yard containing 128 cubic feet, should not hold out if piled and measured again in another yard. I would be pleased to have the opinion of some one who has had experience in this matter, explain why there should be a shrinkage, if any; also should there be a shrinkage in a cord of four foot wood measured in the wood yard as such, then sawed in two cuts, and repiled? My experience as a buyer has been very disappointing. Will be obliged if someone will explain.

A Collier-composer

Among the residents of Bargoed, South Wales, is a man who has written and composed over 100 hymns and many songs. Yet he is only a working collier. Since he was twelve years of age David Jones has earned his livelihood in the mine, but he always had a passion for music.

Curiously enough his best work has been done when he has been in trouble. One hymn, entitled "Beautiful Home," which is sung in every household in South Wales, he wrote and composed after the death of one of his children.

Centenarian as Lodging-house Keeper

Mrs. Elizabeth Roberts, of Brynkir, Carnarvonshire, Wales, celebrated her 100th birthday recently. She was born in the district, and has lived there all her life. So independent and hard-working is she that she resents all idea of applying for an old age pension, and she still obtains her livelihood by catering for tourists and taking in lodgers.

Peer Sells Big Estate

Lord Joicey's Gregynog estate, Montgomeryshire, which comprises 16,000 acres, worth $60,000 a year net, was privately sold for $1,800,000. The timber alone is valued at $250,000. This was the property on which Lord Sudeley spent a large fortune. Lord Joicey also expended a very large sum upon the place after he acquired it. As a result it is one of the model estates in the Kingdom, the 250 farms which it includes all being in excellent order. Although the property was disposed of, the tenants will have an opportunity of acquiring their holdings.

WORLD'S LONLIEST SPOT

An English statistician has finally decided on the loneliest spot on the earth. Tristan a Acuna it is called, and it is an island hundreds and hundreds of miles away from its nearest neighbors. A tiny oasis in a boundless ocean, no matter which way you go. It is rocky, with a solitary mountain 1,000 feet high. A shepherd community lives there, farmers, cattle raisers, etc. In the valley of the island are fertile fields where potatoes are grown, and the food of the people consists of beef, fowls and fish. The island formerly produced many fruits and vegetables, but they can no longer be grown there, for the island is overrun by rats which escaped from a ship and the people have never been able to rid themselves wholly of them.

Messages for the Future

The modern Historic Record Association has formed a novel plan of delivering messages from its members to their descendants 100 years from now.

Two envelopes of durable Japanese vellum are sent to each member, with the request that genealogical memoranda, messages and photographs be inclosed. The sealed envelopes will be deposited in lead-lined steel chests. One will be stored with the association's collections in the New York Public Library.

A copperplate inscription will direct that the other chest be put in a vault near the Cheops pyramid in Egypt. In this way the insurance is taken against possible destruction by war or natural causes.

The chests will also contain documents, tablets, and photographs relating to affairs of the present day.

Mirrors at Road Crossings

Mirrors at road crossings for the use of warning automobiles are commencing to be used in England, and the results are very good. They are put in places where the crossings are specially dangerous, and the use of large mirrors allows the driver to see the reflection of cars which are coming in other directions. Another use for mirrors is upon heavy-power wagons, where the driver cannot hear the signals of automobiles back of him so as to have him take the right-hand side of the road to allow them to pass, for the noise of the power wagon often prevents the horn from being heard.

Drink With Care

A new form of sanitary bubbling fountain for public places has four knife edges projecting from its opening to prevent a person putting his mouth against the orifice.

Australia's production of gold has decreased steadily for the last three years.

Wealth From the Forests

It is now commercially possible to reduce the fifty to sixty per cent. waste formerly left in the woods by the lumbermen to no more than five per cent., by a combination of three well-developed chemical industries, namely, paper-making, wood-distillation (in a modified form) and the manufacture of resin oils. Practically all the valuable constituents from the stumps, tops, branches and defective stems which would otherwise be left to rot in the forest are thus converted into useful commodities.

Royal Patronage and Liquor Ads.

Father Bolet of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Montreal, sent a petition to King George asking him to forbid the use of his Royal name and title or the word "royalty," or any word indicating Royal patronage, in any liquor advertisement anywhere within the Empire.

New Name for Power Unit

A new power unit, known as the myriawatt, is favored in place of the boiler-horsepower unit by some societies of electrical and mechanical engineers.

Indestructible Stairway

By mixing carborundum with concrete a Paris architect succeeded in building a stairway in a public building that seems to defy wear despite its use by thousands of persons daily.

Cement Mushrooms

Among the most uncommon uses to which concrete has been put in Belgium is the making of mushrooms for decorating gardens, and dwarfish figures of gnomes for supporting the garden seats. If the imagination were sufficiently elastic, it might be presumed that the gnomes had pillaged the mushroom garden at night and, to escape detection, had crawled under the seat, where they became concrete images.

Strength in the Arms

Equality of strength in both arms occurs almost twice as frequently with women as with men, more men than women being stronger in the right arm than in the left.

THE BRIGHT SIDE.

There is many a rest in the road of life,
If we only would stop to take it,
And many a tone from the betterland
If the querulous heart would wake it;
To the sunny soul that is full of hope,
And whose beautiful trust ne'er faileth,
The grass is green and the flowers are bright,
Though the wintery storm prevaileth.

Better to hope, though the clouds hang low,
And to keep, the eyes still lifted,
For the sweet, blue sky will still peep through,
When the ominous clouds are rifted!
There was never a night without a day,
Or an evening without a morning,
And the darkest hour, as the proverb goes,
Is the hour before the dawning.

There is many a gem in the path of life,
Which we pass in our idle pleasure,
That is richer far than the jeweled crown,
Or the miser's hoarded treasure;
It may be the love of a little child,
Or a mother's prayers to heaven,
Or only a beggar's grateful thanks
For a cup of water given.

Better to weave in the web of life
A bright and golden filling,
And do God's will with a ready heart,
And hands that are swift and willing,
Than to snap the delicate, slender threads
Of our curious lives asunder,
And then blame heaven for the tangled ends,
And sit and grieve and wonder.

-- KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED --

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its features and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this news through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

He feels it is part of his service to keep the public informed.

SOME VETERAN RACERS ON THE SEA AND LAND

Old Vessels, Engines and Men That Decline to be Relegated to the Scrap Heap

The Britannia, King George's big yacht, is now twenty years old, but is still able to hold her own against almost anything afloat of her own size. Racing yachts are supposed to be fragile affairs, but some of them last a deal longer than anyone would be likely to imagine. Britannia, for example, has several competitors to which, in spite of her score of years of life, she is a mere chicken. Of them all, Bloodhound possesses by far the most marvellous record. Bloodhound is a forty-ton cutter, which was built so long ago as 1874. In 1907, after a long career of successful racing, she was sold to be broken up, when Lord Ailsa, for whom she was originally built, bought her in to save her from the shipbreaker's yard. He refitted her, and that year she won thirty prizes in forty starts, sixteen being firsts. In 1908 she was racing again, when she was run into by another yacht, L'Esperance, and was got on to the mud only with great difficulty in time to save her from sinking. It was thought that this would end her career, but her owner raised his old favorite and repaired her, and 1909 proved her most successful of all seasons. [illegible]

It was in 1851 that the all-conquering schooner America arrived in British waters and swept the board, carrying all before her in the events for which she entered. After a long and eventful career, in which she figured as cruiser, blockade runner, and practice vessel for naval cadets, she was refitted as a racer in 1875 and finished fourth in a fleet of twenty-five starters. She was then sold at auction for $5,000, and so late as 1897 was still going strong.

Pioneer Locomotive

Yachts are not the only products of man's ingenuity which retain their speed to an advanced age. That most famous of all Great Western Railway engines, the Lord of the Isles, was designed by Sir Daniel Gooch in 1847, and soon after she was built attained the then unheard-of speed of seventy-seven miles an hour. It was not until the year 1906 that the Lord of the Isles and her sister the North Star were sent to the scrap heap, and they were still capable of holding their own in the matter of speed with most of the later productions of railway engineering skill.

In years to come our descendants will look with interest at some of the famous motors which [illegible] in the first decade of the twentieth century. A petrol motor ages more rapidly than any other form of engine. F. T. Jane, the British naval expert, drives a racer which was built as long ago as 1902, yet still possesses a tremendous turn of speed.

Weston's Little Walk

On the race track we find horses which, though they have attained what is for a horse old age, can still beat competitors of half their age. Of these, Manifesto and Dean Swift are the two most notable examples of recent years. Manifesto was somewhere about eighteen when he won his last Grand National, and Dean Swift was flat racing and winning up to almost ten years old.

Of veteran racers of the two-legged variety, it is probable that the most wonderful of recent years was Edward Weston. Having once walked from New York to San Francisco he thinks nothing of a 1,000-mile jaunt.

TRANSIT TO THE MOON

A Scientist Thinks it May Yet Become Practicable

Garrett P. Serviss, who has written a number of works on popular astronomy, believes that the problem of aerial navigation is so far solved that we may now indulge ourselves in speculations about possible voyages beyond the atmosphere of this globe.

"I have begun to think that now that we have achieved the navigation of the air the providing of sufficient food and air are the only difficulties which remain to be overcome before man fly to the moon. To be sure a new motive force must be obtained but electrical propulsion hints at what it may be.

"There are only two forces known which overcome gravity—namely, pressure of light and electricity. So I say that the first flying to the moon will be done on the principle of the pith ball, which flies away from the conductor of an electric machine.

"When this has been accomplished it only remains to do what [illegible] for so long a journey. The idea is really not [illegible]."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

WOMEN ACTIVE IN MANY FIELDS

Mme. Dieulafoy, the famous explorer and traveler, is the only woman in France who is permitted to wear male attire, a law being passed specially for her benefit.

Norwegian Judge

The first woman judge in Norway, in the person of Miss Ruth Sorensen, was appointed at Hammerfest. She passed the lawyer's examination in 1909.

Historian Receives Degree

Mrs. J. R. Green, who has been described as "the cleverest woman in London," was given the degree of Doctor of Literature by the Liverpool University. She is an historian of exceptional ability, and has written a number of such works. Her book on Henry II. is considered to be the best life of any mediaeval king.

This Woman Drives a Hack

A woman hack driver was licensed in Mount Vernon, N.Y. And why not? A woman who knows how to drive a horse is apt to be a little more careful, if anything, than a man, and the carrying of visitors from railway stations to their destinations in suburban towns would seem to be an agreeable occupation for an active woman or girl.

A Modest Scientist

At a convention of the British Association, held in London, Eng., which was attended by many scientists from Europe, Madame Curie, the discoverer of polonium and co-discoverer with her husband of radium, was described by the president, Sir Oliver Lodge, as the "greatest of women scientists." Madame Curie possesses the modesty of genius and could scarcely be induced to speak at the meetings, either of herself or her work, even during a long discussion on radium.

Frog Farming Pays

Miss Ina Morgan, of Maryland has the distinction of being the only woman frog farmer in the United States. Possessed of marshy land which was absolutely useless for agricultural purposes, she conceived the idea of frog-farming and forthwith started a "frog preserve." The adventure proved a great success. So much so, that Miss Morgan has as much as she can do to cope with the orders. The extra large specimens of froghood she sells to biological laboratories, receiving as much as $3 apiece for them, while the bullfrogs, which she breeds for eating purposes, are shipped in large quantities to Europe, where epicures constantly demand the tickling of their palates by frogs' legs.

George Eliot as a Hostess

George Eliot, said Mrs. W. K. Clifford in The Nineteenth Century, as a hostess exercised a rare fascination on her privileged guests. "The kindly expression of her wonderful face gave courage to the scared newcomer," and the "exquisite thrill that went through you at the sound of her low, measured voice, at the sight of her little, generally undeveloped smile, was beyond all description." The talk at her receptions, however, must have been pretty solemn, for Mrs. Clifford spoke of "those rather terrible Sunday afternoons" when the conversaziones were held.

Motoring For Women

The feminine chauffeur is becoming more general, and a large number of women are turning their attention to motor-driving as a means of earning a livelihood. There are big opportunities for women to learn the work, but it is useless for any woman to think to take up the calling unless she has exceedingly steady nerves, eyes, and hands, besides other very necessary qualifications. Beyond actual chauffeur work, there are other ways of turning motor-driving to account. A woman with brains can do well by organizing motor tours. If she has not a car of her own, it is often possible to make arrangements with a big firm. There are great openings, too, for women teachers of motoring, both private and public.

The Visiting Cook

A new profession for women—that of visiting cook—has been opened up by the exigencies of the domestic situation. A young lady in London, England, who qualified as a visiting cook said this about her methods. "My system is to consult with the housewife or hotel manager charged with the arrangement of dinner, luncheon or supper parties to discover the scale of entertainment that is desired, and then submit a menu. The cost of the food itself is the affair of the employer. My fee is for the preparation of the meal, and varies according to the length and character of the menu. I also like to design the decoration of the table and room in which my dinners or luncheons are to be served, in order that the complete effect may be pleasing."

BUGS RAYMOND THE BEST MAN THAT EVER DONNED A SUIT

Leader of Giants Wants a Recruit to Start in With a Blank Mind and Learn All Over

How to become a big league ball player? Well, the less you remember about the game the better off you will be, said John J. ("Muggsy") McGraw to a sporting writer who put the question. What we want to teach you when you try for the Giants is the game and how to play it. If you have speed in your legs, in your arms; if you are physically strong, know human nature, don't drink or keep late hours, don't use tobacco, you'll make a ball player.

When I send my scouts out to look for material the last thing I say to them is: "Get the men with the physical qualifications and I'll make players out of them."

Some of the best ball playing material is found in the small towns. By this I do not mean brilliance but stability. I would rather have a steady player than one who takes sports and plays to the grandstand. A player recruited from a college or high school usually thinks he knows enough about the game already and needs no further tutoring. The country boy, as a rule, wants to learn and is willing to be taught. However, college men often make good players.

Drink is the bane of baseball. It has ruined some of the best players—Bugs Raymond, for instance. There is the best man that ever donned a suit. Drink ruined him and finally killed him. He used to take from twenty to thirty drinks in a day even before he quit the game. Smoking, also, is bad for the wind.

Another trouble we have with players is drinking water on the field. This is what we call the "water habit." Drinking water while playing makes a man balky and may result in cramps. If a player gargles his mouth while playing it really does him as much good, if not more, than to swallow it.

I advise my players to eat only two meals a day and never eat lunch. I have not eaten lunch for 10 years, even during the winter months. If one must eat, it should be a sandwich or light lunch before playing; a hearty dinner may result in cramps the same as drinking water.

I am not in favor of this winter training. The less training a player does in winter the better off he will be for the season's work. I'm not in favor of indoor training of any kind. This is where the country boy has the advantage. He works in the open air and can stand harder work than the city boy. If one must have winter exercise, play handball for the wind. However, if possible, running should be practiced on the roads.

A Blind Bowler

August Stanuck, a blind youth, made a score of 174 in a bowling tournament at New York. Stanuck and eight other sightless persons played 18 games in the tournament scoring an average of above 100 each. Rarely did the ball go down the gutter. When pins were left standing after the first ball was sent down the alleys, the bowlers were aided by shouted directions as to the location of the remaining pins.

TOWN BELOW SEA

Greek Lieutenant's Discovery Off the Isle of Lemnos

A town below the sea has been discovered by Lieutenant Sakopulos, of Athens, while carrying out observations in connection with his naval duties, to the east of the island of Lemnos.

On reefs marked on the British Admiralty charts under the name of the Pharos Bank he found, at a depth of twenty-five metres, some ancient ruins which were perfectly visible, and proved the existence of a town of about three miles in circumference. Orders have been issued by the Greek Ministry of Marine to carry out scientific researches on the spot.

Photographic Power of Wood

Experiments recently made have shown that a section of a tree trunk, or of a branch, cut across the grain, possesses the power to impress upon a photographic plate in the dark a distinct image of itself, plainly showing the rings of growth. There is a great difference in the intensity of this power among different kinds of wood. The conifers (pines and firs) possess it in high degree. The wood is placed either in contact with the plate or at a short distance from it, and the exposure varies from half an hour to 18 hours. Boards long exposed to the air, an oak box 100 years old, rotten wood from a stump, and even bog-wood, have been found still photographically active.

BETTING ON BALL GAMES AND AT HORSE RACES

The determination of the baseball managers to put down betting on all baseball grounds in the United States, says the Montreal Witness, is a sign of the times, which shows how strong and how general among the audience people of the country has become the belief that betting is an evil that is objectionable in itself and abhorrent on account of the class of people who become its devotees. When Governor Hughes, some years ago, tried to drive it from the race track in the State of New York, the legislature would not pass a bill at his recommendation. By taking the stump, he proved to them that among the citizens of the state he had an overwhelming following in his anti-betting crusade. One would hardly have thought, however, that the feeling against it would have been so strong among the "fans," who go to watch baseball games. That these are against betting there is no room for doubt, for Mr. Ban Johnson, president of the American League, knows his clientele with a thoroughness that was perhaps not surpassed by the late P. T. Barnum. At Philadelphia, detectives, placed in the grand stand, arrested thirty-eight spectators, whom, by a good deal of previous study, they had succeeded in identifying as gamblers. At New York, a hundred and fifty men who presented tickets at the gates, were refused admission to the baseball grounds because of their betting habits, and fifty others who got past the gates were subsequently ejected from the stands. There is nothing heroic or highly moral in Mr. Johnson's position. He is merely doing it as a protection to the financial interest of his league. It is noteworthy, however, as an evidence of the popular attitude towards the bettor. In Canada, we are doing little or nothing to check the evil which is being spread by an almost continuous series of horseracing meets, and by an influx of professional gamblers from New York where horserace betting has been put an end to. If let alone the evil will increase until it becomes such a menace to morality that it will create a general revulsion of feeling against it.

1884 Aliens Became Naturalized in England Last Year

According to a report by the Home Office, 1,884 aliens became naturalised Britons during last year. Of this number, Russia supplied no fewer than 455; but there was only one Bulgarian who decided to abandon the troublous land of his birth in favor of our more peace-loving country. On the other hand, 330 Germans wavered in their allegiance to the Kaiser, and chose to become loyal subjects of King George V.; whilst, despite the prospect of having to serve longer with the colors in the future, only 23 Frenchmen deserted the Republic, so greatly in need of men, and came to Britain, there to be naturalised. Of these new Britons, 1,323 took up their abodes in England and Wales, and 638 of them live in London.

A dramatic reunion of an aged husband and wife took place at a house in St. [illegible] street, Montreal, when Sergt. Wolland, who had been mourned by his wife as dead for 35 years, suddenly appeared at her kitchen door. Wolland had not the slightest idea in the world when he knocked that his long lost wife lived within. Mrs. Wolland was washing up the dishes when the knock came. She opened the door, a weary old man without begged for a bite to eat. One glance was sufficient for each to recognize in the other the long lost partner in life.

Sergt. Wolland's tale was a thrilling one. Thirty-five years ago, while he and his wife were living in Egypt, he enlisted under the Turkish banner. He was at Plevna and was taken prisoner by the Russians. He was confined to a dungeon for a year and a half; when the war ended he found his wife had left Egypt for some foreign country. For thirty-five years he searched the world for her.

"Tramp" Ships and Captains

A tramp steamship is a "tramp" because she wanders the world over, carrying the most advantageous cargoes she can procure, and proceeding to any port, no matter how unfamiliar and remote, to which her manifest takes her; she is not a "tramp" because she goes about in the tatters of poverty. Quite the contrary is true. There are great tramp lines immensely wealthy and powerful, and the ships flying these flags are modern in every respect, equipped with wireless, of vast tonnage, and most comfortably appointed in respect to the officers' quarters.

THE ENGLISH WAITER

One hundred and fifty British waiters and cooks left London for Canada, to take positions on dining cars. Nearly every day the United States sends fresh demands for British waiters, for there the old family butler is snapped up as eagerly as our art treasures.

Neither the United States nor Canada shares the prejudice of some English hotel proprietors that British waiters have not the right temperament for the work. "A nation that can produce the perfect butler," said Mr. Collings of the Loyal British Waiters' Society, "could, if encouragement and proper training were given, produce waiters unequalled anywhere on the continent. The old family butler, who is almost always British, possesses, if anyone does, the correct temperament. With him it almost amounts to an hereditary gift."

The fashionable clubs in St. James' street, such as Arthur's, Boodle's, Brooks's, and White's, employ only British waiters. Many have grown old in the service, and are consequently allowed little formalities with the members. Not long ago a very old waiter with a shaking hand poured out a glass of wine for Mr. Asquith, asking politely: "How are your little [illegible], sir?" The Prime Minister was not offended. He knew the sterling worth of the old man, which had won him the respect of all the members.—London Daily Mail.

London and Its Lumber

London is the most conservative city in Europe, if not in the world. It loves its lumber. You may still see those notices attached to lamp posts which announce "Standing for Four Hackney Carriages," or whatever the number may be, though for years no vehicles of any kind have stood there. Perhaps it is as well that these relics should remain; they are a tiny part of our social history. They will probably remain when we are flying to dinner or the theatre in aeroplanes. By that time people won't know what "hackney carriage" meant, and there will be [illegible] in the "Notes and Queries" of the period. For each generation hands down to the next certain nuts to crack.—The London Chronicle.

Child's Fearful Experience

A six-year-old girl, daughter of a laborer named Charles Craig, of Ardmore, near Limavady, had an alarming experience, and narrowly escaped a fearful death. When playing with her sisters near the sluice at the Walk Mills she fell into the mill pond and was carried through a large pipe almost to the wheel of the mill, which was in motion at the time. Fortunately, when almost touching the wheel, her foot caught and held her fast. Her little sister raised the alarm, and the girl was extricated by some of the mill hands in a semi-conscious state.

FAMOUS SONG WRITERS

Author of "In Old Madrid"—Wrote 2,000 Ballads

One of the most prolific writers of songs who ever lived died in England, in the person of Mr. Clifton Bingham. More than 2,000 lyrics and ballads flowed from his facile pen, and among them were some of the last thirty years. He once said that he wrote on an average seventy to eighty ballads a year. Mr. Bingham scored his first success as a young man with "Love's Old Sweet Song," which was set to music by T. L. Molloy. Then came "Dear Heart," to music by Tito Mattei, and "In Old Madrid," with music by Trotere. In the case of the last-named the music was composed first and the verses written to it. The score lay in Mr. Bingham's desk for months, and repeatedly the author received postcards from the composer asking, "What about my music?" At last the inspiration came, and the words were written.

Mr. Bingham was a born ballad-writer. "Songs must come from the heart," he said, "and go to the heart." "Back to the Old Love" was written on a visiting card, and another song on the top of an omnibus at Brighton. More than one song was written in an underground train, but most of them were composed at a little desk which his father gave him. Mr. Bingham was a dark-skinned, active, genial little man, with a heavy black moustache, a slight lisp (which he vainly struggled to overcome), a pair of the merriest brown-grey eyes, and a winning manner that made him a universal favorite.

At the time when Mr. Bingham was at the height of his popularity the popular song was, as a rule, limited in its subjects to "angels and dying children." Commenting on this characteristic he used to tell a good story.

"I had sold many dying child lyrics, and I determined to go to London to see my publisher. This was my first professional visit to him, and when I presented myself he stared at me in amazement. 'Good gracious!' he cried, 'judging from your songs I thought you were an old man with one foot in the grave!'"

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD LIMIT.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including Wednesday, the 31st of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on a certain area situated on the [illegible] River in the District of [illegible].

Tenderers shall state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to the Crown dues of [illegible] per cord for Spruce, and [illegible] per cord for other pulpwoods, or such other rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the right to operate a pulp mill and a paper mill on or near the area referred to.

Such tenderers shall be required to erect a mill or mills on or near the territory and to manufacture the wood into pulp and paper in the Province of Ontario—the paper mill to be erected when directed by the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Parties making tender will be required to deposit with their tender a marked cheque payable to the Honourable the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, for ten per cent. of the amount of their tender, to be forfeited in the event of their not entering into an agreement to carry out the conditions, etc.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For particulars as to description of territory, capital to be invested, etc., apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.
Toronto, Ontario, September 17th, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked on the envelope "Tender for Christian Island Timber," will be received until noon on Tuesday, the 18th day of November next, for 400,000 feet, B. M., of timber of ten inches and upwards in diameter at the stump, comprising about fifty per cent. of Maple, twenty-five per cent of Beech, the remainder being Birch, Basswood, Ash and Hemlock, to be taken out by the Indians of Christian Island during the coming winter and delivered on the shore of the island at convenient points for shipment.

Tenderers should state the prices they will pay for the different kinds of timber per M. feet, B.M., over and above the Crown dues as stated hereunder.

Measurements of the timber are to be made by an Ontario licensed culler and sworn returns of same shall be furnished in accordance with the Timber Regulations of the Department.

An accepted cheque on any chartered Canadian Bank for $300.00, made payable to the order of the undersigned, should accompany each tender, which in the event of failure to carry out the undertaking, will be forfeited to the Department. Cheques sent by unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Reasonable advances to the Indians if required, as the work progresses, shall be made by the successful tenderer.

The Crown dues payable on timber as per tariff are as follows:—

Maple and Ash, $[illegible] per M. feet, B.M.

Beech, Birch and Basswood, $1.50 per M. feet, B.M.

Hemlock, $1.00 per M. feet, B.M.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted, and the Department will not pay for the unauthorized insertion of this advertisement in any newspaper.

DUNCAN C. SCOTT,
Deputy Superintendent General
Of Indian Affairs.
Department of Indian Affairs,
[illegible] Ottawa, October [illegible], 1913.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for 200-ton Mechanical Coaling Plants with Sandhouses" will be received at the office of The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway at Ottawa, Ontario, until twelve o'clock noon of the 7th day of January, 1914, for the construction and erection complete, in accordance with the plans and specifications of the Commissioners of six 200-ton Mechanical Coaling Plants with Sandhouses complete, to be erected at the following points on the line of the National Transcontinental Railway, as set forth below, viz.:

One at Monk, P.Q. .....Mile 265.2
One at Bridge, P.Q...... " 409.6
One at Fitzpatrick, P.Q. " 599.2
One at Parent, P.Q. .... " 705.3
One at Doucet, P.Q. ... " 806.4
One at O'Brien, P.Q.... " 915.4

Plans may be seen and forms of tender and specifications obtained at the office of Mr. W. J. Press, Mechanical Engineer, Ottawa, Ontario, and at the offices of Mr. A. E. Doucet, District Engineer, Quebec, and Mr. T. S. Armstrong, District Engineer, Cochrane, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders must be made on the printed forms supplied by The Commissioners, and that each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a Chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, for a sum equal to five per cent (5 per cent.) of the amount of the tender.

The cheque deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected, will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,

WHERE CANADA LEADS

Canada possesses [illegible] park in the world—"[illegible] Switzerlands into one"—thousands of square miles in extent.

Montreal has the largest grain conveying system in the world.

The largest pulp wood resources in the world are in the Dominion. These are being renewed by fresh growths, so that the supply will be inexhaustible.

Canada has the largest consecutive wheat field in the world—an area which is constantly extending and which justifies the prediction of Lord Strathcona that Canada will soon be the granary of the world.

The thickest coal seam in the world is found in Nova Scotia—[illegible] feet.

The greatest sea fisheries in the world are those of the Dominion. These are worth, east and west, almost $30,000,000 per annum, and are capable of indefinite expansion. The salmon industry in British Columbia, great as it is, is in its infancy.

Canada has the largest nickel mines in the world; upon these the naval authorities are in great measure dependent, as nickel is employed in the armoring of warships.

The Dominion possesses a greater railway mileage than Australia and New Zealand or Italy and Spain combined, and more than all the South American countries.

The largest grain mills in the world are by the Dominion.

The largest elevator in the world is found at Port Arthur, with a capacity of seven million bushels.

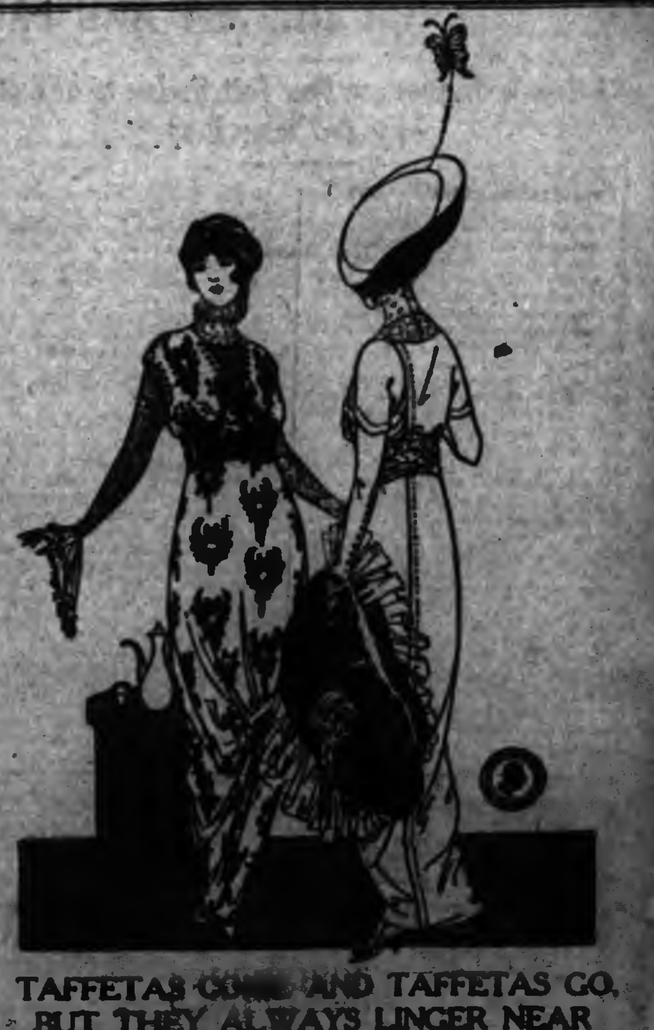
The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Transmission Line—[illegible] miles, is the longest in the world.

JOHNNY EVERS

"The brains of the infield," Johnny Evers, second baseman of the Chicago Cub team, has been called. Evers is a great ball player, one of the greatest infielders of the day, in fact. Despite his crabbed disposition he is popular with his teammates, if not with outsiders with whom he comes into contact.

Mother Nurses Dead Child

It was stated at the inquest at Ascot, Berkshire, on a child named Robert Bulpin, who died of pneumonia that the mother had nursed the child for two hours and put it to bed, not knowing it was dead.



TAFFETAS COME AND TAFFETAS GO, BUT THEY ALWAYS LINGER NEAR

Afternoon dresses are [illegible] more elaborate each day. The above are draped, and many of the fashions show a two-toned effect brought about by an underblouse of figured net or lace and the overblouse either of chiffon or the material of the skirt. One of the most [illegible] materials for these [illegible] afternoon dresses is taffeta, a soft, supple quality that lends itself easily and gracefully to draping. The printed taffetas are especially effective. One extremely smart dress of which 7725 is almost an exact [illegible] part was in a dull, dark blue taffeta with a queer conventionalized design in a very soft rose color. The underblouse was of pompadour silk. The drapery in front was caught with an odd looking ornament of rose colored [illegible].

7726 is another draped model that would be excellent for satin, crepe de chine or Canton crepe. Canton crepe is one of the newer crepes and a most graceful clinging stuff.

GIRL IN MAN'S DRESS

Masquerading Card Room Worker Sent to Prison for Theft

Sentence of six months' hard labor was passed at Bolton Quarter Sessions on Martha Alice Hodson, twenty-two, a cardroom worker, for theft.

Counsel said the young woman had an "extraordinary mania for masquerading in male attire."

It was shown that a year or two ago she was arrested, attired in male clothing. In December last she was liberated on license from a Borstal institution, and returned to her home in Bolton. A fortnight later she disappeared, and obtained lodgings in Blackhorse street. She stayed a couple of nights, and then disappeared taking with her a full suit of clothing belonging to a young man in the house.

She proceeded to Rumworth Park, where, in one of the buildings she cut off her tresses and changed her own clothing—which she left behind—for that of the young man's which she had stolen.

Thus disguised she obtained lodgings as a young man at several different houses, representing herself to be employed successively in local factories, or as a collier.

The accused pleaded hard for leniency, but the Recorder said she had had her chances.

INHERITED WEAKNESS

Statistics Proving in a Startling Manner the Truth of Heredity

Tuberculosis is an infectious disease. It is "caught" from some preceding case, though not in so direct fashion as measles. It is not directly inherited, like feeble-mindedness and some forms of insanity.

But a weak constitution which makes the individual easy prey for the tubercle germ is inherited; and this is a point too often overlooked in studying this disease.

An English investigator examined the families of nearly 1,000 convicts with reference to tuberculosis—convicts chosen because he had them to hand and could question them at pleasure. The student tried to find the relation—if any—between consumption in the parent and frequency of the same disease in the children. The figures given take account of the children surviving at the age of 14 years, the age when liability to tuberculosis first becomes great.

In families where neither parent had tuberculosis, only 3.13 per cent. of the children reaching 14 years of age were affected with the disease.

In families where the mother alone had tuberculosis, 24.67 per cent. of the children surviving to the same age were tubercular.

In families where the father alone had consumption, 24.79 per cent. of the children had contracted the complaint.

In families where both parents were consumptive, 37.50 per cent. of the children were affected.

Not all the amazing difference shown by these figures is due to hereditary weakness. Children of a consumptive father or mother are more exposed to infection than children of healthy parents. But after this allowance is made, there remains a surplus of cases in consumptive families which can be accounted for only by inherited weak health.

Punishment as Preventive

Commissioner Starr of Toronto's Juvenile Court, stated in an address that the object of the institution of which he is the head, was to do something for every boy and girl towards making them good and loyal subjects of Canada, and the empire. Punishment had not proven to be a preventive. What the juvenile court was trying to work with was love. Restitution, daily reports, parole, these are the instruments employed. In one year 25,000 children had come before the court and of these 90 per cent. did not come back a second time. Of those on probation, fully 90 per cent. made good, and if the feeble-minded might be eliminated, the number might be raised to 95 per cent.

EVICTION OF BACHELORS

Must Get Married or Give up Their Houses

Many complaints are made by married laborers in Ireland that they cannot obtain cottages to live in, and that a number of cottages provided by public authorities are occupied by bachelors. The Trim Rural Council gave notice some time ago to bachelors occupying cottages that they must either get married or give up possession, but despite the fact that the publication of this decision brought proposals of marriage from all parts of the world, it was reported to the council that none of the bachelors had found wives. Some of the tenants asked for an extension of time, but the order went forth that the unmarried men must go.

Men Who Don't Exercise

SUFFER FROM INDIGESTION, HEADACHES, POOR APPETITE, SLEEPLESSNESS.

Nothing so Sure to "Set Up" a Man Make Him Feel Brisk and Vigorous, as Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Lack of exercise and overwork were the causes that combined to almost kill Samuel S. Stephens, Jr., well known citizen of Wood-stock.

In his convincing letter, Mr. Stephens says:

"A year ago I returned home after a long trip, temporary worn out. I was so badly affected by chronic biliousness, so much overcome by constant headaches, dizziness, that I despaired of ever getting well.

"It was a blessing that I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In one week I felt like a new man. The feeling of weight and nausea in my stomach disappeared. My eyes looked brighter, color grew better, and, best of all, I began to enjoy my meals. The dizziness, languor and feeling of depression passed away, and I just regained my old-time vigor and spirits. To-day I am well—thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

For health, strength, comfort and good spirits, there is no medicine like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Rebuilding Old Temperance House

On Saturday Messrs. Ephgrave & Bartlett, the local contractors, began work on the former Noble Temperance House on Hunter street purchased by J. R. Bell, the grocer.

The building is to be practically rebuilt. The foundations which are said to be defective, are to be rebuilt. Two fine stores will be made on the ground floor. The upper floors are to be made into five suites of apartments. The steel girders for this purpose are now on the way here.

A Dog and a Bone.

On Saturday morning a farmer's waggon was backed up against the market square sidewalk. On the waggon was a quarter of mutton, the leg bone of which projected over the walkway. A collie dog tried to swallow the bone. The indignant owner of the rig gave the dog a vigorous kick where its tail joined the body. The dog on being kicked darted forward and the bone went down its throat. The poor canine had to be forcibly separated from the bone.

Boost the Local Team.

The north window of Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., on Saturday was filled with guernseys, stockings, etc., of white and blue, the colors of the local hockey team. In conversation with Mr. Joe Ploud, Jr., the Times was reminded that in 1908 the local club won the intermediate championship from Galt. In 1906 they again won the championship from Goderich. Mr. Ploud remarked "Let us annex the championship for 1913-14. You can't run a team without money. I hope that the citizens will generally patronize the concert to-morrow night in aid of the Peterborough Hockey team. Peterborough can get no better advertising than by displaying its prowess in the field of sport." Joe is right.

No, gentle reader, she stopped, picked up the damaged skin and threw it, with a motion of the arm resembling that of a cricket bowler, into the street. That girl may be the future mother of a noted philanthropist.

10 CENT "CASCARETS" STRAIGHTEN YOU UP

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach, Coated Tongue or Constipated Bowels by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken.

"SAFETY FIRST" MAXIMS THE RULE OF THE C.P.R.

Here are some "Safety First" maxims given out by Mr. N. S. Dunlop to a meeting of railway men at an address in Montreal:—

"Don't throw anything out of a moving train. It's a bad thing to get a mail bag in the stomach from an express running thirty miles an hour.

"A brakeman should not sit down on the track and be run over by the train he went to flag.

"It takes less time to prevent an accident than it does to fill up Form 74 (the accident report form).

"Don't fool with machines. They can be replaced. Hands cannot.

"You can start a 'Safety First' committee right in your own home.

"Get the 'Safety First Habit'.

"Stop supporting the undertaker and the artificial limb maker.

"No man should go twenty-four hours without placing an insurance."

Mr. Dunlop is an enthusiast for "Safety First," a movement which was started on the C.P.R. so long ago as 1866.

As Claims Adjuster of that Company Mr. Dunlop has had to deal with many sad experiences due to neglect of "Safety First" principles.

GERMAN DOCTORS GO ON STRIKE

Twenty-one Physicians From Small Towns Copy England Against Insurance Act

Berlin, Nov. 15.—More than 21,000 German physicians from small town and country districts have decided to follow the example of their professional brothers in Great Britain and declare a "doctors strike" against sickness and accident insurance associations established under the imperial insurance law. They complain against certain regulations under the laws, which, they say, militate against them, particularly one depriving the patient who is a member of an organization of any say in the choice of the physician by whom he desires to be treated. They object, too to the wide discretion given to the organizations in the matter of contracts with physicians.

The decision to declare a strike against these conditions was decided at a meeting in Berlin of more than 800 delegates from all over Germany.

More than two-thirds of all the Germans are members of insurance organizations, which have their own contract physicians, and the remaining medical field is over crowded. The number of medical students has risen from 6000 in 1905 to 14,000, an increase utterly disproportionate to the increase of population. The result is according to statistics that half of the physicians have incomes less than $1500 yearly.

The doctors of Berlin, Dresden, Hamburg and other large cities did not join in the movement, owing it was said, to the desperate competition among them.

Prof. Mulveney Known All Over the World

Proprietor of World's Famous Tape Worm Exterminator

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. It is of poor shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are connected together. They detach and form a body, which is the worm. Each section is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worms, and when put in a basin of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to dislodge this parasite, without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels. [illegible] itself from the body of the worm, and remain there to breed another. It is an internal disease, and causes its victim to suffer all the symptoms of all diseases imaginable. The [illegible] physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, bronchitis, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis, and other complaints, when one or more of these worms were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these parasites which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms, and [illegible]

LIBERAL SENATE WILL BE READY TO RESUME WORK OF SLAUGHTER

Word Goes Forth That Important Government Measures Are to Be Killed Again Next Session

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—It is becoming more and more evident that the Senate will again affront the electorate of Canada by blocking legislation for which the Borden government has a mandate from the people of the Dominion. Nothing daunted by the well-merited contumely, which was hurled at the Laurier partisans last session by all right-thinking Canadians it does not seem that the lesson will be taken to heart. Propped up by a bye-election victory which was won by appeals to race and prejudice, Sir Wilfrid Laurier will proceed to dictate to his Senate on all matters, and the country will look helplessly on while their rights are being filched from them and their liberties trampled in the mire.

Sure Death.

Of course the first question which will receive the killing intentions of the Senate will be the naval bill if it be introduced in any form at all. It is too good a ground for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "The Man of Peace," to neglect when the warring prejudices of race and creed can be introduced and the judgment of certain electors blinded.

Kill Redistribution Bill.

What the country will lose again this session by the foolishness of a number of ancient adherents to worn out political creeds is interesting to notice. For a year the Opposition has demanded a redistribution bill, and now announce that if one is introduced this session their hostile majority in the Senate will kill it. Representative government has become impossible under Laurier's control of the Senate, which he filled with useless heelers bound to him by ties of gratitude for participation in the division of spoils so frequent and [illegible] under the fifteen years [illegible] rule.

Ready With the Axe.

Some of the bills likely to come before Parliament are Naval Defence, Redistribution and Highways. All these will be rendered ineffective by the Senate. Any attempt to revise the tariff on the lines endorsed by the people in 1911—a tariff commission—will meet a similar fate. Thus, four important questions cannot be successfully dealt with because a body of men who represent nobody except a defeated political leader, refuse to give their assent.

Consolidation of the Railway Act, reports on ocean and railway rates will be before Parliament. An expression of the policy of aid to agriculture is certain. The estimates will include votes to continue the government's policy of development of the transportation systems. There will probably be a measure increasing the jurisdiction of the grain commission over the eastern section.

But while the Senate rules the people of Canada must be content with being deprived of their rights.

ANOTHER BURNHAM WATCH IS PRESENTED

Yesterday afternoon the largest room on the ground floor of May's school house was crowded to repletion. Well dressed little boys and girls filled every seat whilst their elders had to stand or take such seats as they could find.

The occasion was the presentation of a gold watch by Mr. C. H. Vera Whitfield was the successful candidate and was personally presented by Mr. Burnham with a gold watch. Inspector Leas made a brief speech. Our scribe in making his way to the school house could not but note the wonderful growth of the South Ward.

CITY'S LEGAL COMMITTEE IN SESSION LAST NIGHT

MAY TAKE OUT ACCIDENT INSURANCE POLICIES

Chairman Ald. Gordon Active on the Workmen's Compensation Act—Tree in Centre of Sidewalk Should Be Removed.

The City's Legal Committee met last night, with Chairman Alderman Gordon presiding. There were also in attendance Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Aldermen, Gillespie, Johnston, Langford, and City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall

It was decided to request the Police Commissioners to detail their men to interview eye-witnesses in cases of accidents on street, and report details to the City Clerk. And that the city employees report all accidents that come under their observation to the police.

Workmen's Compensation Act.

At last Council meeting Ald. Gordon was requested to glean all possible information in regard to the proposed Workmen's Compensation Act. As a result of Ald. Gordon's enquiries he reported the following communication last night:

G. N. Gordon, Esq.,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—Re Workmen's Compensation Act, I regret to say that at present all the material used on the Workmen's Compensation Committee is out of print. I understand the final report of the Commissioner is now being prepared, but as yet has not been submitted.

Yours faithfully,
A. M. DYMOND,
Law Clerks Public Bills.

Accident Insurance Policies.

The Committee decided to look seriously into the question of taking out insurance policies to cover accidents on the city's streets.

Tree in Centre of Sidewalk.

Mr. Claude Rogers will be notified that the tree in the centre of the sidewalk opposite his house on Belmont avenue, is dangerous to pedestrians.

TO PENSION GOMPERS AND GIVE HIM BIG JOB

John Mitchell Will be Offered Labor Presidency if Mr. Gompers Retires.

Seattle, Wa., Nov. 17.—The American Federation of Labor to-day began its second week's session with a less strenuous programme of social entertainment before the delegates, and promise of completion of business before next Saturday noon. Committee reports were in order this morning.

Socialist delegates to the convention held a mass meeting last night, and made speeches saying that the trade movement, without political action, must fail.

Friends of John Mitchell are booming him for the Presidency of the Federation, provided Samuel Gompers does not desire to succeed himself. If Mr. Gompers decides to retire he will be offered the editorship of the American Federationist and a pension equivalent to his present salary, it is said.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATES

Several Names Mentioned as Possible Candidates.

The municipal pot is already beginning to simmer, and in a short time we may expect that something will be doing in municipal politics. Mayor Bradburn has as yet made no statement as to whether or not he will again be a candidate. We believe a majority of the ratepayers would like to see him stay another year, in view of the street paving and other work that is under way. Messrs. G. N. Gordon, G. A. Gillespie, J. J. Hartley and William Buller.

For the Council, the only new names we have heard spoken of on the streets, are Messrs. R. C. Braund (who would make an excellent representative) Harry Morgan and Dr. Middleton (East City), J. B. McWilliams (No. 3 Ward), and R. J. Kidd (No. 4 Ward). Other citizens will no doubt be brought to the front as election day approaches.

TORONTO LADIES ARE AFRAID TO GO OUT ALONE IN DARK

Are Terrified Over the Actions of a Brutal Prowler in North Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 17.—Something like consternation reigns in Davisville owing to the actions of an unknown man who attempted to assault a number of women who have been returning to their homes alone after dark. The women of the neighborhood are terror-stricken, as the man's behaviour indicates that he is a degenerate of the most dangerous kind. One lady, who was accosted on Merton street about 10 o'clock at night, told her experience.

Nasty Experience.

"I had just about reached Pailton Crescent, on the north side of Merton street, and was hurrying along home, when a man suddenly stepped out from an unfinished building and started to walk beside me. His appearance nearly paralyzed me with fear, it was so disgusting and terrible. There was no one else on the street, nor any lights in the houses, and the man's actions made me frantic. I tried to run from him, but he kept close to my side. Finally, just as I saw a light in a house farther down the street, and started to run for it, two ladies came out from a house across the road, and I ran to them. When the man saw the ladies he turned and slunk into the shadow of a building and I lost sight of him."

AUSTRALIANS WANT OWN NAVY ADMITS HAMAR GREENWOOD, M.P.

Trip to Australia Convinced Centralist of Force of Feeling for Autonomy in Defence

London, Nov. 17.—Hamar Greenwood, who is generally understood to have been closely associated with Winston Churchill in his attitude towards the Canadian naval problem, has just returned from a parliamentary pilgrimage to Australia. In a statement to the Daily Mail, while strongly maintaining his own position favoring cash contributions from the Dominions towards the Imperial navy, he admits "there is also a deep-rooted feeling that, at the moment, nothing but a local fleet would satisfy the needs of the Dominions; and for two reasons, because it was considered more in keeping with the power of future Australasia to have her own navy, and because it was feared that in some armageddon the future of Australasia might be left unprotected while the Imperial fleet was engaged in home waters."

SEEKS TO ENJOIN VISITS FROM SON

Nashville, Ind., Nov. 17.—A unique suit, in which the father asks a perpetual injunction to prevent his son and granddaughter visiting him except on specific invitation, was filed in the circuit court here by Atty. W. J. Beck for Collin M. McCord, aged 75, a farmer of Brown county.

It is alleged in the complaint that Charles R. McCord, aged 38, the son, for many years refused to speak to his father or mother when passing the house, but that in March, 1912, the son, accompanied by his daughter Ruth, aged 10, arrived at his father's house and announced they were there to stay. Since then, the complaint states, the two have lived at the elder McCord's without paying their board.

To Dance Tango In Public In a Toronto Tea Room

Toronto, Nov. 17.—The Tango in the tea room has started in the town Or rather will start to-morrow afternoon in the Mission tea rooms, King street, when a linen will be stretched over the floor of the larger of the rooms and with an orchestra in attendance people will sip their afternoon tea to the time of the latest Tango music.

What an innovation for Toronto. The Tango teas have been held in private houses here for some time past but this the first attempt at having the dance in public. Those wishing to join in the dancing may have the privilege and their tea at the rate of sixty cents a couple.

One can already hear in imagination, some of the remarks which will be made on this innovation. The Tango tea rooms are established facts in New York and abroad, and judging by the growing popularity of the much talked of dance, will soon be firmly established as unquestionably popular in Toronto.

AUSTRIA CLIMBS DOWN WITH ROYAL DUKE VISITING LONDON

C. P. R. Agent Altman Freed on Extraordinarily Heavy Bail in Consequence of Exchange of Courtesies Between King George and Heir Apparent

London, Aov. 17.—Archduke Francis Ferdinand and Jim Larkin divide honors in illustrated and popular papers to-day. Doubtless the arrival of the Archduke as the personal guest of the King and Queen quickened the Austrian Government's decision to release Mr. Altman, for it was the height of irony that the heir to the Austrian throne should come to England as the honored guest of the British sovereign, professing Austria's warm friendship for England, while the Austrian Government continued flagrantly discriminating against powerful British interests.

Altman excites this comment from the Times: It was exorbitant to exact £6250 bail in regard to an offence punishable under the Austrian law by fine not exceeding £150. This suggests that the amount is only explicable in the light of Austrian notions of the wealth of British enterprise. It is hoped Sir Edward Grey's direct and forceful representations to the Austrian Government will now result in opening the Canadian Pacific Austrian offices for general business.

ANOTHER GALE BLOWING ACROSS LAKE HURON

Goderich, Ont., Nov. 17.—There was a gale of wind on the lake here at 1 o'clock. One mariner made it 35 miles an hour, but another cut the velocity to 28. The Kaministiquia is due to sail at 3 p.m. The Douglas Houghton, an American boat, is safe, although a board inscribed with her name found its way to Bayfield shore.

A Generous Lad.

Old lady (to newsboy)—"You don't chew tobacco, do you, little boy?"

Newsboy—"No, mum; but I kin give you a cigarette."

TRAVERS IN FAILING HEALTH, HAS APPLIED FOR HIS PAROLE

Ex-Bank Manager, Misses Appetite and Much Flesh, Fears He Cannot Last Much Longer

Kingston, Nov. 17.—William R. Travers, manager of the defunct Farmers Bank, who is serving time in the Penitentiary here for his operations in connection with the defunct bank, has applied to the parole office at Ottawa for his parole. Travers has spent about two years and a half in the institution and has failed rapidly. He is breaking in health on this account he has applied for parole.

Travers was sentenced in January, 1911, to six years in the Penitentiary. Of this term he has not served over two years because he spent about six months in Toronto at the hearing of the other officials of the wrecked bank. Since incarceration, Travers has been engaged in clerical work. At present he is engaged as bookkeeper in the blacksmith shop. He has worked in the tailor shop and the library. The ex-bank manager has aged considerably in the past few months. He has lost a good deal of flesh and is hardly recognizable as the robust man who entered the institution two years ago. Recently his appetite gave out and now he is suffering from nervous trouble.

BRITISH CONSULAR SERVICE IS ALWAYS EAGER TO HELP CANADA

Immense Resources Placed Freely at Canada's Disposal Whenever She Asks

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—Of very great benefit to Canada and the commercial and industrial interests of the Dominion was the important address by Mr. J. Joyce Broderick, late vice consul for the British Government in New York, before the members of the Canadian Club at their luncheon on Saturday at noon. Mr. Broderick has recently been promoted to the higher position of consul at Amsterdam. He is a witty and accomplished speaker. As his remarks indicated, he had devoted much thought and consideration to the subject: "The British Consular Service and its Relation to Canada."

Among the number of distinguished guests who occupied positions on the right and on the left of the speaker was Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce and Acting Premier of Canada, who, at the conclusion of the address proposed the vote of thanks to the speaker and paid a tribute to the British Consular Service, and in a very few words pointed out its incalculable value to almost every country in the world and especially to the Dominion of Canada.

Closer to Imperial Service.

In his opening remarks the speaker declared that he was desirous of doing something, however small it might be, towards bringing in the present or in the future, Canadian business men into closer and more intimate relations with the Imperial service to which he had the honor to belong.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

Two Newspapers Must Pay Damages to Letourneau.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—In the Supreme Court this morning judgments were rendered in the following cases:

Rundle vs. Miller, appeal dismissed with costs.

Casey vs. King, appeal dismissed.

L'Evenement Publishing Co., and Chronicle Publishing Co., Quebec vs. Letourneau, appeal dismissed with costs.

The judgment in the latter case confirms the finding of the court below, awarding damages to Letourneau against the two newspapers on account of certain [illegible] made against him in connection with the retirement of the opponent Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Quebec East in the 1911 election.

McGILL PLAYERS AGAIN DECLINE TO PLAY RUGBY FOR GREY CUP

Toronto, Nov. 17.—McGill have again withdrawn from the Grey Cup competition, and the Tigers will not have the satisfaction of measuring their strength with the red and black. The action of the champions was not unexpected, as they announced some time ago that they would confine their efforts to the College Union, but when it is considered that Varsity would have gladly kept the engagement had they won, the stand taken by the Easterners is rather incomprehensible. In the opinion of the majority of the experts Shaughnessy's men have only dodged a beating, as it is figured that the Tigers are the better team, though the Interprovincial champions would rather prefer making their claims good on the field instead of by default.

SMASHES RECORDS AS FOOD CONSUMER

Bay State Man Issues Challenge for New Gastronomic Battle.

Lawrence, Mass, Nov. 17.—Chas. W. Gildden, who calls himself the "champion food destroyer of the world" has issued a challenge that he can eat more in three hours than any two men together. He holds three world's records.

Among his claimed gastronomic feats are: Forty pounds of watermelon in one hour, seventy-eight pancakes in fifty-seven minutes, six boiled dinners at one meal, 120 eggs—raw, scrambled, fried, boiled and poached—at one meal, fifty-eight ears of corn at one sitting.

He says he has eaten six pounds of steak, one loaf of bread, a dish of prunes, five potatoes and a plate of ice cream, all at one meal. Another stunt was thirty ears of corn, eight slices of bread, [illegible] pieces of pie, twelve frankfurters, two quarts of ice [illegible] all at one meal.

Gildden says he doubts the accuracy of the newspaper accounts of the man in Brooklyn recently eating 13 dozen eggs at a meal.

"That is more than I ever did," he says.

BEAUTIES OF THE MILKY WAY

The milky way or galaxy is an apparent ring extending entirely around the universe of stars visible in the largest telescope. It is composed of suns in literal millions. They are so remote that as seen from the earth they appear to be close to each other, while in reality they are separated by millions and millions of miles.

To the eye, the belt of soft light looks like a continuous band of cloth of pearl but telescopes have the effect of bringing objects nearer. This separates the filmy cloud into many millions of glittering but minute points on the black background of space. At a distance forest trees seem to be close together, but as they are approached they separate and stand alone.

It is next to impossible to describe the matchless beauty of the milky way as seen in a telescope of great power. Carpet a large room with black velvet. Have many electric lights in the ceiling. Throw down and scatter all over the black floor a bushel of minute diamonds, rubies, pearls, sapphires, opals, amethysts and other gems. Then turn on the light. You would have a faint imitation of the supernal glories of the galactic hosts. For the appalling depths of space look black in our great telescopes.

In places the suns look by perspective as though they were arranged in piles, heaps and banks, or lifted up into colossal windows, or twisted into spirals, or dashed into wisps and cosmic spray.

In some places the concentration is so great and dense that only the most powerful telescopes on earth can magnify enough to bring out details. A few clusters exist that have not, so far, been resolved into these tiny points. And the height of human happiness is to watch these vast congeries of distant suns in a huge telescope.—National Magazine.

New Rifle Tested

King George was an interested spectator at Aldershot of trials with a new service rifle, slightly longer than the one generally in use and having as an additional feature an aperture sight. The King then saw a firing squad at work with the new rifle at 600 yards. The targets used were a foot square, made of solid steel, three-eighths of an inch thick. One of them which had been in use was shown to the King and Queen. It had four bullet-holes in it, perfectly drilled as if the metal had been punched out with a machine tool.

Eight men of the Suffolk Regiment, who had been drawn from the same company, and were not picked shooters, fired with the new rifle at twenty-four targets. Each man had twenty rounds, and when their ammunition was exhausted all but one of the targets had been brought down.

GREAT BRIDGES

Feats of Great Structures Across the Tay and Forth

Not the least of the extraordinary feats of the redoubtable bridge-builder, Sir William Arrol, was the fact that at one and the same time he carried on two such gigantic contracts as the Tay and the Forth Bridges. It was a striking tribute to his great powers of organization and to his genius for engineering on a mammoth scale. The construction of the Tay Bridge was only half-finished when he made a start with the gigantic undertaking which now spans the Firth of Forth, from the designs of Sir John Fowler and Sir Benjamin Baker. Over a year was spent in the preliminary preparations alone—the designing and making of special plant, the erection of workshops on shore, and the thousand and one things essential to the success of such a huge scheme. The cost of temporary plant ran to half-a-million sterling, and included thirty steam and other barges, tugs, launches, and boats, sixty steam cranes and winches, fifty hydraulic cranes, forty-eight steam-engines, and hydraulic jacks, rivetters, and drilling-machines all but innumerable; and to mention [illegible] sixty miles of wire. The enormous nature of this engineering wonder of the world may be gathered from the following figures: The total length is over a mile and a half, and consists of two main spans, each nearly a third of a mile long; two spans of six hundred and seventy-five feet each. In the piers there are about one hundred and twenty thousand cubic yards of masonry, and in the super-structure over forty thousand tons of steel and some fifteen thousand tons of iron.

The building of the Tay Bridge was an opportunity for a display of his engineering genius which the ambitious bridgemaker eagerly welcomed. A rigorous examination revealed the old foundations to be insecure, and it was decided to build an entirely new bridge a short distance farther up the river. Within five years from its commencement—1882 to 1887—a remarkable erection, over two miles long, and constructed at a cost of seven hundred and fifty thousand pounds spanned the estuary, a structure strong enough to defy the fiercest gale the ever blew. It was the greatest engineering triumph of the age, until it was eclipsed by a greater—the Forth Bridge.

MARY ELIZABETH MADE GOOD CANDY

She Began on a Small Scale—Now She's Worth Half a Million

Several years ago Mary Elizabeth, whose other name is Evans, started to make candy for sale in Syracuse. On a table she put her candies and a small wicker basket in which people put the money for what they took. People liked her trust of them and they did not ever take more candy than they were entitled to from the dishes on the unwatched table. They began telling other folks about the candy-table and pretty soon Mary Elizabeth was able to sell more candy than she could make alone in her little home. Then she hired assistants and opened a store with a real clerk in it. And now she has a candy-shop on Fifth Avenue in New York City, another in Newport and still a third in Bermuda. And she won't take half a million dollars for her business.

The United States is said now to be seeking co-operation of the powers in a scheme to starve Huerta financially into submission. The plan might prove effective. There is a very intimate relationship, after all, between some men's patriotism and their pockets.

By a vote of 152 to 92 the Russian Duma has defeated a resolution to grant to Hebrews full rights of citizenship. The decision will be a disappointment to Hebrews the world over, as well as to their sympathizers. But it is only a matter of time when they will come into their full rights. It is significant that a political party in Russia can be found to champion the cause of these oppressed peoples.

AN ARMY OF HALF A MILLION

According to the chief of the ordnance department of the army, the United States is for the first time in history prepared to arm and equip "at a moment's notice" an army of half a million men. This is encouraging so far as it goes, but it is well not to forget that in the last analysis it is only war that provides a real test of a nation's fighting efficiency. At the same time it is interesting to know that the United States Army has modern rifles and other equipment for a force of half a million men. There have been times when it did not have proper equipment for one-tenth of that number.

Catarrh or Colds Never Quickly Cured By Swallowing Drugs

Cough Syrup, Tablets, etc., go to the Stomach, Perhaps Sicken It, But Don't Kill the Germs of Catarrh.

The Direct Breathing Cure is Best.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to root out Catarrh or Asthma it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal and cure.

"No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal catarrh than I suffered a month ago" writes Mr. G. E. Root, a well known resident of Bridgetown, W. I. "My head ached terrifically, I sneezed about every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhozone gave me a little relief so I continued to use Catarrhozone every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhozone quickly cures me I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. At all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

At the present time the entire military force of the United States both the regular army and the State militia, does not number a half million, hence it has been suggested in Congress that they might build up a reserve by holding on to men who have served in the regular army. After their terms have expired they might be willing to serve three or four fours in reserve regiments.

If the men who have served in the regular army could be induced to form part of a reserve force, it would undoubtedly mean a good deal to the future fighting strength of the nation. They have the equipment for an army of half a million men today, but as things are it would take some time to develop a trained army to use the equipment. War with Mexico is a mighty dangerous pastime, as it would tax not only the entire military strength of the nation, but would mean a terrible financial strain as well that would be reflected to a considerable extent in Canada.

BUT IT WAS A LONG TIME AGO.

The Shelbourne little girl was expounding theological problems to her younger sister with the fine confidence of childhood. "We all came from heaven, baby, and we're all going back there some day!" Perhaps she detected incredulity on the infant's countenance, for she proceeded: "It's true. Why, even daddy came from heaven once."

WAR DOGS IN LEASH

Secrecy of Little Value in the Construction of Fighting Ships

The most striking point in recent dreadnought development is the increasing size and power of the gun. The British navy was the first to abandon the 12-inch gun as the main armament of dreadnoughts, and four battleships are now in commission—"Orion," "Thunderer," "Conqueror," and "Monarch"—which have ten of these weapons, firing 1,250-pound projectiles in five center-line turrets. The same caliber of gun is mounted in the four ships of the "King George V." class, and the four of the "Iron Duke" class, but the gun is of a much more powerful type. The length of the shell has been increased and 200 pounds added to its weight, much of the addition being accounted for by an increased weight of bursting charge. Another notable development in British dreadnought designs is the restitution of the 6-inch gun.

The essential difference between the battleship and battle-cruiser is that the battleship has thicker armor, more guns and less speed than the battle-cruiser. Thus, the battleship "Iron Duke" has a 12-inch belt, carries ten 13.5-inch guns, and is designed for 22.5 knots, while the "Tiger," battle-cruiser, has a 9¾-inch belt, carries eight 13.5-inch guns, and is designed for 28 knots. The first four battle-cruisers built for the British navy were designed for 25 knots.

The German authorities have not been very happy with their dreadnaughts designs. The first eight battleships have twelve big guns each, but only eight available for broadside fire. In the "Kaiser" and "Friederich der Grosse," the number of 12-inch was reduced to ten, but there is a considerable gain in efficiency, inasmuch as all can fire on either beam, though only over a small arc. The next group, those of the "Kaiserin" class, have twelve 12-inch, and there is a full broadside.

Italy has always been noted for originality in warship design. The "Dante Alighieri," carrying twelve 12-inch on 19,400 tons, was the first triple-turreted warship to be completed, and that nation is building five ships which are to carry thirteen 12-inch guns.

With the exception of the United States, France is the only naval power of any standing which announces the characteristics of her new warships in advance of their completion. In the majority of cases, however, the details leak out by some means or another, and in only a very few instances are the main features of large ships under construction unknown.

THE HOAXER HOAXED

Captain Koepenick in Turn Swindled by Mock Officials

Wilhelm Voigt, the notorious shoemaker of Koepenick, known as Germany's champion hoaxer, was cleverly duped in a manner that recalls his own famous exploits.

While he was strolling along the market square at Goslar he was held up by two men dressed as officials of justice. They demanded the instant payment of $70 in fines for an offence alleged to have been committed by him a year before, threatening him, in default, with imprisonment.

Voigt, who resides in Luxembourg, and was merely on a brief visit to Germany, happened to have only $30 on him at the time. The "officials" thereupon compelled him to telegraph to his home for the balance, keeping guard over him at the telegraph office for three hours.

At the end of that time the money arrived, and, having duly paid it over to the men, "Captain Koepenick" lost no time in leaving Germany.

Subsequently the discovery was made that the men were not officials at all, and that, although Voigt had rendered himself liable to prosecution, no order had even been issued for his arrest, nor were any proceedings pending against him.

Aged Woman's Heroism

An aged Welsh woman named Grace Jones, aged seventy-three, living near Llanberis, awoke about midnight to find her bedroom full of smoke. She called to the only other occupant of the house, a young quarryman who lodged with her, and, getting no answer, went to the door of his bedroom. She opened the door and saw her lodger unconscious in bed and the room on fire.

She then dashed into the burning bedroom and hauled the heavy man off the bed, down the stairs, and into the street, where her cries aroused the neighbors. She was badly burned.

While excavating for new premises of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation in Gracechurch street, London, workmen discovered a well (presumably Roman), the woodwork being in a splendid state of preservation.

A HAPPY CHILD IN JUST A FEW HOURS

When cross, constipated or if feverish give "California Syrup of Figs" then don't worry

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

GHOSTS OF THE TOWER

Phantom Gravedigger and Old Soldier's Adventure With Henry VIII.

It would be surprising if the Tower of London, the scene of so many of history's most ghastly pages, should not be peopled by ghosts. A story is told of the spot where the bones of the young King Edward V. and his brother Richard, Duke of York, are stated to have been found in 167[illegible]. One evening, just about twilight, an official of the Tower heard the sound of digging and the loose spluttering of gravel, and on turning aside saw the shadowy outlines of an enormous man digging furiously at the soil. Much alarmed, the official drew back, and as he did so the figure swung round and faced him, when he perceived, to his horror, a skeleton clad in a richly-fashioned garment, on the breast of which was emblazoned the Royal arms. The official uttered an ejaculation, whereupon the figure vanished, though the sound of the digging continued for some seconds.

And here is a cheerful story told by an aged pensioner about twenty years ago:

"I was on duty in the Beauchamp Tower," he said, "just outside the cell where Anne Boleyn was imprisoned. I was thinking of old Henry VIII. and wishing I had his luck with wives for my one and only missus was as ugly as Newgate, when all of a sudden I heard my name called, and on turning round nearly died with fright. Floating in mid-air, immediately behind me, was a face—Heaven help me, it makes me shiver, even now, to think of it—round, red, and bloated, with a loose, dribbling mouth, and protruding, heavy-lidded, pale eyes, alight with a lurid and perfectly fiendish glow.

"I knew the face at once, for I had often seen it in the history books—Henry VIII.

"Well! the affair was hushed up in the usual way. We were threatened with the sack if we dare as much as breathe a word that the Tower was haunted. The oddest thing about it is that, on my return home, I found my missus was dead.

PUBLIC OPINION

OLEOMARGARINE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Now that the price of living has become such a difficult proposition to the man of moderate means, I think the government might rescind its regulations as regard the sale of oleomargarine. This palatable and sanitary substitute could be sold for half the price now charged for, in too many instances, very inferior butter. Whilst its all very well to protect the farming industry, that branch of Canada's industry is well able to take care of itself. The farmer buys his agricultural machinery and tools cheaper than he did ten years ago. On the other hand, right on our local market, he, or at least some of him are selling storage eggs, bought by him at 26 cents a dozen as "fresh" at 40 cents a dozen. With butter at 35 cents a pound, why not give the working man what looks like, tastes like, and is as nourishing a substitute at possibly 20 cents a pound or less?

Economy.

POET'S CORNER

WHY SHOULD I GIVE.

By F. A. Conners, Pastor Park St. Baptist Church.

Why should I give to heathen
In far and distant lands,
When there are those at home
Who beg with outstretched hands?

Why should I give to those
Outside my native state,
When there are those within her bounds,
Whose needs are just as great?

Why should I give to other burgs,
When there are those you see,
Within the limits of our town,
Who need such charity?

Why should I give around the town,
When my own Church is there,
With mortgage just coming due,
Pastor's salary and repairs?

Why should I give to my Church,
When those at home have need?
Charity that begins at home,
Is charity indeed.

Why should I give to those at home,
When I myself have need?
Because I am a Christian man,
And not of heathen creed.

Jesus gave Himself for me,
The very reason why,
I should give myself to Him,
And serve Him till I die.

WILD HORSES OF THE WEST

Descendants of Animals Abandoned During Cariboo Gold Rush

"Indians and white prospectors and pack train freighters value these untamed animals more than the high bred horses," said Mr. Bradley. "They are the progeny of horses turned loose on the trail by discouraged or dying men during the famous gold rush in the Cariboo country. Thousands of the veriest 'tenderfoot' stampeded to the new fields in the early '60's. Most of them were incompetent, and, in fact, utterly helpless in that wild country, and the horses either broke away or were abandoned when the fortune-hunters gave up the long trail.

"The horses made their feeding grounds in the vicinity of Barkerville for several years afterward and their offspring wandered northward as the bands increased. They make trails on the mountains and timbered country much after the fashion of buffalo in the early days and deer at present.

"The Indians and freighters, working in the timbered districts, catch them with snares, such as are used for lynx. In most cases the animals are easily broken and they are better for the rough country than high grade horses on account of their stamina and sureness of foot on the mountain trails. We lost horses from our train from time to time and replaced them with wild animals."

-- KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED --

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purpose, its character, as well as its fineness and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this new through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

He feels it is part of his service to keep the public informed.

THIRTY PAIR OF SHOES SEIZED AND SOLD BY AUCTION

Thirty pairs of ladies' shoes were seized from Mr. Alfred Burn, boot and shoe maker, of Claypert, Alnwick, and sold by auction to satisfy the claim of the Duke of Northumberland for four years' quit rent, amounting to $1.04, which Mr. Burn declined to pay, having conscientious objections to this relic of feudal times.

Mr. Burn hopes that his refusal to pay will assist in getting the tax repealed. He had his goods seized and sold on previous occasions to uphold the debtor's rights.

Quit rent was a payment by the tenant in commutation of certain services which he owed his seigneur. In olden times the 26 cents was worth many times more than it is now, but during the lapse of centuries the payment has been forgotten in most instances, and where it is retained for the sake of form the tax is generally an inconsiderable sum.

A NICE SWINDLE

Posed as Millionairess and Got Two Engagement Rings

An adventuress who styled herself the "Princess Salm" fell foul of the French police. A remarkably beautiful woman, she called on a prominent young Parisian clubman, armed with a letter of introduction purporting to be signed by Monseigneur [illegible], Canon of Caracas, whom the clubman had met at a society function.

The visitor related that she belonged to the Salm-Ryneburg family, Princess of the Holy Empire. She had married, she said, a nobleman connected with the Imperial family, who had left her an immense fortune, while, in addition, her private fortune amounted to $20,000,000. She now wished to reside permanently in France.

The clubman offered to do all he could to be useful to the "Princess." They met frequently, and at last the clubman proposed marriage, and was accepted, and he placed on the "Princess's" finger an engagement ring that cost $6,000. A few days later the "Princess" departed for Madrid, ostensibly to settle family matters and to have an interview with King Alfonso, but, in the meantime, she related the same story to another clubman, a friend of the first, who also presented to her a $6,000 engagement ring.

After her departure one of her fiances discovered that his friend and himself had both been duped. The police informed him that the self-styled "Princess" was an adventuress named Adelaide Julia Madelaine Jelly, born in Paris in 1874. Eleven years ago the police learned that she obtained jewellery under a similar pretext, and that in 1905 they had again been called upon to investigate her identity in connection with a case of blackmailing.

Famous Agitation Recalled

A famous incident of the long struggle between Berwick fishermen and Tweed bailiffs is recalled by the death of Mr. William Patterson, Berwick, who was one of [illegible] men who were wounded by a shot fired from a Government gunboat. [illegible] was one of the crew of a fishing boat which, on ignoring the gunboat's order to lie to, was fired at, and Patterson was wounded.

BREEZY BUDGET FROM BRITISH ISLES

Built His Own Chapel

The death took place, at the age of eighty-six, of Mr. W. O. Roberts, market gardener, of Bangor, one of the religious worthies of North Wales. He was a Baptist, and practically built a chapel with his own hands, leading himself 300 carts full of stone for the building. He was probably the oldest Sunday School teacher in Wales, beginning in his teens.

Congregation of Twelve

For the vacancy in the charge of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Montrose, Scotland, the managers, in answer to an advertisement in a church paper in England, received 200 applications. The church has only a membership of twelve. It was established in 1724, and is richly endowed.

Prison Walls for Old Abbey

It is proposed to utilise some of the stone in the north portion of the old prison in Paisley in connection with the restoration scheme of Paisley Abbey. The part of the prison to be purchased is a century old. The stone with which it is built is practically of the same quality as that used in the Abbey. Similar stone cannot now be got.

Find in Bottle of Stout

Judgment for £15 and £5 for a doctor's fee was awarded by Judge Curran at Navan to John Neville, a groom, who sued a local public house keeper for £50 damages due to the plaintiff having drunk part of a bottle of stout bottled by the defendant, and which was alleged to have contained the body of a mouse. Asked by his honor how he knew there was a mouse in the bottle, plaintiff held the offending bottle up and said, amid laughter, "Because he is there still."

Oldest "Apprentice Boy"

The death occurred of David Morris, caretaker of the Apprentice Boys' Memorial Hall and Walker's Monument, Derry. He is believed to have been the oldest Apprentice Boy in the city. When Mr. Gladstone introduced his first Home Rule Bill Mr. Morris was one of the thirteen "Boys" chosen as a deputation to attend the Convention in Belfast to protest against the measure.

Woman's Strange Conduct in Church

Kate Martin was committed to an asylum at Belfast after having caused a scene in Clifton street Presbyterian Church during Sunday service. Evidence was given that she entered the choir box, overturned the table, and threw some chairs among the congregation. "I only tried to strike the minister for his false preaching," said the woman. "We Catholics want our rights."

Passion for Picture Houses

Two cases of theft, in which it was stated the accused committed the offences to get money in order to enable them to visit picture houses, were heard in Edinburgh Police Court. In one case a youth, a shop porter, pleaded guilty to the theft of $6.25. On the day he stole the money he went to Glasgow and spent all but $2.50. It was stated that he had been getting money by hook or by crook to go to picture houses.

Hungry Showmen

An unusual situation arose on the early closing day at Saltcoats, where the annual fair was about to be held. Thirty show people left Kilmarnock in the forenoon intending to get their dinner when they reached Saltcoats in the afternoon. On arriving they found that all shops were closed, it being the half-holiday. They were unable to get anything but bread. To relieve the situation a permit was given by the shops inspector to the showmen authorising shops to supply them with their requirements.

Street Bargains

At Glasgow Charles Henderson was fined for having cheated a man out of a shilling by pretending that paper bags which he was selling also contained money. He denied the charge. A detective watched the accused placing brass chains in a piece of paper along with three florins, and then apparently folding the whole lot up and offering them for sale for one shilling. He did not make any definite promise to purchasers that they would get the money, but they were led to believe that they had a chance of getting something more than the chain.

Motor-boat as Coffin

A motor-boat was used as a coffin at the funeral at East Cowes of Miss Ethel Kate Saunders, the only daughter of Samuel E. Saunders, a well known motor-boat builder. Miss Saunders, who was thirty-three years old, assisted her father in the secretarial part of the business.

The body was placed in a leaden shell, and then deposited in a specially-constructed hull of a motor-boat, with bow and stern rounded off. The boat was made of two skins of plain mahogany sewn together.

The motor-boat containing the remains was buried in a brick grave lined with primroses and evergreens.

SOME ROYAL PRINCES IN GREAT BRITAIN'S NAVY

Nowadays They Earn Their Promotion to a Greater Extent Than in the Past

The fact that Prince Albert, King George's second son, embarked upon a naval career by joining H.M.S. Cumberland as a cadet shows that past traditions in regard to the naval training of British Princes are being religiously observed. It is intended that Prince Albert, like his father, shall be thoroughly trained in naval matters. His elder brother, the Prince of Wales, it will be remembered, spent some months at Dartmouth studying seamanship; but it was ultimately decided that he should not follow the naval profession.

On the other hand, the naval training of Prince Albert will cover some considerable time. And it is an illustration of the thorough manner in which this training is to be undergone that, when the King heard that preparations had begun on the Cumberland for accommodating the Prince in a cabin, His Majesty promptly vetoed any such distinction and directed that his son should be in every respect treated as an ordinary cadet. So Prince Albert satisfied himself with a hammock.

The sending of the second son to sea is quite in accordance with precedent. It will be remembered that King George, with his elder brother, the late Duke of Clarence, spent two years on the Britannia training ship, and then made a voyage around the world in the Bacchante. But after that voyage, while his brother left the sea, King George remained in the Navy, and during his naval career conformed closely to the usual custom. Indeed, so far as promotion was concerned, he owed little to the advantage derived from his exalted rank.

Therein his naval career differed from that of his uncle, the Duke of Edinburgh, who was a pupil of Captain Harris in the Illustrious, the predecessor of the Britannia, but who, to his after regret, skipped the grades of sub-lieutenant and commander and became a captain in the Navy at the age of twenty-two.

Prince Henry of Battenberg, who succeeded Sir Francis Bridgeman as First Sea Lord, is the most notable instance of a Royal personage attaining a great position in the naval world. It is interesting to recall, however, that Prince Edward Augustus, a younger brother of George III., went to sea at the age of nineteen, was posted in the following year, and after only four years' service hoisted his flag as second-in-command in the Channel. Prince Edward was entered on the ship's books as a volunteer for wages and victuals, and his original commander, who afterwards became his flag-captain, was Lord Howe.

Prince Edward's brother, Prince Henry Frederick, also entered the naval service as a midshipman when he was twenty-three years of age, and was likewise made a captain before he had been many months at sea. He was a flag-officer at the age of twenty-five.

PIONEER OF MONTREAL

Recalls Long Past Events of Big City's History

Mr. Charles A. Gregory of Montreal, although nearing ninety years of age, has the reputation of being the best banjo player in Canada. Incidentally he has a fund of reminiscences of what is now the biggest city in the Dominion.

Mr. Gregory faintly recalls the burning of the Parliament buildings, and the rotten egging of Lord Elgin through the streets of the city. He first journeyed to Montreal on a train from St. John to Laprairie, which was pulled by horses—a wooden railway, in fact—the only one in the world, it was understood at the time.

Almost his first experience in Montreal was the execution of twelve soldiers on Fletcher's Field, at the time of the rebellion—a fact which is stamped on his memory, but the details of which he was so young he does not remember. He recalls, however, that his father told him all about the circumstances involved in the case.

SOME HORSES THAT THINK

At Elberfeld, in Germany are to be found a number of educated horses, which have become the wonder of the scientific world; for not only do they understand language, but their feats in spelling and the solution of difficult problems in arithmetic would put many human beings to shame. One noted scientist declared unhesitatingly that their trainer, Herr Krall, has at last succeeded in establishing a means of communication between horse and man.

The animals are taught to indicate the answers to problems in arithmetic by striking units with the right foot, tens with the left foot, and hundreds with the right foot again. The numbers to be added, subtracted, multiplied, or divided are set up on a blackboard, and the animals at once proceed to tap out their answers in such a way as to prove that individual thinking, and not a mere feat of memory, is involved.

They have been put to every possible test, not only by Dr. Ziegler, the well known zoologist, but also by many other men of science. The problems have often been put down on the blackboard in words, not figures, and sometimes even in French, yet the horses gave the result as correctly as when figures were used. They spell words also by means of hoof strokes, writing them according to sound.

MARKING SHEEP

France Objects to Daubing on of Tar or Pitch Solution

The means prevailing at present for the marking of sheep for the purpose of identification is unsatisfactory for the reason that the coal tar or pitch solution which is made use of has a ruinous effect on the wool not only where the mark has been made on the hair, but all that which is being put through the cleansing process at that time. Such wool brings a decreased price. The National Society of Agriculture of France investigated the matter and the report of those appointed to do the work contains the following: It has been proposed to use analine colors, but this is even worse, since the colors do not merely soil the fleece, but actually dye it. Other means are not lacking, notably that of tattooing the ear of the sheep. Also, a small metallic plate can be fastened in the ear, as is done with Alsatian sheep to prove that they have been "clavelised," i.e., inoculated with the special serum which combats their dangerous and contagious eruptive malady, rot or scab. The Chamber of Commerce advises the employment of a color composed of linseed oil essence of turpentine and Prussian blue or similar color. It recommends marking on nose, forehead or nape of the neck.

JAPAN'S NATIONAL ANTHEM

Of all the national anthems, the Japanese, it is said, is the most poetical in expression. Here is a translation of it into English verse:

"Until this grain of sand,
Tossed by each wavelet's freak,
Grow to a cloud-girt peak,
Towering above the land;
Until the dewy flake
Bending this blossom's gold
Swell to a mighty lake—
Age upon age untold
Joy to joy manifold,
Add for our Sovereign's sake."

BOY'S TRAGIC DEATH

Might Have Been Saved With Prompt Action

A verdict of "Death from hanging, there being no evidence to show whether it was accidental or otherwise," was returned at an inquest in Dundalk on the body of a boy named Owen Hall, aged fifteen, who was found hanged in a straw shed. A lad named John Boyle found the deceased at the bottom of a ladder with a rope, which was hanging from the top of the ladder, round his neck. He went for an old man named James Fagan, and meantime got a knife to cut the rope, but Fagan would not allow hi to cut it. Fagan said he had not interfered because he was afraid of getting into a "hobble" with the police, and the coroner said Fagan's action was, no doubt, due to ignorance, but there was a chance that the boy's life might have been saved if the rope had been cut down at once.

MRS. HELEN HATHAWAY BRITTON
owner of the St. Louis Cardinals.

This society woman probably knows more about baseball than any other femme in the world. Her uncle, Stanley Robison, former traction magnate of Cleveland and baseball capitalist, owned the team for years and when he died left the property to her.

Just how much she loves the game is told in this remark she made: "I'd rather own a winning team than be a princess of an empire!"

She is ambitious to make baseball more popular with women, to force recognition of her ability as a business woman, and to bring society leaders to the game.

Mrs. Britton goes to every game. She's always there at the start, sitting in the front row of the grandstand, right behind the catcher.

With her splendid gowns and animation, she is a striking figure and she "roots" with enthusiasm.

ANIMALS' RESTAURANT

One of the most interesting restaurants in the world is one in which the only diners are domestic animals. The restaurant is in Westminster, London, England. The sign on the window reads:

"Restaurant For Domestic Animals. English Meat Only. Fresh Twice Daily."

The restaurant is arranged so that the domestic animals which patronize it may be perfectly comfortable while they are getting their meals. Those that wish to do so many sit down while eating. The women who serve the diners are very fond of animals and know the wants of each particular customer. One of the regular callers at the restaurant, a dog, prefers taking his meals in private, so instead of eating his luncheon in the restaurant he walks from his home to the place every day, buys his luncheon and carries it home. He pays his own bill at the end of each week, carrying the money tied in a little wallet around his neck.

Cats, canary birds, goldfish, parrots, monkeys, squirrels and goats are also provided for in the restaurant.

STEEL FOLDING CHAIR

Can be Collapsed Into Smaller Compass Than Music Roll

Here is a steel folding chair that can be collapsed into a compass smaller than that of the ordinary music roll. There are numerous folding chairs, but the strong point (literally) of this one is the material of which it is made—steel. The frame is guaranteed to support 400 pounds and the illustration so completely explains the principle that it is unnecessary to go into that. The seat is of strong cotton duck, and from each corner steel straps reach down to the lower legs. Such chairs are handy for automobilists, artists on sketching tours, campers and picnic parties and for use on the verandas of cottages and clubhouses. When folded the chair is carried in a waterproof cover of cylindrical shape and with a handle to it.

LETTER WRITING

It is Important That One Should Master This Art

A certain amount of correspondence is necessary to every human being who owns a circle of friends and acquaintances and who accepts social obligations of any sort whatever. The kind little line of sympathy, the prompt note of acceptance upon receipt of an invitation, the few words of appreciation or thanks for a favor received betoken the man or woman versed in social matters, even though neither the heart nor the interest are in the [illegible] letter. The knack of inditing a well expressed epistle, short, graceful and to the point, if not learned during youth, should be acquired at whatever pains. The correct forms of letter writing are not difficult to master, and such forms are very important in a social sense.

One should avoid freakish note papers and stick to a heavy cream-laid paper, unlined, and almost square in size of sheet. At the top of the fourth page may be engraved the address, the name and telephone address of the country house or the family crest. It is in the best taste, however, to have the envelope unengraved. When deemed advisable, the address may be written by hand in one corner or across the back of the flap.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD LIMIT.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including Wednesday, the 31st of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on a certain area situated on the Metagami River in the District of Temiskaming.

Tenderers shall state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to the Crown dues of 40c. per cord for Spruce, and 20c. per cord for other pulpwoods, or such other rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the right to operate a pulp mill and a paper mill on or near the area referred to.

Such tenderers shall be required to erect a mill or mills on or near the territory and to manufacture the wood into pulp and paper in the Province of Ontario—the paper mill to be erected when directed by the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Parties making tender will be required to deposit with their tender a marked cheque payable to the Honourable the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, for ten per cent. of the amount of their tender, to be forfeited in the event of their not entering into an agreement to carry out the conditions, etc.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For particulars as to description of territory, capital to be invested, etc., apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines
Toronto, Ontario, September 17th, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked on the envelope "Tender for Christian Island Timber," will be received until noon on Tuesday, the 18th day of November next, for 400,000 feet, B. M., of timber of ten inches and upwards in diameter at the stump, comprising about fifty per cent. of Maple, twenty-five per cent of Beech, the remainder being Birch, Basswood, Ash and Hemlock, to be taken out by the Indians of Christian Island during the coming winter and delivered on the shore of the island at convenient points for shipment.

Tenderers should state the prices they will pay for the different kinds of timber per M. feet, B.M., over and above the Crown dues as stated hereunder.

Measurements of the timber are to be made by an Ontario licensed culler and sworn returns of same shall be furnished in accordance with the Timber Regulations of the Department.

An accepted cheque on any chartered Canadian Bank for $300.00, made payable to the order of the undersigned, should accompany each tender, which in the event of failure to carry out the undertaking, will be forfeited to the Department. Cheques sent by unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Reasonable advances to the Indians if required, as the work progresses, shall be made by the successful tenderer.

The Crown dues payable on timber as per tariff are as follows:—

Maple and Ash, $2.00 per M. feet, B.M.

Beech, Birch and Basswood, $1.50 per M. feet, B.M.

Hemlock, $1.00 per M. feet, B.M.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted, and the Department will not pay for the unauthorized insertion of this advertisement in any newspaper.

DUNCAN C. SCOTT.
Deputy Superintendent General
Of Indian Affairs.
Department of Indian Affairs,
—[illegible]. Ottawa, October 24, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for 200-ton Mechanical Coaling Plants with Sandhouses" will be received at the office of The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway at Ottawa, Ontario, until twelve o'clock noon of the 7th day of January, 1914, for the construction and erection complete, in accordance with the plans and specifications of the Commissioners of six 200-ton Mechanical Coaling Plants with Sandhouses complete, to be erected at the following points on the line of the National Transcontinental Railway, as set forth below, viz.:

One at Monk, P.Q. .....Mile 335.2
One at Bridge, P.Q...... " 460.6
One at Fitzpatrick, P.Q. " 583.2
One at Parent, P.Q. .... " 765.3
One at Doucet, P.Q. ... " 836.4
One at O'Brien, P.Q.... " 915.4

Plans may be seen and forms of tender and specifications obtained at the office of Mr. W. J. Press, Mechanical Engineer, Ottawa, Ontario, and at the offices of Mr. A. E. Doucet, District Engineer, Quebec, and Mr. T. S. Armstrong, District Engineer, Cochrane, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders must be made on the printed forms supplied by The Commissioners, and that each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a Chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, for a sum equal to five per cent (5 per cent.) of the amount of the tender.

The cheque deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected, will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

THE PLAGUE OF SAMPLES

A Glance at the Mail of the Prince of Wales

It is said that the bulk of the Prince of Wales' daily mail is made up of samples and advertising matter. He receives enough samples of cigars and cigarettes in the course of a day to last a heavy smoker for a year. Usually there are twenty-five or fifty cigars or cigarettes enclosed in a plain mahogany box. Sometimes the case is of silver or of gold. It is the invariable custom of the Prince to return the costly cases and the samples they contain, with a note explaining that he never retains a sample of so valuable a character. An enterprising proprietor of a hotel at Nice went to the trouble to prepare a book describing the advantages of his hotel, which was printed on parchment, illustrated by hand, and bound in beaten silver. It must have cost at least $1,000. Another hotel proprietor in Cairo sent a silver model of his hotel, and a letter praying that the Prince might do him the honor of being his guest the first time he went abroad. Some of the letters the Prince receives are very amusing. For instance, one was from a chief in the South Sea Islands, who offered to bring his three daughters to England in order that they might be placed in the Prince's harem. A man in Ceylon offered to supply the Royal household with as many black servants as desired, all perfectly trained and speaking English. Offers from couriers and guides are numerous. One was received from an old fellow in Constantinople, who desired the privilege of showing the Prince the sights of that city, and remarked that he had the honor of escorting his grandfather about some forty years ago. Appeals for subscriptions to charities are also very numerous, and these communications are scrutinized with the utmost care, for should the Prince subscribe it would be announced that he was a patron, and it might be found out later on that the charity was simply a money-making scheme, in which case the Prince's name might be used to fleece the innocent public.

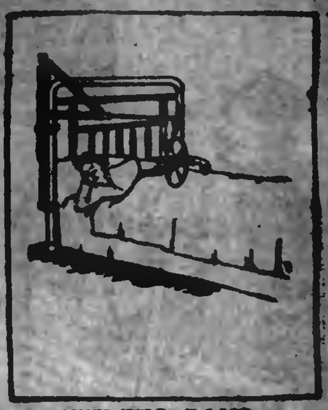
LIMB SUPPORT

Holds Arm or Leg Suspended From Danger of Shock

To facilitate the setting of broken bones in the arm or leg, the appliance shown in the illustration would appear to be very effective. Uprights made with swinging horizontal arms are attached to posts of the headboard and footboard of the bed. The height of these arms can be regulated by chains, and their length is also adjustable. Hanging from each one is a resilient limb support in the form of a loop through which the injured limb in its cast or splints is thrust.



LIMBS HELD IN LOOP.

This loop is suspended by a spring, and a limb supported by it is not subjected to any strain and has the effect of floating in the air as nearly as may be achieved. In this position there is no danger of further injury or displacing of splints and bandages by the patient's unconscious moving in bed.

TRAINER OF STARS IN CONNIE MACK

Leader of Athletics Always Has His Eyes on the Future and on Young Players

There is an expression, "Connie Mack luck." It is shouted whenever Connie brings out a new star. It isn't luck. It's hard work. It's perseverance. It is careful selection of players and patient teaching. It is prudent handling of the raw material. It is weeks, months, years of preparation. It is a constant, never ending effort to be prepared always for the day when a star begins to go back.

Mack develops his own players. He gets them very young, usually out of high schools or colleges. He aims to secure them before they have had baseball habits; that is, false or incorrect methods in batting, throwing, pitching, etc.

CONNIE MACK
as he looks on the foul line

Mack first watches a lad's physical faults. He tries to correct them. If the youngster will not listen to advice off the team he goes. His ticket to a minor league city reads only one way. Only one man in 11 years ever came back to the Athletics. This was Bris Lord.

After curing a player of his false motions, Connie starts to train him physically and mentally. He coaches the lad on the field and he makes him hear him on the bench during a game and explains the various plays as they come up. He next tries him in every position until he finds the one the boy can play best. Then he waits for the decline of a veteran. Some day a man is needed for a man's job on the diamond and the recruit who has been trained carefully steps into the limelight a finished baseball product. It was so with Collins, Barry, Lapp, McInnis and it will be so with others.

Twice a day Mack meets his players. They discuss the plays of the game before. They plan the battle that is at hand. Every opposing pitcher is put under a magnifying glass, so to speak. Every twirler has certain little motions which he makes in delivering different kinds of balls. These are pointed out. It was because a member of the Athletics discovered that Mathewson made a certain movement with his foot when he pitched his [illegible] "[illegible]" that the Athletics beat New York when Mathewson was pitching in a memorable world series.

Having called the youngsters he [illegible], Connie puts them with the veterans. Not one of the latter would ever dare attempt to discourage a youngster. The star may see his job slipping from him, but he has no [illegible] in his [illegible]. He knows that Connie is watching out for the future of his men and a veteran seldom leaves his club without first getting a job as manager of another team.

Good Soldiers Here

"You have splendid material here in Canada, much better, I should say, than we have in Britain, but you are in more need of training, and I think you should have a sixteen days' period of military camp instead of but eight." In these words Lord Brooke, the British territorial officer who was one of those who exchanged with Canadian officers through the plan for interchange of the military experiences of both countries, expressed himself at Ottawa.

A GREAT FORTRESS

On a Ridge of Hills 500 Feet Above the Sea

The Tchataldja lines, the last line of defences before Constantinople with the exception of its ancient Byzantine walls, are about 20 miles distant from Constantinople. Here the peninsula on which Constantinople stands is narrowed to a width of only 25 miles by a deep inlet of the Sea of Marmora on the south, and the fresh water of Lake of Derkos on the north. A series of works was begun here in 1828, when a Russian army threatened Constantinople, and was completed in 1877, when the Russians again menaced the capital. They run across the isthmus, and as both flanks rest on the sea they cannot be turned. The forts are built on a ridge of hills some 500 feet above sea level, with a small stream running across their entire front. The garrison in times of peace is about 2,400.

A Miser's Revenge

An old miser, who died in Wales, fell out with his relatives over a trifle several years ago, and he thereupon changed nearly all his money into bank-notes. Each bank-note he tore into two, burning one portion and retaining the other. When his relatives came to examine his effects after his death they found, to their chagrin, valueless halves of the bank-notes and a letter which contained the paragraph:

"All my money I leave to my dear relatives to be equally divided between them. I am sure they will not quarrel about it."

The miser had destroyed the halves of the bank-notes bearing the numbers.

George Jones, R.A., while discussing [illegible] Turner's "Bay of Baiae" with a traveller who had recently seen the bay, was surprised to learn that at least half the scene was pure invention.

Turner not only took strange liberties with the topography and architecture of the landscapes he painted, but showed his eccentric genius in the materials he employed. He obtained some masterly effects in ways that are amusing and ingenious, but quite foreign to the proper methods and materials of his art.

On one occasion he put in a common red wafer to represent a setting sun, and finding that it looked as he desired, left it there and painted up to it. Again, when he wished to secure the contrast of some animated figure upon a terrace, in silhouette against a golden sky, he cut out a barking dog in black paper and pasted it on the canvas. It proved successful, and the paper dog remains there to this day.

Still more extraordinary is the story of Turner's invitation to three children to collaborate with him. The artist was staying at the house of a friend, and had brought with him a sketch in which the background was carefully outlined, while the foreground still remained blank.

One morning, instead of resuming work himself upon the canvas, he called in his host's children and, putting in [illegible] cakes of paint, red, blue and yellow, he gave one to each child. Then he told them to dabble their fingers in the brighter colors and amuse themselves by making prints and marks upon the unfinished picture. Of course they accepted the unexpected invitation with glee, and there he sat gravely looking on, while thirty [illegible] finger-tips did their very best to convert his sketch into a crazy rainbow.

Suddenly, in the midst of their frolic, he cried out, "Stop."

They stopped, and he took back the canvas, added landscape forms suggested by the accidental blotches of color, and rapidly completed what proved to be a striking and beautiful picture.

Pig Swallowed Insurance Card

A man named John Brown, of Peterborough, charged with begging at Boston, explained that he had been working for some months but he was unable to produce his insurance card owing to a remarkable misadventure. He said that while on his way to Boston he secured an odd day's work. He laid down his coat and a pig which came by ate the garment, with the insurance card and an ounce of tobacco in the pockets. The Bench sentenced him to one day's imprisonment.

Insurance Act Fraud

For making a false declaration to obtain unemployed benefit under the Insurance Act, John Bryne, a painter, was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment at Bedford.

Railway But no Roads

The medical arrangements required by the Insurance Act have drawn attention to the inaccessibility of many Scottish villages. To the Roxburghshire railway colony of Riccarton a special interest attaches. No roads lead to this well known junction; and a special train, which starts at 10.15 a.m., conveys worshippers to Hawick every Sunday morning. Free passes are supplied to railway employes and their families. To meet the medical requirements of the community, the railway directors permit Hawick doctors to travel to Riccarton on engines or in guards' vans and first class compartments, as they may find most convenient. Among other privileges granted to the district, goods are carried to the grocery store at half the usual rates.

Relic of the Past

The only sedan chair still in active service is to be found at Hampton Court. Some of the ladies residing there use it when visiting one another's apartments in the evening; but it is never seen outside the precincts of the Palace.

When Appetite Fails and Digestion is Bad

There is Danger Ahead for the Man That Neglects Nature's Warning.

DYSPEPSIA TENDENCIES ARE SERIOUS AND SHOULD BE TREATED ACCORDINGLY

There is a strong moral in the statement of James Schram, of Pleasant street, Dartmouth, N.S. Like thousands of people, he was failing in health because his stomach and digestive organs were out of repair. His vitality was slipping away; he was losing ground every day.

"I could not have held on much longer. I was wasting away simply because no remedy I used gave tone and strength to my stomach. The vital forces of my system seemed dead. I was advised to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills. What hidden weakness they searched out I don't know, but in a miraculous way they have made a new man of me. My stomach troubles are cured, rich blood now runs through my veins — clear skin and unmistakable evidences of health and vigor I feel every day. Dr. Hamilton's Pills have certainly mastered the secret of curing the sickly enervated man and I strongly urge every one in failing or lost health to use his grand remedies."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut are purely vegetable —25c. per box, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

South Ward's Great Progress.

The South Ward of Peterborough is advancing by leaps and bounds in our city's history. The greater portion of our incoming factories seem to be locating in that part of the city. This must result in a great advance in real estate there. An unrevised statement of the assessment in that Ward for 1913 gave $3,781,000 as compared with $3,193,926 for 1912.

Not His Treat.

Yesterday, a young man whose first name is Albert, while under the influence of John Barleycorn, boarded a south bound car and immediately fell into a quiet slumber. Upon taking his seat. The conductor, after calling off streets, called out "Albert next street." The intoxicated man immediately woke up and yelled out, "You're wrong, boss; I treated last!"

A Progressive Merchant.

The City of Peterborough, particularly No. One Ward, owes much to Mr. R. C. Braund, who has for many years conducted a marvellously successful business. Mr. Braund's enterprise has "set the pace," as it were, for others in the South End. He has developed a great store business, but has also devoted attention to building and real estate, owning a large number of dwelling houses in the South End. Mr. Braund has faith in the future of Peterborough, and backs his faith with his money.

W. Peterborough's Farmers' Inst.

The Board of Directors of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute met at the City Council Chamber on Saturday afternoon. President C. E. Moore occupied the chair. There were also present Messrs. A. McGregor, Vice-Pres., G. W. Mann, John Flood, J. N. Telford, H. C. Garbutt, J. H. Garbutt, T. H. Graham, T. T. Milburn, R. Chambers and W. Collins, secretary. Mr. F. C. McRae, the newly appointed District representative of the Agricultural Department, was also present. The first business was to arrange for meetings at Ennismore and Lakefield on December 1st and 2nd; also to make arrangements for halls, entertainments, etc.

The Powder Magazine.

A Times scribe yesterday enquired about the powder magazine that has existed for many years in the South Ward. As is generally known the Council has ordered this magazine vacated by those storing explosives therein. The Peterborough Hardware Co. has removed all their dynamite and powder. Kingan & Co. have removed all their high power explosives excepting a few cases of powder which are absolutely safe. About two months ago the Trent Canal removed the last of their dynamite, some 18 cases, so that our good fellow citizens in the South may go to their respective beds at night without dreaming they heard an explosion and are riding through space in aeroplanes.

One Touch of Nature.

About a fortnight ago, The Times gave a first report of the first Chinese baby ever born in this city or county. Yesterday one of our reporters, who is a bashful young fellow, called at the laundry of Charlie Fun, Water street, on whom the stork had called, to enquire "how is the baby?" Mrs. Fun answered our scribe's call. She said, "You want see the baby." Our reporter replied in the affirmative. He was conducted by the almond eyed and proud little mother to the back of the laundry. He was led past mangles and other laundry paraphenalia. Then he was halted at an open crib in which reclined, sleeping, the Chinese baby. It was swaddled in clothes. Its little head was entirely surrounded, from the eyes to the dome of its skull in cotton bandages. Our reporter, who ought to have known better, asked "Is the baby brought up naturally or on a bottle?" The little mother replied "No, he sleep good and eat good."

SOFT, SILKY AND SERVICEABLE ARE THESE ALL SATIN UNDERSKIRTS AT $1.49

TO BE PARTICULAR IN THOSE ITEMS OF CLOTHING that are hidden from the public view, is really the index of true refinement. It is only a matter of sincerity after all, for does not every woman like to know that the same trig appearance of her outer garments is also to be found in those other garments that only she herself sees? Then, of course, first in importance is the Underskirt. And a good, smart Underskirt is the satin skirt, as probably most women know. Not only is it smart and good looking, but it is long wearing, too. That is, if it is as fine a Skirt as those that we are selling for $1.49 next Wednesday. And we are showing Black-ones, Paddy Green, Cerise, Tan, Navy, Purple, White, Cream, Brown, etc.; in fact, all the colors in demand just now. They are made on the narrow lines that are necessary in these days of slender gracefulness, and have a deep directoire, pleated flounce. Each petticoat is of satin throughout, and the satin is of good quality; the workmanship very fine. And as regards value for $1.49, why you have only to glance in our big centre window, and prove for yourself that you really could not buy a better Skirt at the price. They are a shipment newly arrived from England, and are fresh, crisp and dainty. Wednesday $1.49

To buy half a dozen and distribute them at Christmas would be a sane and sensible method of making a gift that is worth while.

WE APOLOGIZE!

WILL ALL THOSE CUSTOMERS who did not receive their Annex purchases until Thursday, or even on Friday morning, please accept our apology for the late delivery. But let us explain.

Last week was our Annex Anniversary, and crowds assembled to take advantage of the splendid bargains that were offered. Naturally the parcels to be delivered assumed huge proportions, and to cope with the extra delivery we placed the whole three of our wagons on the distribution of Annex parcels. This was one rig more than our special Annex delivery, but even then we simply couldn't get the parcels around the city until Thursday or Friday morning. We very much regret the delay, but trust to the good will of our customers to see that we did everything in our power to make early deliveries. THE CRESSMAN CO., LTD.

INDIGESTION, GAS OR SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Time It! — "Pape's Diapepsin" makes your upset, bloated stomach feel fine in five minutes

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

$500 CAKE FOR WILSON BRIDE

Will Weigh 135 Pounds and be Distributed in 2000 Boxes

New York, Nov. 17.—Miss Jessie Wilson's wedding cake was baked here today.

The first layer of the cake is four inches thick and 28 inches across. When ready for the knife the cake will weigh 135 pounds and will be two and one-half feet tall, if one counts in the measurement the vase of white orchids which is to be placed on top.

It will cost about $500 and will contain 19 ingredients, including many dozen new laid eggs and proper proportions of sherry, brandy and rum.

In 2000 dainty white boxes, tied with satin ribbon, the cake will be distributed, each box being the proper size for placing beneath one's pillow so that one may dream upon it.

Over the snowy body of the cake will be molded a thick, white icing scroll work. "Then," we quote the artist who is making it, "there will be a design for the initials of the bride and bridegroom. It will be done in silver and then there will be lilies-of-the-valley in white sugar on the sides.

"Will it give one indigestion? Most certainly no. It is real cake."

A pendant made up of one canary diamond weighing 8½ carats, surrounded by 58 smaller diamonds arranged in a pear shape, and attached to a neck chain in which smaller diamonds are set, will be the gift of the House of Representatives to Miss Wilson.

The gift will be in a jewel box with "To Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, by the Members of the United States House of Representatives as a Token of Their Affectionate Interest and Regard, on Her Marriage, November 25, 1913."

Senator Martine of New Jersey has undertaken to buy a wedding present on behalf of the Senate for Miss Wilson.

MISSING ON WEDDING EVE

Mystery in Disappearance of P. C. Fairbanks, of Brockton

Brockton, Nov. 17.—Mystery surrounds the sudden disappearance of Percy C. Fairbanks, formerly a quartermaster in the navy, on the eve of his wedding to Miss Mabel Kingman, daughter of Supt. Homer Kingman, of the water department.

Miss Kingman is prostrated, and the marriage, which was to have taken place Monday night, has been indefinitely postponed. Telegrams have been sent to the navy department at Washington to learn if possible whether the young man may have re-enlisted.

The last seen of Fairbanks was on Wednesday last, when he escorted his fiancee from his home at 970 Crescent street, where she had been a guest, to her own home at 112 Summer street. No one is able to ascribe any reason for his leaving Brockton.

Supt. Kingman said tonight that there had been no quarrel between the young people and that his daughter had had no word from Fairbanks since last week. Fairbanks's parents also declare they have no notion of where he may have gone.

He served seven years in the navy and was discharged last summer while serving as quartermaster on the battleship New Jersey. He had announced his intention of quitting the sea and of going into business in Portland.

STEFANSSON AND ARCTIC EXPLORATION PARTY FEARED LOST IN BIG STORM THAT PLAYED HAVOC WITH NORTHERN SHIPPING; SEARCH IS FUTILE

Discoverer of Blonde Eskimos, Accompanied by Eleven Scientists and Big Crew of Hand-picked Seamen, Outfitted by Dominion Government for Journey

Was Last Heard From In August—Expedition in Charge of Bartlett

New York, Nov. 18.—The New York Sun publishes the following special from Seattle, Washington: Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer and discoverer of the white Eskimo, who was aboard the steamship Karluk when that vessel was last sighted off Flaxman Island on Aug. 14th, possibly is lost, as is the vessel and all of her people.

Nothing has been seen or heard of the Karluk since that date despite the fact that extensive search has been made for her. Whalers say there is little hope of her ever being discovered, as she is known to have encountered the heavy weather which prevailed off the Alaskan coast early in October.

This is the opinions of members of the Canadian Arctic exploration party at Collinson Point, according to a despatch received from Fairbanks to-day.

Stefansson left Victoria last summer with an expedition outfitted by the Canadian Government to make explorations and scientific research along the northern coast of the American continent.

OTTAWA HOPES STORY IS UNTRUE.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—The story that the Canadian Government Polar Expedition, commanded by Mr. Stefansson, has been lost, created a great deal of alarm at Ottawa to-day and immediate steps were taken by the authorities to endeavor to ascertain the truth of the rumor. It is too late this year to send a relief party by water, but efforts will be made to get in touch with the Northwest Mounted Police of the Yukon territory and particularly the farthest north post at Herschell Island and have them search for the expedition and find out the situation.

However, Government official and Deputy Minister Desbarats, of the Naval Service Department, which was in charge of the expedition, do not put much credence in the story, and believe that Stefansson is safely wintering somewhere on the Arctic Coast. The ice was extremely bad this year, and it is known that the explorer will not be able to reach his expected winter quarters at Herschell Island. There is a strong possibility that the ship Karluk was caught by the ice and crushed, but, even so, the men could easily reach the shore with provisions.

It Does Not Seem Possible.

As the Karluk is commanded by Capt. Robert Bartlett, who was with Peary, and the most experienced Arctic navigator in the world, while the expedition was thoroughly outfitted, it does not seem possible that all are lost. The worst possible, it is held, is that the ship has been crushed. The last direct word from Stefansson was on August 8th, reporting that he had safely rounded Point Barrow. This was the last the Government expected to hear from him so that the fact that there is no news should be no cause for alarm. Point Barrow also is considered the most dangerous portion of the trip.

The expedition in all consisted of three ships. The Karluk with Capt. Bartlett and Stefansson in command, which expected to go due north from Herschell Island and explore the great unknown northland, and the Alaska and Mary Sach, under the command of Capt. Dr. Anderson, which formed the southern section and was headed for Coronation Bay, where exploration would be carried on.

Last Word From Anderson.

A telegram was received on Nov. 10, from Dixie City, Alaska, sent by carrier from Collinson Point, reporting that Anderson and his two ships with all on board were safe. He also said that the last heard of Stefansson was from Flaxman Island, one hundred miles from Herschell Island.

MONTREAL SCENE OF BIG TRACTION FIGHT

Montreal, Nov. 18.—This city, the transportation shortages of which have been the subject of much comment in the local press lately, is about to witness an interesting struggle between two powerful organizations to supply the deficiency.

The Montreal Tramways Company several days ago applied for an extension of its charter, promising underground railways. Yesterday the Canadian Autobus Company intimated to the city that it is prepared to construct tubes serving both the down-town and up-town districts.

FROM SECTION HANDS TO PRESIDENT; QUITS

Mr. W. C. Brown by Spare Time Study Rose to Command Army of 100,000 Employes.

New York, Nov. 18.—William C. BroRn, who rose from section hand to the presidency of the New York Central lines, resigned to-day. The directorates of the four railroad companies comprising the New York Central System accepted his resignation. It will become effective on New Year's Day. A. H. Smith, senior vice-president of the lines, it is reported will succeed him.

Mr. Brown is sixty years old and has been in railway service for more than forty four years. He has been President of the New York Central for the past five years. Prior to that he was for two years senior vice-president of the system, and for five years in charge of operation and maintenance. As President of the lines he was commander-in-chief of an army of 100,000 employes

WHOLE EMPIRE REPRESENTED AT STRATHCONA MEMORIAL

King and Queen Mary Sent Personal Friends in Their Stead—Duke, of Argyle, Lady Grey, Hon. Mr. Perley, Mr. Hines Page

London, Nov. 18.—Saint Marks, North Audley street, was filled to-day for the memorial service to the late Lady Strathcona. The church is close to Lord Strathcona's residence in Hanover Square and large crowds gathered in the neighborhood. The assembly included representatives of the whole diplomatic life of the Empire at large, including practically every member of the Canadian community now in London.

Major General Sir Henry Ewart, represented the King. Colonel Streatfeild represented Queen Alexandra; Major Malcolm Murray, represented the Duke of Connaught; Sir Dighton Probyn, the King's late secretary, also attended. The congregation further included, Hon. G. H. Perley, representing the Dominion Government, the Duke of Argyle, Ambassador Page, the Japanese Ambassador, aged Lord Brassey, Admiral Freemantle, F. G. Butler, representing the Colonial Secretary; Sir J. Anderson and Sir J. Hartman, just from the Colonial Office; Mr. Alex. Johnston, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. Thos. MacKenzie, High Commissioner of New Zealand; Sir Newton Moore, of Western Australia.

Every Dominion in fact was officially represented and Agents General of the Canadian Provinces all attended.

Earl Grey is on the continent, but Lady Sybil Grey attended.

Lord Strathcona was a pathetic figure leaning heavily on the arm of his daughter, Hon. Mrs. Howard. Other near relatives were Mr. Howard, and Donald and Mary and Arthur Howard, and Miss Howard, grandchildren.

The service was led by Rev. H. P. Cronshaw, vicar, assisted by Rev. Dr. Fleming, representing the Scottish church.

In addition to wreaths on the hearse, a large motor brougham was also filled with tributes from all parts of England, Scotland and Canada. Queen Mother Alexandra's wreath bore the inscription: "To Dear Lady Strathcona. Sorrowing tribute to the memory of a beloved wife and companion for 65 years, from Alexandra."

A large St. Andrew's cross was from the tenants of Glencoe and the Quebec wreath bore the name of the Province. It was conspicuous at the rear of the hearse. The actual interment was at the Highgate.

LIBERAL PARTY IN OPEN REVOLT AGAINST LAURIER LEADERSHIP

Sir Wilfred Out of Tune With Canadian Spirit and Out of Touch With Canadian Policy

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—The Liberal dissatisfaction over the leadership from which the party has been suffering ever since the promulgation of the reciprocity proposal, is now taking the form of open revolution.

The rank and file of the party want a new policy and a new leader. The two needs go together because it is the accepted belief of a majority of the Laurier leadership there can be no new policy. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is hopelessly behind in the race. He is out of touch with the Canadian people, out of sympathy with their spirit and indifferent to their needs. Such political skill as Sir Wilfrid Laurier once possessed he has lost. He no longer exercises control over the party.

Very Broad Hint.

The Ottawa Free Press, the Liberal organ at the Capital, calls for a tariff policy in which the appointment of a permanent tariff commission will be a leading feature. The Borden Government introduced legislation for the creation of a permanent tariff commission and the Senate killed it under orders from Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Free Press wants what Laurier refused to allow. The point is plain enough.

Two Disfranchised.

The Liberal party as now constituted is without a leader acceptable to the party and without a policy acceptable to the people. It is seeking to take what comfort it can from the recapture of the old Liberal riding of South Bruce, but it dare not open South Essex and East Kent, now held by Liberals who no longer take the trouble to sit in the House. These two constituencies have been disfranchised by Laurier, inasmuch as he will not allow the ridings to be opened for the election of men who will go to Ottawa and perform the duties of elected representatives.

Fruit of Laurier's Mistakes.

The whole situation is disheartening to a majority of the Liberals in Canada. They are eating the fruit of repeated bungling on the part of their leaders at Ottawa. On the other hand they are [illegible] enough to see that Conservative Government since coming into office has strengthened its position in every province. It has already instituted more and greater reforms than were ever attempted during the long administration of the so-called party of reform. The contrast between the achievements of the Borden ministry and the mistakes of the Laurier leaders is not lost upon the Liberal electors. It is this which is forcing the demand for new men at the top and a new policy upon which the party can advance.

MR. BORDEN BACK TO OTTAWA NEXT MONTH

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—Word has been received from Premier Borden that he expects to be back in Ottawa early in December. He is having a splendid holiday and is greatly improved in health.

CONCERT IN AID OF DISASTER SUFFERERS

On Monday next a most commendable charitable concert is to be held in St. Paul's church. This entertainment is in aid of the sufferers through the recent Great Lakes disasters. As previously noted in the Times. Substantial contributions are already offered by members of the Dominion Marine Association. The Mayor of Toronto will act as honorary treasurer, and Mr. H. H. Gildersleeve, manager of the R. & O. Nav. Co., has been appointed general treasurer for the fund. Contributions should be sent to either of these gentlemen before December 1st.

Mr. John Allen, the organist of St. Paul's Church, has organized a concert to raise funds for the sufferers.

This is not a denominational affair it is to be conducted in the name of the city. Mayor Bradburn is to preside over the concert. Vocalists and artists are giving their services free and a collection is to be made in aid of the relatives of the victims of the disaster.

Mrs. Pankhurst, and Mrs. Belmont Speak to Girl Workers.

New York, Nov. 18.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain are leading a number of other suffragists and members of women's labor unions in an attempt to organize the employes of the department stores into a union. The party descended yesterday evening upon a Sixth Avenue store, and from their automobiles in the streets they addressed some three hundred employes.

To Jail For Month Not to Maderia, as Planned by Thief

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Pleading guilty to stealing a purse from Miss Sadie Benton, of Chicago, Friesberg de Gauva will go to jail for thirty days with hard labor instead of going to Madeira, as he intended, as shown by a ticket in his pocket when arrested.

According to Miss Benton, she was sitting in the waiting room at the Union Station about 8 o'clock last night. She got up for a minute and left her purse on the bench. When she returned it was gone, and she notified the police. The man was arrested before he left the station.

AUSTRIA EXCEEDS CANADA IN EMPIRE DEFENCE; REGRET THAT POLITICS ENTERED NAVAL ARENA

Mr. Hamar Greenwood, Back in England To-day From Trip to Antipodes With Empire Party Association Gives Interesting Comparisons

London, Nov. 18.—Mr. Hamar Greenwood, just returned from the Empire Parliamentary Association trip to Australia, makes an interesting comparison to-day between the Dominion and the Commonwealth.

"Australia is just passing through the difficult ways of Provincial and Federal conflict, which Canada has already settled."

"The Dominion has been long in the lead as far as development is concerned. Australia has only just begun its Transcontinental. Canada has three.

"Canada has developed along individualistic lines. In Australia the Government is active in nearly every sphere; each state even owns its own railway."

After remarking that he had many political friends on both sides in Canada, he continued:

"Where Australia scores just now, in the Imperial sense, is that the Government and Opposition are one when questions of military or naval affairs arise; no public man in Australia would not favor the Cadet movement, which means a fortnight of camp and a fortnight of drills yearly for every youth and the general responsible for this movement is named Kirkpatrick, a son of a former Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, who learned his soldiering at Kingston."

HEBREW MARRIAGE ANNULMENT CASE NEXT COURT TACKLE

Montreal, Nov. 18.—If the law of Quebec can be invoked to give civil effect to a decree of Roman Catholic church annulling a marriage, then it should be available to reach the wedding of a Jew married in contravention of certain prescriptions of Hebrew religious law, is the point that will be made when the petition of Simon Kaplan, for annulment of his marriage comes up for argument.

Kaplan contends he violated the law in his church which forbids persons of one tribe marrying with a person of another tribe, and that the union has been duly annulled by a rabbi.

NEWEST IN AEROPLANE GUNS FIRES 1,000 SHOTS A MINUTE

British Army Has Acquired What War Office Says is the Greatest Weapon of Offence in Existence

New York, Nov. 18.—A cable from London to the Herald says Great Britain has acquired what the War Office considers the ideal aeroplane gun. It is the latest model of the air cooled gas operated Lewis rifle, already experimented with by the United States army.

Firing upward of 1,000 shots a minute it is to be made a weapon of offence for aeroplanes in the British Service. An unofficial test of the new gun is to be made at Bisley Range on Nov. 27.

The aeroplane gun invented by Col. Isaac N. Lewis was first successfully tested at College Park, Md., in April 1912. From the simple experiment of seeing one officer pour service rifle bullets into targets while travelling 50 miles an hour aeroplane strategists foresee that armed forces below will be at their mercy. The effectiveness of the fire reminded one of a gardener playing a hose on a flower bed.

The gun weighs only fifty pounds and shoots with no recoil or flame. The gun has an automatic air cooling device whereby the barrel is kept continually cool by a blast of air, and after a certain temperature is reached increased rapidity of fire tends to reduce the temperature.

DELANEY WANTS TO MAKE PARIS AS LARGE AS NEW YORK

Seine Prefect's Plan Most Gigantic Ever Submitted in France—Provides Splendid System of Speaking

Paris, Nov. 18.—The project of Marcel Delanney, Prefect of the Seine, entitled "Le Grand Paris," designed to make the City of Light rival New York as the second largest city in the world, is the most gigantic scheme since Haussmann made Paris a city beautiful with a wonderful boulevard system at time of Napoleon III., that has ever been submitted to any municipality. The plan would result in giving an area of 100,000 acres, instead of the present 16,000 and giving open spaces of 8,000 acres or, if it included the woods of Boulogne and of Vincennes and the forests bordering on the Seine, 14,000 acres.

The plan includes the widening of certain streets, a restraint on the height of buildings, following the formula that the height should not exceed the width of the street, and the disappearance of hovels and their displacement by cheap model houses, for which the municipal council has already voted $40,000,000. The public gardens at present 81, will be increased to 136.

For the suburbs the plan is even more ambitious, for it will create out of the present miscellaneous streets a chain of garden cities, following the systematic destruction of the fortifications and filling in of the trenches, which space will be utilized for parks and lawns. Even further, the plan includes the hills bordering the Seine, Marne, and Oise Rivers, and also the fields about Paris, making these immense gardens all united and forming a magnificent promenade, extending over 25 miles.

FAKE MONEY IN ITALY

Of all the so-called "Great Powers," Italy has the most unstable and most unsatisfactory currency. Not alone is the exchange subject to fluctuations, but there is a great mass of counterfeit and worthless money floating about the country for the undoing of the unwary. In the first place, the engraving on the paper money is of inferior quality, and hence easy of imitation; secondly, there are so many worthless or doubtful coins in circulation that the temptation to add to their number is not easily resisted.

The paper money is allowed to remain in circulation until disgracefully dirty and nearly obliterated, and therefore difficult of recognition as counterfeit or genuine. To add to the confusion, French silver is generally accepted, while the coins of Switzerland, Belgium, and Greece, although officially recognized, are, as a rule, refused in commerce. Napoleon, Papal and Roumanian coins are still in circulation, although valueless and accepted only by unwary foreigners, whom the Italians regard as fair prey.

In addition, none of the large number of one-lira pieces coined before 1863 can be passed, although intrinsically of equal value with those of later date, since the period arbitrarily fixed for their redemption has passed and the government refuses to accept them further.

The Italians possess a mania for mutilating and perforating the five and ten centesimo copper coins; but, owing to their small denomination, this usually acts as no bar to their acceptance.

PIES BIG AS HOUSES

Monsters That Have Been Prepared For Special Occasions

An enormous meat-pie, weighing two hundred pounds, provided the chief dish for a banquet at [illegible]. It was made in three sections, and the outer crust was three inches thick.

It created a big sensation locally, yet it would have made but a poor show by the side of some of the monster pies for which Denby Dale, near Halifax, has been long famous.

These are baked only upon very special occasions, the very biggest of them being prepared in 1887, in honor of Queen Victoria's Jubilee. It weighed, when cooked, no less than 1 ton 6 hundredweight, and the ingredients comprised 960 pounds beef, 180 pounds each of mutton and veal, 140 pounds lamb, 250 pounds lean pork, and enough fowls, geese, pigeons, rabbits, hares, etc., to stock a poulterer's shop. To make the crust 60 stone of flour were used, mixed with 160 pounds lard and 50 pounds of butter.

Another similar monster was prepared in 1846 to celebrate the repeal of the corn laws. Yet another was baked in 1788, in commemoration of King George III's recovery from illness; while a fourth was prepared and eaten in 1815, in honor of Wellington's victory over Napoleon on the field of Waterloo.

From long habit we have been accustomed to think of fishes as living exclusively in water; or being incapable, in fact, of supporting existence under any other conditions. Nature, however, does not always draw a hard and fast line between aquatic animal life and that which belongs to the land. From the accounts of naturalists whose names are sufficient guarantee for their veracity there exist fish which walk on dry land, and others which traverse in like manner the floor of the ocean.

Dr. Francis Day, of India, discovered several cases of the migration by land of fishes from one piece of water to another, whilst Layard also encountered some fish evidently belonging to the perch family traversing a hot, sandy road at noon on a sultry day. Humboldt was once astounded to behold a species of dorus progressing over the dry ground by a succession of leaps, supported by its pectoral fins, and he also heard of another specimen that had climbed a hillock twenty feet high.

In a certain part of India a party of English officers were encamped when a rustling sound in the grass and leaves attracted their attention. They found, on investigation, that the noise was caused by countless numbers of little fish that were moving slowly over the ground and making steadily in one direction. Their method of locomotion consisted in using their sides and small fins as feet, and their progress was anything but smooth.

The fish these officers saw are known as the climbing-perch, which have long taken prominent rank among the curiosities of Nature, and they were being compelled by drought to traverse a tract of dry land in order to regain their native element. Constantly the streams they inhabit become dried up in the heat of the summer season, and when this happens these extraordinary freaks climb up the banks, and, guided by some instinct, make a direct bee-line across country to some river that still contains a modicum of water.

It is well over a hundred years ago that this wonderful fish was first brought before the notice of naturalists. A specimen was then captured nearly at the top of a lofty palm tree, having probably ascended the trunk in order to obtain any moisture that might have collected in the hollow of the leaves. This at first was regarded as a traveller's tale, but when M. Daldorf found one of these perch actually engaged in ascending a tree, it was amply sufficient to place the climbing-perch in the lengthy category of Nature's oddities.

Paper and Ink For Money

To manufacture and print the paper money of Canada it is necessary to import materials from various parts of the world. A part of the paper fiber, for instance, is linen rag from the Orient. The silk that furnishes the strands that are run through the paper as a safeguard against counterfeiting comes from China or from Italy. The blue ink contains cobalt from Canada or Germany. The black ink is said to be made at Niagara Falls from acetylene gas smoke; and the greater part of the green ink is made with white zinc sulphate, the product of German industry. The red is derived from a pigment imported from Central America.

Cathedral for Aberdeen

A proposal is being mooted in Aberdeen Episcopal Church circles with the idea of raising St. Andrew's Church, Aberdeen, to the status of a cathedral. The scheme has in view certain structural alterations and a considerable enlargement of the existing building. The proposal is finding complete favor in the diocese.

COMPOSER AT NINE

Child Prodigy Recognized in German Musical Circles

Among the composers who were honored by having their works entered on the programme of the Berlin Philharmonic Society's concerts under the leadership of Herr Nikisch, one of the very few who can boast of having a work brought out in this way for the first time, is a boy of fifteen—Erich Wolfgang Korngold. His "Overture to a Comedy" was given for the first time at the fifth of these concerts. This is the boy's fourth important composition, but although he has got so far already, he is not a very rapid composer. Indeed his four works are spread over a period of six years, and his first work, a cantata, was produced when he was only nine. Meanwhile the Court Opera House of Vienna has given as many as thirty performances of his pantomime, "The Snowman," which was written at the age of eleven. His other works are a piano suite, "Don Quixote," and a sonata.

Ping-Pong With Soap Bubbles

At a popular science exhibition in London one of the marvels shown were soap bubbles invested with extraordinary properties. Bubbles were blown within other bubbles. Bubbles were sent rolling along suspended wire rails. Bubbles were blown with a gas that caused a loud explosion when they burst. Finally, bubbles were made with a specially tough and elastic soap, which were batted back and forth in a real game of ping-pong.

BEAUTIES OF INDIA

A Missionary Writes of His Observations in the East

"The first marvel and interest," which the stranger to India experiences on arrival in that country, is the beauty of the people who move about in the open air, according to the Rev. Robert F. Horton, a missionary who has written letters about his travels in the East to the London Daily Chronicle. "Custom gradually abates the marvel," he says, "and the residents are quickly unconscious of the charm. But there it is, confronting you at once. Men and women and children are moving everywhere with garments so scanty that the beauty of the human form is not hidden, and such garments as are used only add to, and rarely detract from, that beauty. A white cloth wound gracefully round the head, a slight loincloth, a clinging fold of drapery, white or brilliant red or blue, or yellow, or green, does not conceal that color and shape of man or woman or child which surely was meant to be the fairest sight of the world. They say that the dark color is itself a kind of garment, and that white men and women would never seem decent or comely in this scant attire. And, indeed, the color, or rather the colors, are no small part of the beauty. Some of the skins are almost black, some brown, some tawny, but all are rich, glossy as silk, smooth and shapely. The shoulders and the bare arms of men and women, and the comely, chocolate-colored children, possess the eye with a sense of satisfied loveliness. The gay plumage of birds and the spots and stripes of the jungle beasts are not really more beautiful than the bodies of human beings in this land of wonders. For it is not the colors alone; it is the shape of the bodies that move on bare feet, and are exercised by carrying burdens on the head. The boatman, putting his vallam along the backwater, or the woman with the bundle poised on the head, is a figure for a sculptor to marvel at rather than to imitate. It is a scene of living sculpture, a colored cinematograph, everywhere in progress.

FATHER O'FLYNN

Author of Words of Famous Song Would Divide His Glory.

During a lecture at the University College, of North Wales, on "Songs of Ireland," Mr. A. Percival Graves, the author of the famous song "Father O'Flynn," gave an interesting account of the origin of the song with which he thought his name was already too much identified.

When a clerk at the Home Office, Mr. Graves happened to be strolling across one of the London parks and the words of the song came into his head. Subsequently writing them out he sent them to the "Spectator" in which they were published.

Ten years afterwards they were set to music by Sir Charles Santley and when first sung scored an immediate success. But the public perseveringly ignored Sir Charles' collaboration in the song and have insisted upon recognizing Mr. Graves as its sole creator.

In many places he is known as Father O'Flynn, his own name being utterly forgotten.

South Bruce is said to have endorsed the Laurier naval policy. It would be interesting as well as instructive to know which of the Laurier naval policies was thus endorsed.

So the old adjunct has been sponged off the statute books of our American neighbors. Evidently the United States recognizes the verdict of September, 1911, as final, wherein they show a better appreciation of Canadian opinion than has been exhibited by one Laurier.

Ignorance is responsible for much pain in the world. For instance, a Lindsay mother was informed by a note from the school teacher that her son should be treated for astigmatism. The faithful mother wrote a note back to the effect that she had given Johnny a sound threshing and hoped that he would not do it again.

Eggs are now quoted at 75 cents a dozen in New York and the voters who had great sport throwing them at the Hon. Bill Sulzer and other Fusionist orators are probably pained by the discovery that they are going to be punished for their recklessness.

The International Conference of Safety at Sea, which is meeting in London, has many important considerations under review looking to the security of life and property at sea. Whether man will ever be able to build unsinkable ships or provide absolute assurance against loss of life at sea, may be a moot question, but much can be done to lessen the chances of such loss, and an international conference is the right sort of organization to undertake the work. There should be agreement of action among maritime nations in whatever is done.

MORAL CURES BY SURGERY

It is a common saying in the country that the only way to cure a vicious dog is to cut his tail off close behind his ears. Now comes a Michigan judge who thinks that vicious men can be cured by a less radical operation. Two prisoners, whom he sent to Chicago to have their wickedness excised, returned the other day, told him they had been cured, and were now prepared to live decent and honorable lives. They were then promptly paroled.

Sending men to Chicago to cure them of wickedness is exceeded in absurdity only by the notion that moral delinquency can be cured by the surgeon's knife. This is a favorite theme of playwrights and authors. The life-long kleptomaniac, who has horrified his highly respectable family for years, falls down a flight of stairs, wrenches his cervical vertebrae and—mirabile dictu—is an upright and honorable member of society.

The Michigan experiment has been made before. Last year a confirmed thief was declared miraculously cured by a cranial operation. He was—for two months, when he relapsed into acute breaking and entering.

Modern surgery has performed miracles, and will perform still greater. But it has its limitations, and this is one of them. The removal of a depressed piece of skull may change a man's condition from apathy to bounding good spirits. To the extent which a man's improvement of health influences his character, surgery may accomplish much. A trephining operation may restore life to a paralyzed limb. Removing a child's adenoids and tonsils may transform a dullard into a normal child—though not instantaneously, of course. But that moral turpitude can be cured by surgery at the present stage of progress is utter rot. Some day it may be possible, but not now.

How to Ascertain If You Have Catarrh

Look for Symptoms of This Treacherous Disease in the Following List.

"Is your breath bad?"
"Is your throat sore?"
"Do you cough at night?"
"Is your voice raspy?"
"Does your nose stop up?"
"Have you nasal discharge?"
"Do you spit up phlegm?"
"Has your nose an itchy feeling?"
"Have you pain across the eyes?"
"Is your throat irritable, weak?"
"Do you sleep with mouth open?"
"Are you subject to sneezing fits?"
"Do your ears roar and buzz?"
"Are you hard of hearing?"

If you have any of these indications of Catarrh, cure the trouble now—stop it before it gets into the lungs or bronchial tubes—then it may be too late. The remedy is "Catarrhozone," a direct breathable cure that places antiseptic balsams and healing medication on every spot that's tainted by catarrhal germs.

"No one can know better than I the very first day's use of Catarrhozone," writes T. T. Hopkins, of Westvale, P.Q. "I had for years a stubborn case of bronchial catarrh, ear noises, headache, sore eyes, stopped-up nose and throat. It affected my appetite and made my breath rank. Catarrhozone cured quickly."

The dollar outfit last two months, and is guaranteed; smaller size 50c., sample size, 25c., at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

HANDBOOK MEN SENT TO JAIL

Must Also Pay Five Hundred Dollars of Fine or Serve Double Time.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Pleading guilty to a charge of keeping a common betting house at 1170 Queen street west, A. J. Allen, was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison today, also fined $500, and in default of payment he will serve six months more.

Fred White, who was engaged by Allen, was fined $100 and costs or six months.

Allen said he was engaged in the shoe business, and had placed bets with J. R. Dennison, whom he met in his store. He said that Dennison paid the bets with money orders, which he obtained from the office of the Massey-Harris Company, where he was employed.

Clarence W. Hallewell was also sentenced to a fine of $500 and six months in jail, or a year in default of payment of the fine.

WHERE WE ARE NOW—PROGRESSIVISM.

The following article is from the pen of Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. A. M.P., and was written for The Times by request:

"A hundred thousand years ago men, women and children dwelt in caves. It may have been a little longer ago than that, but the finding of remains and the laying bare of ancient conditions show that a hundred thousand years ago Man was a cunning creature, but nothing more. Then came an age when the ice moved farther back, and men came out into the plains and formed tribes. By and by, as in the case of Babylonia, people learned to weave, to handle metals, and at last to write. The method of government, however, changed little from the earliest days of the race, with this exception, that while formerly war was waged with wild beasts alone, now it began between tribes. To make a long story short, the war chief became king, and like the general of an army in the field even to this day, his rule was absolute. From this on classes began to develop, one class rising in favour and prosperity, the other gravitating in the other direction. In the course of many, many centuries the oppression by the great drove the man who lived by the day and close to the line of starvation to combine with his fellow and against the classes. To this form of struggle later was opposed the modern doctrine of freedom in everything which in industry is the freedom of the individual, who can in all matters of production and trade do as he likes. Then by and by the individual capitalist combined with individual capitalist into great companies, and companies into mergers and trusts. Once more the serfs (this time the wage-earners, particularly the unskilled) rise in rebellion against their masters who with their monopoly of capital, political power, and ways and means, have put the great mass of people (workers) where they were four thousand years ago, in the days of the absolute kings, or one thousand years ago in the days of the feudal nobles. What is to be the result? The unskilled wage-earner cries out that if there must be combinations or trusts let the people run the combinations for the general good. Let Parliament take the place of Capitalism which uses all forms of freedom of trade (which is really privilege, not freedom) for its own benefit. Parliament handles many things in that way now, but they are chiefly means of transportation. "Let the means of production be added," they say. "We will then have a whole people at work for their own common benefit. If in addition it is found necessary in order to preserve a high state of civilization that wages and [illegible] we can put on a prohibitory tariff against them. Our country is big enough to support [illegible] competition, [illegible] private combination and [illegible] everything [illegible] Capitalist [illegible] people [illegible] the latest word in industrialism and politics.

From this [illegible] why it is [illegible] the Great [illegible] the United States [illegible] by Laurier. The [illegible] freedom of competition, upon which Liberalism is founded, has been ascertained to be the most harassing and oppressive of all the evils of the world. It was freedom to do as people pleased that was the father of slavery. The weaker went under. Progressivism proposes co-operation in place of freedom of trade and competition. Protection is not a principle. It is merely an expedient. When expanded, if expanded far enough, it becomes Progressivism. The Initiative and Referendum (the same thing) which enables the people on a petition of a certain number, to vote on any measure, puts all the power directly in the hands of the people, and not indirectly, (and sometimes not at all) as at present.

DONS BLOOMERS TO PAINT HOUSE.

Young Lady in the West End Says She Needs Hard Work.

Yesterday The Times was informed that a certain well known young lady, who was anxious to improve the appearance of the family home, and who was unable to prevail upon her parents to go to the expense of having the house painted outside and in, donned her brother's bloomers and tackled the job herself. She says she needs the hard work anyway, and enjoyed it. All of which goes to show that these young ladies of the present day are made of the right stuff.

A case of suspected smallpox among the third class passengers of the Allan liner Corinthian, resulted in 65 steerage passengers being quarantined at Grosse Isle.

THIS SIMPLE RECIPE QUICKLY BANISHES HAIRS

Here is a simple and inexpensive recipe or formula which is used with excellent results by many beauty specialists for removing hairy growths on the face, neck or arms: Mix a stiff paste with a little delatone and water and spread on hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. Care should be exercised to get the delatone in an original package, otherwise it may not be pure.

A MOTHER'S GOODBYE.

(Published by Request.)

Sit down by the side of your mother, my boy,
You have only a moment, I know;
But you will stay till I give you my parting advice,
It is all that I have to bestow.
You leave us to seek for employment, my boy;
By the world you have yet to be tried;
But in all the temptations and struggles you meet,
May your heart in the Saviour's confide.

You will find in your satchel a Bible, my boy;
It is the book of all others the best;
It will teach you to live, it will help you to die,
And lead to the gates of the blest.
I gave you to God in your cradle, my boy,
I have taught you the best that I know,
And as long as His mercies permit me to live,
I will never cease praying for you.

Your father is coming to [illegible] you good-bye;
[illegible] boy!
Oh, how sad and how lone we will feel when far from the scene of your childhood and youth,
You will remember your father and me.
I want you to heed every word I have said,
For it comes from a heart filled with love;
And, my boy, if we never behold you on earth,
Will you promise to meet us above?
Hold fast to the right, hold fast to the right,
Wherever your footsteps may roam;
Oh! forsake not the way of salvation, my boy,
That you learned from your mother at home.

Proprietor of World's Famous Tape Worm Exterminator

Tape worm is hard from a parasite. It is of four stages, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are connected together. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each section is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite, without doing injury to the individual [illegible]

OLD ONTARIO'S ROADS

In the organized counties of old Ontario there are 50,000 miles of road, according to a report made by Mr. W. A. McLean of the Highways Department of the Provincial Government. A classification would be approximately as follows:

Trunk roads connecting the large towns and cities	2,500 miles
County or leading market roads	6,000 miles
(a) Main township roads	25,000 miles
(b) Secondary township roads	16,500 miles

The roads described as trunk roads are, with the exception of a few connecting links, among the most important of the county roads. Main township roads comprise principally the concession roads on which numerous farms front and which converge into and create the traffic of trunk or county roads. Secondary township roads include the little travelled connecting roads.

Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only 25 cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Don't accept a substitute.

THE STANDARD OF ESKIMO LIFE IS RAPIDLY RISING

Children of Far North Seemed Beyond Hope But Gradually Reformed

The first attempt at Christianizing the Eskimos at Herschel Island, where their chief settlements are situated, was undertaken in 1870 by Rev. W. C. Bompas, who later became Bishop of the diocese of Mackenzie River, says Mr. C. E. Whittaker, who has been working in the Mackenzie River district since 1896. It would be difficult to find a more degraded people than those to whom Mr. Bompas went. He found they were addicted to lying, stealing and [illegible]. They [illegible] dances, sought the conjuring spells and charms. Their religion was very crude, being vague ideas of a spirit of evil, related to cold and death, amenable to exorcism at times, and a less definite idea of a good spirit, in relation with the sun."

As regards their dwellings, Mr. Bompas wrote as follows to a friend: "Go to the nearest well-to-do farmer and spend a night in his piggery and this is exactly like life with the Eskimos. The [illegible] crawling [illegible] through a hole [illegible] a pig [illegible] house. As to the [illegible] companions, the advantage would probably be on the side of the pigs and the safety of the position decidedly so."

Mr. Bompas was reticent regarding the prevailing customs of the tribe, but other observers report a shocking state of immorality, infanticide, polygamy and worse, while an utter disregard of life and property characterized them.

Improved Their Habits

This was the only direct attempt made to Christianize the tribe for twenty years, as Mr. Bompas never returned to them, but a gradual change came over them from observing the habits of the missionaries and Hudson's Bay Company officials at Fort McPherson, as well as the Indians who were now largely Christianized, and the grossest practices died out with the passing of the older generations. During the latter part of this period an immigration from Alaska took place of some members of another tribe, and, while now they no longer flaunted their immoralities before the public, within their own villages they became more degraded than ever.

When the next serious attempt to Christianize these people was made in 1893 by Rev. Isaac O. Stringer, of Wycliffe College, Toronto, he found a difficulty to contend with which had not been met with by his predecessors to any great extent. This was the appalling result which contact with pro-Christian "civilization" now began to have on the people. From 1890 onward from ten to twenty-five ships a year cruised in the Arctic, and ten to fifteen frequently passed the winter in the harbor at Herschel Island. The average crew of these ships was about forty men, and neither officers nor men seemed to consider themselves under any restraint in their relations with the Eskimos.

Wallowed in Drink

Mr. Whittaker tells of having seen a sober population within an hour after the arrival of a whaling ship turned into a howling bedlam of drunken men, women and children. In addition to this, the officers and men not only by their example opposed the work of the Mission, but ridiculed and belittled the teaching of the missionaries.

Very slowly the influence of the Mission grew, chiefly through the work of the schools for children which were established. Finally in 1906 Mr. Whittaker was forced to leave Herschel Island, and in doing so he left the service books with the headsman of the island, who with his young kinsmen alone had shown any signs of conversion, and this man promised to hold services every Sunday for those who would come. Like so many other cases where people have been thrown on their own resources the result was satisfactory in the highest degree, for they maintained the services without a break for six years with only occasional visits from missionaries in that time.

Influence of Missions

When Bishop Stringer in 1909 went to the Village of Kittigazuit, where his earliest labors had been, the change that had come over the natives was astounding. He found them no longer careless but anxious not only to learn but to practice what was taught them. The first baptism among these people took place on this visit and was followed by several others, and in the year 1910 one hundred and thirteen became Christians.

An idea of the marvelous change which had taken place will be gained when it is stated that no case of theft had been heard of for years. Besides this the last murder was committed nine years ago and that murderer lives now without fear of vengeance. Infanticide ceased; polygamy is abandoned, and [illegible] extremely rare. The weekly bath has become an institution, besides daily washing, and in place of their foul igloos, they have well ventilated huts, with three to eight times the air space afforded by the old dwellings, while the doors no longer open into a passage filled with dogs, but give access to the free air. It is interesting to note that Dr. Wilson, assistant surgeon to the R.N.W.M.P., says that he does not consider more than 2 per cent. of the Eskimos are tubercular, an extraordinarily small number considering the weakened condition of the race, owing to their contact with the whalers, and the diseases introduced by the latter.

AN AMAZING DIVORCE

French Countess Legally Separated Without Knowing it

A remarkable divorce case, which surely has no parallel in fiction or fact, aroused great attention in Paris.

A lady, described as the Comtesse de R., aged twenty-seven, and living apparently very happily with her husband, was divorced by him without her knowing anything about it. The count succeeded in legally severing the marriage tie without letting her know of it, and actually gave a dinner, with his wife, to a number of friends on the day when the divorce was pronounced by the courts.

Pushing his audacity still further, the count, while continuing to live with the countess, became engaged to marry another lady of great wealth, and had the banns published also before the countess became aware of it. The secret leaked out quite accidentally. A lawyer who was a friend of the countess, met her on the street, and inquired what she planned to do. She was mystified and could hardly be persuaded that the man had seen the papers in the case. Determined to know the truth, she went to the town where her marriage had taken place. There she found her divorce inscribed at the registry. Returning to Paris she found the banns published of the forthcoming marriage of the count. She immediately asked to have a stay in the proceedings. It was too late, the courts told her. The papers had all been duly signed by her, and the divorce had become effective.

Light now dawned upon the countess. She had had a blind, implicit faith in her husband, whose word she had never seen any reason to doubt. One day after luncheon he had told her that he had great worry of mind about some business undertaking of his which was on the point of failing. The only hope that he could see of saving the situation was to apply for a separation of property. In order to obtain this she would on a certain day be taken [illegible] to the house of a friend, and there a process server would present her with a legal summons to sign the papers presented to her, and say she was satisfied. This she did and the count's way was clear.

NEW LIGHT HAS BEEN THROWN ON BRADDOCK'S END

Brave General Long Misrepresented--Did His Best Under New Conditions

More than one hundred and fifty years after his death, facts concerning General Braddock are coming to light, and will somewhat alter the conception we have received of this British General through Thackeray and other historians who have dealt with him. Mr. Wilfrid Powell, the British Consul-General in Philadelphia, has been unsparing in his efforts to unearth information concerning this commander, who all of these years has rested under an imputation that now appears to have been baseless. From Thackeray we learned that Braddock was a typical British bulldog, brave to the limits of human gallantry, but rough spoken, ignorant and stubborn.

Perhaps the most interesting fact brought out by Mr. Powell is that Braddock was killed by one of his own soldiers, and not by the Indians, as has been supposed. It is related that in 1804, when a gang of men began to make repairs in the Braddock Road, near Uniontown, Pa., an old man from a nearby cottage approached them and said, "Be careful, or you will disturb the bones of the bravest man I ever saw." When questioned by the laborers, he continued, "Right under where you are digging is the body of General Braddock. I shot him. I am Tom Fassett." After awhile some bones were found wrapped in a silken scarf. They were identified by Fassett and others as the remains of the British General, and later on were reinterred under a great oak tree. The spot is still known and recently it was decided to erect a monument to Braddock's memory.

His Last Battle

The story Fassett told about the Battle of Monongahela, in which Braddock fell, has not been recognized by the historians, but there is every reason to believe that it is the most authentic account of that stricken field. Braddock, as might have been expected of a soldier who had received all his training in Europe, knew nothing about the Indian style of fighting, but found himself called upon to lead a mixed force of colonials and English troops against the Indians and the French. Braddock seemed to realise that the methods in which he and his men had been drilled were not best suited to the enemy he was about to meet, but he said to Washington, "The British soldier has been taught to fight shoulder to shoulder. I cannot at this time alter this method. We will do our duty, and fight as best we can." So he went into the battle as a lamb to the slaughter. Concealed in the woods, the Indians picked off the British troops by the score, while they themselves suffered hardly any losses. The British could not even see their enemies, but with fatal courage stood their ground and refused to retreat from the [illegible] crater of fire that ringed them in. Washington and his colonials fought with more knowledge, and therefore with better results, but Braddock refused to take shelter, and according to old Fassett, it was plain that unless some desperate move were made the whole command would be annihilated. So he conceived the notion of wounding his General, in order that the command would descend to Colonel Washington, who would order a retreat.

Killed by a Friend

Fassett fired at Braddock, with the idea of wounding him, but the ball passed through his arm and into his body, inflicting a wound from which he died soon afterward. Fassett's plan was successful, in that it led to Washington bringing the remnant of the expedition safely out of the ambuscade, but the life of the brave General was sacrificed. At Washington's orders the body was buried in the road, and the little force was marched across it again and again in order that all trace of the grave might be concealed from the Indians. So successful was this move that later on Washington himself was unable to locate it, and nobody but Fassett knew precisely where Braddock had been buried.

YOU'RE BILIOUS AND COSTIVE!--CASCARETS

Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Sour Stomach, mean Liver and Bowels Clogged—Clean up tonight.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Here is a good example of what frequently happens in the polyglot Balkans. A man named Pavel—that is, Paul—had five sons; one settled in Athens, called himself Pavlopoulo, the Greek form of Paulson; the second went to Belgrade and called himself Pavlovitch; the third, in Sofia, called himself Pavloff; the fourth made his home at Bucharest under the name [illegible], while the fifth set up [illegible] Constantinople, assuming the [illegible] of [illegible].

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT NASAL ORGAN

No stove or furnace that ever was made by man can equal in efficiency the human nose. For the nose, in the space of three inches and in two seconds of time can raise the temperature of the air it draws in nearly 50 degrees, and at the same time saturate it with moisture and thoroughly purify it. It is also a perfect filter, and thus the most important guardian of the body against disease. All air that is breathed into the lungs should be at a temperature of nearly 90 degrees Fahrenheit. It should also be moist, even wet. Cold, dry air is fine for the outside of the body, but has no place in its interior. In heating the air the nose works on the principle of a steam coil. It is not merely two tubes leading up into the head, and so down to the throat, but from the bones on either side three twisted bones curl out into the passage, one above the other, each coated with elastic cushions of blood-vessels and tiny glands. These form coils with a great, hot, damp surface, over which the air spreads as it is drawn up. Thus is the air warmed for its entrance to the lungs. The entire surface of the inside of the nose is composed of a membrane that pours forth a fluid called mucus. This is composed largely of salt water, which is taken up by the passing air until this is saturated before it reaches the throat. This mucus is also a microbe-catcher and a dust catcher. Almost all the dirt and germs of disease that enter with the air through the nostrils are trapped by the mucus. The living enemies are killed, for the mucus is antiseptic and bactericidal. Thus the air is heated, moistened, and purified before it reaches the lungs. Air breathed in through the mouth is not warmed, moistened or purified, except to a very slight extent. Consequently it reaches the lungs cold, dry, and laden with dust and disease. Bronchitis, tonsilitis, diphtheria, and consumption are the result.

SOME CHIEFS FROM NIGERIA

They Journeyed to England to Assert the Rights of Natives

Among a party of Nigerian chiefs who arrived at Plymouth was one huge fellow about 6 feet 6 inches in height and broad in proportion. The chiefs came as a deputation to the Colonial Secretary to urge that certain rights of the natives should not be infringed. The names of the visitors were: Prince Bassey Duke Ephraim, Prince James Eyo Ita, Chief Mise Goodhead, Chief Richard Koko.

They wore European dress and talked fluently in English.

Prince Bassey Duke Ephraim was educated in England for six years, returning to Nigeria in 1901. Neither he nor his companions would say anything definite about their mission except that the result would affect millions of natives. He expressed gratitude for the advantages brought to their country by Great Britain, but said that they would now rather govern themselves.

They were granted certain rights, he said, when the protectorate was established, and they were anxious to preserve them. They had, he said, abolished the title of King among themselves, recognizing that they could only have one King—he who had established the protectorate over them. They had substituted the title of Obon for their chiefs.

While admitting that the late "King"—the last to hold that title—had 130 wives, Prince Bassey Duke Ephraim would not say how many wives he had.

MUSIC and DRAMA

"BILLY THE KID."

Nowhere in all of this country is there so much atmosphere which can be adapted to the uses of the stage as is to be found in the great Southwest. The greatest melodramatic successes that have ever been written have had the locale of their stories placed in this locality. "Billy The Kid," "The Girl of the Golden West," "The Squaw Man" and "The Virginian," all bear testimony to the love of the theatregoer for the adventure to be found in this part of the country. "Billy The Kid," which takes its title from one of the most famous outlaws who ever rode a horse West of the Pecos is one of the most successful melodramas that the stage in this country has ever seen. It tells a story of absorbing interesting and there is plenty of comedy relief. The name part is said to fit the requirements of Johnnie Ervin exceedingly well and that he plays the name part to the entire satisfaction of everybody. "Billy The Kid" is to be presented at the Grand Opera House, Saturday next, Nov. 22nd, matinee and night.

Worn out with Coughing?

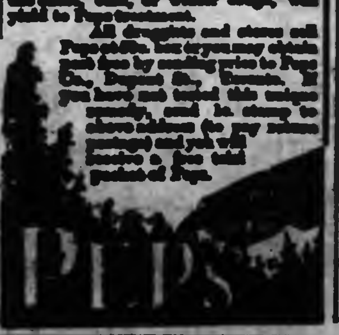
Nothing is more exhausting than a persistent cough. Old folks and very young folks alike, find a bad cough most distressing. No need to go on suffering!

Peps will end the worst cough or cold. Peps contain the balsamic essences and fumes of the Pine tree, with other medicinal ingredients, so prepared, that as soon as a Pep is put into the mouth it dissolves and these medicinal fumes are liberated. They are then breathed down the throat, and direct to the lungs.

Ordinary cough mixtures go to the stomach. Peps go to the lungs. Here's the great difference between the old-fashioned forms of treatment, and the Peps treatment.

Most cough mixtures contain opium and other poisons. Peps don't. Best for children!

The most stubborn cases of asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, tightness across the chest, cold, or winter cough, will yield to Peps treatment.



All druggists and stores sell Peps 50c. box or you may obtain post free by sending price to Peps Co., Dupont St., Toronto. If you have not tried this unique remedy, send 1c. stamp to above address for [illegible] postage and you will receive a free trial packet of Peps.

HINTS FOR MOTHERS

Nothing gives a little girl so much pleasure as a paper doll, and wonderful jointed specimens are obtainable cheaply, as well as all the paraphernalia from which an extensive wardrobe may be contrived. But even the cheapest dolls, or pictures cut from magazines [illegible] with tissue paper, embroidery cut of candy boxes and bits of tissue paper will keep a child entertained for hours.

Some mothers have adopted very artful tactics in inducing their children to drink milk. One learned that straws, such as are provided at soda fountains, if used in the milk glasses, make the milk disappear much more quickly. Another tried the ruse of pasting a pretty picture on the outside of the bottom of the glass in such a way that it could only be seen when the glass was empty. As she changed the picture frequently the diversion of uncovering it did not pall.

In order to enable children to hang up their own clothing have some low hooks in the clothes closet. It is well to teach them habits of neatness early, as well as consideration of mother's steps.

BEST OUTFIELDERS

Oldring, Strunk and Murphy the Choice of Connie Mack

Speaking of outfields, Connie Mack believes he can name the three best.

"Oldring in left field cannot, to my way of thinking, be duplicated. He's not only a hard and timely batsman, but an A1 fielder, sure on flies and line drives, and he has an arm that makes Cobb, Milan and the other speedsters think twice before trying to stretch a hit, with him in possession of the ball.

"Strunk is a marvel. He is one of the fastest men that ever broke into baseball; so fast, as a matter of fact, that most all the fans fail to realize just how speedy he is. Not only that, Strunk is a great hitter.

"Murphy is quite a youngster, but a sure born ball player. I know he will soon show the fans what he really is in the baseball line, not only at the bat, but in the field as well. Just keep your eyes on the Athletics' outfield and you will agree on everything I have said."

The paving of city streets with wood is again coming into favor, new method of laying the pavement making this one of the most satisfactory of pavements. Vancouver's pavements are largely of wood. Ninety per cent. of the new paving in Minneapolis is wood-block, and Spokane and other Western towns are giving the wood-block paving the preference.

Best results are obtained from rectangular-shaped blocks cut from Southern or Norway pine which are thoroughly seasoned and creosoted. This latter process not only lengthens the life of the wood but reduces its absorptive capacity for water, thus preventing the weakening of the wood-fibres and reducing its tendency to buckle. The most approved method of laying this pavement used in London, New York and other large cities is to first make a concrete foundation four to six inches thick on which is laid a thin layer of sand, or, better still, of moist Portland cement, into which the blocks are closely set.

The blocks are from five to nine inches in depth and must be free from defects. Care must be taken to place them with the grain perpendicular to the road-bed. If laid with the long edges at right angles to the curb the joints are apt to become worn by the calks on horses' shoes, so to prevent this and to best provide for possible expansion, the paving is laid at an angle of about sixty-seven degrees with the curb. The joints are usually filled with ground cement and the surface of the paving is then covered with a thin dressing of coarse sand, which beds into the pores of the blocks and roughens them. Such a pavement has the smoothness of asphalt and will last almost without repair for fifteen years under ordinary conditions.

THE FADE-AWAY BALL

Falkenberg Has More Elusive Delivery Than Mathewson

"Fred. Falkenberg has a better fade-away ball than Christy Mathewson. Left-handed batters can hit Mathewson, but find it almost impossible to get even a single off Falkenberg."

Such is the declaration made by Frank Baker, home run hitter extraordinary and hero of the world's series of 1911. Baker made ball history when he hit Mathewson for four bases in one of the games between the Athletics and Giants for the world's championship. He batted against Mathewson in three games of that memorable series. He made the work of opposing pitchers a study. For that reason his comparison of the two most famous exponents of the fade-away is of great value.

"McInnis and I were talking about Falkenberg," Baker continued. "Stuffy said he believed a right-hander could hit Falkenberg easier than a left-hander, and I believe he is right. To tell the truth, I would like to see how many hits a team composed entirely of left-handed batters could make off Fred. I'll bet he would come mighty close to pitching a no-hit game."

Ira Thomas, member of Connie Mack's famous strategy board, is another admirer of Falkenberg.

"I have not batted much against Fred.," says Thomas, "but from observation I would say Fred. has the best fade-away delivery ever pitched. Mathewson's fade-away comes up to the batter rather slow. He works it as a change of pace. Falkenberg throws his fast ball and fade-away with the same motion. The batter does not know which it is until he swings, and misses. The fade-away comes up much faster than Matty's fade-away, and for that reason is harder to hit. Fred. is also the owner of more speed than Matty has now. I would rate Fred. as one of the five best pitchers in the country."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (but not sub-agency), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD LIMIT.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including Wednesday, the 31st of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on a certain area situated on the [illegible] River in the District of Timiskaming.

Tenderers shall state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to the Crown dues of [illegible] per cord for spruce, and [illegible] per cord for other pulpwood, or such other rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the right to operate a pulp mill and a paper mill on or near the area referred to.

Such tenderers shall be required to erect a mill or mills on or near the territory and to manufacture the wood into pulp and paper in the Province of Ontario,—the paper mill to be erected when directed by the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Parties making tender will be required to deposit with their tender a marked cheque payable to the Honourable the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, for ten per cent. of the amount of their tender, to be forfeited in the event of their not entering into an agreement to carry out the conditions, etc.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For particulars as to description of territory, capital to be invested, etc., apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST.

Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines

Toronto, Ontario, September 17th, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked on the envelope "Tender for Christian Island Timber," will be received until noon on Tuesday, the 18th day of November next, for 400,000 feet, B. M., of timber of the [illegible] and [illegible] at [illegible] comprising about fifty per cent. of Maple, twenty-five per cent. of Beech, the remainder being Birch, Basswood, Ash and Hemlock, to be taken out by the Indians of Christian Island during the coming winter and delivered on the shores of the Island at convenient points for shipment.

Tenderers should state the prices they will pay for the different kinds of timber per M. feet, B.M., over and above the Crown dues as stated hereunder.

Measurements of the timber are to be made by an Ontario licensed culler and sworn returns of same shall be furnished in accordance with the Timber Regulations of the Department.

An accepted cheque on any chartered Canadian Bank for $500.00, made payable to the order of the undersigned, should accompany each tender, which in the event of failure to carry out the undertaking, will be forfeited to the Department. Cheques sent by unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Reasonable advances to the Indians if required, as the work progresses, shall be made by the successful tenderer.

The Crown dues payable on timber as per tariff are as follows:—

Maple and Ash, $1.00 per M. feet, B.M.

Beech, Birch and Basswood, $1.50 per M. feet, B.M.

Hemlock, $1.00 per M. feet, B.M.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted, and the Department will not pay for the unauthorized insertion of this advertisement in any newspaper.

GREEN FOOD FOR HENS

If you have some hens, and want eggs, you must feed your chickens green food. During the summer and early fall you can give them plenty of grass cuttings, but during winter and early spring months there is nothing green out-of-doors.

The best way to supply the necessary green stuff is to buy some oats or wheat, make a bed of boards and raise your own food for the hens.

On the bottom of the shallow box put several layers of newspapers, liberally watered. Soak the oats or wheat overnight in water and spread them on the wet newspapers. Sprinkle often. In about four days the grain will begin to sprout. A few days farther along will see the green shoots several inches high. Cut off as much as needed, taking both grain and sprouts; feed well scattered so that each hen will get a share.

A good plan is to have more than one sprouting bed, so that while you are feeding one another may be growing up and still another may be starting to sprout.

Keep them in the warmest spot in the cellar and in the sunshine if possible.

NEW PICTURE MACHINE

Views Taken at the Rate of 100,000 a Second

Prof. Cranz submitted to the German Physical society a machine which allows the taking of pictures at the rate of 100,000 a second. This apparatus limit is higher than anything previously done. Machines are on the market which allow pictures taken at the rate of 4,000 a second. Prof. Cranz goes so far as to say that this limit is not fixed, but that the number can still be greatly increased if it is found necessary. Bodies moving with marvelous speed can be photographed in flight. For instance, the pistol shot can be caught and followed as far as the camera lens can reach. Infinite possibilities seem to be opening up along the moving picture line if this high speed photography can be practically carried out.

The reason why mantelpiece clocks so often get out of order is so obvious that it is strange that attention to it has not been drawn before. A clock-maker [illegible]

"It is because mantelpieces are rarely level. If a clock meant for a mantelpiece is not placed in an exactly horizontal position it is sure to go wrong. When the clock gains or loses because of its slanting position, people regularly move the hands forward or backward, as the case may be, in order to adjust it. Eventually the clock's hands are moved about so much that the mechanism gets out of order, and the clock [illegible] to tick.

"Watches and traveling clocks are constructed differently from the stationary clock, and they will go in any position. That is why they are relied upon more than the ornamental mantelpiece clock."

When you draw threads from hemstitching, rub dry soap on the material first and the threads can be drawn more easily.

DOG NURSES

Latest Thing in Old England—Are Carefully Trained

Mrs. "Lulu" Harcourt installed a permanent "dog nurse" in her kennels at Nuneham Park, her delightful place in Oxford. The "dog nurses" are almost as carefully trained as are hospital nurses. The best of them make a complete study of their business, spending at least a year with a good dog surgeon and afterwards "walking the wards" in a high-class dog hospital, of which London boasts several. In the end they have a good knowledge of dog ailments and their treatments, and the "kennel-side" manner that is so important in the handling of valuable dogs. They usually wear neat blue or brown uniforms, like a hospital nurse, and many of them make regular rounds to a number of customers, looking the dogs over and keeping an eye open for the early symptoms of illness. On an average $10 a week is about all they can expect to earn, but in exceptional cases they have been known to make real handsome things out of big jobs where their work has been unusually effective.

CHARLES RICHARD SHANE

of Waterloo, Iowa, a "99 per cent. pure" baby. He was weighed, measured and examined, and his ancestry delved into before a committee of learned scientists gave it as their opinion that he lacked only three points of perfection. The average baby grades much lower than this —in theory.

Slips in Oratory

Even the most facile speakers are guilty of unpardonable errors in their oratory. Mr. Arthur Balfour on one occasion spoke of "an empty theatre of unsympathetic auditors," and Lord Curzon of Kedleston remarked that "though we are not out of the wood, we have a good ship."

Mr. Asquith once stated that "redistribution is a thorny subject which requires delicate handling, or it will tread on some people's toes."

Mr. St. John Brodrick, when a member of the House of Commons, told that assembly that "among the many jarring notes heard in this House on military affairs this subject (mobilization) at least must be regarded as an oasis."

In a debate on the London Education Bill Mr. Walter Long said, "We are told that by such legislation the very heart of the country has been shaken to its very foundations."

The late General Redvers Buller, desiring to convey that there was little to be gained by so-called Army Reform, declared that "the Army is honeycombed with cliques and kisses go by favor in this web of axe-grinders."

The greatest care should be taken to prevent weeds from producing seeds on the farm, in the orchard or in the garden. Not all weeds are pernicious pests, but many of them are. All of them cost money to destroy, and every weed plant that bears seeds is increasing your expense for cultivation.

During the busy season the weed crops are apt to be neglected and before one is fully aware of it weeds have made a start. It is then only a few weeks more until there are millions of seeds to propagate the species and thus labor and expense are increased.

Years ago when the old rail-fence was used, the corners of the fence were a hot-bed breeding place for noxious weeds. These not only caused an unsightly appearance, but they usurped moisture and plant food that crops needed and what is more serious produced seeds to propagate the species and thus contaminate the fields. There are yet in some locations a few rail fences and the greatest care should be used in keeping the corners clean.

On many farms there are sloughs, knolls, ditches or other places that for various reasons can not be cultivated. The farmer should see to it that these places do not breed weeds to cause him trouble and expense. Usually such places can be utilized so that they will not breed weeds, but on the contrary produce something that the farmer or his stock can use.

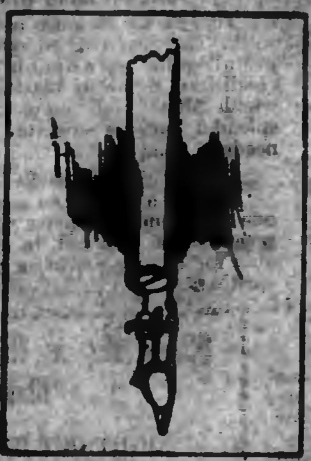
A NEW FOUNTAIN PEN

Reservoir Is on Pen Proper, and Not in the Handle

A new kind of fountain pen has been devised by a New York man. Instead of the reservoir being in the handle, it is attached to the pen itself and, of course, cannot be used without an inkwell besides. A small clip, with a rod that makes it resemble a spoon, is attached to a spring clip that has loops to engage the sides of the pen.



[illegible]

Two short arms enable the user to spread the clip and fasten it on. The clip holds a great deal more ink than can be gotten on an ordinary pen and [illegible] of all interfere with the writing. The advantage of this device is at once apparent, for, while it cannot be used without a separate source of ink supply, it obviates the necessity of dipping the pen into the ink every few seconds. The little reservoir can be affixed to any pen in an instant.

LIQUOR IN BRITAIN

Licenses Show a Steady Decline in England and Wales

The latest statistics issued by the Home Office in regard to the operation and administration of the laws relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors in England and Wales provide some very instructive figures. Whether these figures go to prove Britishers are becoming a more sober nation or not readers can form their own opinions, with the plain, undiluted facts before them. At the beginning of the last fiscal year there were in England and Wales 91,347 premises licensed for the sale of alcoholic stimulants to be consumed on or off such premises, and which are known as on-licenses. In addition, there were 24,115 premises licensed for the sale of such stimulants to be consumed off the premises, and which are referred to as off-licenses. These figures, it might be noted, give an average of about three licensed houses for each 1,000 of the population.

One outstanding feature revealed by these statistics is that the number of licensed houses has for some years been steadily decreasing. The year's figures show a decrease of [illegible] in the on-licenses and [illegible] in the off-licenses. Since 1905 the number of on-licenses has gone down from [illegible] to 91,347, and during the same period the off-licenses have been reduced from [illegible] to 24,115. In considering these reductions it is well to bear in mind the increase in the population, over 4,000,000 during the period in question.

Roman Relic Discovered

A fine bronze Roman lamp has been found near Thetford, Norfolk. It is in the form of a dolphin with wide open mouth, from which projected the wick. The British Museum authorities describe the find as one of the greatest rarity.

Had Stomach [illegible] Distress Before Meals

WAS SELDOM FREE FROM THAT WEARY, DROOPY, HALF-DEAD FEELING.

How Cured, and Gives Good Advice to Others With Dyspeptic Tendencies.

If you have any stomach distress at all you will certainly be interested in the following experience which is told by Mr. Edward Dawkins.

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of [illegible]. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. To-day I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

Refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c. per box or five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or post paid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Carpathia from New York for Naples, Italy. He will be away on a European trip for about five months. When he arrives in London Eng., Mr. Charles will visit his brother, Sir Havelock Charles, King's Surgeon and Rev. R. Charles, D.D., resident Canon of Westminster Abbey.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES.

Last night's banquet of the Senior members of the Y.M.C.A. was well attended and a pronounced success. It would seem that every undertaking of this admirable institution here is crowned with general approval.

The chair was ably filled by President J. H. Connal. Mr. W. J. Hopkins, of Ottawa, delivered an instructive and interesting address on "How the Y. M. C. A. meets the challenge of the city." A good musical and vocal programme was presented. Among those entertaining the guests were W. F. Leader, in a violin solo; R. S. Sowden, in a reading, and Gordon Might in a vocal solo.

Lady Chased a Bear.

Mr. Frank Montgomery tells a story of his recent hunting trip. He says that at a hotel at Parry Sound district where he was after deer, a big bear gave some considerable trouble. It killed eight sheep in one night. Next night the sheep were herded inside a high fence. The bear entered the hotel pig pen and carried off a hog weighing over 200 pounds. The hotel man's wife awoke and though there must be a terrible wind storm as the bed shook. It seems however, that hubby had heard the argument the bear and the pig had, and was shaking with fear. The old lady lighted a lantern and went out after the bear. However, just as she heard it crashing through the bush her lantern turned topsy-turvy and went out. The mangled body of the hog was found a quarter of a mile away.

Johnston Found Guilty.

At yesterday's police court a young man named Johnston was charged with the theft of hens. Mr. Gordon acted for the defence and Mr. Wood for the prosecution. Mrs. Pratt, of Park street, was the first witness. Her sister lives in North Monaghan, but was unable to be present. She owns three chickens at her sister's place. On Oct. [illegible], her sister had [illegible] chickens, Plymouth Rocks. Seventeen were missing on Nov. 7th. She next saw the chickens at Johnston's place in Smith. Mahedy, with two policemen went with her. Her chickens were in Johnston's hen house. The prisoner, Mahedy, next witness, said he began to work for Johnston on Oct. 20th. He met Johnston that morning driving with a crate containing 17 chickens in his buggy. He helped Johnston put the chickens in the stable. They corresponded with description given by last witness. Johnston told him he must have been drunk when he took the fowl. To Mr. Gordon, witness [illegible] had pleaded guilty to several [illegible] for which he was not yet sentenced. He had been convicted previously, here of theft. P. C. Newhall, next witness said he took Mrs. Pratt to Johnston's, where she picked out her chickens from a flock of 21. Mrs. Johnston, wife of the prisoner, said she ought to have had 120 chickens of her own, including 25 Plymouth Rocks. Her husband was at home in the morning of the theft. The prisoner was said to [illegible] convicted of theft at St. Catharines eleven years ago. He did not steal the chickens. Johnston was found guilty and was remanded until Monday.

SOFT, SILKY AND SERVICEABLE ARE THESE ALL SATIN UNDERSKIRTS AT $1.49

TO BE PARTICULAR IN THOSE ITEMS OF CLOTHING that are hidden from the public view, is really the index of true refinement. It is only a matter of sincerity after all, for does not every woman like to know that the same trig appearance of her outer garments is also to be found in those other garments that only she herself sees? Then, of course, first in importance is the Underskirt. And a good, smart Underskirt is the satin skirt, as probably most women know. Not only it is smart and good looking, but it is long wearing, too. That is, if it is as fine a Skirt as these that we are selling for $1.49 next Wednesday. And we are showing Black ones, Paddy Green, Cerise, Tan, Navy, Purple, White, Cream, Brown, etc.; in fact, all the colors in demand just now. They are made on the narrow lines that are necessary in these days of slender gracefulness, and have a deep directoire, pleated flounce. Each petticoat is of satin throughout, and the satin is of good quality; the workmanship very fine. And as regards value for $1.49, why you have only to glance in our big centre window, and prove for yourself that you really could not buy a better Skirt at the price. They are a shipment newly arrived from England, and are fresh, crisp and dainty. Wednesday $1.49

To buy half a dozen and distribute them at Christmas would be a sane and sensible method of making a gift that is worth while.

CLEANSES YOUR HAIR, MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL

It becomes thick, wavy, lustrous and all dandruff disappears—Hair stops coming out.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Rev. P. J. Murphy, the well known Texas colonizer, who was formerly of this city, was in the city on Monday visiting his aged mother, who resides on Lake street.

Rev. J. V. McCauley, of the Church of the Sacred Heart, left yesterday for Norwood, where he will assist Rev. P. J. Kelly during the Jubilee, which is being held there this week.

Mrs. Holland, of Queen street, who as first noted in the Times, with her recently born baby, was taken a week ago Sunday to St. Joseph's Hospital, was yesterday said to be worse. She [illegible] developed an attack of pleurisy.

PACIFIC COAST BEST FIELD REMAINING FOR ENGINEERS; LONDON TIMES GIVES FACTS

Five Hundred Million Dollars Being Spent, $350,000,000 by Canadians—British Columbia Ports and Terminals Offer Rich Opportunities

London, Nov. 19.—Leading British engineers are being led to recognize that the Pacific Coast of North America, especially that of Canada, is the best new field for enterprise.

The engineering supplement of The Times to-day publishes two columns of analysis of preparations on Pacific ports and harbors for the opening of the Panama Canal and gives Vancouver first place. It says natural conditions of Vancouver, Prince Rupert and Puget Sound may well excite envy among less favored coast lines and seeks to excite interest among British engineers by the calculation that $350,000,000 is already being expended by railways and private companies, in lines to coast harbors and terminal facilities, the greater part of which go to improve the ports of British Columbia.

Another $150,000,000 is being spent by the State municipalities and ports and harbor boards of the United States, assisted in some instances by the United States Government. To this must be added expenditures of the Dominion and Provincial Governments.

BRITISH FLEET IS OFF TO MEXICO TO STAND ON GUARD

Whole West Indian Squadron Ordered to Vera Cruz By the Admiralty

Bridgetown, Barbados, Nov. 19.—The British cruiser squadron in West Indian waters last night received peremptory orders to proceed to Vera Cruz and the vessels sailed at midnight.

The British squadron consists of three armoured cruisers, Suffolk, Lancaster and Berwick and is commanded by Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock, whose flagship is the Suffolk. The three vessels are of the same type displacing 9,800 tons. They each carry an armament of 14 6-inch, 8 12-pounders and 3 3-pounder guns.

They Could Not Deny It.

London, Nov. 19.—The British Admiralty to-day observed its customary reticence concerning the movements of war vessels, merely stating that the cruisers Suffolk, Lancaster and Berwick, with the light cruiser Hyacinthe, were at Barbados on Nov. 12. An official declared incorrect the information that the whole of the fourth cruiser squadron would join at Vera Cruz, but declined to deny that some of the ships were proceeding there.

Great Britain decided to send the warships to Mexican waters from Barbados in order to protect British subjects should the necessity arise. The decision was arrived at by the British foreign office as a result of the general news published in the press of the unsatisfactory conditions prevailing in Mexico and of the advance of the Constitutionalists in the vicinity of the Vera Cruz Railway.

No special information has been received by the Government here of any danger to its nationals, and it bases its policy on the accounts telegraphed to English newspapers from American sources.

WITHOUT SLEEP FIVE DAYS BUT SAVED SHIP AND LIVES

Captain of Balmes and Wireless Operator Only One Aboard to Translate Messages Mentioned for Bravery

New York, Nov. 19.—Three names stood out conspicuously in the stories of bravery told to-day when the Cunard liner Pannonia brought to port the passengers rescued from the burning Spanish steamer Balmes.

Capt. Juan Ruiz, of the Balmes, spent practically five days without sleep, while he and his men held the flames in check and guided their ship safely into the harbor of St. George, Bermuda.

Innocencio V. Michelena, the wireless operator of the Balmes, sent the messages that brought the Pannonia. Since there was only one other man aboard who understood English, Michelena was obliged to be on duty without rest to translate the messages received from the rescuing ship.

Nicholas Arbenzio, a mechanic from the Canary Islands, was the man who led the men passengers into the blazing hold of the Balmes last Thursday after the crew were exhausted, and ready to give up the fight.

The passengers themselves first discovered the fire. "Some of us noticed smoke coming through the grating of our cabins," said Abenzio. "We told the officers and they opened hatch No. 1, and the smoke that gushed up made them quickly close it again, and batten it down. Then they cut six holes in the hatch and shoved the hose through."

The passengers from the Balmes numbered 71 men and 33 women and children. Most of them came from Cuba and all were bound for ports in Spain. They will be sent back to their destination. Whether they will be taken care of meanwhile aboard at Pannonia or Ellis Island was not determined. None of them seemed the worse for their experience. When they first came aboard the Pannonia, many of them were scantily clothed and some of the children were naked, but the Pannonia's passengers gave them all the clothing they needed and on Sunday, when the Pannonia left Bermuda, the [illegible] of all their baggage from the Balmes.

LABOR AND PROPERTY

Mr. Burnham Explains the New Labor Movement in Dublin.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Since publishing my article upon Progressivism, several have asked to state shortly the meaning of the new movement that has produced such passionate disturbance in Dublin. It has gained five million votes in one year in the U.S. So far as I understand it, and I have been studying it diligently for some time, the new modern movement bases itself not on the rights of property but on the rights of persons. In a word, Civil law originally applied to property (first of land then of trade). The Criminal law was the law that applied to persons. Then came Free Competition or Free Trade, when the civil law protected goods and not people and left the wage-earner at the mercy of the money-owning class. "This must be corrected," says labour. "The laws are all in favour of money and property. We are getting a few laws like the Compensation Act passed for the protection of Labour but there are many well-recognized and very far-reaching unequalities yet to be redressed." ...

This is the present attitude of Labour. It is not State Socialism. It does not aim to put the State in the place of the Capitalist or of his predecessor the Free Trade and Free Competition fiend who got the laws all his own way and wanted them left that way. The latter call that FREE trade. Labour however, proposes to put all people on a fair footing before all laws with no special privileges which Freedom of Trade necessarily gives. The State will take charge of the new order, otherwise it would be merely a case of the politicians in parliament taking the place of the capitalists. The state will be merely Commissioners to do what the people say by the Referendum that they shall do. Labour will not then obey laws made by people nominally representative but really hostile. It will make the law itself and cannot be betrayed. To understand the impending change it is necessary to read the history of Labour and property from the 4th century. Since Labour is not supposed to have laws that protect the person instead of those only that protect property. This is the New Philosophy.

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

BRITISH CONSULAR SERVICE OFFER AID TO CANADIANS

Joyce Broderick, Attached British Consular Service in U.S. Urges a Closer Commercial Unity With British Consul

The second banquet of the season was given last night by the Canadian Club, in the Y.M.C.A. banquet hall, a large number being present to listen to a fine address given by Mr. Joyce Broderick, attached to the British Consular Service at New York.

Mr. G. C. Wainwright, the new president of the club, was in the chair, and after a short address to the club, he introduced the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Broderick opened his address by introducing his work as a British Consul in the United States. He said it gave him great pleasure to be able to address the members of the Canadian Clubs throughout Canada, of which he is now touring the principal centres in the hope of arousing this Dominion to the benefit of what better Consular Service can be rendered. Mr. Broderick remarked on the growing proportions of Canadian commerce. Canada will soon be looking for a foreign outlet to its produce. At the present time, perhaps, it is more needed at home. But when Canadian factories do use the foreign markets the needs of the Consular Service will be great. He said the total volume of commerce in this country had doubled within the last four years, also the increase of exports have been largely in evidence the last few years. The figures he gave regarding Canadian progress were significant of the fact that Canada will be mainly a manufacturing country in the future, not indifferent in the race to compete with the world's markets. British Consular Service are keen on Canada's expansion.

The speaker went on to minutely define what the British Consular Service can do to aid in commercial information; its history, traditions, etc. Mr. Broderick explained what the Service in the U.S. is doing to settle the commercial disputes which arise in that great country from time to time. Continuing, he spoke of the use of the Service in making special treaties; freedom of arrest, etc., intervention of disputes and special attentions. No man of commercial capacity could afford to neglect the opportunities offered by the British Consular Service. But Consuls cannot be salesmen, nor can they make a sale in any respect. One can secure valuable information, however, which would enable him to know how to dispose of his produce in any country on the face of the earth. Consuls also give information regarding the tariffs on goods which are ever changing and define the different tariffs under which goods are classed.

Mr. Broderick concluded by saying, "I am authorized by the British Government and the British Consul Service to urge you to make use of us whenever it is to your advantage for us to help you. In assisting Canadian development I will be rendering a service to the Empire which no other servant can render. Don't forget that in whatever part of the Empire I may be, I will not fail to help you."

Mr. Burnham Speaks.

In moving a vote of thanks, Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., said:

"I am sure that nothing gives me greater pleasure than moving a vote of thanks to one upon an Empire errand as Mr. Broderick is. We are in Canada on the very point of a crisis with respect to our relations to the Empire. Differences of opinion over a naval service have thrown us into the utmost confusion. At all hazards, I should say, and with all possible speed, the Navy question should be taken out of politics. If not it will rend our relations to the Empire in twain. The Hon. Geo. Brown, one of the greatest and most independent-minded of Canadians, withdrew from all political and party strife when the Canadian provinces showed signs of coming together in a confederation. To his patriotism and greatness of soul more than to that of any other man in Canada was due the fact that Canadians were able to bury their mutual jealousies long enough to make a nation of themselves. Unless some such spirit is shown very speedily amongst the various parts of the Empire and the leading men of those parts, all hope of Imperial co-operation will be gone forever. Once a flag is hauled down by a people, history shows it does not go up again. Are we to renounce all hope of an Imperial understanding in Canada? It looks perilously like it. Our only hope lies in a revival of the ancient spirit which we inherited and which I hope we have not lost."

FIGURES OF CUSTOMS RETURNS EXPLODE "HARD TIMES" BOGEY

Trade in Canada Never in More Prosperous and Flourishing Condition, According to Figures Issued by Hon. J. D. Reid To-day

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—Despite the cry of hard times, carefully circulated by the Liberal press, the trade of Canada has never been in a more prosperous condition, according to the facts contained in the statement issued to-day by the Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Customs.

For the month of October, just closed Canada's exports were considerably in excess of her imports of both dutiable and free goods. The exports were $57,144,000, while the imports of dutiable goods were $35,238,000, and of free goods $17,142,000, a total of $52,381,000.

For the month of October, 1912, the imports of dutiable and free goods were $61,045,000, and the exports $33,785,000.

Agricultural products take the first place. Domestic agricultural produce exports were $32,382,000 as against $10,772,000 for October, 1912. Manufactures also show an increase, being $5,033,000 for October last as against $4,112,000 for the corresponding month of 1912. There is also a big increase in the exports of domestic animals and their produce. In October last $6,887,000 worth were exported as against $4,[illegible] for October, 1912. The exports of produce of the fisheries, mine and forest are about the same as in October, 1912.

EXPECT U.S. TROOPS TO LAND.

Huerta Has Ordered the Destruction of the Railroad to Vera Cruz.

New York, Nov. 19.—A special cable early yesterday gave the situation in Mexico city at that moment as follows:

Mexico City, Nov. 19.—Conditions are such in this city that American troops may be forced to land in Vera Cruz at almost any hour. Huerta has ordered the railroad leading from this city to Vera Cruz destroyed. Mobs are parading the streets, shots are being fired, and cries of "Viva Huerta," "Viva Blanquet," and "Death to the Americans" are heard on every hand.

More than 1,000 Americans are still in the city, unable to secure the protection of the fleet at Vera Cruz because of the fact that Huerta has ordered his troops to destroy the railroad.

PERILOUS JOURNEY IN UNKNOWN LAND

Ice Found on Mountain Top Near Equator—Strange Dwarfs in High Altitude

After encountering great hardships, and losing three of their members, a British expedition led by Dr. A. F. R. Wollaston penetrated to the Great Snow Range of New Guinea for the first time, and made a successful ascent of Mount Carstensz, almost to the summit. A valuable collection of birds and plants was obtained. Although it was only sixty miles from the spot where the expedition landed to the highest point reached, almost incessant rain, swollen rivers, and the difficult country made the work so hard that to cover this apparently short distance occupied four and a half months. At the end the expedition nearly came to grief through the capsizing of Dr. Wollaston's canoe. The explorer was rescued with difficulty, but lost diaries covering three months and a large quantity of kit. Three members of the expedition died.

Dr. Wollaston left England determined to ascend Mount Carstensz, the highest peak of the Nassau Range in Dutch New Guinea. He was a member of an expedition which unsuccessfully tried to accomplish this feat three years previously.

After conferring with the Dutch authorities at Batavia the doctor went to Borneo, and spent eight weeks collecting Dyaks before returning to Batavia. Here he was joined by Mr. C. B. Kloss, curator of the Kuala Lumpur Museum, and the two, with five native collectors and seventy-four Dyaks, proceeded by boat to the south coast of Dutch New Guinea. They were escorted by forty Dutch soldiers and eighty convicts from Batavia under a Dutch officer.

The party disembarked at the mouth of the Utakwa River, which had been ascended by Dutch travellers two years previously, and appeared to be the best route into the unknown interior. From the deck of the ship could be seen the snow-capped peaks of the mighty Carstensz. A motor-boat, built in England, and all the stores and equipment were landed, and a base camp was made twenty miles up the river.

All this region was quite uninhabited, and the expedition had to carry every bit of its own food. Canoes were made by the Dyaks, and the river was ascended for two days beyond the base, but after that the expedition travelled by land. Depots were established three days' travel apart, the first being three days' march up the foot hills of the Snow Range.

From the fourth depot the ascent was made to the snow line. Progress was very slow, the ridges being appallingly steep and the track rough. In the high mountains the sun was never visible except for an hour in the morning, and the travellers were always in the clouds.

At an altitude of about 5,000 feet the expedition met some curious, but friendly folk, small of stature, but not pigmies, who showed the travellers their track and helped them. The highest point, 15,000 feet, was reached after five days' march from the last base. The rain descended in a continuous torrent, and although Mount Carstensz is almost exactly on the equator the fog-laden air was freezingly cold.

During the ascent a fine panorama was observed, but the mist again closed in, and when the party were within a very short distance of the top the steep ice and dense fog necessitated a retreat. Two attempts to reach the actual summit were made, but eventually food gave out.

It was as the last load was being taken to the base camp that the canoe containing Dr. Wollaston and six Dyaks struck a snag in the swirling current, and capsized. Dr. Wollaston was carried a long way down the stream, and was almost exhausted.

Mill Tragedy

A terrible accident occurred at Messrs. Robinson's saw mills, Armagh resulting in the death of Mr. Wm Mann, manager of the firm. While descending a ladder after winding a clock over the shafting, the tails of Mr. Mann's coat caught in the machinery, and he was immediately drawn in. He was whirled around and almost dashed to pieces, his skull being fractured, both arms broken, and his legs and body badly torn.

PRINCESS VICTORIA LOUISE

A Painless Bullet

A new kind of bullet, known as the "narcotic bullet," is being experimented by military men. A minute particle of morphia is used. The drug is carried in tiny wells in the steel jacket of the regulation army bullet. The inventor claims that it in no way interferes with the effectiveness of the missile. The slight indentation in the steel jacket causes no splintering when it comes in contact with the bone, and no deleterious effects will follow the unique administration of the drug. The soldier receiving a slight flesh wound from the new bullet fights no more that day; he calmly stretches himself on the ground and goes to sleep. The man receiving a serious wound suffers no agony, as the narcotic from the bullet is absorbed by his system, and he is insensible to pain before he reaches the hospital.

Caring for Knives

To prevent knives not in daily use getting rusty rub them over after cleaning with a little sweet oil. Then wrap in tissue paper and afterwards in thick brown paper, tying the parcel tightly up, so that as little air as possible may get to the knives. Keep them in the driest storing place you have. If wanted for use put them in hot soapy water, dry, and give a slight rub on the knifeboard to restore the polish.

Underground Owl

The collection of birds and beasts which the District Railway is forming has been increased by a male wood-owl, which was caught on the Harrow line. It is a fine specimen, and now, stuffed and suitably posed, is exhibited at Victoria Underground Station.

Vicar Rebukes Sidesman

When a sidesman at Witham, Essex, vestry meeting commented on the small offerings some people gave to the church, Canon Ingles, vicar of Witham, replied that the gifts to the collections were free offerings made in private, and he hoped that no sidesman would look to see what anyone gave.

"A Progressive Peterborough"

Our Point of View

Our idea is that truth is stranger than fiction because it is so scarce.

Glenn Curtiss promises to produce flying motor cycles in a short time. Let us hope that he will do it, and thus remove from the earth a great and noisy nuisance.

The Toronto Globe is greatly relieved to note that a German fleet is to leave the North Sea for a world cruise. Why relieved? Was there an emergency after all?

From Kansas comes the news that "fan parties" are all the rage there. The girls faint and the young men fan them until they survive. No wonder the parties are popular when they afford an opportunity for such tender sport.

Many American do not want to invade Mexico because they may never get out. Their fears are justified by the fact that England went into Egypt in 1882 under pledge to retire in a few months, but the British lion who is still frisking his tail on the banks of the Nile is likely to remain there.

General Carranza, the Mexican rebel leader, is confident that if he is permitted to buy arms and ammunition in the United States he can drive Huerta out in ninety days. He probably would, but the trouble is that some other fellow would think it was his turn to drive out Carranza.

CHINA'S GROWING PAINS.

President Yuan Shi Kai's expulsion from Pekin of 300 democratic deputies who tried to curtail his power, and the substitution for the disintegrated Parliament of a "Central Administration Congress" savors of the Huerta method. The "coup d'etat" is in the air. If President and Parliament disagree, by all means get rid of Parliament.

The body with which Yuan proposes to replace the duly constituted two-branched Legislature is, of course, a negligible quantity. It will influence the executive about as much as the Duma the Czar. If it should attempt to do any more, to abolish it, also, will be easy.

It is to be regretted that the ideal of representative government is so soon overthrown in the young republic. We hoped for better things. Perhaps it is inevitable that a nation so untrained in self-government and democracy should be unable to enjoy and appreciate its new found liberty. President Eliot, of New York, upon his return from around the world, called attention from around the attention to, the great difficulty China was experiencing in finding men in any way trained for public posts. The centuries of dynastic tyranny are bound to bear fruit.

China may come out of her troubles, but the path looks like a thorny one. It took three-quarters of a century to establish a republic in France. What then can we expect of a nation nine-tenths illiterate, the entire republicanism of which is founded on the visions of a few strong men, and a small coterie of their followers?

THE REAL SITUATION AS TO WHEAT.

The wheat provision in the new United States tariff has been largely misunderstood in Canada; in many instances it has been misrepresented for political reasons. Wheat is to be free if Canada takes off her duty on wheat, wheat flour and semolina. If she does not, the duty is to be reduced from 25 cents a bushel to 10 cents per bushel.

The impression seems to prevail in some quarters that the government of Canada can take off the wheat duty simply by saying so. This is wrong. The duty can be removed by legislation passed by Parliament. What will be done in this respect of course, depends upon the result of a thorough study of the situation in Canada.

Gained in Weight, Digestion Restored, Health Renewed

HERE IS MORE PROOF OF QUICK CURE FOR ALL FOLKS THAT ARE WEAK, AILING, NERVOUS.

More Praise for Dr. Hamilton's Pills

"For a period last summer the thought of food excited feeling of nausea," writes Mrs. C. A. Dodge, of Bloomsbury. "The heat had made me listless and the distaste for food reduced me to a condition of semi-starvation and brought me to the verge of nervous collapse. Tonics were useless to restore an active desire for food. The doctors told me my liver and kidneys were both at fault, but the medicines they gave me were too severe and reduced my strength so that I had to abandon them. At the suggestion of a friend who had been cured of blood and skin trouble, I began the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The difference I first noticed was, that while they cleansed the system, instead of feeling weaker I felt better after taking them. Indeed their activity was so mild it was easy to forget I had taken them at all; they seemed to go right to the liver, and in a very brief time not only did all source of nausea disappear, but I began to crave food and I digested it reasonably well. Then I began to put on weight until within three months I was brought to a condition of good health. I urge Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all who are in poor health."

Get this best of all medicines to-day and refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers, 25c. per box or five for $1.00. Sent postpaid by The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

"NIGHTS OF GLADNESS"

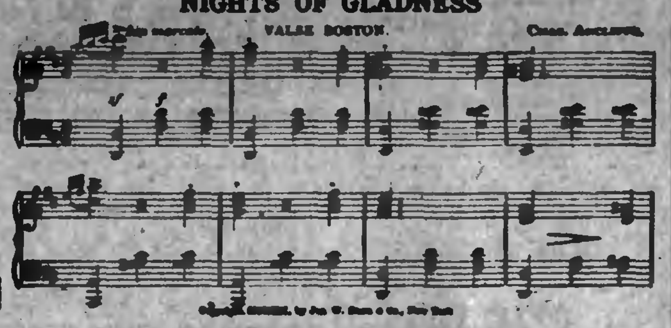
Every now and then a popular song or instrumental piece rushes over the country like an inundation, sweeping all before it. It is not always easy to determine just what it is that strikes the popular fancy, but in "NIGHTS of GLADNESS" recently issued by Jos. W. Stern & Co., New York, which has set two countries singing and dancing, there can be no doubt that its success is due to the real merit of the composition.

There is an irresistible swing to this new Boston Waltz. From the first bar to the last there is a dash and go and bang that compels attention; eyes sparkle and bodies sway to the tune of its lively melodies.

Throughout the country, at the cabarets and restaurants, at the vaudeville and in fact wherever music is heard this piece will be found on the program.

Its engaging dancing qualities have commanded immediate recognition and it has been selected as the standard Valse Boston at all the fashionable dances of Newport, Narragansett Pier, Deal Beach and other famous resorts.

NIGHTS OF GLADNESS



AN ARCTIC STORM CAUSES POLICE TO VACATE THEIR POST

Vessel With Supplies Had to Turn Back or May Have Been Lost

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—A report received at the Northwest Mounted Police Headquarters here to-day is significant, in the light of the rumor of disaster to the Stefansson expedition. For the first time in years the Mounted Police will likely be forced to abandon the lone outpost on Herschell Island. Owing to extraordinary blizzards and ice floes a steamer which left from Nome, Alaska, in July with provisions and other supplies never reached its destination, and while it is not believed that the vessel is lost it is thought that she has been forced to turn back. The outpost, which consists of four men, will, as a consequence, be compelled to abandon the island and make their way to Fort McPherson.

THE MAYORALTY SITUATION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—In view of the very efficient services rendered to our city by our present Mayor, Mr. W. H. Bradburn, and the unfinished condition of several valuable improvements which have been commenced recently and with which he is familiar and has taken such intelligent and active interest in it would be a great advantage to the city if he can be induced to continue to serve as mayor for another term.

While there are others who have rendered faithful service also, and understand the situation well, and could fill that honorable office with ability, yet under the existing circumstances, he should be urged to continue for next term and be elected by acclamation again.

Yours truly,
J. C. Sheck.

AUNT SALLY'S ADVICE TO BEAUTY SEEKERS

Red Nose.—The nose is a more delicate organ than most people imagine. It should be touched as little as possible. For undue redness the treatment recommended in following paragraph will be found effective. Apply without rubbing.

Muddy Skin.—The surest, safest and easiest method of giving a clear, healthy, transparent appearance to the complexion is to apply ordinary mercolized wax every night for from one to two weeks. This wax, obtainable at any drug store (one ounce is sufficient), actually takes off a bad complexion by gently and gradually absorbing the thin veil of surface skin. The new skin then in evidence, is as fresh and velvety as a young girl's. The wax is applied like cold cream and washed off mornings.

Wrinkles.—A luxurious lotion made as follows has been found very effective in cases of wrinkles and crow's feet: Powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. Bathe the face in this daily for awhile.—Woman's Realm.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO PORTLAND, ME., FRIDAY, DEC. 12TH.

For the accommodation of passengers for the Old Country, the Grand Trunk Railway will run a special train from Toronto to Portland on the above date carrying through coaches, Tourist and Standard Sleeping cars leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Dec. 12th, and arriving Portland 9.00 a.m., Dec. 13th, making connection with White Star Line S. S. Teutonic, to Liverpool, Cunard Line Ausonia, to London, and Allan Line Ionian to Glasgow. Breakfast will be served on steamers on arrival and Special Train will run alongside of Steamers thus avoiding all transfers, etc., en route. Passengers leave Peterborough 11.40 a.m., Dec. 12th, and make connection at Port Hope with the Special train alongside steamer.

Now is the time to make reservations on these steamers and make sure of accommodation. Berths can be secured in Standard and Tourist Sleepers to Portland at nominal charges. "SING ME TO SLEEP"

(Published by Request)

Sing me to sleep, the shadows fall,
Let me forget this world and all;
Tired is my heart, the day is long;
Would that it soon were evensong.
Sing me to sleep, your hand in mine,
Your fingers as if in prayer entwine;
Only your voice, love, let me hear,
Singing to tell me you are near.

Love, I am lonely, years are so long;
I want you only, you and your song;
Dark life's short, love, night is so deep;
Leave me no more, love, sing me to sleep.

Sing me to sleep, love; your alone
Seemed to be left me for mine own;
Happy my heart will feel no pain
When I awake from sleep again.
Sing me to sleep and let me rest;
Of all the world I love you best.
Nothing is faithful, nothing true
In Heaven or earth but God and you.

Proprietor of World's Famous Tape Worm Exterminator

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. It is of four stages, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are connected together. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each section is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worms, and when put in a [illegible] of water [illegible]. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, [illegible]

-- KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED --

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its features and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this now through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

Dickens as a Reporter

Mr. J. D. Irvine, one of the best known London journalists, has just retired from the press gallery of the British house commons after thirty years' service. In the course of some reminiscences he tells that when he first entered the gallery, he came into contact with a chief reporter who had had Charles Dickens on his staff. The chief had a very poor opinion of the novelist, and in unguarded moments used to say—"He was a very poor reporter, but I believe the silly fool made money by writing books."

Steel Furniture

Sheet steel is the latest material used in the making of furniture. It is used for sideboards, wardrobes, cabinets, writing desks, and is finished in such perfect imitation of the various woods that the difference cannot be detected. The wood finish is applied under a very high temperature, becoming an integral part of the steel and never cracking. This steel furniture has the recommendation of being fireproof, and a lighted match left on a painted steel sideboard would have no effect whatever on its coatings.

AN AUSTRALIAN ROMANCE

Scotchman Got Site of New Capital For His Two Boats

The district in which the new Australian Capital City is being built is throughout associated with an Argyllshire family named Campbell. Robert Campbell was a Calcutta merchant, who went to Australia in 1790 to make enquiries with regard to a ship which had been lost in the Bass Straits, and apparently was so pleased with Sydney that he remained in that city. He became known as "Merchant" Campbell. In the early years of last century Sydney suffered from a severe drought, and the Governor desired to sends ships to India for food supplies. The only two vessels in Port Jackson suitable for such a purpose were two which Mr. Robert Campbell had in the harbor loaded with sealskins. The authorities commandeered these ships, and sent them away for grain, the only compensation which Mr. Campbell received being two blocks of land, 5,000 and 4,000 acres respectively, and 7,000 ewes. The land which he selected is now part of the site for the Federal capital.

THE VATICAN BUDGET

Immense Treasure But Comparatively Small Current Revenue

The receipts and expenditures of the Vatican average about $3,000,000, and with the cutting off of certain expenses of late years, they nearly balance evenly.

The revenue is derived from the patrimony of St. Peter, including the invested capital of the church, the interest on funds invested in London securities by former Popes, the rent of buildings owned by the church, fees for the services of documents issued by the various congregations and departments and Peter's Pence. The yearly expenditure is roughly speaking as follows: For the support of Cardinals and diplomatic missions abroad, $300,000; for the maintenance of the Vatican, including the papal army, $900,000; pontifical alms, subsidies and schools, $600,000; gifts to charities, $300,000, and miscellaneous, $[illegible].

The treasures of the Vatican, picture galleries and museums, the collections of library furniture, tapestries and jewels are estimated to be worth $[illegible]. No precise figures are available as to the value of landed property, but the income from invested capital and rents of buildings is estimated roughly at $1,000,000.

Dramatic Denouement

At Glasgow Police Court Mary Macmillan, aged seventeen, was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment for theft. The apprehension of the girl was brought about in a curious manner. A well known detective received information that someone who had taken lodgings in the Garnethill district was representing herself to be his daughter. He visited the address mentioned and met the girl, who, being unaware of his identity, mentioned his name as being that of her father.

Montreal's Narrow Streets

"Montreal is wrongly built," said Dr. Louis Laberge, Chief Medical Officer of Health of that city. "The streets are too narrow, and do not let enough sunlight reach the ground for the prevalence of good health. The sun is a good decomposing force. If it is allowed to shine on the ground the heat penetrates several feet and in the night it evaporates and breaks up all the putrescent vegetable matter. With our narrow streets this cannot be done. It is certainly a most serious problem for us to face. It cannot be remedied without the spending of much money."

SOME LIFE SAVING RULES FOR THE WATER LOVERS

A Few Hints by a Noted Swimmer, Modes of Rescue in Drowning Accidents

A person has to learn to swim by getting into the water and striking out. At the same time there are certain truths that the average man would not likely teach himself even if he spent much of his spare time in the water. An observance of these rules will not teach a man to swim, but they will teach a swimmer to save a non-swimmer who falls into the water, and they may teach him to save his own life when through an excess of intrepidity he finds himself in the clutch of somebody he is attempting to rescue.

More strength will not break the desperate grip that a terrified drowning man takes of anyone who ventures within his reach, and the fear that both the victim and the would-be rescuer will both be drowned has no doubt deterred many a competent swimmer from attempting a rescue.

It is scarce less important to know how to safely approach a drowning person than to know how to swim, says L. De B. Handley, a noted swimmer and life saver. Mr. Handley says that the most important thing for a would-be rescuer to remember is that at the outset a few seconds lost is not important. Men have been restored after having been under water and apparently drowned for a long time. He advises that time be taken for the rescuer to remove the outer clothing.

Take Time to Think

While this is being done, the rescuer should do his thinking, so that by the time he strikes the water he knows exactly what he is going to do. If the accident occurs in running water, and the drowning person is under the surface, the search should not be started below the spot where he has disappeared on the assumption that the body has drifted down. Start above the spot, and go down under water with the current, saving every ounce of strength.

On locating the victim, seize him by the hair or by the clothing at the back of the neck, or by the upper arm, and propel yourself to the surface with downward strokes of the free arm and leg driven. Do not run the risk of pushing from the bottom unless absolutely sure of a footing, for many swimmers have been drowned by sinking in the mud or by becoming entangled in the weeds. Once on the surface it requires little extra effort to tow an unconscious person to shore. The victim should be turned face upward as soon as possible.

Co-operation Helps

If the person to be rescued retains his self-control it is a simple matter to take him ashore, and the proper method is for the exhausted one to place one or both hands on the shoulders of the swimmer, who will scarcely feel the weight. Another good method is to turn on the back, beneath the rescued one, and supporting him in the arms swim to shore with the feet.

The subduing of a frantic struggler can be done with safety only from behind. He should be grasped by the wrist, and then swung round. One arm of the rescuer should then be thrown over his neck, and the forearm under his chin. In this position he cannot seize the swimmer with both arms, and his head is kept above water. With one arm the competent swimmer can easily make his way ashore.

Choking May be Necessary

Mr. Handley advises seizing a struggling person by the throat and shutting off his air. If he has obtained a grip on his rescuer. This will usually make him loose his hold. It is important to notice that while roughness may be necessary in order to break a drowning man's grip, once he is ashore he should be handled with the utmost gentleness. On no account should he be raised by the feet in order to let the water run out of his mouth. This practice is almost certain to result in death or lasting injury.

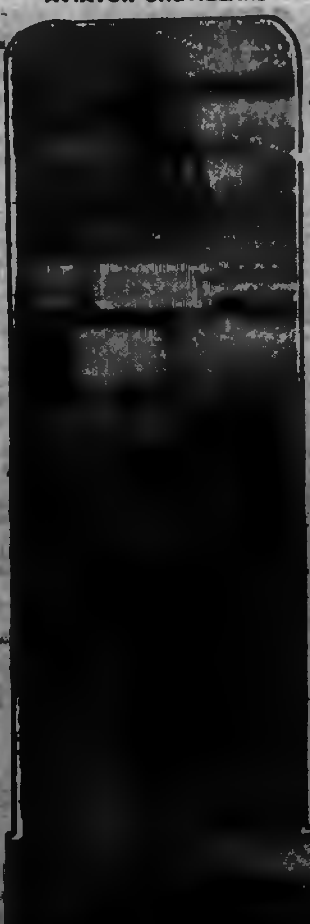
MEASURING HAY IN STACK

For obtaining the number of tons of hay in a stack, the first step is to measure the width and length with a tape line, and then what is known as the overthrow, that is, pass a tape line from the bottom of the stack on one side over to the bottom on the other side, and divide this measurement which is called the overthrow by three, then multiply the length by the width, and this by one-third of the overthrow—this gives you the number of cubic feet in the stack. Of course, if the stack is different widths or different heights you will have to take the measurements in several places and obtain the average of these by adding them together and dividing by the number of measurements made.

The number of cubic feet of hay per ton varies considerably with the length of time that it has been stacked. With newly stacked hay it will take about 500 cubic feet to equal a ton. If it has been stacked for two to three months from 350 to 400 cubic feet will equal a ton. After you have obtained the number of cubic feet in the stack, divide by the number of cubic feet in a ton taking into consideration the length of time that the hay has been stacked.

AVIATOR CHEVILLARD



He is the first flyer to purposely turn a "cartwheel" in the air and the picture gives some idea of the position of his machine when doing it. This flight took place at Hendon Field, near London. First he goes up about 800 feet, then starts flying in a circle till the tilt of the wings of his machine is almost perpendicular. Then comes a sickening "flop," the biplane seems to turn and fly end as it drops about [illegible] feet. Chevillard says it is easy, but there are no volunteers to try it with him.

DIAMONDS FROM THE SKY

Theory That the Precious Stones Are Not of Volcanic Origin

Scientific authorities are inclined to the belief that all diamonds came to the earth in meteoric showers. The theory is the diamond fell to the earth as meteoric particles at a late period of the earth's formation. Localities where diamonds are found contain masses which have penetrated the earth's formation. Localities where diamonds are found contain masses which have penetrated the earth more or less deeply.

Late discoveries in the western states, especially in Arizona, seem to indicate further the heavenly origin of our most brilliant stone, for over the broad plains for [illegible] of miles in diameter several thousand masses of metallic iron have been scattered. These masses have undoubtedly been meteoric showers.

Not long ago an enthusiastic mineralogist, working on such a mass, cut into a section and found that the tools were injured by something harder than metallic iron. He examined the specimens chemically and soon announced that the meteorite contained black and transparent diamonds.

Again, it is claimed, that it is possible that the so-called "volcanic pipes" at the Kimberley diamond mines and elsewhere are not volcanic, but "simply holes bored in the solid earth by the monstrous meteors, the larger masses boring the holes, while the smaller masses, disintegrating in their fall, distributed diamonds broadcast."

Ingenious Spiders

The Royal Society of Great Britain was recently entertained by a distinguished traveller with an account of a spider living in Australia which makes its habitation along the seashore. In the crevices of the rocks, between high and low water marks. But when the tide is in their homes are covered with water. Instead of deserting them, however, the spiders solve the difficulty by means of closely woven sheets of silk, which they stretch over the entrances, behind which they manage to retain sufficient air to keep them alive during the time they remain submerged.

Birds That Change Their Food

It is well known among naturalists that while many birds are exclusively flesh-eaters, few are exclusively vegetarians. The latter seek a change of food, not because of its scarcity, but from choice, and this choice is nearly always exercised when they are feeding their young. All gardeners know that sparrows are ordinarily vegetarians, yet they eat insects off of plants.

New Fertilizer

A method for producing potash fertilizer from feldspar or any other mineral containing potassium by treating it in an electric furnace has been invented by a Swedish scientist.

Watering before feeding, noon and evening, and not for at least two hours after the meal, will prompt better digestion.

Securing a Veil

A good way to keep a veil tidy under the chin, and so that it may be easily lifted when required, is to get a piece of the finest round elastic, about an inch and a half in length, thread through the foot of the veil in the middle, about a quarter of a yard, then draw in to the size of elastic and secure both sides. This is a much better way than twisting the veil round, which, if "spotted," generally catches and tears.

Removing Jar Labels

To remove the label from a jar or bottle is often rather difficult. This method is always successful: Wet the label thoroughly and then hold it near a fire for a moment. The steam thus generated immediately acts on the paste or gum.

ELIXIR OF YOUTH

German Doctor Claims That Radium Is a Cure for Old Age

The claim that radium can restore the hardened arteries of middle-aged people to a healthy condition, and so prolong life, was made by Dr. Saubermann, of Berlin, who lectured in London before the Rontgen Society. If this theory is correct, it will be possible for a few pounds to buy a radium apparatus which will manufacture the elixir of youthfulness. This apparatus consists of an earthenware receptacle, containing a minute amount of radium, which is placed at the bottom of a glass bottle. The bottle is filled with water, and in the course of time the water becomes charged with radium emanations. The radium remains "active" for hundreds of years, so that one has only to renew the water in order to get any number of doses.

Dr. Saubermann has discovered a form of gout which he calls "English gout," and which is due to the consumption of strong tea. Weak tea, as consumed on the Continent, does not produce this kind of gout, which is due to oxalic acid, and not uric acid, as in ordinary gout.

A new machine, called the stenotype, enables the shorthand writer to get down four hundred to six hundred words a minute upon paper in an absolutely correct and accurate form. The basis of operating the machine is phonetic spelling. While the work done is virtually the same as done by shorthand, it has the advantage of being recorded in plain English characters.

THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH from a picture taken at the Longchamps race course near Paris.

In a letter to the press Mr. Henry Montgomery, of Toronto University, declared that the existence of white Eskimos in Northern Canada has been known for many years. "While I was a member of the staff of the New York State Normal School and Training College at Cortland during the winter of 1890," said Mr. Montgomery, "a white Eskimo lady lectured there, and I was permitted to take measurements of her head. Her skin was as fair or white as that of the average European white, her eyes were blue and her hair quite fair in color. Her family had migrated from Greenland to Iceland, where her mother died. Thence the rest of the family migrated to Manitoba, where the summers proved too severe upon them, and all but herself sickened and died within a couple of years. She found her way to a Minnesota hospital and eventually to northern Wisconsin where by special care and contrivances she was enabled to survive the heat of the summers, while during the winters for several years, accompanied by a Scottish-American lady, she traveled a little and gave some lectures."

Saved Money in Vain

After working and saving his money for two years in the Canadian West, Daniel Seale, a Norwegian, was struck by a wagon and had his leg broken while in Montreal on route to Christiania to see his aged parents. Between sobs he told of the trouble he had had in getting enough money for the trip. "Now I will have to spend it all on having my leg fixed and it will take three years more to get money enough to go home."

Count and Countess Tramp of Denmark, tiring of the formalities of society in their native land, and wishing to live a free life in a country where they could make themselves useful members of society, purchased a farm near Edmonton, Alberta and will make their home there.

Fled With Bag of Gold

A clerk of fifty-four named Henry Wood, who had been arrested at Hastings, was remanded at Hull on a charge of theft. It was said he took a bag containing $610 in gold from the safe in the strongroom of his employer's office, and at the seaside had lived "like a gentleman."

Coroner Condemns "Dummy"

The Yarmouth coroner, addressing a woman whose baby disturbed the court by constant hiccoughing, remarked: "Take that dummy out of its mouth. They are the most beastly and infamous things ever invented. The man who invented them ought to be made to walk round the world for ever with one in his mouth."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD LIMIT.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including Wednesday, the 31st of December next, for the right to cut pulpwood on a certain area situated on the Mattagami River in the District of Timiskaming.

Tenderers shall state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to the Crown dues of 40c. per cord for Spruce, and 20c. per cord for other pulpwoods, or such other rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the right to operate a pulp mill and a paper mill on or near the area referred to.

Such tenderers shall be required to erect a mill or mills on or near the territory and to manufacture the wood into pulp and paper in the Province of Ontario—the paper mill to be erected when directed by the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Parties making tender will be required to deposit with their tender a marked cheque payable to the Honourable the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, for ten per cent. of the amount of their tender, to be forfeited in the event of their not entering into an agreement to carry out the conditions, etc.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For particulars as to description of territory, capital to be invested, etc., apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,

Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines

Toronto, Ontario, September 17th, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked on the envelope "Tender for Christian Island Timber," will be received until noon on Tuesday, the 18th day of November next, for 400,000 feet, B.M., of timber of ten inches and upwards in diameter at the stump, comprising about fifty per cent. of Maple, twenty-five per cent of Beech, the remainder being Birch, Basswood, Ash and Hemlock, to be taken out by the Indians of Christian Island during the coming winter and delivered on the shore of the Island at convenient points for shipment.

Tenderers should state the prices they will pay for the different kinds of timber per M. feet, B.M., over and above the Crown dues as stated hereunder.

Measurements of the timber are to be made by an Ontario licensed culler and sworn returns of same shall be furnished in accordance with the Timber Regulations of the Department.

An accepted cheque on any chartered Canadian Bank for $500.00, made payable to the order of the undersigned, should accompany each tender, which in the event of failure to carry out the undertaking, will be forfeited to the Department. Cheques sent by unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Reasonable advances to the Indians if required, as the work progresses, shall be made by the successful tenderer.

The Crown dues payable on timber as per tariff are as follows:—

Maple and Ash, $2.00 per M. feet, B.M.

Beech, Birch and Basswood, $1.50 per M. feet, B.M.

Hemlock, $1.00 per M. feet, B.M.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted, and the Department will not pay for the unauthorized insertion of this advertisement in any newspaper.

DUNCAN C. SCOTT,

Deputy Superintendent General Of Indian Affairs.

Department of Indian Affairs,

—50036. Ottawa, October 24, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope "Tender for 200-ton Mechanical Coaling Plants with Sandhouses" will be received at the office of The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway at Ottawa, Ontario, until twelve o'clock noon of the 7th day of January, 1914, for the construction and erection complete, in accordance with the plans and specifications of the Commissioners of six 200-ton Mechanical Coaling Plants with Sandhouses complete, to be erected at the following points on the line of the National Transcontinental Railway, as set forth below, viz.:

One at Monk, P.Q. ......Mile 225.2
One at Bridge, P.Q....... " 400.4
One at Fitzpatrick, P.Q. " 598.2
One at Parent, P.Q. ..... " 705.3
One at Doucet, P.Q. ... " 806.4
One at O'Brien, P.Q.... " 915.4

Plans may be seen and forms of tender and specifications obtained at the office of Mr. W. J. Press, Mechanical Engineer, Ottawa, Ontario, and at the offices of Mr. A. E. Doucet, District Engineer, Quebec, and Mr. T. S. Armstrong, District Engineer, Cochrane, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders must be made on the printed forms supplied by The Commissioners, and that each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a Chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, for a sum equal to five per cent (5 per cent.) of the amount of the tender.

The cheque deposited by the party whose tender is accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected, will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By Order,

P. E. RYAN,

Secretary.

Source of White False Hair

While fashion is decreeing for ladies many pinned-on hair puffs and braids, the white-haired woman would fare [illegible] if it were not for the long fleece of the Angora goat. A switch made of natural white hair costs in the neighborhood of $150, and is often unobtainable. The goats grow fleeces about 22 inches in length and yield about forty pounds in a year. The fleece is sold to the manufacturer for about $6 per pound.

Trade Unionism in Canada

In Canada there are over 160,000 workmen who are members of labor organizations. The trades union membership throughout the world aggregates about twelve millions. Germany is first, Great Britain second, the United States third.

International unions in North America number 143, and 99 have affiliated locals in Canada.

Picture Palace Disaster

One man was killed and six injured at Blackpool by the collapse of the skeleton roof of the Blackpool Central Picture Palace. Two men who were working on the gable-end were struck by the girders and suspended in mid-air over an hour before they could be rescued. They were lowered to the ground by police [illegible].

Lunatic Forcibly Fed

Refusing food while an inmate of the Caton Hill Hospital for Mental Diseases, Stafford, Edmund John Thurlow, in his sixtieth year, was forcibly fed through the nostrils, to prevent starvation. LLOYD GEORGE'S SERMON

Insurance Act a Huge Co-operative Benefit and Success, He Says

"We are teaching the people of this country, through the medium of an Act of Parliament, the great Scriptural lesson. 'Bear ye one another's burdens,'" said Mr. Lloyd George in a speech at Criccieth, Wales, on the Insurance Act. "You will find that text on every insurance card. In practice the employers help the employed, the hale working man helps the sick, the strong man helps the feeble children, and those who are neither employers nor employed help as ratepayers and taxpayers. They said we should have no doctors; we have an army of 15,000 guarding the sick beds of our industrial homes.

"They said we should have no sanatoria; we have 6,000 workmen in excellent institutions receiving the best treatment; and they thank God for that Insurance Act. We have scores of thousands receiving sick pay who, but for the Insurance Act, would be at this moment without a spare penny.

"When you consider the gigantic character of the task we had in hand it is marvellous to me so much has been accomplished. Before the Insurance Act we had barely 4,000,000 of the industrial population of the country insured against sickness. You have now 14,000,000. The old societies alone have increased their numbers by 2,500,000; new societies have sprung up with an aggregate of 5,000,000 members.

"Just imagine if the Insurance Act had not been passed and what would happen if suddenly the population of this country had voluntarily thronged to the offices of friendly societies and the insurance companies and asked to be insured against sickness. You can imagine the disturbance, delays, and confusion which would necessarily arise in all those offices."

introduction of a magnetic hammer which holds the tack in such a manner that it is needless for any to touch her fingers. The head of the hammer is magnetized permanently so that the head of the tack or small nail will be held there with sufficient force so that it may be driven pretty well home without endangering the pretty fingers which are usually brutally maltreated in the effort to drive a few tacks.

ATTEMPT TO BURN CHURCH

Believed to be the Work of the Suffragettes

A startling discovery was made at St. Luke's Church, Abercorn. When the church was opened a strong smell of paraffin oil became apparent, and it was found that the flooring boards and matting near the door had been soaked with oil, whilst a match had apparently been lighted and dropped, but had gone out. Outside, not far away a bottle, which had contained paraffin oil, was found. A few days previously some young ladies who were passing the church noticed smoke issuing from the building and gave an alarm. It was then found that fire had broken out in the chancel floor, but it was quickly extinguished. There was nothing to show how the outbreak occurred, though many believed it was the work of suffragettes.

Thirty Dairymaids Sing

Thirty dairymaids, dressed in royal blue, sang the National Anthem to greet the King and Queen when their Majesties visited the Worleston Dairy Institute, in Cheshire. The dairymaids, many of whom are farmers' daughters, were grouped on the lawn when the King and Queen arrived and, after hearing them sing, the Royal visitors saw demonstrations of cheese and butter making by the students.

Guardsman's Cycle Restored

After being missing for over twenty-four hours, a bicycle which disappeared from outside a house in Windsor was restored to its owner, a trooper of the 1st Life Guards. It was found in Dorset Road, Windsor, with a letter addressed to the Chief Constable of Windsor attached to the handle. The letter said, "This bicycle has not been stolen, but borrowed. I am very grateful to the owner, and I found it most convenient for it answered my purpose in emergency. I am so punctual that I, [illegible], cleaned my share of [illegible], and [illegible] of thanks." The letter was [illegible].

FAT AND PNEUMONIA

Reasons Why a Cold is Dangerous For Stout Persons

Fat people and people who drink alcoholic stimulants are afraid of colds and pneumonia. There are two reasons why they should be so. First, they are more susceptible. Second, these ailments go much harder with them. When a person is fat an excess of fat is tucked away anywhere it can be; under the skin, around the heart or anywhere else to get rid of it. It isn't needed. It is a burden. When a person takes alcohol and food together, the alcohol is burned and the food is left to clog the tissues.

In case of a cold or pneumonia there is more or less strain on the vital organs. If these are cluttered up with unnecessary fat or weakened by alcohol, the chance of recovery is that much less.

No matter what the disease, the individual who eats moderately, exercises sufficiently to keep a normal weight and avoids alcohol has much the best chance to fight it off. And often this type of man actually goes much further and escapes it altogether. Don't let yourself grow unhealthily fat.

GEORGE CARPENTER
the phenomenal French boxer. English critics say Carpenter is a marvel of cleverness and generalship; that he has a knockout punch and one of the best hands that ever gloved a fist. They are big, [illegible] hands, and may be indicative of the size of the boy when he is fully developed.

To tease any animal is unwise, and often dangerous. Animals never forget. You have doubtless read the story of the "Pope's mule," that laid up a kick for seven years until her tormentor returned, and then the buffet was so terrible that they saw the smoke of it from afar.

I know of two little boys and an old family mare, not an unusual combination on most farms. This old mare has often been teased by one [illegible], and when he passes near [illegible] back her ears and [illegible] with [illegible] and snapped with intent to get at him. Some time when he is off guard perhaps the chance will come, and who knows what will happen?

The other lad always petted and played with the old mare and talked to her, and she will come to him and follow him about anywhere. When she is hitched up he can drive her any place, and she [illegible] every word he says. But he never teases her, and she shows her gratitude in her only way.

Teasing colts, horses or other dumb animals shows a streak of hidden meanness and should not be permitted. It also spoils the disposition of the animal; and it would be utterly useless for them in after years to try to do anything with the embittered animal and expect entire success. Brute force may compel obedience for a time, but how much better to have them act from motives of affection rather than fear.—C. E. Davis.

He says he used to compare it with the Llanidloes town clock which at nights he could hear strike distinctly from his haunts in the hills.

Syrup For Fruit Drinks

A simple syrup for sweetening any fruit drink is made by adding an equal quantity of sugar to boiling water and stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Then boil for ten minutes without stirring. Keep in a cool place in bottles or jars to use as occasion requires. This is more economical than stirring the sugar into the beverages as they are made.

Looks Like an Aeroplane and Lives Only a Few Days

A new insect, which has only recently been discovered, was shown at the exhibition of the Royal Society at London.

It was named the protura, and it is barely discernible with the naked eye, but when viewed under a microscope it has a striking resemblance to a monoplane. The protura is extremely rare and there are only a few existing specimens in the world.

Of its activities nothing is known so far, beyond that it lives on decayed vegetables and that its span of life does not extend beyond three days.

MOTHER! THE CHILD IS COSTIVE, BILIOUS

Don't hesitate! A laxative is necessary if tongue is coated, breath bad or stomach sour

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once—a teaspoonful today often saves a sick child to-morrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that it's little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

Lindsay's First Uniform.

Thirty years ago a Lindsay correspondent wrote the Times saying "We understand that the new Chief of Police is to have a uniform. This is a right step and will have a good effect." This was due to a temporary member of the police force of that town brutally clubbing a man named Breen, because Breen not recognizing the cop as such refused to "move on."

Tempora Mutantur.

How public opinion has changed during the past generation! A Peterborough paper of Nov. 14th, 1883, says, "We learn that Peterborough is to be invaded by the Salvation Army. No doubt much good has been done in some places by these exhorters but, in many localities they are looked upon as a nuisance. The hatred of the public against the Army is intense!"

Did Not Like Rice.

A charming young local bride, arriving in Toronto at noon, one day last week, tried to act sedately and in a manner befitting a married woman of mature years. She, with her bashful newly wedded lord and master entered Eaton's store on Yonge street. As she gave an order to a clerk, she pulled a veil enveloping her hat to one side. A shower of rice fell to the floor. She turned to her husband and remarked, "——, I don't wonder that British Columbia wants Japs and Chinese shut out!"

David S. K. Byrne to Lecture.

David S. K. Byrne, (formerly D. S. Kidd), of Montreal, who has been before the public for some time, in connection with the rescue of a multi millionaire's daughter from white slavery, in Chicago, will give two lectures in the Royal Theatre, Sunday, Nov. 23rd, at 3.30 and 8.15 p.m. Two very interesting subjects will be given and the public is cordially invited. Silver collection at the door. Mr. Byrne is the guest of Mr. J. R. Pollock, 244 Antrim street city.

It Beat Hell.

Mr. Tom Sullivan of Douro, was in the city yesterday. He told The Times an amusing story in connection with the splendid church in that township. The late revered parish priest was showing Mr. Sullivan through the recently constructed sacred edifice. The priest pointing to the altar remarked "The regular price of that altar is $350 but I went personally to headquarters and got it for $250." Mr. Sullivan for the moment forgetting where he stood and whom he addressed, said; "Doesn't that beat hell?" His reverence replied: "That's just what the altar is for Tom!"

Old Timber and New.

Mr. Tom Sullivan of Douro was in the city yesterday and in a reminiscent mood. To The Times he spoke of lumbering conditions in the district 47 years ago. He first remarked that most of the timber now floated to Peterborough is "no better than pike poles." 47 years ago they used to stand, at the shanties, in five feet of snow and cut off the trees at that height. If a pine tree, say, 4 feet in diameter, showed a hole or blemish, they would waste two or three feet of the trunk sooner than cut what was deemed defective timber. He remembers one huge pine that shot thirty feet from the ground into six different trees. Out of this one six branched tree they got 61 logs not one of which measured less than a foot in diameter at the smallest end.

Knew His Boss.

John R. McLean, owner of the Cincinnati Enquirer and the Washington Post, tells this story of the days when he was actively in charge of the Cincinnati newspaper: An Enquirer reporter was sent to a town in southwestern Ohio to get the story of a woman evangelist who had been greatly talked about. The reporter attended one of her meetings and occupied a front seat. When those who wished to be saved were asked to arise he kept his seat and used his notebook. The evangelist approached, and, taking him by the hand, said, "Come to Jesus."

"Madam," said the newspaper man, "I'm here solely on business—to report your work."

"Brother," said she, "there is no business so important as God's."

"Well, maybe not," said the reporter, "but you don't know John R. McLean."—Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Local Romantic Marriage.

Mr. Liddle, of the Colonial Weaving Co., has [illegible] with his bride in their handsome residence on [illegible] avenue. There is a little romance connected with his second wedding. Last Saturday, Mr. Liddle, who came here three years ago from Germany, journeyed to the shores of Lake Ontario and there married the girl of his choice. They went to the parson's house and were made one. It seems that the charming young bride, who is the daughter of a very prosperous farmer, came to Peterborough last spring. Not through necessity, but from a desire to assist in the world's progress, the young lady sought and obtained a position in the Weaving Company's plant. Mr. Liddle saw her. Dan Cupid got busy with his bow and, hey presto, the arrow of love pierced the heart of this recently arrived son of Germany.

Quit Sniffling, Stop Sneezing, Cure Your Cold Now!

Thousands of Cases Prove the Quickest Cure is Catarrhozone.

When germs attack the lining of the nose, make you sneeze and gag—when later on they infect the bronchial tubes—how can you follow them with a cough syrup?

You can't do it—that's all. Cough syrups go to the stomach—that's why they fail.

But Catarrhozone goes everywhere—gets right after the germs—kills them—heals the soreness—cures the inflammation—makes Catarrh disappear.

"Nothing I have ever used gives the warm, soothing sensation of Catarrhozone," writes Isabel Fry, of Seguin Falls, Ont. "I was in a frightful way with catarrh of the nose and throat—had droppings, hard breathing, bad breath and indigestion. Catarrhozone relieved at once and cured thoroughly. It is invaluable in colds, sore throat and bronchial trouble." Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essences of pine balsams and other antiseptics that simply mean death to catarrh. Large size costs $1.00, and contains two months' treatment; smaller size 25c. and 50c., all druggist and storekeepers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

The Late Mrs. Gordon.

The death occurred yesterday morning of a highly respected resident of this city in the person of Ann Martin relict of the late Jas. W. Gordon, 253 Stewart street.

The Deceased was born in County Monaghan, Ireland, some 75 years ago moving to Cobourg, Ont. when a girl. In 1867 she married the late Patrick Fairen, and after his death she married James W. Gordon, who predeceased her five years.

She is survived by two sons Messrs. Frank Fairen of the Trent Canal Staff and Mr. G. W. Gordon, of the Quaker Oats Company.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning from the above address to St. Peter's Cathedral and cemetery at 9 o'clock.

The Lakes Disaster Fund
OF CANADA

TO the spirit which makes for the Brotherhood of Man the Dominion Marine Association has decided to appeal, in opening a public subscription list for the families of brave sailors lost in the recent hurricane which swept the great lakes.

SUBSTANTIAL contributions are already offered by the members of the association, and subscriptions from all sources will be welcomed: The Mayor of Toronto will act as Honorary Treasurer, and Mr. H. H Gildersleeve, Manager of the western lines of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co., whose offices are at the Yonge Street Dock in Toronto, has been appointed General Treasurer for the fund. Contributions should be sent to either of these gentlemen before December 1st and all returns made by that time, in order that the administration of the fund may be made promptly. All subscriptions will be acknowledged.

THE owners of Canadian ships take this opportunity to express their deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives, and their confidence that the contribution which they are making to the fund will be generously and heartily augmented by a sympathetic public.

Mayor Bradburn has consented to act as honorary treasurer of the fund for Peterborough and district.

L. HENDERSON,
President Dominion Marine Association.

PRES. HUERTA HUGGED U. S. ENVOY, TOASTING UNITED STATES

Attitude of Mexican President is Interesting at the Big Reception

Mexico City, Nov. 20.—As the hour approached for the formal opening of the Mexican Congress that might easily bring on the apprehended international crisis, Mexico City to-day was filled with reports of a violent quarrel between General Huerta the Provisional President, and General Blanquet, his Minister of War.

The dictator and Blanquet were reported to be at loggerheads over almost every phase of the Government policy, and an open breach between them was regarded as a possibility. This would be a serious complication at a critical time.

Huerta's Brave Talk.

A number of Huerta's staff gave to the foreign correspondents advance copies of what purported to be the speech Huerta would deliver to Congress. The address first of all is a defence of Huerta's course as Provisional President. He tells his reasons for dissolving the last Congress and assuming the dictatorship. He says that his country faced a crisis which only iron determination could avert.

The speech makes no direct reference to the United States or any other foreign power. It concludes:

"Messrs. Senators and Deputies, this is a most solemn moment in every aspect and one that is likely to prove decisive for the future of the nation. Not only the eyes of 15,000,000 Mexicans, but those of the whole civilized world are at this time watching us. Your attitude and your actions shall proclaim to your compatriots and to coming generations whether we have been in the right when we have insisted on our nationality in placing the national dignity above the petty interests of the moment, or if, on the contrary, instead of devoting ourselves to this task of supreme national effort, we should have bent before despicable interests and niggardly ambitions."

Embraced American Envoy.

The reception at Chapultepec castle given by Gen. Huerta and Senora Huerta, furnished considerable food for speculation. After the Mexican national anthem "The Star Spangled Banner" was played and General Huerta led the cheering. All of the diplomatic corps were present, including Charge and Mrs. O'Shaughnessy. Huerta was effusive in his greeting to O'Shaughnessy, and when the American national anthem was played, embraced the Charge.

After Huerta proposed a toast to the "People of the United States," and his emphasis left the inference that he did not include the United States Government.

The caterer's bill for the reception was $60,000. The Mexican Government is supposed to be bankrupt.

A Government decree issued to-day placed a tax of eight centavos on domestic cotton. The explanation given was that the money is needed to defray the expense of the extensive military operations necessary to [illegible] cotton from the rebel infested Laguna district, near Torreon. The tax is to be paid by the growers and cotton goods manufactured from the plantations is exempted.

Hon. Frank Cochrane

It is to be sincerely hoped, in the interests of our great Dominion, that current reports regarding the failing health of Hon. Frank Cochrane are exaggerated. Canada could ill spare the services of so honest and enthusiastic a Minister of the Crown, even temporarily.

NATIONALISTS NOW ORGANIZE AN ARMY

Sir Roger Casement and Capt. White Head This New Irish Movement

New York, Nov. 20.—A cable from Dublin to the Tribune says:

The world will soon see the formation of an Irish National volunteer movement, which will have for its object the organization of a citizen force ready to uphold the authority of the Crown and Government in Ireland. This is a natural development of the situation in Ulster, where the Unionists have been drilling and organizing themselves to resist oppression and attacks upon their liberties and the example thus afforded is to be followed by the Nationalists in other parts of the country. They have also determined to put themselves in a position to be able to resist oppression and attacks upon their liberties.

Like many other Irish movements of a National character, this one has taken its origin among Ulster Protestants. Its two leaders are Sir Roger Casement and Capt. James Robert White, both of whom took part in the Ulster Protestant Home Rule meeting some days ago. Capt. White is a son of the late Field Marshal Sir George White. It is his intention to make common cause with the men now on strike in Dublin.

MINISTER IS ACQUITTED ON WIFE-MURDER CHARGE

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 20.—Rev. W. L. Beers, Methodist minister at Wakarusa, was to-day found not guilty of the murder of his wife a year ago.

The State charged that he forced his wife's false teeth down her throat.

The jury was out two hours.

Mr. Beers' defence was that he had merely placed his hand over his wife's mouth to stop her screaming when she became hysterical during an argument, and that she swallowed the teeth by accident.

QUEBEC SCHOOLS A DISGRACE

Our contemporary, Saturday Night, thinks that the campaign of Godfrey Langlois, M.L.A., of Montreal, for a higher standard of education in the Province of Quebec, is not without justification; despite the fact that it has led to the interdiction of his paper, "Le Pays," by Archbishop Bruchesi. The general grounds on which His Grace opposes the campaign of Mr. Langlois is that a higher standard of education means godless schools. But surely there is nothing to promote godliness in the absurd misstatements of fact which "Le Pays" asserts appear in certain text books in circulation in that province. Says that journal:

"There is in the hands of the pupils of a college in the district of Montreal at this very time, a book which teaches the most absurd things about Canada. This book, which is called 'Principal Powers of the World,' and which is written by Father Pierre DeLattre, has a strange and weird chapter on Canada. It teachers that 'Canada, owing to its climate, is for the greater part of its territory little or not at all inhabitable'; that 'the plains of the St. Lawrence region are included in the Provinces of Quebec, Ontario and Erie; that Montreal has the same temperature as Lapland.'

"That the cultivated parts are exclusively confined to the district of the St. Lawrence, to Manitoba and Ontario.

"That Quebec, like Montreal, has its own navy dockyard for shipbuilding.

"That there are several cotton mills in Canada.

"That two or three million French-Canadians went down to Maine, in the United States, and lastly, unkindest cut of all—

"The population of Montreal is 207,000, while that of Toronto is 208,000.

"And so a geography in one of our colleges teaches that there is a Province of Erie in Canada, but omits to make the slightest mention of Alberta and Saskatchewan, with towns like Calgary, Regina, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw, and so forth."

In the English-speaking separate schools of Ontario the standard of education, if the statistics of matriculation results are an indication, is slightly higher than that of the public schools, yet there is no indication that increased efficiency in the matter of instrution has started a wave of immorality and impiety among our neighbors of the Catholic faith. One of the things that gained Bishop Fallon so much unpopularity among the Nationalists of Quebec was his demand that the French separate schools in his diocese should become efficient. If teaching children that there is in this country a province called Erie and that Montreal has the same climate as Lapland, promotes the cause of religion and of patriotism in Quebec, it must be a very mysterious province indeed. Nevertheless, despite the fact that a strong organization exists whose slogan is "No state interference with education," Mr. Langlois' campaign for higher standards is bound in the long run to succeed.

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT BEFORE THE COUNTY COUNCIL

Mr. Wm. A. Toohey, of Montreal, Gives Interesting Address Last Night in Council Chambers

What Mr. D. Campbell, mover of the resolution of thanks, called the finest address he had ever heard on the Good Roads question, was listened to in the County Council Chamber by about half the Council and about as many members of the general public. After being introduced by Warden J. H. Garbutt, the lecturer, Mr. W. A. Toohey of the Canada Cement Co., told how good roads had been made from the days of old Carthage and Rome to the present day. Then with his stereopticon he flung pictures on the screen. There were written testimonials from the Engineer of Wayne County, Michigan, and the State Engineer of Minnesota. Then followed pictures of the process of concrete road making. Pictures were shown of various city streets and rural roads where concrete was used. In Bellefontaine, Ohio, a cement road had been in existence 20 years and had cost practically nothing for maintenance. In Minnesota, a road 110 miles long had been built in a rural district with eight feet of concrete, and two six foot wide shoulders of macadamized road. This road cost $7,200 a mile. Wayne County, Mich. built the famous Woodward avenue road, Detroit, in 1909. Two million vehicles of all sorts had passed over the road since without injuring it. Further pictures were shown of the King Edward cement road from Quebec towards the U.S. border, and of cement roads in Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria.

The right proportions for roadmaking were 1, 1½ and 3 of cement, sand and gravel respectively. The cost was practically $1,000 per mile, per foot of width, that is for an 16 foot wide road, $16,000 per mile.

ST. JAMES CHURCH BAZAAR IN FULL SWING

The Rainbow Bazaar made a good start yesterday in the Market Hall. Dinner and tea were served at the usual hours. Mesdames Wellburn, Palmer and Allen provided a specially good luncheon in their lunch parlor, ready at any time. The stall holders were as follows:

Cheerful Workers, "Sunflower" stal—Mrs. Green, Mrs. Fry, Miss Barry and Miss Pickens.

Girls' Own "Lily" stall—Miss V. Thompson, V. Palmer, B. Wylder, E. Lloyd.

Ladies' Aid stall—Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Mann.

Home Made Cooking stall—Mrs. Rawlings and Mrs. Wood.

Maple Leaf stall—Mesdames Winch, Brown, Emery and Morris.

Y.M.B.C. stall—A. Parr, J. Ridyard and R. Rouse.

A concert was given in the evening including, among other items, a violin solo by Miss Logan, a recitation by Miss Lander and two instrumental duets, one by Mrs. Clarry and Miss Palmer, the other by Miss Gumpricht and Graves.

The bazaar will close this evening. The public are invited to pay the bazaar a visit. Business men and others are asked to come to dinner, which is served at the usual hours. All are welcome.

MURDERER COOLY ADMITS HIS CRIME

He Lied to Me, So I Killed Him, is Statement of Dr. Wm. Elam

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 20.—Dr. William Elam, a physician of St. Joseph, Mo., who last night shot and killed W. Cramer of Chicago, solicitor for a magazine, to-day continued in his refusal to make a detailed statement.

"I killed him and I am willing to suffer the penalty," he said.

Dr. Elam, after announcing to friends in the lobby of a down-town hotel that he had killed Cramer, led hotel detectives to Cramer's room.

In their presence he examined the man in a professional manner and calmly pronounced him dead.

"He lied to me and I killed him," Dr. Elam said.

Detective John T. Glynn, said that after investigation he had assured Elam that the relations between Mrs. Elam and Cramer had been "nothing more than a harmless flirtation."

GREAT BRITAIN'S MOVE HAS GREATLY IMPRESSED THE STATES

New York Tribune Discusses the Rapid and Decisive Despatch of Fleet

New York, Nov. 20.—Commenting on the sending of British warships to Mexican waters, the New York Tribune to-day says editorially:

"The sending of British warships to the Mexican coast is doubly symptomatic. Coinciding in time with the meeting of Huerta's congress and with the marked advance of Carranza's forces, it indicates expectancy of a crisis in Mexican affairs. No less does it suggest that the British Government has not tied itself so fast to the skirts of Mr. Wilson's academic gown as some optimists supposed.

"That it is entirely friendly to this country is undoubted. That it wishes this country to take the lead in dealing with Mexico is quite probable. But it does not appear that it has entire confidence that this country will take the lead. It is not to be expected that anyone will object to the coming of the fleet. If anyone does he should consider the potential need and the failure of our own Government to state it."

GREAT STORMS HAVOC IN NORTHERN ONTARIO WOODS

Lumbermen Say That 40 Per Cent of the Standing Timber in Back Townships Destroyed—Fire Risk Increased

Thessalon, Ont., Nov. 20.—Woodsmen and hunters are now coming out of the timber country in an adjacent to the Mississauga forest reserve report that a vast amount of damage had been caused by the recent great storm to the standing timber. While there is a difference of opinion as to the extent of the damage done, all who have been in the back townships admit that it is tremendous. One man estimates the amount of fallen timber at not less than 40 per cent.

Not only will the loss from fallen timber be great, but it greatly increases the danger from fire during the next season and for summers to come unless steps are taken to prevent it. Lumbermen in the limits bordering on the reserve will have much extra work in clearing roads, which have been badly obstructed. One lumberman reports that 70 per cent. of his particular limit is now down. The Ontario Government will do well by taking immediate steps to investigate the extent of damage and decide what should be done to eliminate as far as possible the fire risk.

WEST INDIES FLEET COMPOSED OF POWERFUL ARMORED CRUISERS

Toronto, Nov. 20.—The British West Indian cruiser squadron has been ordered to sail at full speed from Bridgetown, Barbados, to Vera Cruz to protect British citizens and property in Mexico. The fleet under Rear Admiral Christopher Cradock, consists of the Suffolk, Berwick and Lancaster. On the Berwick are two midshipmen from Toronto in training for officers of his Majesty's navy. They are Ronald J. Agnew, son of Mr. John Agnew, 15 Glenaire avenue, and G. A. Worth, son of Mr. Arthur Worth, 110 Broadway ave.

AN ODD COINCIDENCE.

Kingston, Nov. 20.—A strange thing is reported in connection with the steamer Campton coming up the river from Montreal. While the vessel was passing Lancaster, it ran aground exactly opposite the home of the late Thomas Munroe, a young man employed on the steamer as a sailor, and who was drowned while the vessel was near Kingston on Nov 18. His body has not yet been recovered.

An Exclusive Church.

An old darkey wanted to join a fashionable city church and the minister, knowing that it was hardly the thing to do, and not wanting to hurt his feelings, told him to go home and pray over it. In a few days the darkey came back.

"Well, what do you think of it by this time?" the preacher asked.

"Well, sah," replied the colored an' the good Lawd he says to me, 'Rastus, Ah wouldn't bother much haid about dat no mo'. Ah been tryin' to get into dat church mahse'f fo' de las' twenty years, an' Ah done had no luck.'"

WHOLESOME FOOD FOR KING'S SAILORS

Substantial Bill of Fare on War Vessels and Many Delicacies at Reasonable Price

Within the past decade the dietary in the Royal Navy has altered greatly for the better. Gone are the days of biscuits so full of weevils that they had to be rapped on the table before being eaten; of salted meat so tough and hard that it could be manufactured into snuff-boxes; and of beer and water which, through long keeping in wooden casks, was as often as not quite unfit to drink.

Beer—of which the Elizabethan seaman received a gallon a day—has been supplanted by rum; while the water on board is now kept in iron tanks, which are refilled from the shore, or by the distilling apparatus on board, at frequent intervals.

All modern ships are fitted with bakeries, so Jack receives his fresh, newly-baked loaf every day of his life. There is also a refrigerator on board, in which is stowed enough fresh meat and vegetables to last every man in the ship for a month, so the sailor is no longer subsisting on salt beef and pork within a few days of leaving harbor.

Like a Big Hotel

A modern battleship, in fact, only carries about two days' salt meat—that is, if she is fitted with a refrigerator; and it is then carried merely as a "stand by," to be served out in very exceptional circumstances.

The ordinary daily menu of every man in the Navy is 1 pound of fresh bread, ½ pound fresh meat; 1 pound fresh vegetables; 4 ounces sugar; ¼ ounce of tea, or 1 ounce of coffee for every ½ ounce of tea, if preferred; ½ ounce of drinking chocolate, or 1 ounce of coffee if preferred; ¾ ounce of unsweetened condensed milk; 1 ounce of jam or marmalade; and 6 ounces of preserved meat on one day of the week in harbor, or on two days while at sea.

Mustard, pepper, vinegar, and salt are served out as required, while ½ pound of biscuit or 1 pound of flour is issued instead of the bread if the latter is not available. A man over the age of twenty receives one-eighth of a pint of rum daily, but those who desire it can receive money instead.

Origin of Grog

The rum itself, to all men except warrant and chief petty officers, is served out in the form of "grog"—three parts of water to one of rum. It is called by this name as the mixture was first issued by Admiral Vernon in 1740, for he, from the fact that he wore breeches made of a stuff called grogram, was known to his men by the nickname of "Old Grog."

The sailor, in addition to his stated ration, is granted a messing allowance of 3 cents a day by the Government; and with this sum he can purchase extras from the stores on board. All the ordinary articles, such as bread, meat, vegetables, tea, coffee, cocoa, condensed milk—everything, in fact, except rum—can be bought in this way, but additional delicacies like tinned salmon and rabbit, raisins for puddings, dried beans and peas, pickles, suet, etc., can be procured if required.

All these articles are of the very first quality, and as they are bought by the contract department of the Admiralty in enormous quantities, there is no doubt that Jack gets the finest value for his money.

Economy is Possible

A man, moreover, is not forced to take up his full allowance of provisions. He must draw one-third of his amount of meat and vegetables, but for the remainder, if he likes, he can be paid their equivalent value in hard cash.

Once a month each sailor can buy one pound of tobacco free of duty. It is issued in leaf for 30 cents a pound, and as many officers smoke nothing but this brand, it speaks well for its quality. All this tobacco comes from special tobacco plantations in South Africa, and could not be bought ashore under $1.50 a pound.

In Church in Disguise

A man named Jacob Reid was sentenced at Sligo, Ireland, to three months' hard labor for loitering in Sligo Cathedral with intent to steal. The sacristan saw Reid in the gallery disguised by a false moustache, white hair, and spectacles. Canon Dooley said Reid told him he was starving, and the canon offered him money, which he, however, refused.

Peer's Grateful Employees

Lord Ashton, of Lancaster, on his seventieth birthday, received an ornate casket and an illuminated address from 4,000 employes at his linoleum and cotton mills and paint works in recognition of his undertaking to pay their insurance act contributions and to supplement the benefits. Lady Ashton was presented with a diamond and pearl brooch.

It was announced that each employe would receive three days' pay as a celebration of his lordship's seventieth birthday.

PRIZE RING TRICKS

Famous Fighter Tells How His Speed and Wits Served Him

"They have called me the trickiest [illegible] that ever stepped into the prize ring," said "Kid" McCoy to an interviewer. "When I was fighting I lacked weight and strength, but I had speed and a head. Both served me well. In the prize ring, it is either win or quit, and I made up my mind to win when I first started. Old John L. Sullivan could take his punishment; [illegible], in his prime, was a giant; Sharkey, the dray horse of the ring; Corbett, clever, while I had my wits. Some can take a licking and stand it. I could not, on account of my build, so, to succeed, it was necessary for me to develop some tricks of my own.

"It has always been my opinion that my speed was the result of five years of my life spent travelling from here to there without tickets while my wits were drawn to a fine edge through their contact with life. At thirteen I ran away from home, a city kid and the last boy in the world any one would size up for a prize ring warrior. Speed soon developed from my efforts to catch moving trains in order to ride on the trucks. Of all the hobos who travelled in this style, I was the most adept of those I met. I could hook a rail and swing under on the trucks when a train was going at a good speed, and it requires quickness to do this. The hand and foot movements are simultaneous, the one miss is fatal. It was then I acquired the hand and foot movement that was to serve me so well in the ring later.

Discovered Great Trick

"A trick which was to prove of far more value, however, I picked up as a result of this style of travelling and my slimness. For three years every brakeman on every railroad in the country had licked me and kicked me off the trains, and I had never fought back. The big idea came to me all in a minute one day when I was riding from Omaha to Denver in a box car.

"'Throw up your hands,' said a big brakeman, as he saw me huddled up in a corner. That is the formula of the freight. Then they go through you to see what you have of value and generally find nothing.

"'Have you got any money?' this brakeman inquired.

"'If I had,' I answered, 'I wouldn't be riding here.'

"'Where are you going?'

"'Denver,' I replied.

"'Well you can't ride here. You'll have to get off.'

"'Why don't you throw that fellow over there off?' I asked pointing to a dark corner of the car.

"He turned his head to see, and, as he turned, I hit and kicked him. Down he went, and the next time he got up somebody must have lifted him. I did not linger to find out.

"Many times since have I applied that trick of 'turning my man' learned in the freight car. Sometimes I have done it in jest, sometimes in earnest, often because of necessity, and most frequently in street fights. Long afterwards, I applied it in a fight in France.

Putting a Frenchman Out

"Once, when I was in Paris with little money, they matched me to meet a French boxer who was to use La Savate method, which means you can hit with both your feet and hands. This was a new game to me, but the resultant money was a necessity, so I agreed to the match for seven hundred dollars. I got my money before the fight and then waited for developments.

"My opponent came into the ring first.

"As the dispute was to be in the Latin quarter, there were many women in the assemblage. From my dressing room I could see the ring, and I watched the Frenchman try out his kicks and poses. After each kick he bowed to some woman at the ringside so that I sized him up at once as a man with an eye for beauty and a heart for romance. When I slipped into the ring he was still bowing.

"We went to the centre of the ring, and I said to him:

"'See the handsome lady that just came in,' nodding over his shoulder at the same time.

"He took the bait and turned. He saw nothing, but felt a jar on the jaw

"KID" McCOY

which sent him to the mat for five minutes. Before the crowd realized what had happened, I picked up my bathrobe and was on my way to the dressing room.

Trick Learned at Bull Fight

"Observation will teach a fighter many tricks. I had not been in the game long before I discovered no man could rush me in the ring, no matter how big he was, and I learned this from watching a bull fight in Mexico City. If you have ever seen one, you will know how the toreador avoids the charges of the maddened bull. He never meets them, but steps aside as the animal lowers his head. It taught me that, if I kept going from side to side, no man could rush me in the ring. The idea has since been applied with great success. I fought against the heaviest men in the game, and none was able to rush me."

Cleaning White Veils

To clean white veils, lay them in luke warm soap suds made with white soap. Let them soak an hour or two, then squeeze them softly and put them through clean suds in the same way. Rinse in warm water, then in cold, and pass through water stiffened with a little gum arabic or rice water.

Ancient Church Tower

At a vestry meeting of St. Mary, Moseley, Birmingham, Canon Hopton said the church council had decided to recommend the preservation of the tower of the church, built in 1514. It was the only old part of the church, and so far as the district was concerned was the only ancient building left.

"A Progressive Peterborough"

Our Point of View

A Chicago meat packer, Edward Morris, recently deceased, left a fortune of $20,000,000. Is there any connection between that princely fortune and the high cost of living?

Former President Mellen says the bankers had too much to do with the New Haven Railroad, but the fact that they have not figured in the list of dead and injured shows that they were wise enough not to travel on it.

The Society columns of the American papers are giving a good deal of space to the details to the approaching wedding of Miss Jessie Wilson, but we are glad to see that the press has resisted the temptation to dub her Princess Jessie. The American public has had more than enough of that flubdub in the case of Alice Roosevelt.

In an address to a Minneapolis audience, the Hon. Poon Chew, the Chinese scholar, said: "Your government is not brave enough to say to American women, 'You shall not walk in opposition to the law of freedom by limping along in hobble skirts.'" It seems that the Hon. Poon is not aware of the fact that in a number of our largest states women now wield the ballot as well as the rolling pin.

PROTESTANTISM'S STRENGTH

In the United States the Protestant Church has a membership of 24,000,000 and an adherency of 60,000,000, with a Sunday-school enrolment of 16,000,000. It has 160,000,000 ordained ministers, 215,000 church organizations, 210,000 church buildings with a seating capacity of 60,000,000, and a total valuation of $1,300,000,000. These facts ought to be some comfort to those who think the Church of God is on the verge of extinction, but they ought also to be a challenge to mightier effort. With a membership of 24,000,000 the Protestant Church ought surely to be a greater power for good. What reform would be impossible to such a host, if united and animated by the Spirit of God?

FIRE LOSSES IN OCTOBER.

During the month of October, 1913 Canada's fire loss amounted to $1,383,372 which is accounted for as follows:

Fires exceeding $10,000	981,038
Small fires	222,169
Estimates for unreported fires	180,465
	$1,383,372

The total fire loss to October 31st for the year 1913 (ten months) amounted to $22,791,832 as compared with the loss of $22,900,712 for the whole twelve months of 1912.

The structures damaged and destroyed included 52 residences, 36 barns and stables, 26 stores, 16 sheds, 9 hotels, 9 factories, 6 business blocks, 5 schools, 5 workshops, 3 planing mills, 3 warehouses, 3 garages, 3 churches, 3 fish houses, 2 foundries, 2 apartment houses, 2 sash and door factories, 1 each elevator, wool mill, laundry, armoury, brick kiln, newspaper plant, exhibition building, rink, restaurant, bank, oil house, smoke house, ice house, hall, gas works and picture theatre.

Of the presumed causes, 15 were attributed to incendiaries, 9 matches, 8 sparks, 8 defective chimneys, 5 ignited gasoline, 5 electrical defects, 5 defective and overheated stoves, 4 tramps 3 friction, 3 engine backfiring, 2 dropped cigarettes, 2 overturned lamps, 1 each burst oil pipe, fuse from dynamite charge, hot ashes, hot castings, lightning, burning wax, collision, fumigating, and smoking in bed.

There were destroyed 56 horses, 6 cows, 4 mules, 12 pigs, 1 squirrel, 1 raccoon, 1 dog, 6,500 bushels wheat, 10,300 bushels of oats, 6481 tons hay, 100 tons of peas, 100 tons straw, 400 tons ensilage, 300 tons coal, 14 box cars, 14 freight cars, 13 carriages, 4 sleighs, 16 autos, 3 electric cars, 2 tug boats, 1 ferry boat, 800 military uniforms, 50,000 rounds ammunition, set of band instruments, 2 threshing machines, 1 tent.

During September, 13 lost their lives through fire, as follows:

Burning buildings	8
Playing with matches	2
Set clothing afire	2
Foundry fire	1
Starting fire with coal oil	1
Smoking in bed	1

No More Asthma
A Cure Discovered
That Really Does Cure

Thousands Testify to the Lasting Benefit Derived by This Marvelous Preparation.

The country is simply wild over the wonderful cures of chronic asthma that are being made every day by Catarrhozone. It is a scientific surprise, a perfect marvel the way it brings old chronics back to health. You will say so yourself after you have used it once, say so after the very first time. Ever since people first began to have asthma, Catarrhozone is certainly the best remedy discovered.

Creighton E. Thompson, well known in Calgary, writes:—"Nothing too strong can be said for Catarrhozone. I suffered four years from asthma in a way that would beggar description. I went through everything that man could suffer. I was told of Catarrhozone by a clerk in Findlay's drug store and purchased a dollar package. It was worth hundreds to me in a week, and I place a priceless value on the benefit I have since derived. I strongly urge every sufferer to use Catarrhozone for Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh."

The one-dollar package lasts two months; small size, 50c.; sample size 25c.; all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

PROFESSOR TAFT TO COME TO VARSITY DINNER IN JANUARY

President Falconer Received Acceptance of Invitation This Morning Genial Ex-President Will Renew Acquaintances Made at Murray Bay

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Professor William Howard Taft, former President of the United States and now professor of law at Yale University, will come to Toronto on Thursday, January 29th, to attend an arts dinner that evening. He comes on the invitation of President Falconer, issued on behalf of the Literary and Scientific Society of University College, and will be the guest of honor at the dinner. He will spend the day in Toronto and leave next morning for Ottawa, where he is to address the Canadian Club.

Letter of Acceptance.

President Falconer received the letter of acceptance this morning, but it contained no intimation as to the subject of Mr. Taft's address. The guest list will include graduates of the University.

Since leaving the White House at Washington, Mr. Taft has been free to visit Canada. Previous to his election to the Presidency he was a constant visitor to Canada, especially to Murray Bay, where he frequently played golf with Prof. G. M. Wrong, of the University, with whom and others he will renew acquaintances when he comes to Toronto

His Career.

Ex-President Taft was born in Cincinnati in 1857. He graduated at Yale and at the Cincinnati Law School. Among other offices, he has held those of Collector of Inland Revenue, judge of the Superior Court, Solicitor-General at Washington, Dean and Professor of Law at the University of Cincinnati, first civil Governor of the Philippines, Secretary of War in the Roosevelt Cabinet, Provisional Governor in the Philippines, President of the United States, and holder of the Kent Professorship at the Yale Law School.

HOW ANYONE CAN BANISH HAIR OR FUZZ

(Modes of Today)

Superfluous hairs are easily and quickly removed with the aid of a delatone paste. Get an original package of delatone from your druggist and mix enough with water to cover the hairy surface. Apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. No possible harm or injury follows this treatment, and excepting in rare instances, only one application is required to remove every trace of hair. Results are more satisfactory when you get the delatone in an original package.

Fish Die From Seasickness

Fish become ill and die from seasickness when carried long distances upon the ocean. For this reason many rare and interesting specimens captured in tropical countries cannot be carried alive to any great distance. In a recent shipment of 400 fish more than 100 died. It may be presumed that the agony endured by humans when the ship begins to pitch and roll is as nothing compared with the same sufferings of tank-enclosed fish. As a precaution the fish are starved for at least one day before being taken on board. The galvanized iron tanks in which the fish are carried contain from 10 to 50 gallons of sea water kept at a constant temperature of about 65 deg. by steam from the ship's boilers during the trip.

A Safe Port

A total loss of one ship only, in more than a quarter of a century, is a unique record for any port. Halifax harbor (Nova Scotia), which makes the claim, is one of the safest in the world. No other port in Eastern Canada has so clean a sheet. At most, if not all, of the competing ports—including New York—on the same coast, ships have to wait for the tide, whereas at Halifax the mariner has no such embargo on his movements.

Electric heaters have been specially designed in England for staterooms and saloons on shipboard.

"IN SOME WAY OR OTHER THE LORD WILL PROVIDE."

(Published by Request).

In a rickety house, 'mid a garden of weeds
That flourished unhindered to scatter their seeds,
Where the cobwebs excluded the sweet light of morn,
A woman sat idly in garments forlorn;
She looked at the holes in the rat-eaten floor,
And the rags, not too clean, that her little ones wore,
Then smoothered her torn wrapper and peacefully sighed;
"In some way or other the Lord will provide."

Her husband sat out by the door in the shade,
With his head on his chair-back contentedly laid,
While the briars and weeds did his meadows adorn,
And the grass in his field was outstripping the corn.
Of rents (in his trousers) there sure was no lack,
And his coat was just ready to fall from his back,
But he calmly observed, when these facts he descried,
"In some way or other the Lord will provide."

"In some way or other," it may be but come
The Lord, although patient and long to endure,
Can scarce be expected to stall-feed the man
Who has not the gumption to do what he can;
And although He bequeaths us the fruits of the land,
And scatters his bounties on every hand,
He doesn't put bread ready made on the shelf,
But even a chicken must scratch for himself.

And I think He is far better pleased with the folks
Who tackle life bravely and cheer it with jokes,
Who rustle and hustle the journey along,
And fill up the chinks with a laugh and a song,
Than with those who so solemnly sit themselves down,
In idleness waiting a robe and a crown,
And piously chant, as they drift with the tide,
"In some way or other the Lord will provide."

THE KING OF GREECE

Constantine, King of Greece, is of Danish and Russian blood, his father being a son of Christian IX. of Denmark, and his mother being the eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine, a brother of Alexander II. King Constantine was born in Athens, and brought up under an English governess and German and Greek tutors. Later on he went to Berlin, where he received his education as a soldier, being attached to the Second Regiment of Prussian Foot Guards. In 1897 he took command of the Greek troops in the war with Turkey, but his army was crushed in Thessaly. At the outbreak of the Balkan war he was appointed inspector-general of the forces, and he proved himself a soldier of merit.

Found Glacial Boulder

A glacial boulder, weighing something approaching ten tons, was unearthed in a sandpit on Islandsid street, Birmingham, and has claimed a good deal of attention from scientists. This huge block of volcanic ash, which is authoritatively held to have made a glacial descent from the Arenig Mountains in Wales, is the largest of several discovered in the Birmingham neighborhood. Boulders of similar origin discovered during the construction of the Cotteridge Park have been suitably preserved, and a smaller specimen is a familiar object in [illegible] Hill Park. -- KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED --

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its features and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this now through the advertising of the daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

He feels it is part of his service to keep the public informed.

GAMING SPIRIT IS NOW GRIPPING THE POLISH PEOPLE

Almost Everybody Gambles, From Prince to Scullery Maid Women Seeking Queer Mascots

Warsaw, Nov. 20.—Just now a gambling mania is sweeping across Poland. To-day everybody in the country gambles, from the Prince at his club to the cooks and scullery maids in the kitchens; from the lady of fashion in her boudoir to the ballet girls at the theatre who spend their time between the acts in trying their luck with cards.

In nine private houses out of ten the inmates sit up night after night till 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning—and often begin again after lunch. Backing horses does not appeal to them. They like the money, the presence of the actual coin. When they cannot have these they gamble with wooden cocks, pebbles and dominoes. They will walk a mile to rub shoulders with a hunch back, for luck, and sit for hours waiting to slip into the seat of a lucky player.

To what length a woman will go when bent on trying her luck with cards, an incident which recently happened at Warsaw will prove. A woman, young, good-looking and well-off, who plays a great deal of poker and bridge, and has lately lost tremendously over them, determined to force back her way.

Every gambler knows that a piece of the rope with which a man has been hanged makes a better mascot than anything else under the sun. The woman determined to get one. But as suicides by hanging are comparatively rare in Poland, she saw no chance of getting one that way. One evening at a card party she mentioned this and bemoaned her failure to find out where such ropes are.

Hangman's Rope.

"Why not go to the citadel and get a piece of the rope a bandit has been hanged with?" suggested a young man, little dreaming that he would be taken seriously. She was delighted, never having thought of that before. After many vicissitudes she finally secured part of a rope used in a series of executions.

Gambling goes on in the streets to an enormous extent. The police are supposed to punish offenders, but it makes very little difference.

On Sundays and saint days, when the people come out of church, you can see, within a stone's throw of the entrance, a table on which is an artificial cock, with a very pointed tail and beak. This turns on a pivot, and around the table are numbers, as in roulette. The players lay on their money, the owner of the cock gives it a spin—and you have Monte Carlo on a small scale—out in the open air. The cocks are used because the original roulette sets, with a needle, were forbidden by the police. As no law has been made against the cocks they are used instead. When they are tabooed, the gambler's ingenuity will invent something else.

LIEUTENANT BRANDON BRITISH OFFICER IN GERMAN PRISON

Lieutenant Brandon Was Permitted to Have Cat for Companion—Not Ill-treated

Lieut. Vivian Brandon of the British Navy told an interesting story to a London newspaperman of his two and a half years' imprisonment in a German fortress for espionage. He exhibited a beautiful tortoiseshell cat, named Josephs, which shared the latter months of his detention, and the animal is now his constant companion.

"She was of good service to me," the young officer said, looking at his pet, "in distracting my thoughts, helping me to avoid brooding over my position; and she shared my meals with me—little pieces of fish and meat and portions of milk that I saved for her. When I looked at Josephs, placid and peaceful on my table, my discontent was softened, and I became resigned to my lot."

Lieut. Brandon, in company with Captain Trench, was convicted of espionage in Germany, and was sent to the fortress of Wesel.

"The citadel of Wesel," he said, "is enclosed by grass-grown ramparts which shut out for me all view of the country beyond with the exception of three church steeples which protruded into the sky above. There was a special building set apart for military offenders undergoing detention, in which I was allotted a room of fair proportions. The number of other men detained varied from five to eleven, and were Germans as a rule, mostly confined for duelling. With these men I was permitted [illegible] within limits, taking my meals in their company and remaining with them a short while at the conclusion of the meal. But after the escape of Captain Lux, the French officer convicted as a spy, the regulations were increased. No intercourse was permitted, and after exercise my door was locked.

"I rose at seven o'clock each morning, had breakfast at eight-thirty and from ten till eleven-thirty had my exercise walk within the ramparts, accompanied by a non-commissioned officer. Then at noon I had dinner and took another walk of an hour and a half in the afternoon, had supper at seven and was in bed by eleven.

"In the intervals I read German authors, like Goethe and Schiller, my object being to improve my knowledge of the German language, with which I was only slightly acquainted at the commencement of my detention. But I made progress until I was able to attempt translations, and I always wrote my letters in German.

"After about eighteen months I was removed to Koenigstein in Saxony. My room there was built into a solid wall, and life was somewhat different from that at Wesel. The opportunities for exercise were more restricted, being limited to a small well-like courtyard. As at Wesel a sentry supplied with ball cartridge kept surveillance at my window during the night. Josephs can only be kept by permission of the fortress commandant, but [illegible] I was installed I asked the officer of Koenigstein for permission to bring Josephs there. He acceded at once, and he further suggested that I should occupy myself by gardening. Seeds were obtained for me and I raised a promising crop of flowers, and I was especially proud of my radish bed. My health generally was excellent, the second fortress suiting me better, because the air was more bracing."

Lieut. Brandon was quite unprepared for his release, which came about as an act of courtesy on the part of the Kaiser when King George visited Berlin. Before he quitted the fortress he was compelled to sign an order expelling him from Saxony, but it was not intimated that the expulsion applied to Germany, and the assumption is that he may return there if he desires.

A Suffragette Story

Major-General Bethune tells an amusing suffragette story. A suffragette, so runs the story, one day went down to the beach and chose five smooth stones, and then went to the house of a Cabinet Minister. She took one of the stones and hurled it at the Cabinet Minister's window, but failed to hit it, and so with three other stones. At this point a street urchin yelled at her, "Hi, yer can't throw straight for nuts!" Whereupon the enraged suffragette turned round and hurled the remaining stone at him—and smashed the window!

Fall of a Meteorite

A meteorite weighing 37 pounds is the subject of discussion in chemical circles in Johannesburg. The stone fell in Zululand a few months ago, and was not only noticed by an eye-witness some 15 miles away, but fell within a few feet of a native woman, who gave information which led to its discovery. The meteorite cannot be broken. [illegible]

WONDERFUL OLD PASTOR

At Eighty He Was Preparing for a Divinity Examination

The funeral took place at Leicester of the Rev. James Nelson, M.A., a Free Church minister, who died at Narborough in his eighty-second year. Born at Colne, in Lancashire, he was brought up at Bradford, where he became a hand-loom weaver. His parents were very poor, and he had no schooling and little to eat during those hard times. He acquired a knowledge of several languages, and at fifty graduated B.A. at Dublin University. Ill-health compelled him to quit the ministry for a time, when he went to live in France. Returning, he became a railway clerk at Bradford, and later resumed his ministerial career at Nottingham and Leicester. At eighty he was preparing for examinations for his Doctor of Divinity degree. He had acquired a knowledge of Greek, Latin, Hebrew, French, German and Italian. He was strong physically, and at seventy-seven rode 100 miles—from Leicester to London—on a bicycle in a day. He rested one day and returned the next.

BABEL OF WORSHIP

Conditions of worship in Jerusalem to-day are peculiar, according to Thomas E. Green, who contributes an article on the subject to The Century Magazine. No city on earth, he asserts, has such a tumult of devotion, such a confusion of worship as the "City of Peace." In every way it is essential that there should be all the great substantial hospices, capable of sheltering and caring for the multitude of pilgrims who still, as in the ancient days, come from afar to worship in Jerusalem. They come from every nation in Europe, mostly in comparative poverty, making their toilsome way by personal exertion and sacrifice.

The roads leading from seaports are thronged with pilgrims, trudging their dusty way, sleeping beside the highway or in rude shelters erected for them, all with their faces set steadfastly toward Jerusalem. For these there must be rest and shelter and food, for which reason in the Holy City and at neighboring shrines huge caravansaries are sustained by the various national churches. More elaborate buildings, like modern hotels, exist for those who come upon a pious pilgrimage with ample means.

AN AVERAGE COUPLE

That Was Just Why They Loved Each Other So Much.

By HENRY P. BENTON.

In the first days of their engagement Ralph and Cynthia loved each other to distraction. Ralph Blair was twenty-five, and had a prosperous future in the office of the telephone company; Cynthia was just a nice American girl of a well-to-do family. There could not have been a more average couple in the world.

That was just why they loved each other so much. They had grown up in the same circle in the same town; they had always been expected to marry, and they were to be married at the end of the year.

"I tell you, I'm as happy as a king, old man," said Ralph to his chum, Peterson. "It seems as though I want to sing all the time."

"How long have you been engaged?" asked Peterson gloomily.

"Two weeks," answered Ralph ecstatically.

"Wait till it's two months," said Peterson darkly.

Henry Peterson was nearly thirty. His life was supposed to have been permanently blighted by an unfortunate and mysterious love affair a year previously. The discriminating, indeed, claimed that they could see signs of a swift recovery, but nevertheless Peterson, as a gloomy ascetic, convinced of the hollowness of life, and experienced in the ways of women, occupied a romantic niche in the minds of his friends of both sexes which he did nothing to destroy.

"What do you mean by that?" demanded Ralph Blair hotly.

"I mean," answered Peterson, "speaking quite impersonally, of course—I mean that woman must be kept in subjection in order to insure happiness. The worst of it is, they are so cunning."

Instead It Looked Worse.

"Cynthia isn't cunning!" exclaimed Ralph indignantly. "At least, not in the way you mean."

"They are all cunning," insisted Peterson. "At first they are as meek as milk; then, when they have wound their tentacles firmly round their victims they begin to exercise their power. Little by little they claim dominion; at last the day arrives when they have conquered their victims and go supreme."

"Peterson," said Ralph, his face pale with anger, "if ever you speak in that way about Miss Dunn again I shall have nothing more to do with you."

Peterson only laughed—that hollow, mocking, cynical laugh which had done more than anything else to make him interesting.

Nevertheless, in spite of his indignation, Ralph was vaguely conscious of Peterson's remarks when Cynthia began to shower loving little attentions upon him. For instance, there was that birthday gift of a box of cigars. Ralph Blair was fond of cigars, but Cynthia had chosen these because of the picture on the box, which she considered artistic. Cynthia was very artistic. She was becoming more so. She liked poets and writers, and before their engagement Ralph had often sniffed scornfully to see some long-haired devotee of the Muses seated languidly in the Dunn parlor.

That he had to hurry through the box of cigars, with painful results, rather than deceitfully destroy its contents, might have been a passing affair only. But then came the affair of the neckwear. On the fifth of October Cynthia handed him an oblong box, surrounded with prettily colored paper. Inside Ralph found a crimson and yellow tie. He stared at it in dismay.

"That is for you, dearest. I made it myself," said Cynthia proudly.

"But Cynthy, I can't wear that!" exclaimed Ralph in horror. Then, seeing her eyes cloud, he added hastily: "I mean it's too good for me, dearest. What would a fellow like myself look like, wearing a beautiful tie like this?"

Cynthia smiled happily.

"Never mind, dear," she said, kissing him. "When it's worn out I shall make you another."

Before he left she made him promise to wear it every day. He dressed [illegible] she told him. Ralph [illegible] and fled. [illegible] morning he [illegible] that the tie would look better by daylight. Instead of which it looked worse. It was not only yellow and red, but it had a pale green stripe in the fabric, which Ralph had not noticed in the gaslight.

"Hi, fellows, look at Blair," went [illegible] the youngest bookkeeper in the office. "Say, Blair, you ain't married, are you?"

"Shut up!" yelled the victim, [illegible] the youngest bookkeeper [illegible] himself. But Ralph could not avoid [illegible] heart [illegible] too, a boy looked at him and, with his eyes fixed on his throat, asked for a light.

The next morning, when he was not wearing the tie, he met Cynthia in the street. Her manner was cold, to say the least. Ralph resumed his neckwear, and, returning to the office, encountered Peterson, who grinned maliciously.

The final blow was the matter of the haircut. Ralph had incautiously remarked that his hair was growing long.

"Ralph, dear," said Cynthia, perching herself upon the arm of his chair, "what are our lives going to be?"

"To be?" repeated Ralph. "Why—lives, I suppose."

"Yes, I know," answered Cynthia, nodding. "But are they going to be noble lives, Ralph, full of beauty and inspiration, and filled with sublimity, or are they going to be just common American lives?"

"It's something about my hair!" exclaimed Ralph desperately. "Go on, dearest."

"Don't have it cut," said Cynthia. "I don't want you to look like a common business man without poetry or individuality. I want you to look like—an artist. There, the secret's out. Ralph, promise me you'll let it curl over your forehead like—like Byron."

Ralph Blair drew himself up firmly.

"Now, Cynthia," he said, "let us understand one another. I am not going to be a poet. I am going to be a telephone man. And I am not going to look like Byron. Byron was a snob and spent the best years of his life among Greeks and Dagoes. They wouldn't have him in his own country. I am going to have my hair cropped; and I am going to wear a black tie until I get tired, and then I shall switch off to any color I choose. Now, dear, I don't want to be harsh, but you must choose between Byron and me."

"Brute!" sobbed Cynthia, and buried her face in her hands. Overcome with remorse he gently withdrew them. Cynthia was laughing.

"Cynthia!" he exclaimed indignantly.

"O, I'm so glad, dearest," she exclaimed, throwing her arms round his neck. "It was all that horrid Mr. Peterson. He said you'd told him that you would die for me, but that he knew you wouldn't have the grit to live your own life if I tried to make you different, and he dared me to try. And I was right! I hated the tie I gave you, and I thought you were the bravest person on earth to wear it; and I wouldn't have you with long, greasy curls for all the world. Where are you going, Ralph?"

"Just out to kill Peterson," he answered.

"No, don't do that. Poor Mr. Peterson! You see, he did think quite a good deal about me once, dearest."

CANADIAN GIRLS OF EAST AND WEST

Will They Agree With the Description Given of Them in English Paper?

The Western girl resembles the wild rose of the open field; the Eastern girl is no hot house bloom, but she is pruned and potted to a staid perfection you miss (and bless Heaven for) when you meet the Western girl. The latter, says a writer in Canada, is a charming Diana; limb free, wearing an air of calm assurance—an unaffected air it is—riding to hounds, golfing, tennis, racquet swinging as she passes over the prairie trails, or, under emergency, sitting the binder in the grain field, and this just as gracefully as she sits at the piano in the drawing-room. The Western girl goes to public school, graduating in the ologies and the domestic arts at the same time. She studies French and drawing; painting and music are not "fads" with her; she will discuss Browning and Shakespeare with you while engaged in mending the household linen, and that with neither an insipid nor yet an inane air.

She holds sound opinions on all subjects, yet she never thinks of intruding herself or her opinions into public life. She controls the voter not the vote!

Trained to wait upon herself, she possesses the great virtue of adaptability, and if she becomes a wage-earner (as she usually does) you find her accepting the responsibilities attached to whatever she takes in hand; she feels no shame in her work, she rather dignifies whatever she undertakes. Accomplishments to the Western girl have real meaning; she accomplishes; she does not dabble in art but she becomes an adept in art.

The Eastern girl is somewhat proud as she is pensive; but, like her Western sister, she is wholesome in heart and mind. She, too, is the embodiment of mental and physical strength, verging (her critics say) at times upon the "boisterous." The chief characteristic of both types is cheerfulness, and this, combined with humor, gives both the charm they are allowed to possess.

In the sports la belle Canadienne holds the records, and all the while she is domesticated to high degree. She has so many distinguishing characteristics that, separating them, you become bewildered; you see her in many lights, many moods, but all combining to make her what she is—clever, capable and kind.—Yorkshire Post.

Many Flowers Poisonous

Flowers of the jonquil, white hyacinth and snowdrop all possess a poisonous nature, the narcissus being also particularly deadly, so much, indeed, that to chew a small scrap of one of the bulbs may result fatally, while the juice of the leaves is an emetic. The berries of the yew have killed many persons, and it is known nowadays that it is not safe to eat many peach pips or cherry kernels at once. The lobelias are all dangerous. Lady's slipper poisons in the same manner as does poison ivy. The bulbs seem to be the most harmful. Lilies of the valley are also so much so. There is enough opium in red poppies to do mischief, and the autumn crocus, if the blossoms are chewed, induces vomiting and purging. The leaves and flowers of the oleander are deadly, and the bark of the catalpa tree is very mischievous; the water [illegible], when not in flower, resembles celery and is virulent.

Big Shipment of Foxes

Seventy five foxes of the black, silver and crossed varieties, were shipped in one car from Prince Albert, Sask., to Mr. F. E. Williams of St. John, N. B. One end of a large express car was completely filled with the living freight which was placed in crates for the long journey to the fox farms of Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick. The foxes represented a value of upwards of $90,000.

Chance For Economy

According to an English parliamentary committee the production of all of London's electric power in a few large stations would save 6,000,000 tons of coal a year and greatly lessen the smoke nuisance.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD LIMIT.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including Wednesday, the 31st of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on a certain area situated on the [illegible] River in the District of Temiskaming.

Tenderers shall state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to the Crown dues of 40c. per cord for Spruce, and 20c. per cord for other pulpwoods, or such other rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the right to operate a pulp mill and a paper mill on or near the area referred to.

Such tenderers shall be required to erect a mill or mills on or near the territory and to manufacture the wood into pulp and paper in the Province of Ontario—the paper mill to be erected when directed by the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Parties making tender will be required to deposit with their tender a marked cheque payable to the Honourable the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, for ten per cent. of the amount of their tender, to be forfeited in the event of their not entering into an agreement to carry out the conditions, etc.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For particulars as to description of territory, capital to be invested, etc., apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines
Toronto, Ontario, September 17th, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked on the envelope "Tender for Christian Island Timber," will be received until noon on Tuesday, the 25th day of November next, for 400,000 feet, B. M., of timber of ten inches and upwards in diameter at the stump, comprising about fifty per cent. of Maple, twenty-five per cent of Beech, the remainder being Birch, Basswood, Ash and Hemlock, to be taken out by the Indians of Christian Island during the coming winter and delivered on the shore of the island at convenient points for shipment.

Tenderers should state the prices they will pay for the different kinds of timber per M. feet, B.M., over and above the Crown dues as stated hereunder.

Measurements of the timber are to be made by an Ontario licensed culler and sworn returns of same shall be furnished in accordance with the Timber Regulations of the Department.

An accepted cheque on any chartered Canadian Bank for $500.00, made payable to the order of the undersigned, should accompany each tender, which in the event of failure to carry out the undertaking, will be forfeited to the Department. Cheques sent by unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Reasonable advances to the Indians if required, as the work progresses, shall be made by the successful tenderer.

The Crown dues payable on timber as per [illegible] are as follows:—

Maple and Ash, [illegible] per M. feet, B.M.

Beech, Birch and Basswood, $1.50 per M. feet, B.M.

Hemlock, $1.00 per M. feet, B.M.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted, and the Department will not pay for the unauthorized insertion of this advertisement in any newspaper.

AN EVENTFUL RIDE

Dr. Bentley Never Talked Much About Himself, but It Was Not Necessary.

By COURTNEY SPENCER.

"Yes, Miss, that's the way to the village. So you're the new principal of the Frye school! I hope you'll like the place, Miss, and stay with us a while; the last principal, she founded the school—Miss Brown, from Boston, you know—and she bided here for seven and twenty years until Doc Bentley sent her home to die. Couldn't do nothing for her, he said, and that's saying a heap, for we all thinks a good deal of Doc Bentley down this way.

"Of course, when they first started this scheme for teaching the poor whites reading and writing, there was some feeling against it in this section. A cracker ought to keep his place, I say, and not to go aping the learning of us quality folks. But Miss Brown—well, she was a fine lady and I reckon she got us all converted long before Doc Bentley sent her home.

"Doc Bentley, did you ask? Yes, he's been our doctor for nigh upon five years now. That's his house on the hill. But you won't get nothing out of him, Miss, except a civil word when he passes you, maybe, for he isn't a man to talk about himself. So, seeing as I know his story and all the other folks in the place have got it wrong, I'll tell it to you.

"Five years ago Doc Bentley was practicing in Nortonville, a hundred miles across the mountains yonder. He'd passed out of college some three or four years then, and already he'd made quite a reputation among people there. The town Nortonville, you say, Miss? Yes. I've heard it's a fine city and has a whole lot of rich people there. Doc Bentley was considered the best doctor there, and he used to be there with all the society folks in the [illegible] she be is now, but jolly and [illegible] they [illegible]—a kind of [illegible]. He [illegible] go very [illegible] soul.

"But for all his big practice Bentley wasn't the man to [illegible] the poor to get a bigger fee. Many and many a case he treated for nothing. I'm told he'd keep the biggest folks in Nortonville waiting in his receiving room while he was giving free treatment to some poor colored woman who'd got in to see him first. And that's how he came to grief.

"You see, Miss, Doc Bentley was engaged to be married to Miss Edith Somers, the only daughter of old Jim Somers, who built the railroad from Orleans clear over these mountains. The day was set for their marriage at the Presbyterian church. And you'd have thought that he'd have let up a little on his practice, with his wedding day only a few hours off. But he didn't. He worked harder than ever, and people said that, likely as not, he'd forget which was the day and remember only which wasn't.

"Doc Bentley, Did You Ask?"

"The night before his marriage a call came over the long distance telephone from Carters, which lies eighteen miles south from Nortonville, in the midst of the mountains. A negro man had been crushed by a wagon and he was the nearest doctor. Would he come at once? If he didn't there'd be one life to set against the many he'd saved when they came to judge his book of life on judgment day.

"Doc Bentley dropped the telephone receiver and called to his man. 'Saddle my horse, Jim,' he said. 'I'm going to ride to Carters.' And, seeing that nothing he could say would stop him, Jim saddled the horse, and Doc Bentley reached Carters at midnight and saved a life.

"It had been downhill to Carters, but it was uphill going back, and eighteen miles upon a tired horse may mean five hours or twenty-four, when the mountain roads have become rushing streams, and especially when your horse falls and breaks his leg in two places. Doc Bentley rose up from the muddy ground, looked at the animal, and drew his revolver from his pocket to put it out of its pain. Then he reflected. 'If I can cure a man's broken leg I reckon I can cure a horse's,' he said to himself. So he pulled the beast into a thicket, and, two days later, he was back there with plaster of Paris and a load of corn—and the end of it is that Doc Bentley rides that same nag today, up and around Graggers. See, there he comes over that rise. He'll be here in five minutes. Watch him when he passes; the horse has a limp, and though he can go when he wants to, Doc Bentley won't push him on these made roads.

"Where was I at? O, yes. Well, when he was six miles out of Nortonville, and walking into town, Miss Edith Somers was waiting at the Presbyterian church. That was at noon, and you might think Doc Bentley could have covered the distance on foot by then. But the fact is—which I forgot to tell you—that he had been stunned by his fall and lay like a log in the road from two in the morning until half past eight. Also, he had a broken shoulder. So you see people were somewhat harsh when they said he oughtn't to have gone, or, if he had gone, he ought to have been back on time.

"Miss Somers waited with the bridal party from noon until a quarter past one. Then her father took her home, and an hour later they were speeding in their car out of Nortonville. She never went back—I guess she was too proud. Her father took her to Palm Beach and after that to Paris and London, and they say she broke a score of hearts during the next few years; but she never married. Of course you know Jim Somers lost his fortune in the panic year. They sold their empty house at Nortonville, and that was the last anybody heard of them. Just faded out of people's minds. I heard Miss Somers took up missionary work or something of that sort afterwards. [illegible] think that an old negro man with a crushed chest was at the bottom of it all?

"Doc Bentley had to leave Nortonville, of course. We learned his story soon after he got here, but I reckon nobody holds it against him. Anyway, he's a powerful good doctor. But don't you believe what other folks say, for, as I told you, they've got it wrong.

"Well, I must leave you here, for I've got some shopping to do. You walk straight [illegible] to the turn and [illegible] of that rise. Good-morning, [illegible]. This is the new principal of— You know her?

"[illegible] Myers, come here! Come here! There, you're too slow! You've missed it! What did I see? Why, Doc Bentley kissing the new principal of the Frye school in the middle of the street, as bold as brass, and—look! Why, they're carrying on as if there wasn't another human being in the world but just themselves!"

Cockroaches have a special liking for dark, dirty, damp corners in closets, pantries or bathrooms. For this reason extra care should be taken to ferret out the dirt or dust in all corners of these parts of a house. It is far easier and pleasanter to keep the roach out than to drive it out!

What do you suppose makes so many persons drowsy in church? Lack of interest? Not necessarily. It may be lack of pure air in the building. Why not make it your business to see if the latter is not true? If it is, ask some one in authority to alter the condition.

A cup of hot milk, sipped slowly just before retiring, often induces sleep. A brisk walk, half an hour or so before retiring, is another sleep-producer. A moderately comfortable bed, plenty of air and light, but sufficiently warm bedding, are other first aids to proper sleep.

"I have Killed a Dozen"

When Hugh Maclaren, aged twenty-nine, a dock laborer, was remanded at [illegible] charged with the wilful murder of Julian Obiron, a Spaniard, Chief Detective-Inspector Harries stated that after being charged at the police station the accused said: "I have killed a dozen like that. They cannot touch me for it. My father was an executioner of them in America."

Water Baseball

Water baseball is a new game originated by R. C. Brennan, president of the American Life Saving Society. The rules are very similar to those governing regular baseball. The battery and batsman are perched on floating islands, while the basemen and fielders support themselves by clinging to cork floats. The fielders are permitted to either throw or swim with the ball while attempting to catch a "runner."

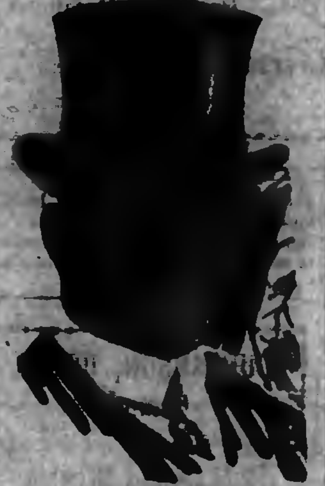
FAMOUS REFEREE

Corri Needed the Wisdom of a Solomon on One Occasion

Best known of all referees is Eugene Corri, the great English arbitrator of boxing, whose name is as familiar to followers of the game on this side of the Atlantic as it is across the water. Corri is the last word in the sport in England and referees all the bouts at the National Sporting club.

"I have had 'hot times' in the ring frequently," said Corri to a newspaper man when discussing ring affairs in general and the refereeing angle in particular. "Perhaps the most unpleasant moment and the one requiring the quickest action of mind was when two young fellows were fighting at the old club in London, some years ago. There was a great deal of betting on the outcome. I don't remember the names of the boxers, but they were called Jack and Bill. They had been fighting like two wildcats for 12 rounds and it was a toss-up as to which had the better of it.



EUGENE CORRI

"First one would score a knockdown and then the other. The crowd was wild with excitement and the betting continued furious. In the thirteenth, Jack began to pile up points and had away the best of it. I did not see how the fight could go another round.

"The climax came in the fourteenth. They rushed and let go rights at the same time. Both landed on the point of the jaw and both went to the floor for the count of 10.

"The excitement was of the wildest, the crowd demanding a draw, but when the men were brought to their senses, I gave the decision to the one who was leading on points at the time of the double knockout."

Learned Savant Thinks Physical Erectness is Wrong

Is the "upright carriage" of the body all a mistake? Dr. Ernest Klotz, a well known Leipzig physician, thinks it is a very great mistake, and in a learned book, "Man, a Quadruped," tries to prove that human beings ought to crawl about on all fours. The causes of half our illnesses and of nearly all our digestive derangements is, says Dr. Klotz, the [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible], not the [illegible] of the [illegible] of man." Walking erect displaced all the organs, which hang lower in the body than nature intended them to be. If a man crawls instead of walking the organs tend to hang in the right position from the spinal column.

Sweetens the Water

The toxic tendencies of alkaline waters have been corrected with citric acid experimentally by an Australian chemist, which leads to the belief that vast areas of unproductive land may be safely irrigated in that manner.

Thin Glass Tubes

Using an electrical furnace a London scientist succeeded in drawing glass tubes with an outside diameter of but one twenty-five thousandth of an inch.

Fifty species of fish possess organs capable of imparting electric shocks.

POSTED IN THE DOCK

Vagaries of Persian Tongue Responsible For Lost Letters

The difficulties of the Post Office in the Persian Gulf are aggravated by the Persian language, which invests the word "poost," as colloquially pronounced, with considerable ambiguity of meaning.

"Poos" means a dock or anchorage; "poost" signifies hides, skins, or leather, and is also the term for the post-office. On the coast the final "t" is dropped, and "poos" therefore has to do duty in three capacities.

A merchant at Linga complained that his letters were being lost, and a servant was asked what he had been doing with them.

"The first week," was the reply, "when you told me to carry the letters to the poost I went to the shoemaker's and was putting them among the poost (meaning leather and skins) but the man said I should carry them to the Poos-e-Buzurg (meaning the big or British post-office). Then I took them to the Poose-Buzurg (big dock) and threw them in. The first time there was plenty of water, but the next week the water was low, and I had to dig a hole in the sand for them."

Sponge Farming in the Ocean

The cultivation of sponges upon the bottom of the ocean, says "[illegible]," is accomplished by means of cement triangles or disks, to which the "seed" sponges are attached with a piece of lead-coated copper wire. After the seed sponges, which are obtained by cutting one large sponge into several pieces, have been fastened to the cement discs, these are let down with a strand of wire, or dropped down if the water is shallow, to rest on the bottom. Here they are permitted to remain for a year or two, until satisfactory growth has been attained, when they are hooked up from the bottom.

Are You Drowsy, Tired, Worn Out?

THERE IS GOOD ADVICE TO ALL WHO FEEL AS IF THEIR VIGOR AND LIFE ALL OOZED AWAY.

This Condition Can be Quickly Cured by a Good Cleansing Medicine.

Your experience is probably somewhat similar to that described by Mr. J. T. Fleming in the following letter from his home in Lebanon: "I think I must have the most sluggish sort of a liver. In the morning my mouth was bitter, and that foul, soft feeling that tells you, "No breakfast needed here this morning." A cup of coffee would sort of brace me up, but in two hours I was disposed to quit work, all energy having oozed out of me. Supper was my only good meal, but I guess I didn't digest very well, for I dreamt to beat the band. A friend of mine put me wise to Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I think they must have taken hold of my liver, perhaps my stomach, too, because at the very start they made things go right. Look at me now—not sleepy in the daytime, but hustling for the mighty dollar and getting fun out of life every minute. That's what Dr. Hamilton's Pills have done for me—they rebuilt and rejuvenated my entire system."

To keep free from headaches, to feel young and bright, to enjoy your meals, to sleep sound and look your best, nothing can help like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, five for $1.00 at all druggists and storekeepers or postpaid from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

It is not generally known how the Hydro cables now being laid here are constructed. The cable being laid on Simcoe street, although about an inch and a quarter in diameter, is mainly insulation. The New City Directory

Work is progressing rapidly on the new City Directory. Mr Bellis and his two assistants are working like beavers. It is surprising the amount of work involved in compilation of a directory. When a canvasser is on his rounds he will call four and five times at some houses before finding the occupants in. There is a big job in arranging some 20,000 names alphabetically. It does not do to simply put all names beginning with "B" indiscriminately under one heading of "B". They have to be chosen and placed correctly, Ba, Be, Bi, etc., etc. This year Aylmer street will appear in the directory as "Aylmer North" and "Aylmer South," the division being made at Wolfe Street. This year the Directory will contain the number of houses now in course of erection, and they are many. Chamberlain Street shows possibly the largest proportion of new houses completed since last year.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

Salts, Calomel and Pills act on Liver and Bowels like pepper acts in Nostrils—Danger!

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash cannot be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

Bring back its gloss, lustre, charm and get rid of dandruff—Try the moist cloth.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now — all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

CITY IN PARAGRAPH

SUNLIGHT AND SHADOW OF THE REAL OF A CITY LIFE

Instead of the usual police court sign of "S. R. O." yesterday there was "nothin' doing."

Eggs are selling in Boston at 60c a dozen. Thanks be that some city is held up worse than Peterborough.

Local milk has, on examination by Sanitary Inspector Spence, proved to be up to the mark.

The post office at Smithbank, South Monaghan, will be closed on January 16th next, when notice to the contractors will have expired.

The Trent Canal office staff yesterday sent a handsome floral cushion in token of respect to the late Mrs. Gordon, mother of Mr. Frank Gordon.

Only $3150 will be spent on the roads in Belmont and Methuen townships next year, according to by-law, not $8150 as stated in the last issue.

The commencement exercises of the Collegiate Institute will be held in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate this evening at eight o'clock.

The meetings in Knox church are drawing to a close and with each night there is shown an increased interest.

A most interesting lecture was delivered last night at the Collegiate Institute Hall, by Mrs. Alice Stebbins Wells, under auspices of the local Council of Women.

Among those who were successful in the recent prize puzzle contest was Mrs. F. Wilson, Lafayette Ave, winning, who won a beautiful four piece set of silverware of French grey design.

The Lakes Disaster Fund OF CANADA

TO the spirit which makes for the Brotherhood of Men the Dominion Marine Association has decided to appeal, in opening a public subscription list for the families of brave sailors lost in the recent hurricane which swept the great lakes.

SUBSTANTIAL contributions are already offered by the members of the association, and subscriptions from all sources will be welcomed: The Mayor of Toronto will act as Honorary Treasurer, and Mr. H. H. Gildersleeve, Manager of the western lines of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co., whose offices are at the Yonge Street Dock in Toronto, has been appointed General Treasurer for the fund. Contributions should be sent to either of these gentlemen before December 1st and all returns made by that time, in order that the administration of the fund may be made promptly. All subscriptions will be acknowledged.

THE owners of Canadian ships take this opportunity to express their deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives, and their confidence that the contribution which they are making to the fund will be generously and heartily augmented by a sympathetic public.

Mayor Bradburn has consented to act as honorary treasurer of the fund for Peterborough and district.

L. HENDERSON,
President Dominion Marine Association.

Toronto, November 14th.

THE BELLES PROPERTY BOUGHT BY MR. BROOKS

Mr. W. E. Brooks, proprietor of the South Beach summer resort, has purchased the Major Bellies estate which immediately adjoins the hotel. The property comprises about 200 acres, and includes the dwelling house and out buildings.

The acquisition of this property gives Mr. Brooks a water front on Clear Lake of 1½ miles with a beautiful beach.

To the Times yesterday, Mr. Brooks said he intended to operate the house as an annex of the South Beach Hotel. A portion of the property will be divided into building lots for summer cottages. These should sell quickly, as the property is very desirable, being easy of access by boat or motor car.

HUERTA HOPES FOR CLOSE FRATERNITY ALL OVER MEXICO

His Address to Mexican Congress Goes Back to Dissolution, and Explains

Mexico City, Nov. 21.—In his address to the Mexican Congress this evening, President Huerta said:

"This brief message should be limited to an account of the political events which have taken place since October 10th last, to this significant date in which, by virtue of the solemn promise I have made before the nation and the world, the country is [illegible] its course under the straight and inflexible provisions of the fundamental chart of republic.

"This, within such a peremptory time, necessarily so acts in relief before persons not actuated by passion the indisputable good faith and unequalled good-will with which the Government of the nation has been making efforts to reinstate the [illegible] of peace and law in the midst of conditions which, without false modesty, are of the character sufficient to discourage the strongest decision, if such is not supported by a great faith in the law, in justice and in the welfare of the country.

As Huerta Sees It.

"The embodiment of our political structure having as a basis a perfect equilibrium between the three powers by means of which the people exercises its sovereignty, it can be easily understood to what extent of difficulty we could be dragged by the least interruption or alteration of this equilibrium. The framers of the constitution, understanding this to be the case, marked for each power the province of their proper and legitimate actions, in order that by remaining invariably between the lines [illegible] for each of them perfect harmony of the whole would be preserved. The very moment [illegible] of the three powers should go beyond the boundaries limiting their activity, the province of action of the others would necessarily be invaded, the equilibrium would be deeply disturbed and constitutional functions would be altered, thus menacing the [illegible] of the political State, and, unless the trespassing power be brought without delay to its exclusive province of action, it has to arouse against the other powers invaded a defensive reaction, the vigor of which is and must be proportional to the gravity or frequency of the [illegible]—a reaction which becomes [illegible] and [illegible] because without it the constitutional organization would definitely disappear."

WOMEN CUT DOWN THE PRICE OF COAL

Take a Fall Out of the Coal Barons and Undersell Them by $1.25 per Ton.

New York, Nov. 21.—Women of Flushing, L.I., took a fall out of the coal "trust" of their town to-day. A barge containing 500 tons was fast being unloaded while Mrs. Bryson Burroughs, Miss Cornelia Hamilton, and other society women stood by and saw that fair weight was given. The dealers have been asking $7.25 a ton for coal. The women thought it too much. They sent to Pennsylvania, and bought the barge full of coal, after figuring up the cost and expenses, figured it could be sold at $6 per ton, or $1.25 under the dealers.

AMERICAN MARINES NOW ACT AS GUARD FOR THE BRITISH

It is Said That Troops May Be Landed to Protect British Oil Combine

Washington, Nov. 21.—American marines may be landed on Mexican soil without that act being construed as an act of war. The action of Lord Cowdray, head of the great British oil combine, may force this step. Cowdray has demanded protection for his enormous interests in Mexico. But he is chiefly concerned about the big wells in the Tuxpam-Tampico region, numbering nearly 160. And Secretary of State Bryan has directed Admiral Fletcher commanding the United States forces on the east coast of Mexico, to protect foreign as well as American interests.

Fletcher is expected to use his own discretion in obeying orders. He is [illegible] to make forcible representations to Aguilar, the revolutionary commander now operating in that region. He will be told that foreign property interests must be respected. If he is defied and looting [illegible] then it will be up to Fletcher.

The policy pursued in Central America in landing marines to do "police duty," may be pursued. There are many precedents for this and all show that such action has never been considered "armed intervention."

COLLEGIATE INST. COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Last evening the students and their friends filled two thirds of the spacious Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute, to witness the distribution of prizes. Dr. M. A. Morrison presided, speaking of the efficient staff under an efficient head, which the Institute possessed, and saying that they had every reason to be proud of this year's work.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., before presenting a gold watch to the most successful Peterborough student in the Entrance examinations, gave an appropriate address with the requisite academic flavor. The entrance prizes were won by: Arthur Pitchford, Nelson Halstead, Allan Lord, Charles Elliott, Fred McNeely, Lillian Pigeon, Stuart Petley and Elizabeth Smith.

J. F. Harvey, B.A., presented the athletic prizes. The senior championship cup and medal went to Douglas McDonald. Intermediate cup and medal to Fred Seward, and the girls' championship prize to Miss B. Pigeon.

R. R. Hall, Esq., presented the [illegible] Scholarships to Miss Gladys [illegible], Clarence [illegible], Joseph Maloney, Miss [illegible] and Meredith Haynes.

Miss [illegible] gave a piano solo, Miss [illegible], a violin solo, and Mr. [illegible] a vocal solo. Each of these three items received a heartily deserved encore.

CANADA'S NEW ISLAND HAS NOW DISAPPEARED

No Sooner Are Its Bearings Taken Than It Slips Away.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—The new Canadian island recently discovered off Cape Sable is reported to have gone away again.

The Naval Service Department on hearing of the new island instructed the steamer Acadia, returned from Hudson Bay, to take the bearings of the new arrival. This the Acadia did. The island was found to be formed of sand washed up from the shoal which has always been in that vicinity, and which has been charted by the department.

The island rose to about three feet above the sea at low water. It came there through the action of the wind and the waves.

SEA MYSTERY SOLVED 30 SKELETONS FOUND

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—Another mystery of the sea is thought to have been solved in the report of the discovery of the British ship Dalborough, which has been missing for twenty-four years.

The ship, aground on the rocks, and skeletons of her crew of thirty men, have been found in a cove near Punta Arenas, Patagonia. Evidence pointed to a fight with natives, who, after murdering the crew, despoiled the vessel of its cargo of frozen meats.

The human bones, scattered cutlasses and disordered decks told the story of the massacre. The ship's log was not decipherable.

The story was brought here by the master of a sailing vessel.

FROM POVERTY TO MILLIONAIRE

Wonderful Story to be Told in the Royal Theatre To-morrow Evening

Mr. David S. Kidd will tell a story in the Royal Theatre to-morrow evening at 8.15 that will certainly prove stronger than fiction. Mr. Kidd, up to a few months ago, resided near Rice Lake, and is therefore well known to the people of the district.

After leaving home he earned a livelihood by selling tea from house to house in Toronto. He subsequently went to Chicago, and while pursuing his daily vocation called at a house which proved to be of questionable character. While there his attention was directed to a young girl, whom he subsequently discovered was the daughter of a millionaire living in Maryland, and who had run away from home with her father's coachman. Mr. Kidd produced a Bible and talked and prayed with the girl, with the result that she promised to return home, which she did soon after. On his return to Toronto, Mr. Kidd received letters both from the girl and her father, breathing gratitude for what he had done. This was sufficient reward for the man who worked for righteousness sake. The girl, whose name was Byrne, and her father went to Florida, where the former passed away. Mr. Byrne dying also later in Australia.

In his will, Mr. Byrne left several millions to found a home in Toronto for rescued women, Mr. Kidd to be manager, to whom he also bequeathed over a million dollars, as a reward for what he had done for his daughter. It was also requested that he should adopt the name of Byrne.

Mr. Kidd Byrne will speak in the Royal Theatre to-morrow evening at 8.15 and will tell his own marvellous story. Everybody will be made welcome.

ANOTHER RAILROAD PROJECTED NOW TO THE HUDSON BAY

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Another scheme for a railway to Hudson Bay, through the territory of Ungava, is forecasted in an application about to be made to Parliament to incorporate the Ungava railway with power to construct a line from the Hudson Bay Post at Great Whale River to Aylmer Sound on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

BANDS OF ROBBERS RULE PROVINCES IN POOR CHINA

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Brigandage in China has spread until some robber bands have assumed the dignity of small armies. They muster both on foot and cavalry, according to advices received by the mission boards. No province is free from bandits. From Manchuria, where the Hunghutzes ply their trade, to Kwangtung, infested by pirates, and from Kiangsu to Turkestan, come reports of freebooters who defy the authorities.

There is no local police to cope with the outlaws, and the army is not at present a dependable branch of the administration. China is never free from brigandage, but it is only at periods of transition, when the authority of the Government is shaken by political disorders like the recent rebellion, that the bands attain such large proportions.

The American missionaries who fled from their homes in the interior of Fukien province are still in Foochow, unable to return because no protection can be assured them.

TWO BODIES FOUND FROM THE NOTTINGHAM

Sault, Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 21.—Reports of the finding of the bodies of two bodies from the steamer William Nottingham, which was wrecked on Lake Superior during the recent big storm reached here from Lighthouse keeper J. W. Douglas, at Parisian Island. There were nothing on the bodies to identify them.

One body that of a young man supposed to be about twenty-two years of age, was picked up on the shore of the Island on the 18th. The other body which is described as that of a man five feet seven inches of a man five feet seven inches in height, wearing blue overalls and a brown sweater, and wearing on the little finger of the left hand a gold ring on which is a lion's head, was picked up on the shore on November 10. This body was buried just as it was, the only thing removed being the life preserver.

The steamer Gottingham has since been rescued, and passed the Sault yesterday. Coroner McCay is endeavoring to get in touch with the steamer at Sarnia in order that relatives may be notified.

HIGH CONTRACTORS' RATES HINDRANCE TO SETTLEMENT

Cochrane Board of Trade Was Transcontinental Taken Over by Government

Cochrane, Nov. 21.—The high freight and passenger rates which now exist on the contractors' trains east and west of this point, are of such a detriment to the opening up of the country to settlers that the Cochrane Board of Trade will make it the main theme at the Cannary meeting of the Associated Boards of Temiskaming.

This body has been invited to Cochrane for their next meeting which will be held in January and at this early date a programme is being prepared for the delegates, which will include a trip of inspection by special train to the works of the Abitibi Pulp and Paper Company, at Iroquois Falls.

In reference to the freight and passenger rates which now exist and for which there seems to be but little remedy, the local Board of Trade will prepare figures to show that this service for settlers' effects costs more than double and in some cases triple the standard freight rates as set down under the Dominion Railway Board's ruling. To take a car of settlers' effects from Cochrane to Hearst, a distance of 132 miles will cost $100 and over. To the settlers who went in last fall to clear farms on the land thrown open to the settler, this is too high a price and it will mean that for this season at least, very little household effects will be taken in unless some remedy is found.

In passenger rates, five cents a mile each way is now charged and while the train service is fairly good this price is just double that of any other railway in the district. These figures carefully prepared will be placed before the Associated Boards of Trade who will be asked to adopt some methods for remedying the situation and encourage the settling of the clay belt along the T.C. Ry., both east and west of Cochrane.

IRISH HOME RULE GAINS FAVOR UNIONIST POLICY TO SETTLE

Chamberlin Sympathetic, and the Opposition Trend is Said to be Decidedly Towards a Settlement on Federal Lines—

ANOTHER BODY FOUND AT GODERICH ISLE

Goderich, Nov. 21.—At noon to-day an unknown body was discovered floating at the mouth of the town sewer by Mr. D. McMurchie. He notified Mr. R. A. Harrison, of the Lake Carriers' Association. A boat was sent out and the body is being brought to the morgue here to-day. It is thought to belong to the steamer Wexford, but as yet the name on the life belt has not been ascertained. The body of Joseph Rooney, of steamer Carruthers, was identified this morning and is waiting word as to the disposition.

London, Nov. 21.—There are signs that the Unionist policy is strongly tending toward the settlement of the Home Rule problem on Federal lines. Various unofficial Unionist members have recently advocated Home Rule all round. Lord Lansdowne is apparently sympathetic. Austen Chamberlain declares it necessary that all parts of the United Kingdom should share in what may for practical reasons be given to Ireland first. Chamberlain thus clearly contemplates a Unionist measure proposing the establishment of four or five subordinate Parliaments in the United Kingdom.

Liberals are Sympathetic.

The Liberals regard this development sympathetically. The Westminster Gazette says: "If the Unionist party mean to intimate that they are willing for an all-round settlement on lines which Liberals have only excluded because they have thought them premature, we are certain that the Government will go to meet them. Even the dream of a great convention similar to that which worked out the salvation of South Africa might in that case prove more than a passing miracle."

Asquith's Idea.

The Westminster Gazette declares that the Prime Minister himself has spoken of the extension of Home Rule to all parts of the United Kingdom as the ultimate aim of the Liberal policy, and the whole party has assented. Whatever doubts have existed have been due to the fear that attempts at a large issue at this stage might merely result in extinguishing the Irish part of the problem under a more ambitious scheme which would probably miscarry.

This was the gist of statement issued to-day by Ballington Booth, head of the Volunteers of America. He had not received the letter his brother said he had written him, Ballington explained.

"But an episcopal clergyman, a friend of mine," he added, "wrote General Bramwell Booth a letter which reached him on his arrival in New York City, asking him to meet me at luncheon. Up to the present time neither I nor the friend who wrote the letter have received any reply or any communication whatever from the leader of the Salvation Army."

DANISH WOMEN

During the Last Half Century Their Progress Has Been Rapid

Standing face to face with a Government measure admitting them to full citizenship, Danish women looked back over a difficult way. The modern woman, as Denmark knows her to-day, dates back but fifty years in the history of the nation. Before that time, said Thora Daugaard, a woman leader of Copenhagen, all Danish women "sat behind the panes with downcast eyes." Since that time progress has been steady.

First came Mathilde Fibiger pleading for the mental enfranchisement of women. She was the first woman to be employed as an officer in the State Telegraph Company, and her views and achievements made her the target of relentless opposition. Then came Pauline Worm, pleading for women's economical freedom. Both virtually gave their lives to their causes. Then decade by decade the sentiment of the country changed, until in 1908 Danish women were given full municipal suffrage. In the interim legislation had been secured in women's favor. The married woman's earnings and property were secured to her by law. The word "obey" was eliminated from the marriage ritual.

Professionally and economically women made their way up. There came to be women doctors, lawyers, dentists, journalists, and authors in the State of Denmark. Women got into State positions. "Telegraph offices and postoffices ceased to make any distinction between men and women clerks. The railroad and custom house employ women. So do private savings banks, and woman has her place in the offices of both Ministry and municipality."

According to Thora Daugaard's figures, there are 24,000 Danish women farmers and 24,000 Danish "business women," that is, employed in commerce. About 11,000 are engaged in home work—that is, in paid occupations in the home. Six thousand women are proprietors of factories; there are 4,000 forewomen and 40,000 "hands." Fifteen hundred women are in the dairy business. Four thousand women teachers rule over mixed schools and schools for boys, and there are 70,000 women workers in the arts and trades.

THE LONG SLEEVE

Some Hints to Amateurs to Secure a Good Fit

The long sleeve is being built into all the new dresses. And strangely enough the sleeve is always the knotty problem in the amateur's work. As every woman knows, a sleeve can make or mar an entire dress. Long sleeves have been out of fashion so long that the younger dressmaker may have forgotten how to make them. Probably the sleeve will be made from a pattern. At the outset then it is wise to remember the necessity of following the pattern very closely and observing the directions which fashions must match if any pattern is to prove a success.

THEORETICALLY EASY TO FLY ACROSS OCEAN

Inventor of Telephone Thinks It Not Impossible With Present-Day Machines

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone and a pioneer in the use of heavier-than-air flying machines, believes that Lord Northcliffe's offer of $50,000 for the first flight across the Atlantic in a hydro-aeroplane within 72 consecutive hours will soon be claimed.

While certain modifications in existing machines ought to be effected, Doctor Bell says that as aerial science stands to-day the offer is a good sporting chance for airmen.

"There are machines existing now," said Doctor Bell, "which, if they can continue doing for twenty-four hours what they have done already for shorter periods, will make the flight possible in a single day. The 72 hours is a much longer time than will be needed. If the ocean is to be traversed in an airship at all, it will be in far less time than Lord Northcliffe allows.

"If I were to make the flight," added the veteran inventor, "I should make my allowances for stopping at sea and replenishing my fuel. To make the trip at all, it ought to be done in a single spurt.

"While hydro-aeroplanes can take to the water and rise again, like the [illegible] of the [illegible] of their landing [illegible] the supply ship from which to replenish their tanks. Even if the wings of the airship are not injured by the descent, the chances are that once on the water it would remain there until picked up, or until, under the buffetings of the sea, it went lower still and disappeared."

Doctor Bell referred to his laboratory notes and stenographic reports of conversations with the Canadian inventor, F. W. Baldwin, a couple of years ago, looking to long flights by aeroplanes through high altitudes.

Doctor Bell's ideas, based on his investigations made with Mr. Baldwin, is that the greatest service will be got from the aeroplane flying at great heights. Mr. Baldwin advanced the idea, which Doctor Bell at once accepted, that the resistance to the forward rush of an airship diminishes in exact ratio with the density of the air. He found that life could be sustained at a great height if the density of the air was one-third the normal density at sea level.

Therefore a machine capable with sufficient propeller revolutions of driving 40 miles an hour at sea level—and much greater speed had actually been attained—would go at a rate of 120 miles an hour in the rarer atmosphere.

Even if the atmosphere were thinned to one-third its normal density, a speed of three times the normal rate would project the aviator against exactly the same number of particles of oxygen as if he went 40 miles an hour on sea level, Dr. Bell declared.

In other words, the onward rush of the machine would preserve a normal atmosphere. At the same time, the higher speed would give the lighter air precisely the supporting power of heavier air at sea level with the lower speed.

"Starting at Halifax," said one page in Doctor Bell's notebook, "in the early morning by daylight, we should reach the coast of Ireland in time for a late dinner. This is assuming that the distance is 2,000 miles."

Doctor Bell's calculations were based on an airship capable of 40 miles an hour at normal elevation. He proposed for it to fly actually five miles high in one-third the atmosphere with a triple speed.

BALL PLAYERS AND ICE CREAM

Major league ballplayers as a class are about as free from the ordinary weaknesses of the flesh as any body of men in the world.

Wine, women and song trouble them very little in the playing season, and even their gambling is of that mild and friendly nature which makes it more of a pastime than a means of enriching oneself. But there is one great vice among the athletes, one from which comparatively few of them are free. Eating ice cream is this failing.

Almost without exception the stars of the game are slaves to frozen dainties of any sort, and in the course of a summer the sixteen clubs in the two select circuits probably consume several tons of the frigid confection. The Tigers are particularly gripped by this gastronomic vice, and on several occasions they have cleaned the house that entertained them of every bit of ice cream, sherbet, punch and frozen pudding.

The first day that the Detroit players were in Gulfport, the Great Southern's steward laid in just the ordinary supply of ice cream that he had been accustomed to provide for the number of guests then under the tavern's roof. Before the dinner hour was 45 minutes old, there wasn't a bit of ice cream in the place. The same thing happened the next evening and there was loud wails from the men who dined late because none of their favorite dessert was forthcoming.

Then the steward began to realize that he had a lot of ice cream fiends on his hands and the order for this dish was increased to double the supply that would have been needed were the guests less voracious in one particular direction.

Fully ninety per cent. of the Detroit players eat ice cream for one meal a day and about 75 per cent.—these being the real slaves to the food—take it both for luncheon and dinner.

Washing Grimy Hands

Every automobilist who has had to repair his machine has longed for some way to wash his hands, ordinary soap and water being almost useless as a means of removing the many and tenacious varieties of dirt that gather upon them on such occasions. So chauffeurs and men who drive their own cars will welcome the directions given by an authoritative French scientific magazine. This paper directs that the hands be rubbed with gasoline, the operation being twice repeated; then they are to be washed in sweet oil or butter after which a thorough washing with soap and water will remove the last vestiges of dirt. The nails, however, require special attention, and it will repay the automobilist to keep a mixture of benzine and alcohol expressly for his hands.

Might Have Been a King

Captain Philip Henry Nicholls, of Longsight, who died at the ripe age of ninety-three, once had an island offered to him. Whilst cruising in the Pacific he touched land at the Soo Loo Islands, and speedily became a favorite with the rulers. They conferred honors upon him, presented him with the sword of state and other regalia, and offered to give him an island for himself if he would settle there. The gallant captain, however, discovered there was a matrimonial alliance with a dusky princess behind all this kindness, and, his affections being otherwise engaged, he rejected the offer and resumed his voyaging.

Our Point of View

It may strike you as paradoxical, but it is a fact that red ink is the symbol of yellow journalism.

From Omemee comes the story of a hen that eats her own eggs. We suppose that we will have to regard her action as another result of the high cost of living.

The Sulzer impeachment trial cost the State of New York $130,000, but most people will agree that the smashing of Tammany was cheap at the price.

The first sod has just been turned for the new Mormon temple at Cardston, Alta. This temple it is claimed, will rival that of Salt Lake City. It is to be of marble from top to bottom, and money to complete it will be furnished from the parent church. It certainly looks as though the Mormons intended to form a strong centre in Alberta, and their political activity will probably soon be manifest.

WORRY IS EXPENSIVE

Much hard common sense is compressed into the Illinois Central Railroad's advice to its employees respecting the dangerous and costly habit of worrying. It calls attention to the fact that the mental condition of the men is responsible for many railroad accidents and other sources of loss. Then it gives practical instructions for the securing of a mind unburdened by worry. These instructions are worth remembering. Three cardinal rules for obtaining healthy sleep may be laid down—suitable diet, sufficient exercise in the open air and sleeping in well-aired bedrooms. Some people contract the pernicious habit of taking their work to bed with them and working out [illegible] details after retiring. This is a practice which should be strongly condemned, as it often leads to serious insomnia. Worry and the stress that go with it indicate a mental condition in which no one can do his best. Worry is something eminently worth getting rid of.

WINTER IN ALGONQUIN PARK

With Switzerland, Canada is taking its rightful place as a winter playground of the Nations. One of the most popular districts where unrivalled opportunities are found for healthful sport and where an invigorating atmosphere may be enjoyed, is the Algonquin Provincial Park, situated in Ontario, 200 miles north of Toronto and 169 miles west of Ottawa. It is easily reached by Grand Trunk Railway System. The Highland Inn, a well run and comfortable hotel, offers splendid accommodation at reasonable rates. During the season such sports as tobogganing, skating, skiing and snowshoeing are enjoyed. The territory is 2000 feet above the sea level and the air is pure and invigorating. Just the place to rest and recuperate. The winter rates at the Highland Inn are $16.00 to $10.00 per week. Write to J. E. Colson, Resident Manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, Ont., for Handsome Illustrated booklet "Winter in Ontario's Highland Heritage," and make your reservations early.

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New"

ALL WHO LACK VIGOR, THOSE WHO ARE DISPIRITED AND WORN OUT SHOULD READ THIS CAREFULLY

Proof That Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system. My spirits rose. I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man, and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

A NAME IN THE SAND.

(Published by Request.)

Alone I walked the ocean strand;
A pearly shell was in my hand;
I stooped and wrote upon the sand
My name—the year—the day.
As onward from the spot I passed,
One lingering look behind I cast—
A wave came rolling high and fast,
And washed my lines away.

And so, methought, 'twill shortly be
With every mark on earth from me;
A wave of dark oblivion's sea
Will sweep across the place
Where I have trod the sandy shore
Of time—and been, to be no more—
Of me, my name, the name I bore,
To leave no track nor trace.

And yet, with Him, who counts the sands,
And hold the waters in His hands,
I know a lasting record stands
Inscribed against my name,
Of all this mortal part has wrought,
Of all this thinking soul has thought—
And from these fleeting moments caught—
For glory or for shame.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

IS THERE A DEAL ON?

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I am informed that Mayor Bradburn has said, when spoken to in regard to a third term in the civic chair, that should any member of the Council want it, he would not be a candidate for mayor, and that this was arranged some time ago. If this is true I would just say that it is not what the ratepayers should expect from Mayor Bradburn; furthermore they are not likely to stand for it. They will not consent to have him appoint his successor.

I am sure Mr. Bradburn is far too wise to be a party to any such deal, but on the contrary will consent to stay on the job for at least another year.

Ratepayer.

THE PRICE OF COAL

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I hold in my hand an advertisement of the Connell Anthracite Mining Co., Limited, corner Queen and Spadina avenue, Toronto, in which the price of which large clean pea coal is offered to the public at $6 per ton. I understand ordinary coal is sold in Peterborough at $6.50 per ton. I would like to know if there is a local coal trust in Peterborough?

Some time ago it was proposed to establish a municipal coal and wood yard. Is the time not now opportune for the council to take this up?

Ratepayer.

THE TUNE IS CHANGED

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—Is it not to be wondered that The Globe would print the following despatch? A little while ago it laughed at the agitation over Ne Temere:

NE TEMERE IN LIVERPOOL
Lancashire Metropolis Being Agitated By the Ne Temere Degree

London, Nov. 20.—Liverpool, which has an unenviable reputation for sectarian animosity, is agitated just now over a case where the Ne Temere decree is alleged to have been held over the heads of a young newly-married couple. The young man is a Catholic, but for some years has attended a Protestant church. His wife is a Protestant. The case has aroused considerable interest and legal proceedings are threatened if the young couple are interfered with or openly attacked.

Yours truly,

Reader.

MORE POLICEMEN NOT NECESSARY

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The effort now being made to add to our police force should not be taken seriously. It is a mistake. I am sure that Chief Thompson is not experiencing much difficulty in preserving order with his present force. The ratepayers cannot afford to maintain a large body of paid men to walk around the streets with little or nothing to do. It is all very well for the woman policeman to tell us about her home city. The conditions are different. The cities of the United States are full of crime. They are also full of saloons, dance halls, etc., open day and night. We have nothing of this kind here. We have no foreign element to deal with, or are we a law breaking community.

As to the morality part of it: A hundred policemen will not prevent young girls going wrong if their home environment is not what it should be. It is therefore a question of home, and parents are almost wholly to blame if their children are not what they should be. Here is where the influence of the church and Sunday school, Young Men's Christian Association and Y.W.C.A. should prevail.

Let us not get in wrong in this matter, but instead of policemen, we need the influence of the home and the Christian churches.

J. F. Kelly.

MORAL REFORM AND THE SOCIAL EVIL.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Those who heard the lecture on Thursday night in the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall must have been impressed with the arguments presented. I would like to be able to think that the world is moving upward, and that men and women are becoming better morally than their fathers and mothers were before them. But if there is any improvement it is hardly apparent to the naked eye. Human nature is the same, and lusts of the flesh, I fear, will ever exist. I would be the last to discourage the efforts that are being put forth by the good women of our city and other cities for moral reform, but their success will only be measured by their ability to bring the erring ones by a loving knowledge of our Heavenly Father. [illegible] who will [illegible] the [illegible], and it is to Him we [illegible] for help in the great [illegible] against immorality. Extra policemen will never do it, be they male or female. Remember this [illegible] man will guard a woman from every other man but himself. If any good is to be done to save fallen women and prevent them from going astray, it will be done through women. Man is an absolute failure in handling the vice problem. If the underworld has become low and depraved it is the rotten and depraved element that makes this so. Who are they? Husbands, brothers, sons, sweethearts—men that mamrry yy men that marry respectable, innocent girls.

The reason that men cannot handle immorality is that they are, as a rule, just as immoral as the fallen women.

Dear women! Don't overlook in a man what you abhor in a woman. This is the crux of the whole matter. An immoral man should not be admitted to your home, if you desire to keep those in it pure and wholesome.

A Woman Sufferer.

NEARLY LOST THE LEGACIES

Brothers Did Not Know the Contents of the Will

Unaware of the contents of the will of their brother, the late Daniel McDevitt, a retired farmer, who recently died in Toronto, James McDevitt, of 350 Sorauren avenue, and John McDevitt, who is in the House of Providence, filed a caveat at Osgoode Hall, attacking the validity of the will on the grounds that Daniel had been declared insane by Justice Middleton prior to the drawing up of the testament. The brothers were delighted, when the will was forthcoming to learn that they in company with two other brothers had been made equal beneficiaries. But their delight was changed to dismay when the executors of the estate disputed the two brothers rights to their share of property on the ground that there was a clause in the will to the effect that if any beneficiary attacked the validity of the document or sought to have it put aside he would forfeit his legacy.

The matter came before Mr. Justice Britton, who decided that John and James McDevitt had not forfeited their portion, as they had not instituted proceedings to set the will aside, but had only sought to prove their brothers incability. The will therefore goes on to the Surrogate Court for probate.

LOOK!

If you were told of a new discovery for the treatment of coughs, colds and bronchitis, so certain in its action on all chest troubles as anti-toxin is on diphtheria, or vaccination on small-pox, wouldn't you feel like giving it a trial? Especially if you could try it for fifty cents!

Peps is the discovery!

Peps are little tablets, neatly wrapped in air and germ-proof silver foil. They contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapour, and are at once breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the capillaries and tiny air sacs in the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing.

Peps are entirely distinct from the old fashioned liquid cough cures, which are merely swallowed into the stomach, and never reach the lungs. Peps treatment of coughs and colds is direct treatment.

If you have not yet tried Peps, cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps at 50c. box.

NOTICE OF REGISTRATION OF BY-LAW

Notice is hereby given that a By-law was passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough on the third day of November, 1913, providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $5,300 for the purpose of paying for land to enlarge the King Edward School site, and that such By-law was registered in the registry office of the County of Peterborough on the 5th day of November 1913. Any motion to quash or set aside the same or any part thereof, must be made within three months after the first publication of this notice, and cannot be made thereafter.

FASHION CORNER

Undoubtedly fashions are becoming more feminine. Notwithstanding all reports to the contrary, the figure is more extensively draped this fall than for several years past. Once more womankind may be clothed in mystery and romance—a relief from the all-revealing modes which left nothing to the imagination.

Yards and yards of swathing draperies, held in place by sashes, girdles, and pendant cordeliers, is the impression conveyed not alone by gowns, but by many of the suits as well. Separate coats seem to grow more and more voluminous, especially when intended for dressy wear.

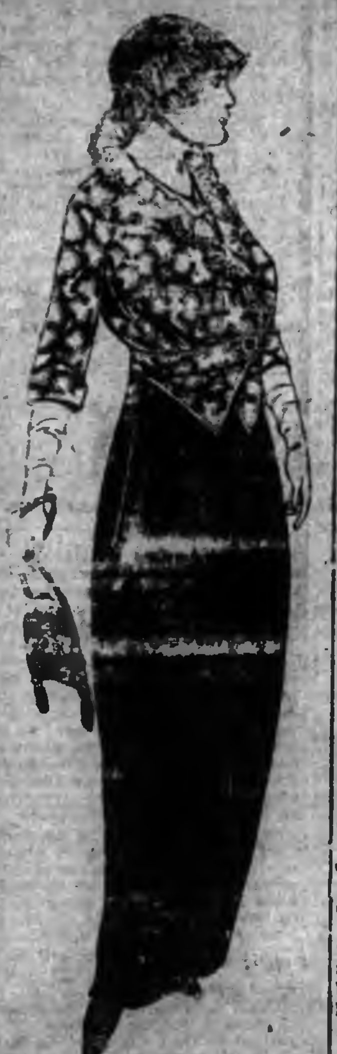

FIGURE ONE.
Vest-Waist of Black-and-White Brocade With Black Velvet Skirt

The waistcoat idea shows no evidence of waning popularity. We have waistcoats in everything—jackets, cloaks, and even negligees — show them in the more gorgeous fabrics and colorings. In a loosely-draped evening wrap of leather-colored velvet we noted the other day a waistcoat of duvetyne of the same shade, outlined with a band of orange-colored fur. At the neck hung pendant a heavy ornament of orange, black and gold beads. Heavy beaded ornaments have become a very pronounced style feature. They decorate everything from delicate chiffon waists to fur wraps and, in their barbaric richness, contribute a needed note of color to many of the simple garments.

Heavy necklaces of beads, graduating in diameter from about a fourth to five-eighths of an inch, are being worn by fashionable women with morning and afternoon toilettes. The beads are opaque, and show the deep purple, blue, orange and green shades of the latest dress fabrics and silks. to very dashing types, these necklaces are not unbecoming, but the pale blonde or delicately-featured brunette had best shun them.

An extreme novelty in neck ruffs was introduced by one of the exclusive shops last week. The ruffs had an upstanding frill of black maline about three and a half inches high. Below, a frill of vivid green, cerise or purple maline, ranging from about six to eight inches in depth, fell over shoulders and chest. Drawn close about the neck was a band of fur or a twist of [illegible] under the chin in a long beaded cord and heavy beaded tassel which hung below the waistline. Square-meshed maline was used for the frills, and the colors were in tinsel finish. Odd and bizarre though they were, they served to emphasize the vogue of the ruff, which in more conservative form finishes many of the toilettes of the day.

A most becoming method of dressing the neck—and one which, we believe, is destined for popularity, was seen at a recent fashion exhibition. Afternoon gowns which had a round-neck finish [illegible] posed at the center-back an [illegible] butterfly effect [illegible] below the coiffure, which has always a tendency to give a more or less incomplete appearance to the round-necked gown.

Upstanding frills of some sort finish the majority of gowns. In our first figure we show the frill used on an extremely fetching vest-waist of black-and-white velvet brocade. It is built above a gracefully-draped skirt of black chiffon velvet, and completes an effective costume for the afternoon visit or matinee. The hat is a little, inverted, bowl-shaped affair of black velvet, wreathed with vari-colored silk flowers, and edged with a frill of accordion-pleated silk. A black velvet bridle is drawn under the chin.

One sees many of these clever little vest-waists of brocaded satin or velvet, and there is about them an air of "chic" which makes a quick and lasting appeal.

Another very extensive use of the enhanced by this extravagance of lining of coats and mantles. No pattern seems to be too bold or bizarre for this purpose and no color too vivid. Black and white, however, is a favored and very effective lining, and usually takes the form of striking black figures on a white ground. The richness, and incidentally the costliness, of fur garments is considerably gorgeous brocades is found in the lining.

Furs continue to be appropriated for every possible and impossible purpose. An interesting use of furs is indicated in our second illustration, which shows a waistcoat and collar of gray squirrel ornamenting a suit of diagonal worsted in gray, black and lavender. A fetching little hat, brimless in front and with back brim rolled up, repeats the gray fur, and displays over one ear a large silk rose of lovely orange-yellow tone. The long velvet scarf is also edged with fur.

The suit jacket is built upon cutaway tunic lines, to which fashion remains faithful despite the bewildering array of new models brought out this fall. A little tab buttoning across the waistcoat is a smart detail.

The skirt shows the caught-up front drapery, which is exceedingly graceful developed in the soft-weave worsted.

Though fancy fabrics are now and then used, the majority of suits are in plain colored material. Of dark blue one sees a good deal, and of Russian green also. Yellowish-red shades, ranging through all the copper and nasturtium tonalities, are conspicuous in every assemblage of well-dressed women. Black is introduced into practically all smart toilettes. Usually it appears in the hat, which, in the preponderance of cases, is of black velvet. The velvet bridle has been very quickly accepted. Young girls have taken it up enthusiastically, and we noted at a smart restaurant recently a graceful but considerably elderly lady wearing a hat which exhibited this novel feature. Vastly becoming it was [illegible] small black velvet hat with [illegible] bows. The custom [illegible]

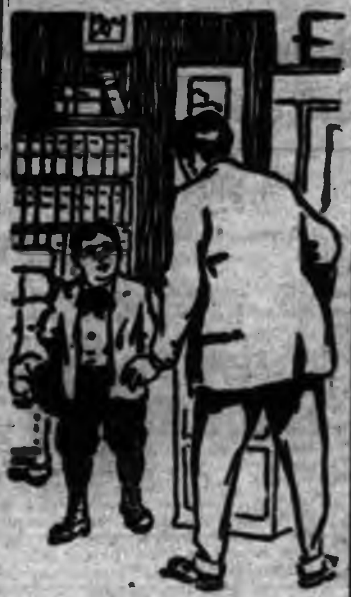
HIS IMPULSIVE NOTE

The Answer Was Hard to Get, but Then the Birds Sang On.

By WALTER J. DELANEY.

The young lawyer paused in his restless walk, and looked irritably at the office door, as there was a low, hesitating knock. It might be a client. Clyde Bissell had found only three within the two weeks since he had hung out his shingle. A few days previous he would have hailed the approach of a prosperous litigant with eagerness. Now he shrugged his shoulders and looked annoyed.

He had inherited a fortune, but he was ambitious. The one thought, when he proudly received his diploma, was that he would win a high name by championing ever the cause of the downtrodden and oppressed, but now—life had suddenly become dun and sere, and he had lost interest in everything. There was in Fairview a certain lovely witch of seventeen, namely, Miss Viola Duncombe. For over a month Clyde had paid her marked attentions. Only four evenings since he had very nearly told her the state of his distracted feelings. They were interrupted, but surely her heightened color evidenced that she understood him. The next day Clyde learned that Viola was about to depart on a long visit to a relative. He impulsively sent her a little note, and it said: "May I hope to call upon you to tell you something you must surmise I half undelined the other evening?" No response came, and the days grew dreary and the nights sleepless.



"A Letter? Miss Duncombe!" Exclaimed Clyde.

"Come in!" ordered the young lawyer sharply. The door moved, opened a crack, was closed to again, and Clyde fancied he caught a vague sniffing sound. He pulled the door open wrathfully, and confronted a small boy with traces of tears in his eyes.

"Well, what do you want?" rather ungraciously demanded the disturbed young man.

"Please, sir, are you Mr. Bissell, the lawyer?" faltered the little fellow.

"Yes—who are you?" demanded Clyde.

"I'm Mrs. Wood's boy," explained the urchin, and he began to cry. "My ma said I'd got to see you—that is, look for the letter first and then come and tell you if I found it, and if I didn't find it to tell you all about it."

"See here," spoke Clyde impatiently, "how am I interested?"

"Why, some one gave me a nickel to fetch a letter to you. As I was crossing the school lot Billy Morton chased me. I got away from him, but then I found I'd lost the letter. Then I made up my mind not to say anything about it. Miss Duncombe came over to the house today to bid me goodby, and they got asking me about the letter, and I told. I went up to the big lot to look for it again, but Billy was there, and I was scared, and so—so I came to you," and Mrs. Wood's boy broke down with a wail.

"A letter? Miss Duncombe!" exclaimed Clyde, mightily aroused. "What did Miss Duncombe have to do with it all?"

"Why, she sent it, don't you see—it was her letter that I lost."

Clyde was dazed, then confused, then roused to intense excitement. He made a grab for the terrified visitor and rushed him to the street.

"Young man," he ordered sternly and breathlessly, "you lead me quick as you can to where you lost that letter." "Viola answered my note!" he told himself raptly—"three days ago. I must find that letter if it costs me a thousand dollars!"

"There's the place where I lost the letter," announced Clyde's guide finally, pausing at the edge of the school lot. Immediately a lad with the face of a bully made a dash for them, leaving a crowd flying a kite. Then he halted, observing the Wood boy's companion.

"See here," spoke the young lawyer, "have you or your crowd seen anything of a letter around here? One was lost. I'll give five dollars to whoever finds it."

"You will!" cried Billy Morton excitedly. "Say, mister, was it a flat little envelope? Smelled of musk?"

"I don't know. I shouldn't wonder," said Clyde vaguely.

"I just found one," explained Billy. "We were looking for a piece of paper to make a 'messenger' of, to send up on the kite. See, there it goes whizzing up the string."

It had been several years since Clyde had sailed a kite. He knew what a "messenger" was, though, all right. Many a card had he punctured, run the string through it and watched it gyrate like a top up hundreds of yards of string.

Billy gaped at the young man as he made a dash for the [illegible] "[illegible] let, I'll break loose if you do that!" shouted half a dozen voices.

Twang! With a snap the frail cable parted.

"Broke loose! Whoop! after it!" arose tumultuous voices. Dashing away, the young lawyer cut a strange figure leading a mob of flying boys.

Twice he stumbled, once falling. People stared at him as he tore across the road. The kite made a final dive and landed on the roof of an old ruin of a barn.

A woman at the door of a house near by screamed hysterically as Clyde seized a ladder at the doorstep. Her husband came running out with a gun. Heedless of everything save that precious letter, Clyde placed the ladder against the eaves of the barn. Their rotted ends broke away like punk, but he ran up the ladder, crept across the mouldering shingles, and reached the kite.

"Got it —at last!" he gasped joyfully, as he tore the coveted "messenger" from the string—"the mischief!"

Under his weight the flimsy roof bent in like a piece of rubber. His clothes caught on a score of nails. Rip-snip-tear! Clyde rolled a foot, a cloud of dust covering him. A big spike ripped one sleeve from end to end. Clyde dropped to the ground.

He was a doleful sight—smudged, perspiring, in tatters—but he laughed, gaily, exultantly—he had the letter!

"Why, Mr. Bissell!" exclaimed a surprised voice as he came out on the road—that of Viola herself, halting the automobile she drove and staring startled but amused. "What has happened?"

"This!" replied the young lawyer, promptly, desperately—"a lost letter."

"Oh, dear!" and Viola flushed all over her fair face. "I—that is—shall I not take you home?"

She made room for him. But the shy miss did not start the machine villageward. She took the quiet, beautiful brookside road, canopied over with arching trees, and lined with radiant flowers, and with singing birds all about them. The auto went slower and slower, and stopped in a lovely nest of greenery.

Viola regarded her prince in tatters archly as he told his story. A smile—she could not help it—mingled with the lovelight in her gentle eyes.

"Shall I open the letter?" inquired Clyde.

"But it is too late to come now, as I asked you," she said, drooping her glance.

"Oh, then you asked me to come!" exulted her lover, in a tone like a chant. "It was to tell you something. Shall I tell it now, here—how much I love you?"

He took silence for consent—such sweet, modest, inviting silence, indeed! and the birds sang on, and the flowers appeared to nod blessings towards them, and all the good, happy world seemed young.

A SUMMERLESS YEAR

Snow and Ice in Plenty in June, July and August

The year 1816 is spoken of as the year that had no summer. On June 6th, Canada, the Maritime Provinces, Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts and parts of New York, Pennsylvania and Connecticut were covered by a mantle of snow several inches deep. In parts of Canada and Vermont the snow lay to a depth of nearly a foot.

On the seventeenth another snow storm came. July brought little relief from the cold. On the fourth of July ice a quarter of an inch thick formed in New England, Canada, and some sections of New York and Pennsylvania. August was even worse. In many places that month ice reached a thickness of half an inch. The first two weeks of September brought something resembling summer weather, but it did not last long. The last two weeks of September and nearly all of October were wintry and cold, but the year was brought to a close by remarkably mild December weather.

That the earth or the sun were cooling off were the favorite explanations to account for that summerless year. This theory was all the more firmly held because the phenomenon seemed to be general, and extended to Europe as well as America. Snow fell near London in August, and in France all the crops, except potatoes, were destroyed by the cold. On this side of the Atlantic the crops were also very short, and a famine was escaped by only a narrow margin.

A SULTAN'S VIEWS

He Thought the Lot of Western Husbands Must be Lamentable

Another selection of chapters from the diary of Abdul Hamid appears in the The Review Nord und Sud giving his views on women. The ex-Sultan of Turkey says: "The countless divorces and scandals in Europe and America show that many men in those countries incline to polygamy. The west has an entire misapprehension regarding the position of women in Turkey. Even though woman is fortunately debarred from taking a part in Turkish public life, and is compelled to leave everything to man she at any rate is an autocrat at home. As I observe the stern imperious facts regarding western women a comparison with them easily favors our women. Why do the people of the west criticise our women? Which is more [illegible] or more beautiful, the Oriental woman or the European? In Turkey woman belongs to her home, belongs to a man alone; in Europe she has too many liberties to remain womanly. If only half one reads in the newspapers and books about western women be true then the lot of the men there must be truly lamentable."

Oldest Bank in Canada

To the Bank of Montreal belongs the double satisfaction of having been the first to transact banking business in Canada and of being now the greatest single institution of its kind, not only in the Dominion of Canada, but upon the Continent of America. It was founded two years after Waterloo, in 1817.

The Table Top

The top of the dining-room table may be kept in good condition in this easy way: Make a bag of several thicknesses of fine cheesecloth and fill it with powdered pumice stone. Dip this in good sweet oil and rub the table well. Polish the table afterward with a clean piece of flannel or chamois skin. If this is done once a week the surface of the table may be kept in excellent condition.

When Cleaning Brass

A good way to clean brass is to pour strong ammonia on it, scrub it well with a brush, rinse it in cold water, and polish with a soft and dry cloth. Old or dirty brasswork may be satisfactorily cleaned in this way. Lacquered brass should be washed occasionally with warm, soapy water, and then dried with a soft cloth and polished with a clean, dry chamois skin.

Do not put silk waists away without taking out the shields, as the rubber is likely to crack the silk.

JAPANESE [illegible]

In an article by Dr. J. Ingram Bryan in the "Queen's Quarterly," there is an interesting glimpse of Japanese superstition. He says the happiness of the dead depends on the respectful and loving service of the living; and the happiness of the living depends on the due fulfilment of pious duty to the dead. That the dead need affection, and that to neglect them is cruelty, are among the most sacred instincts of Japanese life. Accordingly, each home has its family altar, its god-shelf, where are enshrined the ancestral tablets, before which, every morning and evening, the sacred lamp is lighted, the family prayers said, and food offered to the spirits of the departed ones. The ancestral ghosts are made happy by these amenities and bless those who render them. Hovering unseen in the glow of the shrine-lamp, the stirring of whose flame is but the motion of them, they guard the house and watch over the welfare of the old domestic circle. Their chief dwelling place, however, is in the lettered tablets which at times they can animate as a human body in order to know and observe all that happens in the house, share the family joys and sorrows, and delight in the familiar voices and in the geniality of life about them. They chiefly delight in the daily greetings of the family, and for nourishment vapor of food contents them. To forget them, or in any way to treat them with rude indifference, is the most undoubted proof of an evil heart. They stand for the moral experience of the family and nation, and to deny them is to deny that, and to violate that is to offend them, and to offend them is the supreme crime. Each Japanese believes himself to be under the constant supervision of the ancestral ghosts. Spirit eyes are watching his every act; spirit ears are listening to every word, to approve or blame. The whole of life, its thoughts, words, deeds, must be under constant control, as in the presence of the unseen. If while in the flesh a Japanese fails, he can succeed by joining the ranks of the gods. This voluntary death for a great principle meets the approval of Japanese ethics, and the spirit of the person so offering himself attains to godhood, becomes the object of veneration, and is not only made eternally happy by the perpetual homage of all future generations, but is enabled to bless posterity by answering the petitions of those engaged in the cause for which he died. Even a person of no importance may, through death, come into the possession of superhuman power, and become capable of conferring benefit or inflicting injury by supernatural means. Thousands of prayers go up daily in Japan to the spirits of those who have thus offered themselves in sacrifice to the gods. Since the death of General and Countess Nogi thousands have likewise flocked to worship at their tombs.

Certain relics of Paul Kruger are to have a resting place in a Transvaal museum by virtue of a Court of Appeal decision at the Hague. Judgment was given in the appeal brought by M. Hidde Nyland, the defendant in the action instituted by Dr. Leyds and various Boer leaders for the restitution of certain South African relics and other objects of interest left by Oom Paul which formed the nucleus of the South African Museum established by M. Nyland at Dordrecht. The court upheld the provisional decision of the Dordrecht court which rejected the application of the Boer leaders, but found Dr. Leyds' application to be admissible. The objects have been transported to South Africa.

To Restore Carpets

To a pail of warm water add a tablespoonful of ammonia. Dip a cloth in this, wring nearly dry and wipe the entire surface of the carpet with the dampened cloth. Frequently rinse the cloth so that it is freed from the dust gathered from the carpet. The ammonia restores the faded brilliancy of the colors.

Washing Ebony Brushes

When you clean the ebony brushes on your toilet table, rub a little vaseline over the backs before you wash the bristles, as this prevents the soda or ammonia in the water from injuring the ebony. The vaseline should afterwards be removed by polishing the backs with a dry cloth.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Tenderers shall state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to the Crown dues of 40c. per cord for Spruce, and 20c. per cord for other pulpwoods, or such other rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the right to operate a pulp mill and a paper mill on or near the area referred to.

Such tenderers shall be required to erect a mill or mills on or near the territory and to manufacture the wood into pulp and paper in the Province of Ontario—the paper mill to be erected when directed by the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

Parties making tender will be required to deposit with their tender a marked cheque payable to the Honourable the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, for ten per cent of the amount of their tender, to be forfeited in the event of their not entering into an agreement to carry out the conditions, etc.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For particulars as to description of territory, capital to be invested, etc., apply to the undersigned.

W. H. HEARST,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines
Toronto, Ontario, September 17th, 1913.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked on the envelope "Tender for Christian Island Timber," will be received until noon on Tuesday, the 18th day of November next, for 400,000 feet, B. M., of timber of ten inches and upwards in diameter at the stump, consisting about fifty per cent. of Maple, twenty-five per cent. of Beech, the remainder being Birch, Basswood, Ash and Hemlock, to be taken out by the Indians of Christian Island during the coming winter and delivered on the shore of the island at convenient points for shipment.

Tenderers should state the prices they will pay for the different kinds of timber per M. feet, B.M., over and above the Crown dues as stated hereunder.

Measurements of the timber are to be made by an Ontario licensed culler and sworn returns of same shall be furnished in accordance with the Timber Regulations of the Department.

An accepted cheque on any chartered Canadian Bank for $500.00, made payable to the order of the undersigned, should accompany each tender, which in the event of failure to carry out the undertaking, will be forfeited to the Department. Cheques sent by unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Reasonable advances to the Indians if required, as the work progresses, shall be made by the successful tenderer.

The Crown dues payable on timber as per tariff are as follows:—

Maple and Ash, $2.00 per M. feet, B.M.

Beech, Birch and Basswood, $1.50 per M. feet, B.M.

Hemlock, $1.00 per M. feet, B.M.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted, and the Department will not pay for the unauthorized insertion of this advertisement by any newspaper.

LOVE AND FORTUNE

Young Bank Clerk Saved Employer's Money and Wins Daughter for Bride.

By GEORGE ELMER COBB.

When John White, the banker of Southboro, announced that he had dispensed with the services of Ned Walton, people were a good deal surprised. The young man was a general favorite in the town. He had been industrious in his province of cashier and had helped upbuild the bank. Mr. White had persuaded him to give up a promising position to come to Southboro, and Ned had every reason to believe that he had been awarded a permanent position. Suddenly, at a day's notice, he had been asked to turn over his books to a new cashier.

"Relative of mine, this new official," the bank president rather lamely explained. "Walton was all right—fine young fellow, and all that—but I had to make a place for my dead sister's boy. Sorry, but it couldn't be avoided."

"Rubbish!" commented Mrs. Dunsby, head gossip of the place. "Mr. Walton presumed to lift his eyes to Elsie White. That was enough for the old man, who wouldn't look at a son-in-law with less than a million."

[illegible] Of course he looked around for a new position. Meantime, awaiting a decision on some of his applications, he had a dull time of it in Southboro. Mr. White had put his foot down firmly, forbidding him the house, and Elsie was a dutiful daughter. She had met her lover just once since her father had dismissed him from his service.

"It is the last time, Ned," she said like the brave, sensible little woman she was. "Dear, [illegible] I shall feel that I belong to papa. You have told me [illegible] going to tell you that I [illegible] love, and always shall. [illegible] and when I am eighteen we [illegible] again."

"A whole year to give her father a chance to marry her off!" [illegible] Ned dismally after that.

But there seemed to be no way [illegible] the inevitable. He wrote a [illegible] letter to Elsie. It breathed [illegible] fidelity, and as well reported [illegible] his ability to win for himself a place [illegible] for her dear sake. The bank in another city where he had been employed offered him a [illegible] position. This was [illegible], but it was a start. Ned decided to accept the position.

It was his last night in Southboro. [illegible] his new place of employment. [illegible] He left his room bent on a [illegible]. As a [illegible], the house which held the one cherished treasure [illegible]. He passed its palatial front. All was dark, and the household apparently wrapt in slumber.
